Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, grand trustee, related the history of the Rocha family. She told of the coming to California of Don Antonio J., Portuguese stone mason, in 1815, and described his building of walls at San Luis Rey Mission and the famous old mill for the padres of San Gabriel, which still is standing. She also told of his acquiring La Brea Rancho, and of Don Antonio II coming into possession of a section of Rancho Rincon de los Bueyes, on which the Rocha adobe was built.

Presentation of a bronze plaque was made by Miss Olive Hedges, as president of the parlor, to Mrs. Francis Sullivan, occupant of the historic building and grand daughter of Don Antonio J. who erected the structure in 1865.

A large crowd, including many members of the newly organized Beverly Hills Parlor, N.D.G.W., of which Mrs. Sullivan is a charter member, attended. The program was arranged by Lillian Stratton and Gertrude Allen, co-chairman of history and landmarks, Los Angeles parlor.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

The opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

This month the Grizzly Bear took up another notch in its belt and prepared to ride out the storm of inflationary prices. Every few months since your present editor took over, shortly after the end of the war, we have been continually notified of increases in the cost of printing and in the cost of paper. We pared office overhead to the absolute minimum and asked both Grand Parlors in May and June for subscription increases, which they graciously granted. But, it was like the story of the Little Dutch Boy who tried to plug the dike with his hand. We couldn't stem the tide which rose as if angered at what we had gained and determined to swamp us. We were further handicapped by the paper shortage in the number of pages that we could print and still get enough copies to go around.

This issue we have followed the lead of several other publications. We've burned our bridges behind us, changed printers, the result being that the February issue comes to you with a better and heavier cover, but with less expensive inside pages. Under the new set-up we are assured of enough copies to take care of the tremendous membership growth of both Orders and can work more closely in the production of your magazine.

The problems in arranging with another printer to print your magazine are many and involved a great deal more than the ordering of a job of letterheads or envelopes. It requires a great deal of extra work on the part of both your editor and the printer. However, the advantages are many and the saving considerable, principally in the cost of the paper. There are several improvements that we plan in the magazine and we hope, in the near future, as soon as some of the angles are ironed out to bring you more pages.

And those Native Sons and Daughters, who have followed the Grizzly Bear over the 39 years of its existence, will recall that in other days of inflationary prices the magazine retrenched itself in much the same way and came through the storm while others have fallen by the wayside.

Never, in all their glorious history, was the future of either the Native Sons or Native Daughters of the Golden West brighter. With strong, energetic leadership the Orders are steadily forging ahead throughout the entire State of California to take their rightful place in its affairs. The Grizzly Bear can only grow as the two Orders of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West Grow. The publication is no mere parlor bulletin, but the official organ of the Orders, telling not only what we are doing for the betterment of our state, but also the story of California. It's strength is reflected in the interest shown by the Native Sons and Daughters, and, by reason of the place they occupy, should be, rightfully, the leading magazine of the state. Let's all strive to make it that. For, after all, it is your magazine. Your editor only serves as your humble representative in lending what talents he has to make that dream come true.

The Saturday Evening Post of January 4 carries the story of some friends of the Grizzly Bear. Beautifully illustrated in color the article deals primarily with Lee and Ruth Anderson's fight to turn desert wastes of Coachella Valley, Riverside County, into acres of date gardens. Post readers are given an insight into one of the strangest forms of agriculture on the American continent. Pictured with Lee Anderson beside the Coachella Branch of the All-American Canal is Russ Nicoll of Thermal.

Lee Anderson with his Covalda Dates and Russ Nicoll of Valerie Jean Date Shop are regular advertisers in the Grizzly Bear. It will also be recalled that a few months ago this magazine presented the romance of the date industry to its readers

Then in the December issue, Pacific Pathways, the Pictorial Magazine of the West, presents an illustrated article on Lucerne Valley in San Bernardino County. Last winter we told you something of that fascinating section of the Southwestern Deserts and some of the photos in the Pathways story are from Mary Coster's C-Bar-H Ranch, advertised every month in the Grizzly Bear.

We are happy that these friends of the Grizzly Bear merit national attention and there is a certain personal satisfaction that your magazine was just a little bit ahead in telling their story. And, that is as it should be. For your Grizzly Bear is California's own magazine and its goal should be to present our beloved state's story first.

And while we are on the subject, California papers have been re-publishing stories that appear in the Grizzly Bear. If some particular story appears about your locality, show it to your newspaper editor. He is welcome to use it if he wants to and we'll be glad to loan him the cuts used in illustrating it. All we ask is that the paper credit the Grizzly Bear, as official publication of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, for the story. It is good publicity for your magazine and both Orders.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES

Please send us the names and addresses of any members dropped from your rolls for lapsation. We do not want to charge the parlors for these, but the only way to get them off the Mailing List is for you to send them in to us. We do not receive names of suspended members, resignations or new members added to your membership from Grand Parlor. W must rely upon the Parlor Secretaries for this information. Use the official Mailing List forms sent you. We'll be glad to send you additional forms at any time .

You will greatly help your magazine if you will mention the Grizzly Bear in patronizing its advertisers. Many who advertise, especially those who do a mail-order business, judge their results by mention of the periodicals in which they advertise. If you do not do this, the credit to your magazine is lost.

OLD CANNON RETURNED TO COLUMBIA STATE PARK

The 150 pound Civil War vintage Springfi cannon recently "spirited away by spooks of t famed Gold Rush Town" has been recovered a is now in the custody of Ted Mellor, Pres., C umbia Parlor No. 258, N S G W.

Sonora Grammar School teacher Miss Et Wilcox, resident of Byrnes Ferry, ten miles dow stream, on the Stanislaus River, locale of T lumne County's last remaining covered brid discovered the cannon at a swimming hole the river last summer but did not know its id tity until she recently read a news article Geo. Beresford in the Stockton Record report the Springfield cannon as missing.

She reported the find to Dr. James E. M Connell, Pres., Columbia Historic Park Assoc tion, who went to the now receded river s with the aid of Miss Wilcox's brother Char recovered the partially buried cannon.

According to Dr. McConnell, the cannon alo with two others of Civil War use, were loan by the Federal Government to the local Gra Army of the Republic organization on requ of Captain McPhee.

It was set up at the forks of the Sono Springfield-Columbia Road in 1914. The de cation ceremonies climaxed a parade from C umbia of the G. A. R., its Women's Relief Cor Native Sons and Daughters Parlors and the C umbia Brass Band. Father Guerin made t prayer of dedication.

A small grove of redwood trees were plant there and cared for by the late Alvin A. "Hu boldt" Martin, local miner and native of Hu boldt County. One of the trees was planted honor of Mrs. Geo. Trask, Columbia, Past D puty District Grand Pres., N. D. G. W. A me ber of the band was John Nash, now 94 ye of age and considered the oldest native son California.

With recovery of the twice purloined canno local residents are hopeful of seeing the retu of other historic items that have been spirit away by "souvenir hunters." They include t Masonic Temple cornerstone, bronze dedicati placque of the red brick schoolhouse and a b formerly located alongside the cannon. R. Muller, Sonora, Supervising Deputy Grand Pre N. S. G. W., has given his assurance the canno will soon be remounted securely.

Welcome Again to Wonder Valley

"California's Pioneer Dude Ranch"

OPENS MARCH 1st

Operated for over 50 years as a working stock ranch, Wonder Valley is the pioneer dude ranch of California. Located in the foothills thirty miles east of Fresno, it adjoins General Grant and Kings River Canyon National Parks. On its five thousand acres some eight Indian villages were once located.

There's something doing every moment. Hun ing, fishing, canoeing and horseback riding are part of the fun. From time to time the co punchers put on an impromptu rodeo with bro busting, steer riding, calf roping, horse racir all featured on their wild west program.

After dinner your host, Lynn Peters, will enter tain at the Hammond organ. You will love t dance to his dreamy waltzes, an enchanted romantic spell woven by the lingering melody of music.

Modern rustic cabins with stone fireplaces, soft innerspring mattresses will make your stay both comfortable and enjoyable. The guest rooms are fully modern with every convenience and are most reasonably priced.

RIDE:

Here you may ride the range with real cowboys, herd cattle, wrangle horses, brand calves. There are miles of trail to cover and scenic spots to see. If you're a tenderfoot you'll find a gentle horse to ride and a rider to show you how. Top riders will find top horses.

SWIM:

The old swimming pool is handy, too. It's a crystal clear pool in the beautiful Kings River that flows through the ranch. You may swim, paddle a canoe or lie on the clean white sandy beach to your heart's content.

FISH:

Fishing season opens the first of May and the King's River is noted for its fighting Rainbow, Dolly Varden and Eastern Brook trout. If you like to fish, be sure and pack your favorite fly rod for the fishing is grand.

HUNT:

The hills are full of deer while small game abound in the meadowland. Quail, pigeons, rabbits, squirrels and coyotes are to be found everywhere. Black bear is hunted in the higher mountain country. It's always in season to go hunting with a camera.

HIKE:

Mountain trails beckon the hiker as well as the horseman. There are pleasant, easy trails to saunter while for the seasoned mountain climber Dalton Mountain presents a towering challenge. On its summit is to be found the hideout of those bandits of the past, the Dalton brothers.

FEAST:

We don't claim that our meals are superior to those of your city's finest restaurants—they only taste better. Served family style, almost everything from the steaks, poultry, butter, cream to the fruit and vegetables are home grown.

RAPID PROGRESS IS BEING MADE ON PLANS FOR ADMISSION DAY

Under the capable leader hip of Gary Lynes, Long Beach Parlor No. 278, NSGW, as general chairman, plans for the 1947 Admission Day Celebration in Long Beach, September 6, 7, 8, 9, are well under way, with meetings of delegates from all the southern parlors being held the 1st Tuesday of each month at some central location. In addition, the executive committee, composed of chairmen of the various committees, has been holding regular meetings under the direction of Chairman Lynes.

A four-day celebration, culminating in the big day, September 9th, has been planned and the committee to be known as the Admission Day Celebration Committee for 1947, Inc., has been incorporated. General offices of the group are being established at 206 East Fourth Street, 110 Adair Building, Long Beach 2, with Joseph E. Sousa, Long Beach Parlor No. 278, as general secretary. Assistant Secretary is Eugenia Smith, Long Beach Parlor No. 154, NDGW.

In addition to the big parade September 9th. tentative plans call for state-wide bowling and softball contests, as well as a golf tournament. Lucien Griffin, No. 272, NSGW, is in charge of athletics.

There will be Drum and Bugle Corps contests as in former years, details of which are incomplete at present. Plans are well under way for the Grand Ball, Monday evening, September 8th, at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium from 6 to 12, reports Nell DeWitt, Long Beach No. 154, NDGW. There will also be a big barbecue in charge of Harold Harper, Paradise Parlor No. 282, NSGW, Huntington Beach, assisted by members of his committee. Paradise Parlor has a wide reputation for putting on excellent barbecues and this event following the big parade, will be eagerly looked forward to.

Theme of the September 9th parade has not been released as yet, with the committee in charge working on the exact wording.

It is planned to carry the story of the celebration far and wide over the state by means of press and radio. Members of the Native Sons and Daughters throughout the state will also be advised of developments and kept up-to-date so that they will be able to lay their plans accordingly.

The General Committee for the Celebration includes the following: Eugene W. Biscailuz, No. 267, NDGW, honorary chairman; Gary Lynes, No. 278, NSGW, general chairman; Joseph E. Sousa, No. 278, NSGW, general secretary; Eugenia Smith, No. 154, NDGW, assistant secretary; John A. Schwamm, No. 109, NSGW, treasurer; Bernard G. Hiss, No. 272, Clarence S. Hunt, No. 278, legal counsel; Ann Barton, No. 154, Native Daughters vice-chairman; Harvey Webster, No. 296, Native Sons, vice-chairman; Carl Martin, No. 272, finance and budget; Carl Symonds, No. 278, prizes; Frank Collins, No. 109, NSGW, transportation; Grand Trustee Anna T. Schiebusch, Native Daughter participation; Bernard G. Hiss, No. 272, Native Sons participation; John M. Johnston, No. 278, housing; Harold Harper, No. 282, barbecue; Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President, invitations and reception; Fred Smith, registration; Leonard Schwacofer, No. 281, printing and supplies; Otto J. Beck, No. 278, parade; Martin Moxley, No. 278, citizens; Fred Taylor, No. 278, de tions; Nell DeWitt, No. 154, Grand Ball; garet Kerr, No. 247, radio and publicity; L Griffin, No. 272, athletics.

Several other committee chairmen remai be selected and their names will be annou shortly.

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

At 2:21 A. M., March 26, 1872, a terrific earthquake shock trembled California, Nevada and a part of Utah. It was moderate in San Francisco and severe in the interior, but did small damage in towns along the foothills. The center of the disturbance was in Inyo County where, if that section had been thickly populated, great loss of life and values would have occurred.

In the small towns of Independence, Bishop Creek and Lone Pine every brick building was wrecked, and fifty-seven houses were knocked down. Twenty-seven persons, mostly women and children, were killed, and many more were injured by being crushed under the fallen walls. Several hundred light shocks were felt during the following few days, but only a couple disturbed other parts of the state. Owen's Lake was raised four feet. Large crevices were opened in fissures miles in length and from two to a hundred feet wide extended along the base of the mountains. No volcanic disturbance occurred.

Three moderate storms passed over the state during the month, giving showers that were not recorded. At Sacramento the rainfall for the month was 1.93 inches and for the season 23.14 inches.

The Legislature was in session the entire month. It created the new counties of Ventura and San Benito, but killed a proposition to create the new county of Donner. Many bills of local application were passed. One, to increase the police force of San Francisco by twenty, caused over 4000 applications to be filed by citizens of that city for the positions to be filled.

The citizens of San Francisco were greatly agitated over the efforts of the Central Pacific Railroad to pass, in Congress, a bill to give it the title of Goat Island for a terminal. A petition against it had about 25,000 signatures. Big public meetings were held, and the Board of Supervisors wired to the President and the Senate a remonstrance that cost a toll of $1,000.

A shell mound at Tamalpais, Marin County, was removed this month in excavating for the foundation of a new hotel. Many Indian relics and bones were exhumed.

Senor Pinto, near Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, raised on his land 92 bushels of wheat to the acre—the best yield on record.

A. Vestal, a San Jose gardener, exhibited a beet he had grown that weighed 131 pounds.

A grizzly was killed in Monterey County that weighed 2,200 pounds.

Wild pigeons were so numerous in Napa County as to be a pest to the farmers.

At the Ophir mine, Grass Valley, Nevada County, March 1, twenty-two miners refused to work longer if giant powder was used, and there was a violent agitation during the month over the question.

Reese and Depew, gold mining on Randolph Flat, Nevada County, struck a quartz vein about six inches in width from which, in a distance of eight feet and at a depth of six feet, they took out $5,000 in a few days.

A miner named Kane, on Randolph Flat, found a nugget weighing 3 pounds and 11 ounces, worth about $800. The nugget had a pick mark on it showing it had been struck, but not found, by some miner before.

Spanish Tom and his partner, mining near Mariposa, found several pockets this month. One paid over $8,000 and from others they realized nearly $20,000.

A Portuguese company of whalers at Monterey on March 14 started in two boats after a school of greybacks. One was harpooned and killed, and a boat made fast to it. One of the other whales turned and, infuriated, charged at the boat. It dove beneath and with a blow of its tail smashed and capsized the boat, injuring several of the men. The crew hung on to the sides of the wrecked boat until they were finally rescued by the other boat's crew.

Charley Rhoades, the popular minstrel and banjo player of the '60s, was making his last appearance on the stage at Sacramento in "Early California" and singing the then popular song, "In the Days of '49."

March 16, a fire broke out in the Washington Hotel, Petaluma, and it was in flames when another fire started a block away. The fires destroyed about thirty buildings in the business district and caused a $75,000 loss.

Henry Taylor about March 1 lassooed a calf and attempted to lead it across a slough near Firebaugh's Ferry, Fresno County. A few days afterward parties passing by noticed a calf on the bank with the lariat fastened to its neck. On investigating they found the other end tied to the horn of a saddle on a horse stuck in the mud and drowned. Search being made, Taylor's body was found a short distance from the horse, where he drowned after dismounting and trying to wade to land.

The steamer "Pioneer," running between San Francisco and Marysville, struck a snag and sank near the Strait of Carquinez, March 13, Two of the deck hands were drowned. Steamer and cargo were valued at $18,000, but the boat was subsequently raised and the loss greatly reduced.

W. P. Davis and Frank Howard at Petrolipolis, Los Angeles County, running a tunnel to tap oil sand, struck a flow of gas which, catching fire, caused them to be dangerously burned in making their escape through the flames.

The boys of San Francisco had a noise-making instrument called a "devil's fiddle" in vogue this month. It was made with a tin can and a resined string. Several runaways were caused by the instrument's diabolical noise scaring horses. People who were not popular with the boys were being maliciously serenaded. The Board of Supervisors passed an ordinance prohibiting its use and over 100 of the fiddles were confiscated at the Lincoln school in one afternoon.

The telegraph operators in the Central Pacific depot at Sacramento wired a chair and placed it in an inviting position for bystanders to sit down on. Then, applying an electric current, would cause the sitter to jump ceiling-ward p. d. q. The afternoon of March 7 John Corning, the assistant general superintendent of the road, took a seat in the chair. An operator, not recognizing him by the shape of his back, applied the current. When the superintendent had completed his jump the chair crashed against the wall and fell a wreck, and the funny season for the operators closed.

March 9 the driver of the stage from San Andreas to Milton, Calaveras County, saw a masked man waiting for him by the roadside in time to turn and drive back for protection. A posse, leaving the North American house, proceeded to the spot and captured the highwayman. He proved to be the man who had stopped and robbed the stage twice before. He made a fight before surrendering, and was wounded in the head, arm and leg before giving up.

Monitor, Alpine County, had its business section burned March 30.

BITS OF CHANNEL ISLAND HISTORY - - -

By ED AINSWORTH
In the Los Angeles Times

MEXICO'S attempt to claim Santa Catalina and nine other channel islands off the California coast, as reported recently, is not exactly new.

As recounted in a Times magazine article May 16, 1937, the Mexican Senate at that time had just been petitioned to seek the recovery of Santa Catalina and Santa Cruz, under the "good neighbor" policy of President Roosevelt. Nothing came of the request then.

The ground for that effort was the same as the one to be advanced by Mexico in its present plea—that the Channel Islands were not included in the mainland territory ceded to the United States Feb. 2, 1848, under the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

If the affair reaches the stage of a real controversy it will not be the first time the islands have been the subject of legal difficulties. Some private owners in the past have engaged in bitter quarrels.

Strangely enough, however, most of the islands have never attracted the public attention that might have been expected from their scenic and historical attraction. Santa Catalina alone has become a tourist mecca.

Yet the others have had mystery, glamour, excitement and tragedy as bait for the public. One was the home of a woman "Robinson Crusoe." Another boasts the world's smallest school. One is the burial place of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, discoverer of California. One was the home of pygmy elephants. Wild boar hunting is the sport on another. Seaweed skirts have been found on one island, hinting of ancient hulas. And two have been proclaimed as national monuments to preserve their intriguing wild life.

The 10 islands lie along the California coast —not, as the poets say "like a string of pearls" —but rather in a rough arc. San Clemente, farthest south, is a closely guarded Navy base at which civilians are decidedly unwelcome. Next up the coast is Santa Catalina, the Wrigley play place. Out from it are tiny Santa Barbara and good-sized San Nicholas, which also is a Navy base.

Then, in a line from east to west, off the Santa Barbara coast line the three tiny Anacapas; big beautiful Santa Cruz, the home of wild boar hunting and a large cattle business; Santa home of many cattle of the Vail interests, finally, wind-swept San Miguel, burial pla Cabrillo, which seems to be trying to blow into the sea (it is one enormous sand dun

Santa Cruz, the most exotic of the islands longs to two individuals. Edwin L. Stanton Angeles oilman, a few years ago bough approximately $750,000 all but 800 acres o island which is about 20 miles long and 5 Ambrose Gherini of San Francisco owns 800 acres.

Gov. Warren and his boys recently were g of Stanton on the island, where they went boar hunting. Until Stanton acquired it, Cruz for 37 years had belonged to the esta Justinian Caire, a Frenchman, who built a wi chapel and Old World surroundings on his sheep range. Santa Cruz Island wines won acclaim. A lot of pale bats live on the i but it has not been established whether Lugosi ever frightened them.

Sea otter, in their heydey were much s at the island, where the gorgeous caves fine hiding places. Sea lions in great nu still throng the island.

On the islands in prehistoric times were phants 13 feet tall. They dwindled down mere six feet later on, due to their isolate perience.

San Nicholas was the home of "the w Robinson Crusoe." A group of Indian w was seized in early days by Aleut otter hu The Mexican government sent a ship to survivors to the mainland. One woman l off the rescue ship. Later, clues were fou indicate she was living a hermit's existence. more than 15 years she was found, clad in co ant skins and with her teeth worn down, taken to Santa Barbara. She died soon afte parently from loneliness.

San Miguel and San Nicholas were feudin a long time over which had "the world's sm school." Each boasted pupils numbering t buildings about 9 by 12.

The islands, due to their isolation, can their own varieties of fox, skunk and mouse. San Clemente is a sort of second Ireland w St. Patrick legend of its own—because scie have never been able to find any snakes the

A scene similar to this will greet visitors to the 32nd National Orange Show at San Bernardino, March 13 to 23. Many Native Sons and Daughters have a part in staging this magnificent exposition of the citrus industry of California, while Wednesday, March 19th, has been set as tentative date for the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West to attend.

AN BERNARDINO WILL AGAIN TAGE NATIONAL ORANGE SHOW

tive Sons and Daughters Day Planned for World Famous Citrus Classic

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

F ALL California's colorful fairs and page- antry, none is more breath-taking in its ty and dazzling splendor than the National ge Show at San Bernardino, which will be for the first time since Pearl Harbor, March 23.

presenting the $150,000,000 California Citrus stry, the National Orange Show is a non- t entity and is acclaimed the "World's der Citrus Exposition," by the more than ,000 people who have visited it in the 31 s that it has been presented, up to and in- ng 1941.

wever, to those of us close to the citrus in- y of California, the San Bernardino National ge Show is more than an exposition. Many have grown up during the years that it has presented and it has been traditional in amilies to make the pilgrimage each year to Bernardino to see the gorgeous displays made citrus fruits, the allied industrial exhibits, uto show with the latest creations, the flower garden exhibits, and last, but not least, the mid-way, a delight to old and young alike.

e news that the Orange Show is going to ne this year on an even bigger and better than ever before, means to the citrus grow- communities of California, more than any- else, that the post-war era is here at last.

ny Native Sons and Daughters have a part e production at San Bernardino. With this ind, we drove out the other day to visit ld E. Van Luven and David W. Stuart of whead Parlor No. 110, and to get a preview e big exposition.

met Col. Smith, General Manager of the ge Show, upon whose shoulders rests much e worry in getting the mammoth exposition stadium and grounds ready for the opening d by the Army during the war the property nly recently been released to the committee, a program of face-lifting and construction launched immediately to restore the facili- r exposition purposes.

ws of painters swarmed over the outside of Vest's longest and most colorful exhibition ng as we entered it. Inside was a beehive of activity, as workmen devoted their full attention to the thousands of details involved. Carpenters, electricians and riggers were everywhere. As we stood and looked down the 712-foot length of the great empty hall, with its high curved roof similar to today's quonset hut, we got our first real impression of its size, and could readily believe that it housed five acres of display space. On all previous visits the building held a million-dollar exposition, with thousands of people jamming it, so that the fact that the hall was 712 feet long and 132 feet wide was not evident on casual observance.

As we stood there a parade of National Orange Shows in years gone by, passed in imagination before our eyes. We remembered the shows held in the huge tents before the exposition building was built, and recalled those years when Dad was actively connected with an orange packing house at Hemet, and helped to build the chamber of commerce exhibit. We were in grammar school at the time, but we believe that the Hemet exhibit was a replica of Ramona's home and a lot of that strange exotic citrus fruit, the cumquat, was used in the building of the display. And there was an aged Indian woman from the Cahuilla Indian Reservation, in the mountain country beyond Hemet, present, who was supposed to be the original Ramona of Helen Hunt Jackson's immortal love story.

And as the years passed we recalled the auto shows with their various super models of the middle twenties, so dear to the high school lad of that period. There were low-slung, black sleek jobs, with big, bright exhaust pipes coming out of the side of the long hood and extending along the side of the car to the rear. Super-chargers were the talk of the day. And, boy-like, we gazed wistfully, and compared the cars with the 1913 four-cylinder, right-hand drive Cadillac back home on the ranch that we were learning to drive. But we had something that those new babies didn't and that was bright, polished copper cylinder jackets.

Then there were hot dogs, hamburgers, pop and the giant mid-way, all of which will be with us again at this 32nd National Orange Show. However, in passing, we can not help but remember the exhibits on the mid-way of World War One relics. Minors were not allowed in them, for it was not considered right in the mid-twenties, that the youth of the land should view the implements with which men killed one another. Yet, these same minor lads and their little brothers, were the ones who had to fight for this nation in World War Two.

In the latter twenties and early thirties, it was to the National Orange Show that we took our best girl on a Saturday or Sunday. And, what better place to go for a day's fun and enjoyment, than this beautiful exposition of the Orange Empire, so closely allied to the citrus industry from which many a California community derives its life-blood. Here one found beauty and pageantry, name bands and high class vaudeville, truly a parade of California in its finest.

Then, as we entered the printing industry, each year there were thousands of colorful folders for the Ramona Pageant Association that had to be rushed through the presses and folding machine in time for the Orange Show. About this time, Milton Standish of San Bernardino and some of his associates conceived the idea of building a pool on the exposition grounds, where for a bright, silver coin, one could fish for the elusive mountain trout, without any of the work involved in getting to a mountain stream.

As we came back to the present, it was not difficult to visualize the magnificent show that

MINERS' DITCHES OF '49 TURN TODAY'S WHEELS OF INDUSTRY

By EMMETT P. JOY
GRAND HISTORIAN, NSGW

WHEN James Wilson Marshall, doubting the reality of his discovery, plucked a handful of golden flakes from the tail race of Sutter's Mill, he set into motion the first ripple of what was to become a mighty wave of historic events.

His find was made 99 years ago, January 24, 1848, at Coloma on the American River. Then came the Gold Rush, the stampede of fortune hunters from all over the world, by sailing ship to San Francisco, and by creeping covered-wagon train across the continent.

In the horde of gold-seekers were men of all kinds—merchants, money changers, builders, men of all trades and professions. Among them were the founders of many of California's great industrial and business institutions. Among them were some who laid the first little planks of the structure that is today's Pacific Gas and Electric Company, which serves all of Central and Northern California.

Although the generation of electricity by water power was not to start until nearly half a century later, the placer miners of '49 and succeeding years unwittingly helped that development. In their "diggings" on the American, the Yuba, the Mokelumne, the Tuolumne, the Stanislaus, on virtually every stream of the western slope of the Sierra, a water supply was needed to operate the "Long Toms" and sluice boxes in which the gold was washed from the gravel.

Ditches were dug and flumes constructed to bring the water down from the upper canyons. Water companies were formed to serve the mining projects. Many of those early conduits and water systems were taken over for hydroelectric purposes in later years when the placer claims had been worked out. One of these was the Coyote and Deer Creek Water Company, incorporated in 1850 to serve the claims in the vicinity of Nevada City. Bean's History of Nevada County, published in 1867, tells the story of the company's origin as follows:

"In September, 1850, William Crawford, Charles Marsh, John and Thomas Dunn and C. Carrol conceived the idea of digging a ditch nine miles in length from the Gravel hills to Rock Creek. The work was completed in December following and was productive of splendid results, paying its cost, $10,000, in six weeks. While this ditch was in the course of building in November, two rival companies, 'The Deer Creek Water Company' and 'The Coyote Water Company', began the construction of canals to take the water of Deer Creek to the new diggings. Lawsuits ensued which terminated in the consolidation of the two into one."

The process of consolidation eventually bro these little water companies into the l South Yuba Water Company which, in became a part of the P. G. and E. system. on the basis of corporate priority, the C and Deer Creek Water Company appears t the earliest of the 440 water, electric and companies which have been merged into present Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Other pioneer ditch and flume facilitie the Gold Rush era which ultimately became of the hydroelectric system were:

Sullivan Creek Water Company, incorpo in 1851; Woods Diggins Water Compayn, Shaw's Flat and Tuolumne Water Company, Columbia Gulch Flume Company, 1854; River and Auburn Water and Mining Com 1854; Nil Desjerandum Water Company, and Sawmill Flat Fluming Company, 1862.

The miners of pioneer days contribute other ways to hydroelectric development. the sandbars and adjacent banks of the str had been drained of their gold, the search t away from the channel to older water co where deep strata of gravel had been depo Here the values were lower. There was gold in a cubic yard of ground and great b of earth and gravel had to be moved. Hydr mining——a method of washing the gravel sluice boxes by a stream of water under sure—was the answer. Bancroft tells miner, one Chabot, who in 1853 used a to wash gravel on his claim at Buckeye, N County. Credit for the first hydraulic is given to Edward E. Mattison, who h claim in Nevada County. He brought water a higher elevation through a rawhide ho which he attached a nozzle fashioned fr block of wood, thus developing force en to move considerable quantities of sand gravel more cheaply than by hand shovelin

By the late 'seventies Mattison's crude d had evolved into the efficient "monitor" "giant," a cannon-like iron and steel we which would throw a stream of water pow enough literally to wash down mountains.

From the hydraulic monitor and the pio type water wheel, then in common use in grain and lumber mills, it was but a short to the use of water power for the generati electricity. Lester A. Pelton, a millw working in Nevada County, developed the model of the Pelton water wheel during years around 1880. He had built many w water wheels of the "hurdy-gurdy" type b he began his attempts to improve the d The principles he employed were simila those used in the hydraulic monitor.

Dr. W. F. Durand of Stanford Universi his book, "The Pelton Water Wheel" says, parently the first (water-wheel nozzle) in of time brought in during the '80's of the century was a form of deflecting nozzle hi in such a way as to admit the bringing o jet from full on the wheel to full off.

An example of the difficulties of hydro-electric plant construction in pioneer days. Her 32-horse team is hauling generator equipment to the site of De Sabla Powerhouse. Completed October 10, 1903.

ethod of control was a natural, we may even y an inevitable application of the method em- loyed in moving and directing the stream of e hydraulic giant, then in common use in the ld mining districts in California."

When hydroelectric plants were built a few ars later, the Pelton water wheel and similar pes were installed to serve as prime movers r the generators. The Pelton wheel, repeat- lly improved, is in general use today in hydro- ectric powerhouses.

A model replica of the first Pelton water heel stands in the public square at Campton- lle, Yuba County, as a memorial to the in- ntor who had developed his design there. But e little mining town, which was a booming mp in the early days, had to wait until Feb- ary, 1946, to enjoy the electric service which elton's genius helped develop. Extension of e of P. G. and E.'s transmission lines finally rought this modern convenience to the old uba county community.

The hydraulic mining era made another con- ibution to hydroelectric development in the ms and reservoirs constructed in the early ys. The monitors required larger water sup- ies than the sluices of the first placer dig- ngs. In example, Fordyce Meadow, a few iles north of Donner Summit, was selected by an Rich, one of the pioneer water men, as a sirable water reservoir site. Nothing was ne until 1873 when the same Dan Rich was aced in charge of construction by the Snow ountain Water Company, which had acquired e property. The rock-filled dam was com- eted in 1879 and Lake Fordyce became an portant source of water for hydraulic opera- ns. Later it was taken into the South Yuba ater Company's system, eventually to serve as a tal link in the present P. G. and E. hydro- ectric chain. Water released from Lake For- ce flows through Fordyce Creek 15 miles to ke Spaulding. The two reservoirs have a tal capacity of 121,000 acre feet. They supply ter to the turbines of two generating plants Lake Spaulding, and the powerhouses of the ar River group.

Among the 120 storage reservoirs included in e P. G. and E. system of today, nearly two ore were handed down from the mining per- d prior to the 1890 decade when the first hydro- ectric plant was placed in operation. They are:

Blue Lakes Powerhouse, Mokelumne River. Built in 1897, burned and succeeded by Electra plant, 1902.

The first electric generating plant in California was built in San Francisco by the California Electric Light Company, incorporated June 28, 1879 by George H. Roe, a broker who had become interested in the new source of light and power. He built a little power house in the rear of what is now the Pacific Building at Fourth and Market Streets. It was equipped with two Brush generators with a total capacity of 21 arc lamps. The Palace Hotel was one of the Company's early customers. This was the world's first central station, established for the distribution of electricity to customers.

But fuel for steam operations was costly in those days and the pioneers turned naturally to the falling waters of the Sierra and the reservoirs and ditches the miners had built. In Sacramento, Horatio and Charles Livermore and Albert Gallatin, Sr., had been working for years on a project to dam the American River at Folsom, not far from the point where Marshall discovered gold, to create a receiving pond for their logging operations. With the advent of electric power, they were quick to sense the possibility of using their dam for generating purposes. Subsequently their corporate name was changed to the Folsom Water Power Company and a deal was made with the Sarcamento Power and Light Company (which had a steam plant in the Capital city and operated the street railways) to construct an electric plant at the Folsom Dam.

The Folsom powerhouse was placed in operation, July 13, 1895, the first hydroelectric plant for customer service in Northern California. The event was celebrated with a parade and street illumination on Admission Day of that year. Technical journals of the day described Sacra-

THE STORY OF COALINGA

HOW COAL AND OIL BUILT A THRIVING TOWN ON THE SAGE BRUSH PLAINS OF FRESNO COUNTY

AN ENTHUSIASTIC write-up in 1910 likened to a fairy story the tale of the growth of the little town of Coalinga, Fresno county, in the foothills bordering on the semi-arid sage brush plains. A few years before, the name stood for a wretched village in the crudest stage, little more than a hurriedly thrown-together mining settlement, surrounded by black oil "rigs", many on land of doubtful productive value; a settlement over-run with reckless men and worse women, gambling resorts, saloons or deadfalls rather wild with money, excitement, and the smell of petroleum prevading all. In 1910 there was a rich proven oil field and there had blossomed a modernized city of 5500 people, a bustling business community supported by one of the greatest and latest proven oil fields in the world, a city of substantial, well-to-do people and one marked by modern steel buildings, banks and business ventures of magnitude, and everyone prosperous and content.

Its history as a place of habitation may be traced to M. L. Curtiss' homestead entry of 1882 covering the site of the city, with his cabin relic still standing on Cedar street a few years before birth of the city. The district was included in the original land grant to the Southern Pacific railroad with an apology of a railroad completed to Huron in 1877. Curtiss came before the rails were laid to Coalinga, 10 years later. Coalinga's early history is barren of picturesque incident. It was first the home of the homesteader, living in rude cabin and eking out an existence on blue beans, bacon and jack rabbit meat. Then came the railroad and next the saloon as "the inevitable harbinger of civilizing influences".

In that early history is mentioned the name of Frederick Tibbits. He obtained a grub stake, opened a saloon and after a lucky turn of cards bankrupted the miners of Robinson & Rollins, Englishmen who were interested in an indifferent coal mine in the nearby hills at Alcalde. Next came Louis O'Neill with a store and Coalinga became a trading place for the cattle and sheep men, for the coal mining colony, and for the grain farmers in good seasons, which were dependent on rainy winters. The town's progress was retarded by remoteness of location, lack of a water supply, wretched transportation facilities, lack of faith in the oil fields and unpromising business conditions. In 1900 it was a collection of about twenty houses scattered along Front street, "Whiskey Row" as it was long after known. It was from near Coalinga that the output of the Robinson-Rollins coal mine was shipped out on a little railroad to Hanford, as the nearest accessible point, much nearer and more accessible than Fresno. The output of the mine was meager and the market slow. Louis Einstein was interested in the coal mine, but the enterprise was soon abandoned. When the price of steel rose, the rails were torn up and some of them taken to Fresno for the construction of the horse car lines. Drilling for oil progressed in an experimental way. The progress was slow, even after the field had been proven workable. The first companies to drill met with discouragement.

There was little about Coalinga or its surroundings to attract new residents. Drinking water was brought from Hanford in rail tanks, and for years was sold by the bucket or barrel. Oil supplies were brought from Los Angeles or San Francisco. Oil transportation was by horse or mule to the railroad shipping point. Until the coming of the railroad to Coalinga, this primitive method of transportation cut deeply into the profits of the oil companies. After 1902 conditions improved slightly, and three years later the boom was on.

In 1907 the price of oil rose from 18c and 20c a barrel to 40c. The rush came when the price rose to 60c; in the fall of 1908 it went to 61½c, and in 1909 the oil fever had hit the country. It is said that the town grew by leaps and bounds over night. A collection of shacks was thrown together because the people were too busy making money to build anything more substantial. People with beer appetites indulged in champagne. Along Whiskey Row congregated the fortune seekers. The faro table was never idle and the hum of the roulette was incessant, with twenty dollar gold pieces stacked up as stakes. Money came easily and went more easily. Coalinga was the typical western mining camp—instead of gold or silver, it was oil. The saloon was as much of a fortune as the oil "gusher". The spirit of the gold epoch of '49 hovered over the mushroom settlement in the sage brush desert following the oil strikes. The first comers had the same advanturous spirit that marked those who rushed to the Klondike in frozen Alaska and to the gold fields of Goldfield and Tonopah in Nevada.

With the greater profits of 1907-09 came also a greater stability; throughout the days of the fever substantial men and corporations had been at work. Development of the oil field had proven it; its possibilities had been demonstrated. Permanent improvements in the town began with the construction of better homes and neat blocks of business firms. Whiskey Row went up in fire. The shack era had passed; a city of brick, steel and concrete was developing. In 1807 the population of the town and fields was 2400; in 1910 it was 10,000.

On April 3, 1918, the rough mining town with the saloon as a dominant industry and its most prominent highway facing the railroad known as Whiskey Row, voted itself "dry" by a majority vote of 88 in a total vote of 1304.

The first Coalinga district well was drilled about 1890, 163 feet deep and yielding green oil, with 20 barrels pumped by windmill in two days and seven barrels on the third day. Rowland and Lacey of Los Angeles drilled four wells in 1891-92 and one of these, 400 feet deep, yielded nine barrels daily. The other wells were never pumped. In 1893 there were five wells full of oil and plugged. In 1895 the Producers and Consumers Oil company of Selma sunk a 695 and a 700-foot well on Section 20-19-15, southeast of Rowland and Lacey. They yielded 15 and 20 barrels daily of thirty-four degrees B. gravity oil. In 1896 the producers on Section 20 brought in a 60-barrel well. Chanslor and Canfield and the Home Oil company produced in 1896 oil of thirty-four degrees from depths of 500 to 600 and small wells on Section 17-19-15. Other wells were drilled in an endeavor to extend this pool, but except for those wells on the Home Oil company property, all were failures—thirty dry holes, each probably averaging $25,000 in cost.

The next strike was in 1898 by the Independent Oil company on Section 29-19-15 on Hanford Oil company leased land; this was a good well on the east side field.

Late in 1898 the Confidence Company, which had drilled three dry wells on 25-19-14, brought in a sixty-barrel well and shortly a 200-barrel well, making the first strike on the west side field. The third well, the Blue Goose at 1400 feet, completed in 1898, produced from 900 to 1000 barrels a day. In 1899 there were many companies to begin operations without any success. In the early development of the field operations were greatly hindered by the lack of water. The 1898 output was of 439,372 bar and an 8½-inch pipeline was laid from Coali to Ora Station.

The above were some of the discovery w from which contours development work was tended to open up the proven territory cove an area fourteen miles long and from one-hal two and one-half miles wide, with oil ranging gravity from fourteen degrees in the shallow side to thirty-four and one-half degrees in Home Pool and averaging sixteen and twenty- degrees.

Many of these discovery showings are s compared with the later production. The large well in the district was brought in in and produced 300 barrels per day.

On October 5, 1928 the Milham discovery in Kettleman Hills blew out of control for t weeks, opening one of the world's largest and petroleum deposits.

A revival of Coalinga days of the early 19 struck the Coalinga community when in the part of July, 1938 the Petroleum-Securities c pany brought in the Gatchell No. 2 well on is known as Coalinga Nose, six miles northeas the city, with potential production estimate between 15 and 20 thousand barrels daily. actual rate through a ½-inch opening was barrels, 33 gravity, and 1766 cubic feet of nat gas per hour, being 99.9% pure oil. This covery is rated as one of the biggest in C fornia during the last twenty years. A total o feet of solid oil sand was cored without any tempt to go to the bottom of the formation.

wo very important items must be considered month. First, the time is growing short for ries in the Public Speaking Contest. Chairman Guy G. Foulks of Elk Grove has been a very energetic leader in this program and already has more than fifty Parlors participating that have never entered before. He has a big committee and the results show that about all of them are spending a lot of time and trouble on the job. It is now paying off. If your Parlor hasn't entered a candidate yet, the Principal of your High School immely.

he second item is the critical condition of Homeless Children fund. The contributions ived last year from our membership averaged 30c per member for the whole year! Cerly not much of a contribution to our own ity and one of the most worth-while in exist-. The Committee is again appealing to the bership for an immediate substantial conation, and unless the response is very favor-, the Order will be forced to withdraw from work in the very near future. Only your ns will save it.

PAST PRESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION SHOWS REMARKABLE GROWTH

During the past three years, the Past Presidents' Association has shown a remarkable growth, both numerically and as regards activity. The eight state-wide assemblies in the organization at this time are doing much to assist the subordinate Parlors of the Native Sons through the exemplification of the ritual at class initiations held by these subordinate Parlors. San Francisco Assembly No. 1, the largest of the eight assemblies, participated in approximately twenty initiations at which several hundred new members came into the order of the Native Sons. Where the Parlors of the NSGW enter into competitive ritualistic contests, the Past Presidents act in the capacity of judges to determine the winning team.

Many a Native Son, having served his Parlor as president, feels when his term is ended, that he has rendered all the service possible and that he has more or less reached "the end of the line." The Past Presidents' Association is the answer to this Native Son. By joining it, he can not only continue his interest in the NSGW, but further it by going through the chairs, as a sort of post-graduate course, and by affiliating himself with the Past Presidents, provide the stimulus for retaining an active interest in all Native Sons affairs.

The growing enthusiasm in our organization is evidenced by an ever increasing attendance at our annual General Assemblies, and the 26th General Assembly held at Sacramento, October of last year, drew an exceptionally large attendance of Native Sons from all over the state. It was at this General Assembly that George Prytz of the East Bay Assembly No. 3 was elevated to the office of Governor General. Due to the steadfast growth in the membership of the Native Sons throughout California, it is hoped to enlarge the Past Presidents' Association through the establishing of additional Assemblies in various districts, which would make it possible for past presidents to join one of the assemblies in their immediate vicinity. Good fellowship and sociability predominate in this organization and all Native Sons eligible for membership are invited to join the Past Presidents' Association.

LEWIS A. GIEGERICH,
Lieutenant-Governor General Past Presidents' Association, Chairman, State of Order.

GOLD DISCOVERY IS CELEBRATED BY BANQUET

As has been the custom for many years, the San Francisco Hall Association of the Native Sons of the Golden West gave an anniversary banquet to commemorate the discovery of gold in California.

The dinner was held in the Grizzly Bear Clubrooms of the San Francisco Native Sons Building, 414 Mason Street, on Thursday evening, January 23, and was well attended by many of the Past Grand Presidents, Grand Officers and members.

James B. Keenan, President of the Hall Association, presided and Past Grand President Chas. A. Koenig acted very ably as Toastmaster. Many responses were made to his call and it was a pleasure to hear our Grand President R. G. Power, deliver a very able address. Also, a fine address was made by Past Grand President Jesse H. Miller and many of the other members responded very enthusiastically.

All members are looking forward to celebrating the centennial anniversary next year.

Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW,, Oakland, had 32 of its past presidents present at its recent Past Presidents Night.

FLASH! FLASH! FLASH!

At the meeting of the Board of Grand Officers held February 1, the Board voted to accept the invitation of the Los Angeles County Parlors to hold the 70th Session of Grand Parlor at Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, on Wednesday, May 21, Thursday, May 22, an off day on Friday, May 23, and finish the business sessions on Saturday, May 24. The Constitution requires that the Grand Parlor be held the third week of May and it has been customary to meet the first four days of the week, but previous commitments preclude that at Avalon, therefore the session will be from Wednesday through Saturday. Watch next month's Grizzly Bear for further details.

CASTRO PARLOR NATIVE SONS CELEBRATE 42ND BIRTHDAY

Castro Parlor No. 232, Native Sons, celebrated the forty-second anniversary of its institution with a dinner dance in the Gold Room of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Saturday, January 25. The parlor was instituted on January 21, 1905, with 42 charter members, and now has a membership of 533, including two Past Grand Presidents, Harmon D. Skillin and Raymond D. Williamson.

The largest crowd in the history of its anniversary celebration was in attendance, dining and dancing until the wee small hours of Sunday morning.

MISSION PARLOR NO. 38 INSTALLS

John Klement has been chosen as president of Mission Parlor No. 38 for the ensuing January-June term. District Deputy Robert Pyne of Guadalupe Parlor officiated at installation ceremonies in Druids Hall, San Francisco, Friday evening, January 31. Those installed included: First vice-president, Al Masry; second vice-president, Al Hufnagel; third vice-president, Fred Klement; marshal, Frank Barker; sentinels, John Hanrahan and Hugh Barker; trustees, William Hamburg; treasurer, Raymond J. McGrath; junior past president, Ralph D. McIntosh.

Sheriff Dan Murphy presented Brother John Dolan with his 50-year membership emblem.

Following the installation ceremonies which were well attended, light refreshments were served.

CALIFORNIA PARLOR MAKES REMARKABLE GAINS

The standing of the Parlors of the Order published in this issue of the Grizzly Bear Magazine once again shows California No. 1 listed with the leading parlors in membership.

This achievement is the result of the "California's On the March" membership campaign and is producing results through the cooperation and efforts of every member of the parlor.

Seventeen new members were initiated during January and the chairman of the membership committee, Wm. H. James, has assured Pres. L. F. Elower that the committee will exceed each month the initiations of the previous month.

Observatory Parlor No. 177, San Jose, has one of the finest and best edited parlor publications that comes to the Grizzly Bear offices. Four pages, 9x12, The Observer is printed on white book paper and its composition is attractive to the eye. William S. Burke is the editor. Congratulations Editor Burke and Observatory Parlor.

NOTED SANTA CRUZ JURIST WAS 50-YEAR MEMBER OF NATIVE SONS

Santa Cruz Parlor No. 90, Native Sons of the Golden West, lost one of its 50-year members with the passing January 16 of Judge Benjamin K. Knight, associate justice of the district court of appeals.

Judge Knight, 72, was one of the most widely-known jurists in northern California. He was a former district attorney and superior court judge in Santa Cruz, his native city. He had served on the court bench at San Francisco since 1924, when he was appointed by the late Governor Friend W. Richardson as an associate justice in division one of the first appellate district, district court of appeal.

HOMER J. GOULD

To the Officers and Members of Downieville Parlor, No. 92, N. S. C. W.:

We, your memorial committee entrusted with the sad duty of drafting a memorial of love and respect in memory of our late brother Homer J. Gould, respectfully offer the following:

At the call of the Great Ruler of our Universe on October 30, 1946, our beloved brother passed on from the activities of this life to the Grand Parlor on High.

During the many years he was a member of our beloved Order he was a loyal Native Son, faithful to his country, and a devoted husband and father. He leaves to mourn his passing a daughter and a devoted wife, to whom Downieville Parlor extends its sincere sympathy in this time of sorrow.

We ask that a copy of this memorial be sent to the family, and that a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Fraternally submitted,
CARL C. SUTTON
FRANK D. ROGERS
A. J. PONTA.

Adopted by Downieville Parlor.

MARY MOOREHEAD

To the Officers and Members of Morada Parlor, No. 199, NDGW:

We, your Memorial Committee, submit the following resolutions in loving tribute to the memory of our departed Sister and charter member, Mary Moorehead:

Whereas, the precious ties of love, friendship, and fraternity once again have been suddenly severed and our hearts are filled with sorrow in the loss of our esteemed member.

Resolved, That we extend to her bereaved family our sincere sympathy. May they find much comfort in knowing the world was made better by her having lived in it, and the spirit of kindness she exemplified in her daily walk of life will stand as a monument time cannot erase.

Somewhere back of the sun,
Where loveliness never dies,
She'll live in a land of glory,
Mid the blue and gold of the skies.

Be it further resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to her family, to the Grizzly Bear Magazine, and that it be spread upon the minutes of the parlor.

Respectfully submitted,

NATIVE DAUGHTERS INSTITUTE BEVERLY HILLS PARLOR No. 289

A new Native Daughter Parlor was added to the State membership rolls Friday evening, January 31, 1947, when the Charter was officially presented to Beverly Hills Parlor No. 289 during a brilliant ceremony conducted by Mrs. Loretta Cameron, Grand President Native Daughters of the Golden West at the Beverly Hills Women's Clubhouse.

The open installation of officers, climax of the evening, concluded the assignment of organizing the Beverly Hills area with achievement and success for Mrs. J. Vincent La Berge, Organizer, and Third Vice President of San Gabriel Valley Parlor.

Amid the beautiful setting of the clubhouse, 52 candidates were initiated. Officers from Southland Parlors participating in the initiatory exercises were: Mrs. Mary Miller of Verdugo Parlor, President; Mrs. Louise Cash, Past President; Miss Esther Winsor, First Vice President; Mrs. Maureen Peters, Marshal; Mrs. Elsa Peterson, Assistant Marshal; Mrs. Helen Neiger, Treasurer; and Mrs. Gladys Carlson, Trustee, of San Gabriel Parlor, Second Vice President; Mrs. Beatrice Wahrmund of Californiana Parlor, Inside Sentinel; Mrs. Lillian Stratton, Outside Sentinel; and Mrs. Louise Crawford, Organist of Los Angeles Parlor; Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoenamon of Rudecinda Parlor, Mrs. Kate Glavnic, SDDGP of District No. 36; and Mrs. Dorothy Rice of Compton Parlor. Trustees; Mrs. Maxine Porter, of La Tijera Parlor, Assistant Marshal; and Eugenia Smith of Long Beach Parlor, Jr. Past President.

In her message to the new group, Mrs. Charles F. Griffin, Charter President, stressed the need of Civic Interest by women and urged the new members to participate in the Americanism Program of the Parlor. A musical program was enjoyed by the many guests. The program included vocal numbers sung by John Insley and numbers on the beautiful clubhouse organ.

Among those Grand Officers who assisted Mrs. Cameron, Grand President, in the installation services and presented were: Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary; Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Trustee; Miss Claire Ryan, Grand Inside Sentinel. Past Grand Presidents taking active part in the ceremonies were: Mrs. Hazel B. Hansen, Mrs. Mary B. Noerenberg, Mrs. Anna C. Thuesen.

Mrs. Florence Grass, Supervising District Deputy Grand President of District 35 and Miss Anna T. Schiebusch, Grand Trustee, assisted Mrs. J. Vincent La Berge in planning the evening.

PROMINENT NATIVE SON DIES IN LOS ANGELES

In the passing Thursday, Feb. 6, of Isidore B. Dockweiler, dean of southland lawyers, the Native Sons of the Golden West lost one of their most ardent champions for the preservation of California's history and landmarks. A member of Ramona No. 109, Isidore B. Dockweiler was militant in his contention that everything possible should be done to keep places prominent in our state's history safe for posterity.

Isidore Dockweiler was largely responsible for the fact that the Bear Flag now flies from our public buildings and is seen in the courtrooms and schools of California. Wherever he went, up and down the state, he was ever on the lookout to see that the state law in this regard was being complied with. He took an active part in all state celebrations of a historical nature.

He was born in a dwelling at the corner of First St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Dec. 28, 1867, and had seen the city grow to the prominent place that it occupies in the nation today.

DEATH TAKES BELOVED MEMBER OF SAN JOSE NATIVE SONS

The fast dwindling ranks of pioneer fam lost another of their number recently when Jo M. McKiernan, Sr., member of San Jose P No. 22, and scion of a family which cam Santa Clara county in the early '50's, succu to a long illness.

Brother McKiernan, 75, was a son of the F McKiernan who followed his brother "Mou Charlie" McKiernan to the Santa Cruz moun in 1851, just a year later than Mountain Ch arrived.

The brothers were native of County Connat Ireland, who set out to seek their fortunes tender age and reached California at the of the Gold Rush.

After a short period in the mountains F McKiernan took up a ranch near Livern where Joseph M. was born June 3, 1871, of ten children. The family returned to S Clara county in 1875 and settled on a 300 ranch near Evergreen.

Joseph McKiernan attended the old Ga City Business College in San Jose and stu veterinary medicine in San Francisco. He s ed a livery business at 181 S. First street address now occupied by a women's ready wear shop, and shortly after the turn of century moved to S. Market street across the City Hall Place. His establishment boa 75 horses and as many carriages.

Breeding blooded horses and operating livery business, McKiernan also became a cialist in veterinary dentistry. He branched the real estate business and as motors crow horses from the highways, he became a ga operator.

NATIONAL ORANGE SHOW IS CLASSIC OF CITRUS INDUSTRY

ll be presented at San Bernardino, March 13 to . We believe that it will be greater and more rious than any previous.

The decorative theme is "Melody on Parade" ich offers wide latitude of design for the dec- tion of the auditorium and for the feature ex- bits, sponsored by community organizations. e huge exposition building is being redecorated be more resplendent than ever. A new alum- um ceiling will reflect multi-colored lights to ke a dazzling spectacle far beyond the im- ination of the Arabian Nights.

The new metallic ceiling will be the first one its kind in existence, taking the form of a id aluminum sheet (as every piece is welded its neighbor) and its size can be readily ap- ciated as it is curved over an area of 712 feet 132 feet.

Citrus growers will be interested in the fact t a brand new packing house, with the very est in equipment, built by the Food Machinery rp. of Riverside, is being installed at the Or- ge Show this year, where it will be operated that visitors can see how the golden citrus it for which California is famous, is handled. is planned to pack a car-load a day during the w. The fruit will be stamped with the Na- nal Orange Show marking, wrapped and labeled h the Orange Show's own labels. It will go to tern markets as typical California citrus fruit. In operation alongside of the new packing uipment will be a manually operated plant built San Francisco about 1899. A man seated on eat, pedalling a bicycle-like arrangement, pro- les the motive power for the equipment, while sorts the fruit with his hands. The fruit goes ough sizing rollers and drops into wicker baskets, where a boy takes them and dumps them into crates for shipping. This plant was built in the days before the refrigerator car came into general use. At that early date citrus fruit was only sized and packed loosely in crates, intended mostly for local consumption.

Different days during this year's show have been set aside for various cities and organizations of California. Wednesday, March 19, has been set as a tentative day for the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, with invitations having been sent to Grand President Loretta M. Cameron, Native Daughters of the Golden West, and Grand President R. G. Power, Native Sons of the Golden West, to attend. The Grand President of the Native Sons will present a large Bear Flag to President Fred B. Mack of the National Orange Show, for use in the exposition building.

HUMBOLDT'S LARGEST CLIPPER BEING BUILT

Nearing completion at the foot of "X" street in Eureka is the giant tuna clipper "Talisman," being constructed for F. M. "Dusty" Rhodes, of Eureka by William A. Yost, local boatwright who also designed the vessel. Estimated to be worth $125,000 on completion, she is the most powerful ever built in the fishing class on Humboldt Bay.

More than 60,000 feet of lumber is being used in construction of the vessel. Power will be a 250 h.p. Cooper-essemer diesel. Beam of the new vessel, expected to be launched near the end of next month, is 19 feet, 3 inches.

The "Talisman" is the first tuna clipper on record to be built in Humboldt Bay.

Name bands, radio, stage and screen stars will provide entertainment of the highest caliber at the 1947 event.

PALM SPRINGS (Riverside County)

Did you ever hear of anyone buying a whole town? . . . Well, Anita Jones of Palm Springs, noted horsewoman, has done just that. She is reported to have bought most of the town of Niland, Imperial County, as an investment. The property she purchased is said to include the bank building, post office, two grocery stores, a department store, pool hall and restaurant. Niland is at the southeastern end of the Salton Sea.

mento as "the first American City to demonstrate the practicability of a long-distance transmission at high voltage." Folsom plant had an installed capacity of 4,000 horsepower and transmitted the 22 miles to Sacramento at 11,000 volts.

The Folsom plant was not the first hydroelectric plant for customer service in California, although it was the parent plant of what is now the P. G. and E. hydro system. The statewide honor goes to the Pomona plant of the San Antonio Light and Power Company which started operating in 1892, transmitting power first to Pomona and later to San Francisco.

Even before the promoters of the Folsom project had decided to apply their water power to the generation of electricity, another of the early hydro plants was being planned. In 1891 A. A. Tregidga, a mining engineer of Nevada City and Eugene J. De Sabla, Jr., started construction of a log dam across the south fork of the Yuba River to divert a part of its flow for power development. A spring freshet carried the dam away the following year. The promoters persisted, incorporated the Nevada County Electric Power Company in 1892 and in February, 1896, placed in operation a small plant, intended to serve Grass Valley and Nevada City and the mines of the region.

The Nevada County Electric Power Company is important because its activities brought into the picture of hydroelectric development, a remarkable personality, John Martin, then California agent for the Stanley Electric Manufacturing Company and later to be one of the founders of the P. G. and E. Martin became interested in the Yuba County project. A new corporation, the Yuba Power Company, was organized by Martin, De Sabla and their associates. A flume, following the route of old Brown's Valley ditch was constructed. John Martin took the contract to build the powerhouse and install its generating equipment. Roads were built. The six-ton generators were hauled in by 12-horse teams to the rim of the canyon above the powerhouse site. From there they were lowered on log rollers by winch and cable.

The plant was placed in operation in March, 1898. It was named Rome Powerhouse, in honor of Romulus R. Colgate, New York financier and owner of a Brown's Valley mine who had assisted in financing the project. Transmission lines carried power to Marysville.

The little Rome plant was followed by formation of the Bay Counties Power company, building of the Colgate plant on the Yuba in 1899 and construction of the Bay Counties Power company transmission lines from Colgate 76 miles to Sacramento and 142 miles to Oakland. In 1903 power was transmitted from Colgate to Oakland at 60,000 volts, then the longest transmission at the highest voltage ever achieved.

During the 1890-1900 decade, other hydroelectric power developments were being pressed forward. In the southern San Joaquin Valley, the first steps were taken by A. G. Wishon and his associates that culminated in the system of the San Joaquin Light and Power corporation, now a part of the P. G. & E.

Then there was the little Blue Lakes plant on the Mokelumne River which was followed by Prince Poniatowski's great Electra Powerhouse and the lines of the Standard Electric company. Electric companies, both hydro and steam-operated, multiplied rapidly until in 1905 the various systems, themselves the result of previous mergers, were consolidated into Pacific Gas and Electric company, which today serves nearly all of Central and Northern California. The company's geneological tree includes about 440 electric and gas and water corporations. Its 55 hydro and 14 steam-operated generating stations provide electricity for the use of more than 1,000,000 customers.

The story of the development of the gas business of the company's business also goes far back to California's pioneer days. In 1850, Peter Donahue, San Francisco's first foundryman, builder of the Union Iron Works and man of vision, predicted the city's future greatness and declared it must have a gas works to help it grow. In 1852 he, with his brother James, incorporated the San Francisco Gas company.

Most of the equipment for the gas works was manufactured in San Francisco. Pipe and other material to complete the gas system was difficult to obtain. Cast iron pipes for street mains were shipped from Philadelphia around Cape Horn. The original works of the San Francisco Gas company were located on a sand lot bounded by First and Fremont, Howard and Natoma streets. This location bordered on the bay where coal for gas making was landed on the beach near the plant. The coal was shipped from Australia and distilled in iron retorts. San Francisco's streets were first lighted with gas on the night of F 11, 1854. Consumers paid $15 per thousand cu feet for the new illuminant.

In the years following, Sacramento, Marysvi Oakland, and other communities established companies. The industry grew with the cities northern California. The San Francisco company was the earliest of the hundreds of p ducing gas and electric companies which l became the P. G. & E. With the advent of el tricity, many of the older gas companies gra ally were changed into merged "gas and electr companies, providing both services. The ec omies of larger systems, servicing many comm ties, became apparent. Destructive competi gave way to consolidation, reduction of rates a eventually to the single interconnected syst which today serve virtually all of central northern California with electric power natural gas for domestic, industrial and f use at rates that are among the lowest in entire nation.

Since its incorporation, October 10, 1 Pacific Gas and Electric company has playe vital role in the development of the great te tory it serves. It has pioneered in provid service to agriculture until today California le all the states of the nation in farm electrif tion. It has perfected an integrated, intere nected system of transmission and distributio electricity which has become a world-fam model of utility operation.

The P. G. & E. system today ranks sec among business-managed utilities of the na on the basis of number of customers and insta electric generating capacity.

SCIENCE PROVES IT— CLAMS ARE SILENT

Take the word of science for it—"silent a clam" is a scientifically sound express Clams make no noise.

This was revealed today as one of the i dental results of an extensive wartime inve gation of natural underwater noises by the U versity of California Division of War Resea

Dr. Martin W. Johnson, associate profe of marine biology, led the search for the sou of a persistent crackling noise which troub sonar operators on submarines and other sh It was found to be caused by populations the tiny pistol shrimp, which made the cla by snapping their oversized claws.

Before other possibilities were eliminated, was discovered that crabs make a somew similar noise by cracking open the small n lusks on which they feed. Even barnacles m an occasional sound by rubbing their be against grains of sand stuck in their shells.

But not clams. They are silent as—well, other clams.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

e opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Ve think that Bart A. Maughan, editor of the in Peaks Bulletin, NSGW, San Francisco, has the nail on the head when he says:

Now is the time for us Natives to step out l make big plans for the coming centennial rs. This will be the greatest opportunity Order will have to do good, and grow during lifetime. The efforts expended by the pres- members for the next three years will bene- the organization for decades to come."

lthough the above words were written by a ive Son, they apply also to the Native Daugh- of the Golden West. Never in the history either Order has the opportunity for growth leadership in the state been so great as it today. The possibilities are tremendous, if will apply ourselves to the work for which Orders were organized. Remember, it will a hundred years before another centennial s around. You and I will not be here to it.

lthough born in Berkeley in 1880, so far we know, Henry P. Garin, who passed away ntly in San Francisco, was never a member the Native Sons of the Golden West. Yet lom has any man been paid the tribute given pioneer vegetable shipper by the Brentwood vs, Contra Costa County.

Ve quote from its editorial of January 24:

All too rare are those cases in which a man rivileged to hear with his own ears the de- ed tributes customarily reserved to be ut- d over his dead body. Henry Garin was a man, and none could have been more de- ing. It must be a comfort now to his many nds that this was so.

In the depths of the depression, vagaries weather and other factors forced his com- y into receivership with a half million dol- indebtedness. Henry Garin himself was ap- ted receiver for the Garin company, an un- edented step which he proceeded to demon- te was fully justified. In the years that fol- ed, he struggled to restore his company to rm basis, and satisfy the creditors. At times eemed hopeless, but he never gave up hope. might have settled for 25 cents on the dollar, he refused to do this.

Finally, in 1942, he reached his goal. Every litor had been paid, dollar for dollar, and went into court to have the receivership ended. eral Judge Michael Roche paid him the tri- e at that time, terming it 'an outstanding feat bankruptcy.'

What he had done was characteristic of Henry in. It was what had made him one of the t highly trusted and respected men in his l. Brentwood also owes him a debt of itude, for his operations here over almost two ades had no small part in the development he district into one of the best known fruit vegetable producing centers on the Pacific e.

Ve think that something should be done to- d the preservation of historic Fort Tejon the Ridgeroute between Bakersfield and Los eles. The walls of the old fort are slowly mbling away and it will soon be too late.

Note to the press of California: There is a growing tendency on the part of head writers to abbreviate the names of our cities, particularly those longer ones. It happens that many of these cities are named after Saints, which only makes a bad situation worse. Of course, we realize that it is hard on a harrassed headwriter, but let's spell the names of our beautiful California cities correctly, especially during these Centennial Years.

COUSINS OF REDWOODS DISCOVERED IN CHINA

Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, scientist of the University of California, Berkeley, has directed attention to the existence of Redwood-like trees on the continent of Asia. The disclosure was made by Dr. Chaney at a Save-the-Redwoods league meeting, and was discussed by him at Richardson Grove, Humboldt county, before delegates to the National Conference on State Parks, on their Pacific Coast pilgrimage.

"A significant example of conservation has recently come to light," said Dr. Chaney, "with the announcement by H. H. Hu of the discovery of three living sequoia-like trees near a temple in central China. Certain marked differences distinguish them from American redwoods, but their close relationship is at once apparent. Of historical interest is the fact that fossil remains of this new tree, Meta-se-quoia, have long been known in North America, Europe and Asia."

Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, Professor of Paleontology in the University of California, and a Director of the Save-the-Redwoods League, has conducted scientific explorations in Asia and other parts of the world. He is the author of the publication, "Redwoods of the Past," issued by the league.

Forests of Coast Redwoods (Sequoia sempervirens) grow only in California and southern Oregon and groves of the Sierra Redwoods (Sequoia gigantea) only in the Sierra Nevada, California.

NEW SIGNS ARE MADE FOR TRINITY FOREST

Fred (Pop) Emerson has the Trinity Forest sign shop in full production. Road, trail, campground and miscellaneous signs are made for the whole forest in the Weaverville shop, Trinity County, during the winter months. The signs are made of redwood.

All forest signs were metal until a few years ago when the service was forced to change to wood, because hunters were using the signs for target practice and completely ruining them. Shooting the wood signs usually causes very little damage.

Pop says "Now if the bears only do a little better than the hunters and stop chewing up and breaking the redwood signs, I wouldn't have to work so hard during the winter."

Emerson is the Weaver Bally lookout during the summer and fall seasons.

You will greatly help your magazine if you will mention the Grizzly Bear in patronizing its advertisers. Many who advertise, especially those who do a mail-order business, judge their results by mention of the periodicals in which they advertise. If you do not do this, the credit to your magazine is lost.

CALIFORNIANA NATIVE DAUGHTERS HAVE MANY FINE PROGRAMS

The January and February luncheon meetings of the Californiana Parlor No. 247, NDGW, Los Angeles, proved to be among the most popular of the year with the programs being presented by two active and one former member of the parlor.

Miss Margaret A. Kerr, chairman of Americanism, and well known for her work against subversive groups, gave a resume of The Institute of World Affairs, which was held in Riverside recently. She prefaced her report by an informative talk concerning the women of Wake Island, in whom the parlor has been interested ever since the mothers and wives of the men who became Japanese prisoners after the fall of the Island of Wake, banded together for mutual interests.

Mrs. Belle Maguire of the Sisson family of Shasta County, told of early days at Shasta Butte. Her pioneer father and mother had a large share in the development of northern California. She told how the sheep were sheared, the wool prepared by her mother's own hands and made into tufted mattresses and comforters; of ice cream made by bringing down the snow from the sides of Mount Shasta and tasted for the first time by children at the big Centennial of 1876. Quarrels among the Indians and pioneers were settled by her Quaker father's quiet firmness, all being but glimpses into that colorful past.

Miss Romilda Moree, who has made a profession of book reviews for the Los Angeles Women's clubs, gave an enjoyable program in February. Her choice included: autobiography, "Out On a Limb," Louise Baker; humorous: "Mr. Blanding Builds His Dream House," Eric Hodgins; theatre scene: "Another Part of the Forest," Lillian Hellman; "Joan of Lorraine," Maxwell Anderson; "Christopher Blake," Moss Hart; "Years Ago," Ruth Gordon, and the "London Theatre Scene." Novels selected included: "Aerodrome" by Rex Warner and "Pavilion of Women," by Pearl Buck.

The teas each month have honored the members whose birthdays occur in that month. Luncheons and teas are served under the capable leadership of Marcella Palethorpe, hospitality chairman. Decorations are by Grace Vejar. The sewing circle holds its next meeting the first Monday in March at the home of Maria Welch, 4120 Degnon boulevard.

Public installation of officers of the Menlo Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West, Friday evening, Feb. 7, were witnessed by 110 guests, the ceremonies taking place at the Central School in Menlo Park. Miss Mary Walker was installed as president by her grandmother, Mrs. Florence Ohler, a member of Mission Parlor, San Francisco, and at the conclusion Mrs. Ohler presented a Jr. Native Daughter pin to her granddaughter. During the escort of Mary, Grand Organist Frances Simas played "Mary Is a Grand Old Name." Two classical piano selections were played by a new Junior member, Priscilla Simms.

Complimentary remarks upon the progress made by this particular unit were made by Grand President Loretta Cameron, Grand Marshal Margaret Farnsworth, Grand Trustee Jewell McSweeney, Grand Outside Sentinel Ruth Trousdale, and Grand Organist Frances Simas. Also attending were Beatrice Nishkain, SDDGP of San Francisco County; Helen Meyer, SDDGP of San Mateo County, and Dollie Kooser of Santa Clara County.

Rhoda Carew was installed as president of Orinda Parlor No. 56, NDGW, at a recent meeting by DGP Kathleen La Grave. Others taking office in the ceremonies were Alma Klahn, 1st vice-Pres.; Peggy Thornhill, 2nd vice-Pres.; Laura Spitzer, 3rd vice-Pres.; Mae Shae, Rec. Secy.; Alice Mhaupt, Fin. Sec.; Madeline King, treasurer; Loretta Winter, past Pres.; Hilda Vinal, Jr. past Pres.; Leona Knapp, marshal; Irma Ualaschek, inside sentinel; Marie Fabris, outside sentinel.

POT-LUCK DINNER PLANNED BY SOUTHERN DISTRICT INTER-PARLOR

A pot luck dinner for Native Sons and Native Daughters is planned by the Inter-Parlor Committee of the Southern District for Thursday evening, April 3.

Guests of honor will be the members of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 NSGW who each month give a meeting hall to the Inter-Parlor Committee. All parlors are invited to participate by arriving at the Plumber's Hall at 6:30 p. m. with a hot dish, a salad, a cake or pie, or some other kind of food, according to Dan Kruckeberg, newly elected president.

INDIAN ARTISTS' WORK TO BE SPECIAL EXHIBIT

Paintings by various Indian artists of the Southwest, mostly Navajo and Pueblo, will be on view at the Southwest Museum, Los Angeles, during April as a special exhibit. With the pictures will be shown many fine examples of the traditional crafts of the same tribes, including pottery, weaving, silver jewelry and a striking display of kachina dolls, of which 235 different kinds have been listed.

The Southwest Museum is situated in Highland Park, Los Angeles, at Museum Drive and Marmion Way, and may be reached by the "W" car. It is open daily from 1 until 5 except Mondays. Admission is free.

Where western breezes blow,
Where golden poppies grow,
Where proud Castile held sway
In days of long ago;
There buds and blooms abound
And carpet all the ground
And Ceres, Vernal Goddess
Reigns the whole year round.
California.

For fruit of tree and vine,
For store of hill and mine,
For olive, date and fig,
For sparkling native wine,
For fields of growing grain,
For sunkissed peak and plain,
For fields Elysian such as fancy never wov
California.

Where fern and fronded palm
Make every breeze a psalm,
Where fruited fir and stately spruce
Brew Nature's balm,
Where skies are ever blue
Where lies an Eden new
And fortune favors all
And dreams of youth come true,
Where surging billows lash
Imbroils thy cliffs and crags
In wild and thundrous crash.
California.

For rugged canyons wild,
For 'dobe Missions tiled,
For towering mountain peak
Where rock on rock is piled,
For famed Sequoias tall
For foaming waterfall
From cleft in high Sierras massive granite
For calm and cloistered hills,
For cool and limpid rills,
O, Golden State so fair
My soul enraptured thrills.

EDITORIAL

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE GRIZZLY BEAR

With next month's issue the Grizzly Bear cele-rates its 40th birthday, the first number being ated May, 1907. During that time many changes ve taken place and many new problems have risen, both in printing and in the handling of e mailing list. This has been especially true uring the past three years, which have been ying times for all publications, regardless of e field in which they serve, and the Grizzly ear has been no exception.

In this period, since the Grand Parlor of the ative Sons of the Golden West at San Jose, ay, 1944, the paid circulation of the magazine as been increased from some 9,000 copies a onth to over 24,000, about 4,000 of which have en added during the past year. We have been rtunate in being able to do this at a time hen many publications had to cut their circula-on and otherwise curtail drastically in order to ve enough paper to publish at all.

During the past three years cost of everything nnected with the American way of life has en tremendously and publication costs have me up accordingly. This has been particularly ying on magazines operating on a fixed sub-ription rate, as the Grizzly Bear does.

Following the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons the Golden West at San Jose in 1944, the rizzly Bear commenced printing in a Union ant, as per agreement with Grand Parlor, with e understanding that every member of the Na-ve Sons was to take the magazine. Taking into nsideration the fact that the new printer fur-shed the paper, whereas for many years the rizzly Bear had purchased its own, often a year's pply at a time, the comparison of costs between e Non-Union and Union plants was about the me.

However, it was shortly after this that the in-ationary period set in. Because of this and the ct that it was necessary in May of 1946 at obergs' for the Grizzly Bear to ask for an in-ease in the blanket subscription rate, we are ving you some comparative figures on the costs printing and mailing the Grizzly Bear. The gures are for these two operations alone. Office nt, salaries and general administrative expense ve not increased materially.

We realize that a publication seldom, if ever, its its publication expenses into print. How-er, the Grizzly Bear has its own particular prob-ms because of its very nature, and we feel that readers, which in reality are its owners, are titled to this information that they may more lly understand why it was necessary to raise e subscription rate.

The figures for printing given below are on e basis of 20,000 copies of a 16-page magazine, quoted by the printer:

January, 1945 issue	$ 693.00
March, 1945 issue	762.00
(this raise of 10% went into effect with the Feb., 1945 issue)
January, 1946 issue	921.50
September, 1946 issue	1016.50
(reason for this raise was given as a 15% rise in the cost of paper)
January, 1947 issue	1168.40

This is an over-all raise in cost for the same mber of pages and copies of $475. It should borne in mind that these were arbitrary raises the printer over which we had no control. ring this period, paper was, and still is, a itical item. It was impossible to get any other inter to touch the printing unless the Grizzly Bear could furnish the necessary paper. This we were unable to do, due to the fact that we stopped buying our own paper in the shift-over immediately after Grand Parlor, San Jose, May, 1944, and thus relinquished our rights to any paper quota from the supply houses.

Finally, after the raise on the January, 1947 issue, we were able to contract with another Union printer for printing the Grizzly Bear with a smooth finish book cover and newsprint body, a style that is being used by several other publications today in an effort to cut costs.

The results are as follows:

January, 1947 issue, under old set-up, 16 pages, 24,000 copies	$1436.00
February, 1947 issue, new set-up, 20 pages, 25,000 copies	1194.00
Saving	$ 242.00

This saving is mostly due to the fact that we are using a newsprint body. It is further emphasized by the fact that in February we received 1000 more copies of the Grizzly Bear than in January, and that the magazine contained four more pages, yet the cost was $242 less, a saving that can be reflected in a bigger and better Grizzly Bear as time goes on.

Mailing of the Grizzly Bear

The Mailing List plates and the actual addressing and mailing of the Grizzly Bear are handled today by the same professional mailer who has done this work on the magazine for more than 30 years. Naturally, he has had his many problems during the war years and the trying times through which we are now passing. Here, too, rising costs have been reflected. However, because of the variation of the number of changes and additions to the mailing list each month, it is impossible to give an accurate picture of the over-all charges for the various operations. For this reason, in order to give an illustration, we have singled out one operation on the monthly invoice known as mailing, which is the largest single item of expense:

May, 1944 issue, mailing per 1000	$3.50
June, 1944 issue, mailing per 1000	4.50
January, 1946 issue, mailing per 1000	6.00

In addition to the above, we have received notime of a 25% over-all increase from the mailer, which will bring the Mailing Charge to $7.50 per 1000, more than twice what it was at Grand Parlor, San Jose, 1944.

Mailing List Problems

Taking proper care of its mailing list is one of the biggest and most expensive jobs that any publication has, in so far as administrative expense is concerned, because of the vast amount of detail work involved in keeping track of its subscribers as they move from place to place. The Grizzly Bear is no exception to the rule, but its circulation has many other complications in its handling that most periodicals do not have.

For this reason, we are giving you a few of the problems and mechanics of handling the Grizzly Bear Mailing list, which now contains over 24,000 names, in order that you may more fully understand the difficulties we have to contend with in a circulation of this size, which is vastly different in set-up from the average parlor mailing list.

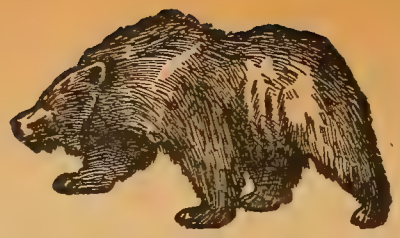
Following each month's mailing, the Mailer furnishes us with a Master Copy of the mailing list as it was for that month. The necessary corrections and changes are made on this Master List, which is returned to him, together with typed sheets of the additions to be made. The Master List is received in the Grizzly Bear office about the 7th of each month and must be returned before the 20th in order that the mailer can do the necessary work before mailing out the next issue. For this reason, address changes and additions received in the Grizzly Bear office by the 15th of the month can usually be made in time for the next issue. Otherwise, they must be held over to the following month. These changes and additions average 800 to 1000 a month.

Were it possible to set up this Master List according to parlors, it would greatly simplify matters for us. However, it must be set up according to Postal Regulations which require the list to be arranged alphabetically and according to town.

For example, Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, Anaheim, has its Anaheim members close to the head of the Master List under the heading "Anaheim." Its Placentia members are listed under "Placentia" near the middle of the list, while Brea, Buena Park, Fullerton, La Habra, Huntington Beach and Santa Ana are in their respective positions. Then, to make it more interesting, Yorba Linda is at the end. Mother Colony has members in all these towns and so do other Parlors of both Orders. Added to this difficulty, is the fact that all names are listed in each town alphabetically, the result being that Native Sons, Native Daughters, individual subscribers and Parlors are interspersed.

To further complicate the situation, if a town is receiving less than five Grizzly Bears, the subscriber's name is in another section. Service Men serving over-seas are in still another division.

Thus, it can readily be seen that it is impossible for us to send a copy of the individual Parlor's Mailing List to it, much as we would like to do so, for it would save us many hours of work each month in checking over lists sent to us for auditing.



Every Recording Secretary knows that one of his biggest jobs is to keep the Parlor Mailing list up-to-date. The Grizzly Bear does not receive the mailing information from the Secretaries of the two Grand Parlors, but is wholly dependent upon the Recording Secretaries of more than 250 Parlors for the names and addresses of those to be added to the mailing list to receive the Grizzly Bear. Likewise, the Grizzly Bear is dependent upon them to provide the names and addresses of all deceased or suspended members in order that their names may be removed from the Master List, so that the Parlor will not be charged for them. The Magazine's Mailing List can only be as accurate as the Parlor Secretaries keep their own Parlor List and in turn, promptly send the desired information to the Grizzly Bear on the proper Mailing Change Forms provided by the magazine.

Readers of the Grizzly Bear can greatly help both their Parlor Secretary and the Magazine by reporting promptly any errors, change of address, receipt of more than one copy, etc. It should be remembered that Parlor Secretaries are rendering a great service to their individual parlors. In most cases, they serve in a difficult job with little or no pay, and generally, the Secretary is a very busy person, having also the business of making a living.

The reader should also remember that his name has a long way to go from him to the Parlor Secretary, to the staff of the Grizzly Bear, to the Mailer, thence to the Post Office and finally back to him in the form of an address label on the Grizzly Bear. His name passes through many hands in the process, and all being human, it is natural that mistakes can occur along the line. Each instance of failure to receive the magazine, is an individual case to be investigated.

Thus our readers may see some of the problems which have confronted the staff of the Grizzly Bear.

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

WHILE showers fell at intervals during April, 1872 in California and benefitted crops in different parts of the state, all parts were not favored. Heavy frosts for several nights in the middle of the month damaged seriously the vineyards of Sonoma and Los Angeles Counties, while sand storms with high wind, passing over Los Angeles and Merced Counties, injured growing crops in those localities. Owing to the excellent crop prospects, wheat dropped to $1.75, barley to $1.55 and potatoes to 45c a cental, while hay was selling for $15 a tone.

Light shocks of earthquake, the aftermath of the big shock in March, continued to be felt during the first part of the month. On the 11th, one in the morning and another in the evening were quite severe and trembled the whole state. A final heavy shock came at 10:55 p.m. the 28th, but no damage was done.

A brilliant aurora borealis April 19 and a ring around the moon on the same night caused the timid to have nervous days and sleepless nights the balance of the month, fearing some disaster would happen.

The Legislature completed its one hundred and twentieth day and adjourned sine-die about midnight April 1. The press had published so much that was uncomplimentary of the session, the people were glad to see its end.

The citizens of San Francisco, now in the midst of an anti-railroad agitation over the granting of Goat Island as a terminus, proposed to meet the delegation of that city on its return at the Ferry with a thousand "devil fiddles" and give them a calithumpian reception; cooler heads stopped it, however.

A Republican state convention to select twelve delegates to the national convention in Philadelphia in June met in Sacramento April 25. Judge Charles E. Filkins of Yuba was made president and M. D. Boruck of San Francisco secretary. President Grant was indorsed for a second term. The following were named as delegates: Eugene L. Sullivan, James Otis, J. H. Withington, San Francisco; C. A. Abbott, Monterey; Judge Bronson, Los Angeles; Thos. Fallon, Santa Clara; A. D. Starr, Solano; C. M. Patterson, Yuba; A. Wadsworth, Siskiyou; F. D. Shattuck, Alameda; H. S. Sargent, San Joaquin; J. W. B. Dickson, El Dorado.

The mining stock market started during the first week of April on a boom that became the biggest California had yet experienced. Prices, rocket-like, went upward, and from daylight until dark, on California street near Montgomery, the San Francisco speculators bought and sold thousands of shares worth millions of dollars and at times the street there was impassible to traffic.

Crown Point, opening at $700, April 11 was $1200 a share. A bid of $1200 a share for 100 or any part of that amount did not exchange a share. There were 12,000 shares in the mine and it was now proposed to increase the stock to 100,000 shares so that there would be enough to satisfy the demand. Belcher, Hales & Northcross, Imperial and other companies followed suit and meetings of stockholders were called for on dates in May to take action. Crown Point sold for $1600 a share during the month. Belcher, starting at $690, went up to $1550 a share. Hale & Northcross, from $350 went to $500; Savage from $285 to $675; Gould & Curry from $240 to $505; Ophir from $47 to $150, and everything on the list that had a name and a location went upward with the speculative tide.

The board could not complete the call of the listed stocks during its sessions, so great was the volume of business, and trading on the street became a necessity. April 15, 58,645 shares were bought and sold on the board. It was estimated that the rise had made Alvinza Hayward worth $25,000,000, Wm. Sharon $20,000,000, John P. Jones $10,000,000, John Gillig $1,000,000, and scores of other citizens of California and Nevada, formerly in modest circumstances, worth fortunes ranging from $100,000 to a million.

One of the effects of the rise that shows the fickleness of fortune was that upon the bankrupt firm of John Sime & Co., bankers. On the death of John Sime about a year previou was found that the bank was insolvent. A ceiver was appointed, and among the a he found a large number of shares in mine the Comstock Lode which, owing to a sl in prices, were unsalable and considered o value. The boom brought these shares on market again at such values that the rec paid off every dollar of indebtedness and ized $60,000 for John Sime's widow.

The Los Angeles County orange crop wa timated to reach 5,000,000 oranges this se and was to be marketed in San Franc (Editor's note: Today, California counts oranges in the number of boxes, not indivi oranges.)

A carload of Sacramento River salmon New York and Chicago, under refrigeration Sacramento every week this month by pa ger train. Three carloads of butter for cago left there April 3 and 200 hives of were shipped to Salt Lake City.

The Hyde steam plow, a California inver was given a successful trial at Brighton, ramento County, April 17.

Jean Pariera, a French vineyardist at Ja town, Tuolumne County, shipped 1,500 ga of wine to New York.

Hunters were killing wild pigeons by hundreds in Napa County and selling then 75c a dozen.

Wilson and Stevens' big slaughtering packing plant near the Presidio, San Franc burned the afternoon of April 1. The sm drifting over the city and bay, enveloped as in a dense fog. The loss was estimate $175,000.

Joe Herling, alias "Mountain Joe," a known character in San Mateo County, 6 asked a merchant in Redwood City n Claus Klerk to credit him with a bill of g On being refused, he killed Klerk and wards endeavored to get his partner, but captured in time to prevent his doing so.

THE ROLE OF CALIFORNIA PIONEER WOMEN

By ROCKWELL D. HUNT, Ramona No. 109, NSGW

HERE we are finally, at "Hangtown!" Having wended our way in a northwesterly direction from Mariposa (land of butter-ies), through scores of old mining camps, ghost wns, and modern cities, we arrive at what may operly be called the northern limit of the other Lode though the proliferous imagina-on of some would picture elongated Mother ode as stretching heroically from the Klondike ld fields, through British Columbia, and on the vast riches of Peru! Better be content say the northern limit is the end of the stout pe securely tied to Hangman's Tree in Placer-lle, with the southern beginning where the autiful butterfly emerged from its chrysalis—ariposa.

Placerville is only eight miles in a straight ne southeast of Coloma, site of Marshall's epoch-aking discovery in January, 1848. This vicinity the very cradle of the California gold country, e birthplace of the gold excitement that finds parallel in human history.

Not long after Marshall's discovery, William aylor found a rich field at a spot on a ridge uth of the South Fork of the American River. ne site being without water during the sum-er, came to be known as "Dry Diggins". The sh was started when two prospectors dug out 7,000 in a single week. It's the same familiar ory—"Dry Diggins" was overcrowded within a rtnight. In the summer of 1848 the daily yield as from three ounces to five pounds to the man: Bancroft observes, the three hundred men of e diggins were "the happiest in the universe".

It was not long until the name gave way to e unofficial title "Hangtown". The origin of e lugubrious name is found in the hanging of ree "bad men", or desperadoes (two French-en and a Chileno), known as "The Owls", who d been found guilty by vigilantes, after a none-o-creditable trial, of robbery and attempted urder. The hangman's tree grew at the side of at became Main street—the exact spot was ng since covered by a business building. The me clung to the place for several years—even now old Californians are not quite willing to forget it.

The town of Placerville was incorporated in May, 1854. In 1857 it superseded Coloma as county seat of El Dorado, one of the original twenty-seven counties of the state. Like most early California towns, Placerville had its misfortunes. In April, 1856, a fire, starting in a theater, destroyed almost the entire town. This was followed at intervals by two or three other destructive fires within a decade; but the brave town, Phoenix-like, always "managed to come back stronger than ever".

Within easy radius of Placerville are the sites of many ghost towns. A few miles west is Shingle Springs, whose hotel, restored as Mary's Inn, was built from lumber brought around the Horn in 1850. Diamond Springs, almost adjacent to the south, is remembered for Edmund Cooper, who lived to celebrate his 118th birthday. El Dorado (meaning "the gilded man"), formerly Mud Springs, was near-by—one time a tumultuous town of several thousand people, now scarcely the ghost of its former self. Georgetown, several miles to the north, is remembered by some as the place where Edwin Markham, later made famous by his poem, "The Man With the Hoe", taught school in the 1880's. Other camps were Logtown, Smith's Flat, Gold Hill, and Weber Creek.

Placerville was a common resort for miners from the round-about camps. There was no lack of activity, with full complement of amusement and excitement. Some of the cabins were undermined for the gold underneath: it required about two weeks to "work up" the floor of a doctor's house, but the job resulted in a generous amount of "pay dirt". The old Cary House, built in the '50's, since remodeled into the Raffles House, may be regarded as one of the most historic landmarks of the town of 5000 to 6000 inhabitants. Here it was that Hank Monk changed horses on his overland stage. Hank will always be remembered for the ride he gave Horace Greeley over the rough mountain roads to deliver him on time for his engagement in Placerville, that night in 1859. With the absolute authority of the ace among knights of the whip, Hank reassured his distinguished but terrified passenger: "Hold your seat, Horace; I'll get you there on time!" Hank was not the kind to fail—not while holding the ribbons of the lively steppers of his overland stage!

Among prominent Californians to whose wealth and fame Placerville made generous contributions, two perhaps deserve special mention—Mark Hopkins, one of the "Big Four" of the Central Pacific Railroad, who obtained his start in business as a grocer, and John Studebaker, of automobile fame, who gave up gold digging as a failure and began to make wheelbarrows for the miners, then became a wagon maker.

In Placerville, as in other mining towns, the pattern of life of most men was almost a guarantee of prosperity to the saloon keeper, and it made many a professional gambler rich. Just how Ruins of Nuestra Senora de la Soledad in the Valley of the Salinas from photo taken in 1945.

The Thirteenth Mission

By NELL MURBARGER

POURING through the Valley of the Salinas, the omnipresent wind whistles mournfully around a few low ridges of crumbling adobe brick. Gray lizards flatten their cold little bellies against the dry, sun-baked earth. A lone fly buzzes in the weed-choked yard.

Only this remains of Mission Nuestra Senora de la Soledad . . .

That Our Lady of Solitude lies in ruins while others of California's Franciscan missions are in good repair, is but anti-climax to a career fraught by disaster and heartbreak.

The lot of the thirteenth mission was not a happy one . . .

When Mission San Antonio had prospered to such extent it could no longer accommodate more neophytes, Father Fermin Francisco de Lasuen, presidente of California missions, applied for authority to found a new mission 25 miles to the north.

Such authority was received from Mexico on August 2, 1790.

Supplies for the new mission, scheduled to arrive on the same ship, failed to do so. Nor did they come on subsequent ships.

After waiting a full year, lacking one week, Father Lasuen issued a circular calling upon other California missions to contribute materials necessary to establishing of the thirteenth mission.

On October 9, 1791, Father Lasuen, two priests and a small group of soldiers marched across the hot, dry hills to the chosen site. It was the spot where Portola and his discouraged band had camped 22 years before while making their first unsuccessful attempt to locate the Bay of Monterey.

The willows that fringed the impoverished stream had been a welcome sight to the hungry, footsore Spanish explorers, worn haggard by the intense summer heat, the constant scarcity of water and the fierce wind that blew always out of the north.

When Father Lasuen consecrated and raised the cross two decades and two years later, little change had been wrought. Sere brown acres still stretched away as far as the eye might reach. Still the sparse fringe of dusty willows and cottonwoods bordered the stream and black-and-white magpies flicked their tails and chattered ceaselessly.

Still the wind blew out of the north . . .

To this inhospitable scene came Father Diego Garcia of the Provincia de Los Angeles, and Father Mariano Rubi of Mallorca, resident priests. After four months, Fr. Garcia was transferred to San Antonio and Fr. Bartolomi Gili sent to Soledad to share missionary privations with Rubi.

Things didn't go well with Our Lady of Solitude, and the end of the first year saw only eleven Indians enrolled at the mission. The presence of Frs. Gili and Rubi had done nothing to advance its prosperity. Even Father Engelhardt, mission historian, called them "men who wore the garb of Franciscans, but who had behaved like hoodlums while at the seminary of San Fernando . . . "

In January, 1793, Rubi went back to Mexico to be followed a year later by Gili. Again Father Garcia took charge.

Due to the scarcity of Indian-convert laborers and the amount of time necessarily given to wresting a livelihood from the unfriendly land, the chapel was not completed until 1797. It was a well-built chapel. Set on a foundation of roughly-hewd stone were adobe walls three feet in thickness, the mud inter-mixed with flint chips upon which the hot Salinas sun glinted and gleamed . . .

On December 31, 1800—nine years after founding of the mission—records at Soledad showed 521 Indian neophytes, 1000 cattle, 3000 sheep and 64 horses. Our Lady's population continued to rise until 1805 when 688 Indians were stationed at the mission.

There were never more than that, for soon far more were being buried than baptized.

As they went about their duties, tirelessly attending the sick and administering last rites to the dying, the padres sometimes secretly wondered if there could be a curse attached to Soledad by reason of it being the thirteenth mission. As though the very thought frightened them, they would hurriedly cross themselves, for they were men of God . . . superstition was but a tool of The Evil One . . .

Scourged by ill fortune, Soledad's population continued to dwindle until by 1810 she numbered fewer converts than any Franciscan mission with the exception of San Carlos.

Never had the Franciscan fathers a more loyal champion than Spanish Governor Jose Joaquin de Arrillaga, whose term in office was known as "The Golden Age of the Missions".

While on an inspection tour of Alta California missions in 1814, Gov. Arrillaga became ill and hastened to Mission Soledad for assistance. There it was that he died on July 24. Two days later, with Father Florencio Ibanez officiating, the governor was laid to rest beneath the center of the chapel. Again the priests crossed themselves and thought of the numeral "thirteen" . . .

Despite pestilence that had shattered its human population, the mission's livestock continued to multiply to the best of nature's ability, while fifteen miles of aqueducts irrigated 20,000 acres of arid mission lands. The year 1820 saw Our Lady of Solitude in possession of 16,000 cattle, horses and sheep.

Following Mexico's revolt against Spain, the burden of feeding and clothing the soldiers California garrisons fell upon the missions. W the commissary prefect of the Franciscans quested that Soledad provide flour and blanl for the destitute soldiers and their families at presidios of San Francisco and Monterey, Fat Antonio Jayme was hard put to meet the requ Although there were sheep a-plenty, no lon were there skilled Indians to weave the cloth

By stinting the mission itself, he managed contribute 5000 pounds of flour and some cl ing. On the following year he further dona 25 blankets woven by his neophytes from mis wool.

At last successful in overthrowing the Cr of Spain, the Mexican government demanded its California subjects swear allegiance to the republic. On May 5, 1822, the padres and Inc wards at Soledad took the oath of independe and on November 19, 1826, the mission held first and last election, at that time choosin delegate to the electoral convention at Monte

Father Vicente Francisco de Sarria, governo all California missions, in 1828 elected to fi out his days at Our Lady of Solitude. A l Spaniard, he refused to take the oath of allegia to Mexico. As result, he was placed under n inal arrest and for the remainder of his life st in seclusion at the mission, a virtual priso always subject to exile. Because he was tru and respected, the exile order never was enfor

The thirteenth mission was at no time fa for its attractiveness. In 1830 the noted trav Alfred Robinson, wrote: "It was near sund when we arrived and dismounted at the doo La Soledad, the gloomiest, bleakest, and abject-looking spot in California. . . . "

On November 4, 1834, Gov. Figueroa signe decree confiscating all mission property.

At Soledad, on the day set for the slaugh rancheros gathered from miles around. Poun hooves churned up choking clouds of yellow d dust that hung over the valley and settled the fields and the buildings until by nigh everything wore a uniform hue of yellowish-g

The best breeding stock and the farm im ments were divided among the rancheros greedily watched the apportioning. Thous of older cattle were slain and their hides stri off to be shipped from Monterey. Tons of was left rotting in the sun.

By evening all that remained was a clum brown adobe buildings, aging Father Sarria the handful of disease-ridden, impoveri Indians whom the padre refused to aban Only they and the little pink Rose of Castile grew by the chapel door. . . . Even it was clo in the yellow dust raised by departing hoove

As months went on, most of the older Inc were laid in the churchyard. The younger drifted away to work for the rancheros where were at least assured of food in plenty. Too n days were hungry ones at Our Lady of Solitude

One May morning in 1838, Father S mounted the altar to hold mass for the Indians still remaining. Raising the chalice, old priest fell to the floor unconscious. A ru was sent to fetch Father Mercado, the priest had struggled on alone at San Antonio. B his arrival Sarria was dead, the chalice clasped in his clawlike hands.

His death was laid to starvation . . .

Fashioning a litter of poles and raw thongs, faithful neophytes carried the on their shoulders over the mountains to Antonio. There he was laid at the right of the altar, near the wall.

When blue lupine and California po had been piled on his grave, the gri Indians returned to Our Lady of Solitude was the only home they knew.

In August of that year, civil commissi appraised the property at Soledad missio $47,297.12.

Since the place, untenanted, was fa rapidly to ruin, Gov. Alvarado in 1841 appo

Sutter Mill Timbers Found

By JOHNNY NOBLE
OAKLAND TRIBUNE

THE towering bronze statue of Jim Marshall, at Coloma, El Dorado County, which for ears has pointed down to the place on the orth fork of the American River where it was elieved he first discovered gold in California, ill have to point his finger to the left, now, o indicate the newly-discovered site of old utter Mill tail race.

It was announced Sunday, Feb. 16, that rcheologists, working under the direction of ie State Park Commission, have found actual mbers from the old mill race where Marshall icked up his first flake of gold and can mark or future generations the precise origin of the 9 Gold Rush.

A diagram drawn in Marshall's own hand led ie historians to the spot. Two weeks of diging and careful search along the bank of the ver brought to light the ancient timbers laid y Marshall.

TARTED 21 YEARS AGO

Actually the search for the exact mill site ad tailrace started 21 years ago. The Park ommission and private individuals have carred on their hunt ever since, and on the day revious to the announcement brought up a igged chunk of wood from the original mill heel. Joseph R. Knowland, chairman of the ark Commission, Past Grand President of the ative Sons of the Golden West, and chairman the Order's Historic Landmark Committee, roclaimed it "the most significant find of all." He told the group of interested Californians athered by the rushing river that finally they ould see where the original piece of gold had en discovered. The mill Marshall built for utter lies under the cobblestones of the shore. s old timbers, preserved by years of water id silting, will soon be excavated.

The important announcement came as Colma planned to celebrate the centennial of the day, January 24, 1848, when James W. Marshall saw that first trace of "color" in the waters of his millrace. Early accounts said it was a 53-cent nugget he found, but recent research has proved it was only a flake of gold that touched off the world-famous rush for riches.

The historians digging here since February 4 have washed out other flakes of gold as they worked down the 200-foot millrace channel, but they admitted that a man "couldn't make wages now."

The precise spot where Marshall fished out the first piece of gold hasn't been marked yet. It would be on private property at the foot of the flume which the State of California now is preparing to acquire as part of its Coloma gold discovery site.

DUG FROM CHANNEL

However, no doubt can remain, Knowland said, but that the exact site of the mill itself and the fabled millrace has been located. Before him was a table covered with ancient nails, spikes, bullet molds, crude tools and even parts of miners' boots. All of the articles were dug from the newly-opened channel.

Also there was a gold pan filled with the same black sand and flakes of golden metal that brought 10,000 persons to this foothill site nearly 100 years ago.

Solidly set in the muddy waters of the millrace ditch were crudely hewn timbers that Marshall used to hold back to earth in 1848. The timbers, cut from the trees that once forested the hills around the community, were uncovered to obtain the confirmation of the site. Now they will be given a new covering of the river silt—to protect them from the elements.

Catalina Island - - -

By ALMA OVERHOLT

CATALINA, 22 miles from Los Angeles Harbor, is a world apart, away from hustle, bustle and care where the romance, carefree gaiety and relaxed tempo of storybook California has been recaptured. Strolling troubadours, garbed in the costume of early California playing soft, lilting music, serenade visitors as they arrive on the steamer, as they promenade the Avenida La Crescenta with its romantic fountain plazas, in hotel lobby and at the Catalina Bird Park. Couriers aboard the steamer to Catalina, too, wear an adaptation of Early California dress—flat-crowned hat with chin-strap, khaki-colored gabardine suit, featuring a bolero jacket and red sash. Their counterpart is worn by the drivers of motor coaches, too designed in Early California motif.

Visitors arriving in Catalina are often surprised at its size; actually nearly four times as large as Bermuda, it comprises 75 square miles or approximately 48,000 acres. Bermuda is only 19 square miles in area and comprises 9,000 acres. Especially alluring at this time of year are Catalina's extensive uplands and back country, its rolling hills, fern-banked canyons and valleys that lead to the sea and beaches fronting lovely bays and coves of crystal clear waters.

There are so many things to see and do at Catalina that whether one's stay is for a day, a week, a month or longer, there is something to fit every need.

World famous are Catalina's submarine gardens viewed through the "sea windows" of glass-bottom power boats. Through these you peer down at fishes of blue, red and gold that dart in and out among shell-encrusted rocks, gently waving sea fern and iodine kelp, or come to peer curiously up at you through the glass. Here and there you see quills of a sea urchin protrude from among the rocks; sea cucumbers that are said to be the lowest form of animal life; live abalone clinging to moss-covered rocks, pyramid shells, keyhole limpets. Like the canyons on land, these undersea gardens support a luxuriant growth of mosses and ferns. The guide on board points out the long boa feather moss, bridal veil moss, chenille moss, ruby moss, sea heather and its lovely violet bloom, chiffon fern, fishbone fern, sea grass, rainbow kelp, red and lavender algea.

It is a strange new land of rare enchantment and allurement. A new world that is intriguing and mysterious. Strange and wonderful shapes move by in clear depths, some breath-takingly beautiful, others strangely weird. Of the fish to be seen in the gardens the Garibaldi or salt water goldfish is the most colorful, while the electric perch reflects the colors of the rainbow as it darts through the water. You see blue, green, silver and grey perch, rock bass, sheepshead with their band of crimson; ghostfish, candle fish, convict fish, jellyfish, sea hare and moray eel.

The submarine gardens grow close to Catalina's shores. The water is so crystal clear that you can see to a depth of 60 feet and more.

The Catalina Bird Park is the home of the largest outdoor collection of rare birds in the world open to the public. Comprising more than ten acres, the park is open to visitors every day of the year from sunrise to sunset. Admission is free.

Sheltered among protective shrubbery and brilliantly colored flowers that rivals their own gorgeous plumage, thousands of rare birds representing several hundred varieties collected from all parts of the globe, can be observed building their nests, rearing their young or preening their fine feathers in the sun. Birds the size of an ostrich and birds so small as to fit into a thimble; birds that dance and birds that talk; proud beauties that strut their fine plumage.

Many of the birds are at liberty in the large aviary in the center of the park, known as the "world's largest bird cage" which is 90 feet hig and 116 feet in diameter. Within is a circul swimming pool crossed by rustic bridges. Tre and shrubs growing in the cage serve as natur perches for the snow-white egrets from Panam bleeding-heart doves, gold and silver pheasant African crowned cranes, the graceful demoisell the Abyssinian pea fowl, and brilliantly plume lories and cockatoos. Enjoying the pool are grac ful black and white swans, Mandarin ducks th for all the world look like Oriental prints; in pertinent little Whistling Tree ducks; Sacred Ibi Companion cranes, an endless variety of birds a living together as one happy family. Domicile in garden "apartments" are several varieties hornbills, weird looking with enormous bills an horn sheaths atop their heads. Nearby are qua tered a pair of King Vultures from South An erica, their heads and throats encircled with vivi bands of orange, red and blue, known as th most dangerous birds that fly. Cobra-heade dancing cranes, the toucan from Brazil with bill larger than its body. GABILAN PARLOR INITIATES CLASS OF CANDIDATES

Gabilan Parlor No. 132, NSGW, of Castroville initiated a class of 12 candidates on Saturday evening, February 14.

The ritual team of South San Francisco Parlor, No. 157, of San Francisco exemplified the initiatory work. John T. Regan, Grand Secretary, acted as President, assisted by Robert Halsing, Jack Reid, Charles Scheflin, Daniel Collins, William Bacher, William and Art Hawley.

Preceding the meeting an excellent dinner was served, with Judge C. R. Phillips as Chairman and some 39 members in attendance.

Grand Trustee, Edward J. Wren, Visiting Grand Officer, accompanied by members of Castro Parlor, No. 232, Pacific Parlor, No. 10 and National Parlor, No. 118, was a visitor at the meeting and all made interesting talks on the activities of the Order.

Grand President, NSGW

The results of the Membership Contest, ending December 31, 1946, are now fully compiled and reported elsewhere in this issue. Absolutely startling were the figures produced. For the year 1946, there were 4074 admitted into the Order and a loss of 1732. The net gain was 2342, or more than the two previous years combined. January of 1947 shows a net gain of 248 and February of 147, this is two and a half times that for the same period of last year. We really are progressing, and in a big way. There is no reason to stop now and scheduled events give promise that 1947 may be the banner year of all time.

I hope the Parlors and Brothers have taken to heart my recent message about the financial condition of the Homeless Children fund. Unless a great number of substantial contributions are received immediately, this great activity may be closed even before Grand Parlor. Remember, every little bit helps; send an extra dollar if you can.

The California History Board, in its annual report, recommended a Parlor activity of an Essay Contest, dealing with local historical places or events and to be concluded before December 31 of each year, so that no interference may be had with the Public Speaking Contest. One Parlor has, for many years, conducted such a contest, putting up a silver cup on which the winner's name is engraved. The entries are confined to the graduates of the eighth grade. The winning essays are placed in the County Library for future reference. This is strictly a Parlor contest; not Grand Parlor. Each Parlor writes its own rules and gives its awards. Sounds good.

The fifteen Supervising Deputies, who work so hard for no pay, no expense account and generally, no thanks, are being honored by a special Membership Contest conducted in their names. The month of April will be known as Supervising Deputy's Month, though candidates initiated in March will also be counted. Rules are simple. The winner will be determined by the net percentage gain in membership of all Parlors in his District. Starting figure will be aggregate membership of all Parlors in his District, February 28, 1947. Closing figure will be aggregate membership of all Parlors in his District April 30, 1947. Therefore, all gains and losses, excluding transfers, will be counted from March 1 through April 30. All forms must be in the Grand Secretary's office by May 10. New Parlors will count in the contest, for all Supervising Deputy Districts are already divided into full counties.

Here is the Parlors' opportunity to demonstrate, in a concrete fashion, their appreciation for the Athletic Program Contributes Much to Native Son Interest

It is gratifying to be able to report that the thletic program in our Order has been very uccessful throughout the state, with varied vents to appeal to the younger members, and to ose who are not quite so young. Interest seems be very keen in all manner of sports, including aseball, softball, bowling, basketball, golf, etc.

In SAN FRANCISCO, Chairman Dan Collins nd Manager Peter Butti have been instrumental creating much interest in baseball and soft all. Bowling, under the direction of Ernest erry, John Del Vecchi and Tom Doyle resulted a highly successful season. W. Rehberg, Castro arlor No. 232 was winner of the All-State Singles hampionship. Joe Anzini, Chairman of the asketball League in San Francisco, made splen- id progress and deserves much credit for his fforts in introducing this sport into our athletic rogram again. Members functioning as team anagers were: Bob Sinclair, A. L. DeMattei, Walt Murray, and Bob Cresci. Joe Gianninni's win Peaks Parlor Team won the championship the NSGW league and also played the All ity League, placing second in that group. On larch 14 Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214 played onoma Parlor No. 111 at the Sonoma High chool.

Of special interest will be the forthcoming Golf ournament to be held on May 11th at the Pasa iempa Golf Course in SANTA CRUZ, and which ill be a noteworthy event. Chairman John Baxley as arranged a very fine program, and is being ssisted by Harry Rabino.

DDGP Paul Jukich of MARIN COUNTY ports that Sea Point Parlor (No. 158) Baseball eam, with Bob Young as Manager, enjoyed a uccessful season the past year, and which re- ulted in much favorable publicity for them in eir local newspapers. Their star pitcher Fred e Martini seems destined for the big leagues.

From Grand Trustee Louis Pellandini, we arn that in his district, SONOMA, there is onsiderable competitive activity, and that they e now going in for Basketball in a big way, ith SDDGP Phil Malloy cooperating to the llest possible extent.

Chairman Charles Martin of SACRAMENTO strict reports that the bowling and ball teams ve given a good account of themselves during e recent months. Mgr. and Capt. Pete Moli- ri's All-State champions had a successful year the STOCKTON vicinity. Pete deserves to be ngratulated on the fine showing made by his am and the resultant All-State championship our order.

The SONORA district chairman, Leslie Ter- h's Bowling Team likewise made good headway, d Irving Terzich of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 n second place in the All-State Singles cham- onship.

In LOS BANOS district, through the efforts of lla Spina, softball and basketball teams were ganized, and they expect to to big things this ming season.

From SAN PEDRO comes word that the ephen M. White Parlor team were outstanding their competitive bowling games, and have as eir manager, George Gligo.

The LOS ANGELES district, with Lucien iffin as chairman, is very active in their sports deavors and gives promise to a successful 47 season.

In the SAN JOSE district, chairman George ese reports that the parlors have enjoyed a e season of bowling, softball, etc. and are now recting their activities towards golf. Alfred rryessa of San Jose Parlor No. 22 is the leading wler in his parlor, and came close to winning the All-State championship of the NSGW recently. The Loughran brothers of Santa Clara Parlor No. 100 are now the All-State Doubles champions and SANTA CLARA COUNTY may justly be proud of their bowling championship material.

The parlors of ALAMEDA COUNTY too have become very athletic minded, reports Chairman Francis Hall of that district. Berkeley Parlor No. 210 won second place in the All-State Softball championship contest. Eden Parlor No. 113 in Hayward, have an excellent basketball team with much credit going to Pinky Leonard. This team was likewise accorded much favorable newspaper publicity.

And now that our Order has enjoyed its most active athletic program since pre-war days, it is hoped that it will steadfastly increase in popularity and become enlarged in scope to include sports of every kind. It is a known fact that hundreds of young men have joined our Order because of our athletic activity, and it might be well to keep that in mind, when approaching a prospective candidate.

At the meeting of the Grand Officers February 1, the Grand Secretary was instructed to write the Richfield Oil Co., who annually give away free packets of wild flower seeds, to concentrate on California Poppies during the years of the Centennials, and to the Southern Pacific Company, who for a number of years sowed these poppies on their right-of-ways throughout the state, asking them to resume the practice. The railroad has replied to the effect that they had to give up the custom as the poppies encroached on the ballast and track area and were difficult to control. Wouldn't it be fine, though, if all Californians concentrated on growing the State Flower, especially on vacant lots and areas during 1948-49 and '50? It isn't necessary to dig or plant; just scatter and the seeds will do the rest.

This is the month for the election of delegates to the Grand Parlor, which will be held this year at Avalon, Catalina Island, May 21-24. In making their selection, it should be ascertained that the Brothers are willing and able to make the trip. Only the authorized number of delegates may be elected, but any number of alternates may be selected. This should be the largest and finest convention in history, and every Parlor should be represented.

Time grows short until the end of this term. Much has been done, but much remains to be done. Let's do all of it that we can.

BUSY SEASON IS IN STORE FOR MEMBERS OF FRUITVALE PARLOR

These balmy spring evenings Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, NSGW, Oakland, is visiting friends around the Bay District. Several weeks ago a goodly number of Fruitvale Native Sons made a fraternal visit to Napa Parlor. In return, that parlor recently visited Fruitvale, a good time being had by all.

On February 24, some 35 Fruitvalians visited with Presidio Parlor No. 194 in San Francisco, and after initiating a number of candidates, enjoyed the fine hospitality extended to them by Presidio.

Tuesday evening, Mar. 4, 20 members of Fruitvale Parlor journeyed to Byron, Contra Costa County, accompanying Grand Third Vice President Peter T. Conmy on his official visit to Byron Parlor No. 170. Fruitvale officers, under guidance of Grand Organist Miller C. Markey of Fruitvale, initiated a class of candidates for that parlor.

Fruitvale Parlor is setting several more dates so as to utilize the present season of good weather in spreading the good neighbor fraternal brotherhood policy among the Bay District parlors.

PROMINENT HOLLYWOOD MEMBER PASSES TO GRAND PARLOR ON HIGH

Arthur A. Schmidt, a member of Hollywood Parlor No. 196, NSGW, passed away at his home in Los Angeles, March 3. He was born in Los Angeles at the family home on South Spring Street, near Second. The residence later became the site of Hollenbeck Hotel. Brother Schmidt was preceded in death by an only son, who gave his life in his country's service on the battlefields of Belgium in World War Two. He leaves his widow, Marjorie Mosher Schmidt and a daughter, Mrs. Valerie S. Scudder; also a brother, Walter A. Schmidt, all of Los Angeles.

SELMA PARLOR NO. 107 IS ON THE MARCH

Selma Parlor No. 107, Fresno County, initiated a record class of 14 candidates Wednesday evening, Feb. 19, into the local parlor and three candidates for Fresno Parlor, the ceremonies being arranged by Grand Trustee John Castellucci of Los Banos and SDGP John Gilstrap of Fresno.

Although a small parlor, Selma is determined to set the pace for all other parlors of the valley with the slogan, "Watch Selma Go!!" The initiatory work was exemplified by a team from San Francisco composed of Ed Reigger, National Parlor No. 118; Harry Rommick, Castro Parlor No. 232; Charles Scheflin, South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 and Grand Trustee Ed Wren, assisted by Grand Trustee John Castellucci and SDGP John Gilstrap.

ARROWHEAD PAST PRES. ASSEMBLY HOLDS MEETING AT ORANGE SHOW

Members of Arrowhead Assembly No. 14, Past Presidents' Assn., held a dinner meeting with a ladies day program Sunday noon, March 16, at San Bernardino, with entertainment furnished by the National Orange Show.

Following the meeting the group adjourned to the National Orange Show. Lee K. Owens is Governor and R. W. Brazelton, Arrowhead No. 110, Rec. Secty.

HAS NEW MEETING DATE

East Bay Counties Assembly No. 3, Past Presidents' Assn., NSGW, now meets on the first Tuesday of each month at the Native Sons Hall, 11th and Clay Streets, Oakland, with James Jenkins as Governor, according to W. P. Gordon, Recording Secretary.

Easter Message

The approaching Easter Season once again brings to us the beautiful story of the first Resurrection, with its promise of life everlasting.

Each year we see the Miracle of God being wrought as He brings into being the green of our hillsides and the blossoms on our trees, and that first glorious cry "He is Risen!" re-echoes in our hearts.

As we wend our way to our place of worship on Easter Sunday, let us do so in humility, for the blessings that are ours, are untold. Let us, once again, renew our faith and ask for a better understanding of mankind.

May this Easter Season bring to you and yours renewed faith in the joy of living.

LORETTA M. CAMERON,
Grand President.

GRAND PRES. LORETTA CAMERON HONORED BY GUADALUPE PARLOR

Guadalupe Parlor No. 153, NDGW, received Grand President Loretta Cameron, Feb. 10 in Forester's Hall, 170 Valencia Street, San Francisco.

The hall was decorated with red hearts and red candle holders with white candles. The officers attired in red formals carried white paper muffs trimmed with red hearts. The escort team in white formals, carried paper covered wands with streamers of red hearts. The Grand President was escorted to the altar, standing in the frame of a valentine under the words, "Our Valentine," while Sister Segalas sang "To You Sweetheart, Loretta."

Seven candidates were initiated in the candlelight ceremony that followed. Grand President Cameron complimented the parlor for a perfect meeting. She was presented with a check for the adoption of a Homeless Baby to be called Helen Lillian, after the president and past president of Guadalupe Parlor; also checks for the Veterans' and Restoration of the Missions.

Among those present were: Grand Trustees, Dorothy Donofrio, Jewel McSweeney; Grand Outside Sentinel Ruth Trousdale, Grand Organist Frances Simas and Past Grand Presidents, Evelyn Carlson and May Noonan.

MENLO PARK JUNIOR NATIVE DAUGHTER WINS IN CONTEST

Barbara Wells, member of Menlo Junior Native Daughters Unit No. 10, was recently awarded first prize of a beautiful radio and records by the Packard Bell Radio Co., for her winning essay on "Thomas Edison." Her essay was read at a Lions club dinner at which she was the honored guest. About 30 bays and girls from the higher grammar grades had entered the essay competition, Barbara winning on originality, material and delivery of her composition.

The Menlo Juniors held a valentine luncheon in February with 19 members present. Also attending were Mrs. Loverich, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Derry, Mrs. Ohler and Miss Cowman, members of the Menlo Park Native Daughters and Past Grand President Evelyn I. Carlson. The group made a donation to the local chapter of the American Red Crose.

MARINITA PARLOR DAUGHTERS HAVE MANY ACTIVITIES PLANNED

A full program is in store for members of Marinita Parlor No. 198, NDGW, San Rafael, during the coming weeks, according to President Angele Griffith. Lena Tyrrell, chairman, announced that her Homeless Children Booth for the Spanish Market during the San Rafael Fiesta Days Celebration is progressing, with dolls and animals being made.

Lena Tyrrell and Eleanor Fritz are in charge of the flower placement at the Memorial Monument in front of the Court House, seeing that fresh flowers are placed there daily. The drill team, consisting of 16 girls of Marinita Parlor, is reported in trim for the many coming events. Plans have also been made for the Mothers' and Fathers' Day celebration sponsored by both Native Daughters and Native Sons each year, which has created a closer relationship of the families of both Orders.

Since the passing of Veteran Buddy Hugh McKim, another Buddy, Eugene Lair, has been adopted by the parlor. He is remembered by the girls on his birthday and other special days. Callie Shaffer, who is in charge, takes a delegation to the Veterans' Home and entertains him for the day.

One of the outstanding events of the season will be the picnic given by all Native Daughter parlors of Marin County to delegates of the Grand Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, which will be held in June at San Francisco. The deputies of Marin County will act as chairmen of their parlors, with tentative plans being made to handle this affair in Muir Woods.

SANTA CLARA COUNTY DISTRICT MEETING HONORS GRAND PRESIDENT

With more than 200 members and friends in attendance a District Meeting of Santa Clara County Native Daughters was held Feb. 15 at Lews' Village, San Jose, honoring Grand President Loretta Cameron. Address of the day was given by District Attorney Leonard Avilla of Palo Alto Parlor, NSGW, who told of interesting features of early California history, emphasizing the political moves by such leaders as Fremont and Burnett, which made it possible for California to become a state without preliminary territorial government and to come into the sisterhood of states as a free state.

Grand President Loretta Cameron spoke graciously of her pleasure in being a guest at the lovely event, thanking Supervising Deputy Mrs. Dollie Kooser and the deputy grand presidents for their efforts in making the affair such a gala success.

Mrs. Dollie Kooser, supervising deputy grand president of Santa Clara County introduced the Grand President and other distinguished members and guests at the dinner meeting, including City Councilman Roy Caldwell, who gave the address of welcome for the city of San Jose.

Invocation was given by Past Grand President Mamie P. Carmichael. Mrs. June Holliday favored with several vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Sue Gilman.

Among those in attendance were Grand Marshal, Native Daughters, Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth, San Jose; Grand Trustees, Miss Jewel McSweeney, San Francisco and Miss Dorothy Donofrio, Daly City; Grand Outside Sentinel, Miss Ruth Trousdale, San Francisco; Past Grand Presidents, Mrs. Evelyn Carlson, San Mateo; Mrs. Bertha A. Briggs, Hollister; Mrs. Mamie P. Carmichael, San Jose. Representing the Native Sons of the Golden West were John Corotto, Grand Treasurer, San Jose, and Emmett P. Joy, Grand Historian, San Francisco. Supervising Deputy Grand Presidents, Mrs. Beatrice Nishkian, San Francisco County and Mrs. Helen Meyers, San Mateo County, were also present.

Fourteen organizations other than Native Sons and Daughters were represented by their presiding officers or by proxy.

Assisting Mrs. Kooser in arrangements were Deputies, Miss Elsie Fisher, Mrs. Lillian Avilla, Mary Amaral, Jewel Wyman; Presidents, Mrs. Jewel Wyman, San Jose Parlor; Mrs. Thelma Barkley, Vendome Parlor; Miss Zelma Davis, Palo Alto Parlor and Miss Alpha Alfred, El Monte Parlor.

Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW, Placentia and Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 will be hostess for the official visit of Grand President Loretta Cameron, Friday evening, April 11, with the meeting to be held at the Anaheim Elks Club, preceded by a dinner. At a regular meeting of Grace Parlor March 6, held in its hall at Fullerton, it was voted to make a donation to the Red Cross, to send a sum to the State Chairman of Veterans' Walfare. The parlor also planned to give a gift to the new Pasadena Native Daughter Parlor instituted recently.

With her daughter, Edna Williams in charge, Mrs. Anna Williams, a charter member of Sequoia Parlor No. 272, NDGW, Berkeley, was recently presented with a 25-year pin. Mrs. Williams has been an active member of the parlor and has missed few meetings. On Feb. 27, Eva M. Pencovik and Mary Silvester Vierra were initiated into the Order with Past President Marion McGuire giving the obligation. Plans were made for an interesting bazaar to be given this spring, the sewing club meeting regularly in members' homes, preparing pieces of handwork and arranging final details. Edna Williams is in charge.

SCHEDULE FIRST ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT AT SANTA CRUZ

On Sunday, May 11, the Grand Parlor Athletic Committee, Native Sons of the Golden West, will sponsor a golf tournament at Pasatiempo Golf and Country Club near Santa Cruz. This first annual golf tournament of the Athletic Committee will be eighteen holes of medal play, with an individual low gross award and an individual low net award.

Teams of four men each may also be entered. Each parlor may enter as many teams as it desires to be called "Team A," "Team B," etc. Team prizes will be awarded only if a sufficient number of teams are entered, in which case there will be awards for both low net and low gross scores.

Each entrant must state his three most recent scores so that the committee can set his handicap. If any entrant has not played three times, he must send in the scores he has made. The committee will assume all statements to be correct, but reserves the right to re-handicap or disqualify any score if it is too low. No one will receive a handicap greater than 30.

Contestants will start teeing off at 10:00 a. m. Send your home address with each entry so that committee can notify you of your starting time.

As a special feature a hole-in-one tournament will be held on the eighteenth green shooting 115 yards across a canyon. The contestant making a hole-in-one or coming closest to the pin will be declared the winner.

Following the golf tournament a banquet will be held at the world famous Casa Del Rey resort hotel on the beach at Santa Cruz. The banquet will start at 6:00 p. m., and all prizes will be awarded here.

Pasatiempo Golf Club is one of the finest and most beautiful courses in the United States and is located in the foothills of the Santa Cruz mountains overlooking the broad Pacific in the distance. The weather at this time of the year is the famous type for which California is well known.

The cost to each entrant will be $6.50, which covers green fees, banquet and entry fee. All entries close May 1, and each entry must be accompanied by $6.50 to cover the fees.

Arrangements have been made with Casa Del Rey Hotel to take care of anyone who wishes to stay in Santa Cruz on Saturday night. Rates are $4 for single, $6 for a double bed, and $6.50 for twin beds. Any one wishing to stay in Santa Cruz can do so by requesting reservations when sending their entry. All requests for reservations must be accompanied by funds to cover the type of reservation wanted.

Lewis Giegerich of Pacific Parlor, is State Chairman of the Athletic Committee, while John Baxley of Stanford Parlor, is chairman of the golf tournament, assisted by Harry Rubino, also of Stanford Parlor.

Entrants will send their entries to John Baxley, Chairman of Golf Tournament, care of Grand Secretary, NSGW, 414 Mason Street, San Francisco 2.

Golden Trails Celebratic

LONG BEACH, SEPTEMBER 6-7-8-9, 1947

Parade theme for the Admission Day Celebration for 1947, to be held in Long Beach, September 6, 7, 8, 9, will be "Golden Trails of California," and will be referred to in the press as the "Golden Trails Celebration," it has been announced by the celebration committee. The decision was reached only after weeks of study and discussion by committee members on a theme best to describe the big Admission Day fete and to catch the imagination of the public and press alike. It is felt that the chosen theme will cover all phases of the celebration and will be in keeping with the Centennial years that lie ahead.

All committees are hard at work and indications are that the celebration will be one of the largest and finest ever staged by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Even at this early date, with plans yet in the formative stage for the various events, several parlors have already indicated that they are sending marching units, drum and bugle corps and floats for the big parade. Reservations are even now pouring into the housing committee. In this regard, it is cautioned that at least one day's rent must accompany each registration. Full details, together with reservation blanks are being mailed to each parlor secretary.

Letters on the various events scheduled will be received by the parlors shortly and further information on them will be released for the benefit of individual members as available, through the columns of the Grizzly Bear. However, it is suggested that those interested in attending the celebration, keep in touch with their parlor secretaries, who will receive full information on the mechanics of the handling of the various events.

General offices for the celebration committee are located at 206 East Fourth street, 110 Adair Building, Long Beach 2. Further information can be secured there or by writing to the various committee chairmen. For convenience, the names and addresses of the executive committee and the several committee chairmen are listed in this issue of the Grizzly Bear. Keep this issue for future reference.

Present at the simple ceremonies Februar was State Sen. H. E. Dillinger, of El D County, who has a bill in the Legislatur funds to recreate the old mill.

Also there were Dr. Vernon A. Neasham gional historian of the National Park Ser Dr. Robert H. Heizer, assistant professo anthropology at the University of Calif and R. S. Coon, superintendent of the S Mill State Park. They and four archeol from the university, uncovered the old mill and the foundation timbers of the mill.

Interested observers at the ceremony Anson S. Blake, of Berkeley, president o California Historical Society; A. E. Hen chief of the Division of State Parks and Bea John Covington, division secretary, Dr. G P. Hammond, head of the Bancroft Libra the University of California, which prod the research material proving the discovery, Past Grand President, Native Sons of the G West. Henry Lyon of Placerville.

MONTEREY INCIDENT

Knowland said the group of men respon for the work here were the ones who last proved the inaccurate location of the ori flagstaff at Monterey.

More than a truckload of relics dug u the researches here will be moved to where can't be ruined by high water. Knowland formed the audience that the State hope have a museum at Coloma where the histo articles may be shown. He promised that relics will not be taken elsewhere and expre the hope that they can be shown properly by anniversary date next year.

The work of locating the true mill site was started in 1924 by the California Pio Society, which sank a test hole and hit the mill timbers.

A river rock monument was erected at water's edge to mark the site and head of mill tail race.

ch of the new gold "crossed at least one bar fore it got out of town" statistics will never eal.

Some of the "gambling hells" had "lady waitses", referred to by Col. William Thompson as or, faded, bleary-eyed creatures, in gaudy ery, and upon whose features was stamped everlasting brand of God's outlawry". They re often referred to by the miners as "fancy men". As is well known, in the very early s women of virtue in the mining camps were y few—during the gold rush perhaps two per- t of the total in mining camps; but always re some shining examples, whose virtue was stal-clear, who were steadfast helpmates to ir hard-working husbands and a godsend to the mmunity.

n his history of Sacramento County, William illis pays a well-deserved tribute to the pioneer men in these words:

Right here it is only just to give their full due the women—the pioneer mothers of whom we r so little—the women who forsook home and dred to follow their husbands through all trials l dangers to the unknown lands, and to assist h their labors and counsel, and with the rear- of children of the rising generation, in the ping and molding of a great empire whose ne was destined to reach the uttermost parts the earth. Like the pioneer women of the at West and the Mississippi Valley, they have received their meed of praise and recognition the important part they played in empire- lding. While the men labored, the women had make the home as comfortable as conditions wed, rear and care for and clothe the children, l endure all sorts of privations. Theirs the t of patience and courage to meet and over- ne, to cheer and encourage under adverse cir- nstances, and well the pioneer women did their t. . . ."

n his eloquent address at the Columbian In- national Exposition (Chicago, September 9, 3), Senator Stephen M. White said: "While pioneer was breaking the wilderness and suf- ing privations, what was the pioneer woman ng? The only church we knew was around mothers' knees". When the miners heard a d woman was coming into camp, they congre- ed to get first sight of her. However rough ir manner, however uncouth their speech, they re respectful, even to the point of reverence, in presence of a good woman.

English newspapers ridiculed the gold stampede California, but they were powerless to stop it. re are lines from one of their parodies:

Gold is got in pan and pot,
Soup tureen and ladle,
Basket, bird-cage, and what-not,
Even in a cradle!

Every one who digs and delves,
All whose arms are brawny,
Buy a pick and help themselves
Off to Californy.

'Oh, them wuz the days, I kin tell yu!" But w they're gone—forever.

The honored pioneers of the California days ve long since passed over the Great Divide. But their day their lives yielded a priceless influ- ce, a hallowed tradition that will live on and , despite all the ravages of time and every issitude of changing circumstance. If in our e our heritage seems in danger of being lost weakened because of the vast inpouring of ple into California, ignorant of our romantic tory and the sermons it preaches, we are called on to acquaint ourselves more fully with the ry of our own past, appropriate to ourselves the st in our history, cultivate more intimacy with bounties with which a generous Nature has endowed us, and develop our own true individuality and civic responsibility.

Could we but attune our memories to echoes from the long-gone past, and revivify our spirits by communion with the spirits of the departed pioneers, we might feel more deeply the truth imparted by the men of '49, as with tremendous voice they say, in immortal words by the "Poet of the Sierras":

We have worked our claims,
We have spent our gold,
Our barks are astrand on the bars;
We are battered and old,
Yet at night we behold
Outcroppings of gold in the stars.

We are wreck and stray,
We are cast away,
Poor, battered old hulks and spars;
But we hope and pray,
On the judgment day
We shall strike it up in the stars.

Tho' battered and old,
Our hearts are bold;
Yet oft do we repine
For the days of old,
For the days of gold,
For the days of 'forty-nine.

his wife's cousin, Feliciano Soberanes, to act as administrator.

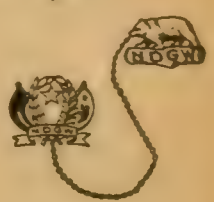
On the year following, General Micheltorena and his barnstorming army of convicts halted at Soledad where they took possession of 50 cattle, four yoke of oxen and some sheep—the property of Soberanes. In 1845, after Micheltorena and his gang had been driven from Alta California, Soberanes demanded from the impoverished Mexican government $800 for the livestock supplied by him to the Mexican general. Tongue in cheek, the Spanish ranchero suggested coyly to the new governor, Pio Pico, that he would take Mission Soledad and call it even . . .

Pio Pico agreed.

Thus, in June, 1846, for 50 head of cattle, four yoke of oxen and a small flock of sheep, Feliciano Soberanes acquired the old mission buildings and 8899.82 acres of fertile Salinas Valley land . . .

One wing of the mission was remodeled and opened as a store. Tiles from the roof of another wing were appropriated by Gov. Alvarado, who was building a summer home and needed roofing. Unprotected, the walls began to melt away in the winter rains. Even as late as 1850, a few Indian stragglers still remained at the mission.

In 1862, when most of the walls were crumbled to brown ridges, the rich mission lands acquired so cheaply by Soberanes, were taken from one of the old Spaniard's heirs by a crafty gringo banker in exchange for an unredeemed mortgage.



Came 1897. Heaps of rubble marked where the roof had fallen in; but still the wide acres were productive. Charles Romie, who had acquired the mission lands from the bank, sold 600 acres of them to the Salvation Army. The plan was to form a colony—Fort Romie—to be peopled by indigents from the slums of San Francisco. Settled on ten-acre tracts, they were to work the land until they had paid for it at $100 per acre. Two-room shacks were built on each ten-acre tract by the Salvation Army, which likewise furnished seed, sheds and tools.

It soon became apparent that San Francisco's poor and needy were not farmers. They killed and ate the cows and pigs that the "Army" had presented them for breeding purposes. They let the seed rot for lack of planting. Some few were successful. Gradually they took over the land abandoned by the drones who had gone back to the bright lights and the gutters.

Deterioration of the old mission buildings went on apace. By 1904 there was only one circular arch remaining. The comparative prosperity of the surviving colonists at Fort Romie served only to accentuate the desolation of the old adobe, beaten upon alternately by fierce sun and driving rain.

"Over the entrance", wrote George Wharton James, thirty years ago, "is a niche in which a statue of Our Lady of Solitude used to stand. Methinks that if the ghosts of things that were exist, surely a weeping ghost of the Lady of Solitude haunts these deserted and forlorn ruins . . ."

Today, magpies still chatter and flick their black-and-white tails. Gray lizards sun themselves and warm their cold little bellies. Yellow dust lies thick on the floor. The wind that blows always out of the north, howls mournfully through the crumbling walls of the Thirteenth Mission where a gentle padre starved to death with a chalice in his hand.

A LETTER FROM AN OLD TIMER

By WILLIAM S. COYLE

Editor's Note: The following letter is taken from The Trinity Journal, Weaverville, Trinity County, and was sent in by Elizabeth Kapusta, president of Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190, NDGW, Oroville, Butte County. Mrs. Kapusta is a great-niece of the writer, who is at present living with her.

My father and mother were born in Ireland 12 miles apart. My father at Roscommon and my mother at Athlone. I am unable to give their birth dates. There were less than five years between them. They were acquainted back there but did not keep company, being mere children. My father came out to New York when he was 14 years old. He was on his own, as the saying goes and took whatever he could get. He made his way west then down south. Got to be a Mississippi River engineer. My mother came out to New Orleans when she was 18 to live with her brother Lawrence Fallon who later became Colonel Fallon in the Mexican war. My father and mother were each ignorant of each other's whereabouts and met by accident at a social affair at New Orleans. Recognition was mutual and a marriage followed. My mother's name was Mary Fallon and my father was Thomas Edward Coyle. My father was then 25 and my mother slightly younger.

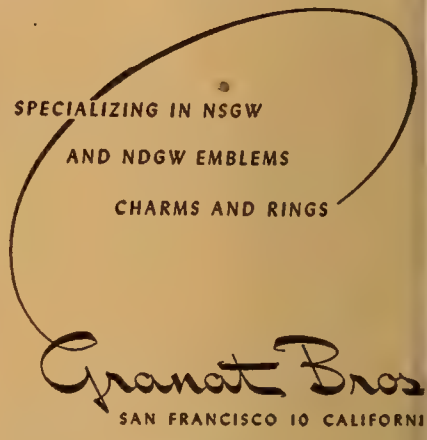
My mother shortly afterwards was on the boat when they had one of those insane lurid races so well described by Mark Twain in some of his works. The days when they threw the cargo in the fire bow and screwed down the safety valve. The passengers and crew were insane with the excitement and made bets and many of the men came to blows. My mother got no enjoyment out of it. She was badly frightened. Her husband was the engineer and she feared many things. One was the boiler might explode any minute and that happened many times with disastrous results. My father never worried about that. It was old stuff to him. My mother was in deadly fear and kept after him to quit the river and get a shore job until he did so. He got a position as a stationary engineer in a castor oil refining plant at St. Louis. All went well for some years till he began to go down grade. He had no appetite and was failing fast. The doctors told him if he did not get out in the open air he would die. Suggested a sea voyage or to get out in country and rough it. He decided to go to California which was about as rough a place as could be found. That was in 1858. His cousin John Coyle went with him and they came by way of Panama.

When they came to San Francisco father said they had gone far enough. Said that San Francisco was a coming place and some day would be a big city and that they should get in on the ground floor and grow up with the city and feather their nest. John Coyle ridiculed the idea saying, "what is ever going to make a city out of this place, it is as large as it will ever be. It has no future. Let us go to the diggings where we can make a stake and go to some city where we can live a life of ease and enjoy ourselves." He brought father around to his way of thinking and they went to Trinity Valley, a wild remote place.

John Coyle soon found he could not pick the gold off the top of the ground and conditions were so hard that he soon changed his mind and being a city man went back to San Francisco, a place he formerly despised. There he remained to the end of his days.

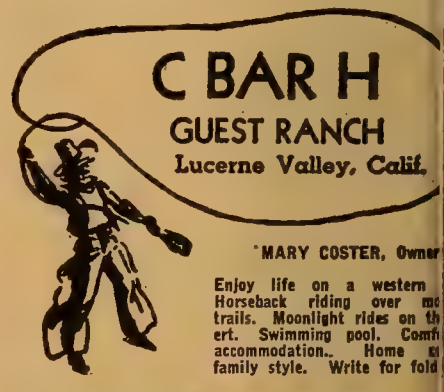
Father saw the conditions as well as his cousin. He also saw a bright future for the country and success for the man who was willing to work and put up with hardships and he stayed. After three years he sent for his wife and three children. My mother came out from St. Louis in 1861. The Civil War had started and she had to go to New York by rail and by steamer to Panama. She took passage on the Ariel. They ran at night without lights fearing Confederate raiders. This same vessel a few years later was captured by the notorious raider "The Alabama." While crossing the Isthmus, John the oldest of the children contracted the Panama fever, a deadly malady. Mother came to San Francisco by vessel without incident. Father met her and they went to Red Bluff by river boat as there was no railroad in California then. Redding was not in existence and did not begin till 1872 when the C. P. R. R. came to where Redding is now and did not go any further. Then my mother went to Trinity Center by stage 195 miles. The roads were dreadful. They were horse killers and wagon smashers.

The oldest boy John was in a precarious state from the Panama fever. Mother carried him in her lap and every time they struck a chuck hole or a rock, which was too often, she lifted him up so he could not feel the jar. Although there was no Redding there was and still is French Gulch and Shasta where they doubtless alighted for a few minutes rest and refreshment. Finally they reached Trinity Center. It was at night. Father said they would put up at the hotel. Mother asked how far it was to their future home and he said about a half mile. Although mother could hardly keep her eyes open and hardly put one foot past the other, she said they would go home right now as she was sick and tired of traveling.



There were three children born in St. Louis, John, Margaret and Katherine. The other four were born in California in the following order: James Lawrence, born May 8, 1862, Thomas Edward in 1865, I think. (Can't name month or day), Charlotte Mary in Nov., 1867, and William Sheridan on May 10, 1869. They all passed out but William Sheridan. Only three of the children married. Margaret married John Larson, a prominent business man of Trinity Center. Six children were born of this union. Katherine married Patrick Holland, a prominent mining man. Two children were born of this union. James Coyle had but one girl who was married. When William Coyle passes out the Coyle name will pass out.

When mother first came out she was always hungry. In St. Louis they had luxuries as well as staples. Semi-tropical fruit, sea fish and oysters, in short, everything the market could afford. In Trinity Center there were none of these. No sugar, no milk, no vegetables, no fruit and no berries. Sour-dough bread, butter that came around the Horn and was more like lard than butter and likely to be rancid. Also sow-belly and beans. One night a friend of the family came in and had two cabbages. He came from Shasta, 40 miles away. He gave one to father saying, "Take this one home to your wife." Father took it home and told mother the glad news. She got up at 11 p. m. and cooked and ate it. When the spring came she had a cow and chickens but it was not enough. She was going to have a garden. That statement caused much mirth. She was supposed to be the biggest fool that ever was in the valley. No one poked more fun at her than my father. He told her that the ground was worthless except for gold that was under it. However, he allowed her to have her own way as he always did even if he thought she was wrong. Her father was a highly successful farmer in Ireland and she knew about all there was to know about farming. My father being a city man as ignorant about it as a little child. Mother got the garden seed from Shasta where one could get most anything at that time. Probably in 1863. My mother showed father how to do the planting which he did grinning broadly at the huge joke. The result was a very fine garden and everyone voted mother as the smartest person in the valley. She sold one hill of cucumbers for $5.00 and could have sold all at her own price but there were four chil now and they needed all they had. Next everyone had a garden. We had no vegeti to sell.



My father died Sept. 5, 1872 at the ag 44. My mother died Aug. 2, 1923, aged 90.

My mother soon learned that her hus was owner of a gold mine in California. idea of mining was an inclined screen and containing gold was thrown against it. dirt passed through and the gold remained hind. This screen may be seen in any town in the world where gravel is being scre for mortar where building operations are on.

The four boys were all miners like father was before them. John and Ed never anything else. They were expert prospec pocket hunters and miners. James and divided their time between mining and trical work. Charlotte Coyle, the youngest was a high class telegrapher. She could position in any large city in the world. worked by turns for the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Cable Company.

Homeless Children Work Requires Help At Once

Early in 1910, some 36 years ago, Fairfax heelan conceived the idea that our two Orders uld assist in what was, to say the least, a nfused social condition, the care and adoption babies. Then, as today, many persons were eking to adopt children, but asked no ques-ns and preferred to answer none. This often d to many sad situations for the abandoned or wanted child. No agency existed for child pro-ction, except the State Board of those days.

After a short deliberation our two Orders reed to embark on this most important work, d can be proud of what has been accomplished the years that have passed. Over 7000 home-s children have been placed in childless homes thout the slightest criticism. This 7000 figure presents the children actually adopted and must t be confused with the total number of mothers d children we have assisted in many other ys.

Many changes have taken place in the last irty odd years—progress has been made, laws ve been changed—all to make the whole child lfare program, of which we are a part, one of ich all can be proud. But the job done thirty ars, even two years, ago is not enough. A child lfare program must of necessity go beyond e relinquishment and adoption of an unwanted ild. Standards of work must be improved—ined staffs must be employed—that all make re to the best of their ability, that the job is t only completed, but well done. We operate is work on a state-wide basis as one of the ly two licensed agencies. There are rules and gulations with which we must comply, rules set for the protection of the child who cannot otect itself.

Like all business, and this is a most important siness—the dealing with human lives under our re—the operating costs of doing the job have creased materially from year to year and par-ularly for the past five years. The work has read, children are placed in almost every unty of our great state; regular home visits st be made; references investigated; children oved. and a hundred and one other details vered. The pioneer spirit of loyalty, the devo-n to our Order and its work on the part of r employees, and we have always had a very all staff, has been the outstanding reason for r success.

The State Department of Social Welfare, the ency issuing our license, have from time to ne insisted that we increase our staff to a int where a proper job can be accomplished. In dition, boarding rates have risen from $35 to high as $120 per child per month; office rent, vel expense of staff, medical care and all the her operating expenses have increased in line th all other costs in businesses, until our rrent annual budget, 1947-48, is up to $118,000, d there does not appear to be any assurance at it will not increase materially for 1948-49. This is a considerable increase over past years years that have proven that each of you has ne your part and done it well because you ved this work. Your Central Committee has ade every effort to meet these continuing raises expenditures—every economy has been prac-ed. However, we are at the crossroads.

We find ourselves in a very definite emer-ncy. I think you all will agree that "Times ve changed in 30 years," and we, like all others, st keep up with the changes. Your Central mmittee—and may I say right here—the Order, es a debt of gratitude to those who have served you with their time and talents. The list is too long to mention them by name, but no committee of our two Orders has done more.

Today we cannot cover the great State of California with three workers. Babies are placed in 38 counties; visits must be made regularly; and all other ramifications of our work, before adoption is completed, must be cared for. Applications for adoptions must be carefully checked, complete records must be maintained for presentation to the courts and the State Department of Social Welfare. Babies must be boarded, notwithstanding the cost, and the general operating expenses in connection with the work must be maintained.

As a result of all of these circumstances, the members of the Central Committee, after months of deliberation, must call upon the members of both Orders to make a special effort.

Every Fraternity must have a charity, or it cannot live. We have one that we can be proud of, and we feel sure our Grand Parlors will find a way to continue this great work we have so successfully carried on to date.

The Homeless Children work is of such importance to our two Orders that we must make every effort to continue, BUT, the decision rests with the membership. We know we can depend on your cooperation and support, but TIME IS THE ESSENCE OF SUCCESS. We must act NOW, that not the least of those dependent upon us shall suffer and that our Order shall continue to do the outstanding job for which everyone concerned is most grateful.

In our present position, we ask your immediate consideration—repeating TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE OF OUR SUCCESS.

EDWARD J. WREN,
Central Committee on Homeless Children.

SACRAMENTO COUNTY FINALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST HELD

Sacramento County finals of the state-wide Public Speaking Contest conducted by the Native Sons of the Golden West, were held in the Assembly Auditorium of the Grant Union High School, North Sacramento, Friday evening, March 21, with the contest in Sacramento County being sponsored by Sacramento Parlor No. 3, Sunset Parlor No. 26, Elk Grove Parlor No. 41, Courtland Parlor No. 106 and Fort Sutter Parlor No. 241.

Local champions of the following Sacramento County High Schools participated in the finals: Sacramento Senior High School, C. K. McClatchy High School, Grant Union High School, Courtland High School, Elk Grove High School, Clarksburg High School, San Juan Union High School and Folsom Union High School.

Committee of the Native Sons, appointed by State Public Speaking Contest Chairman Guy G. Foulks of Sacramento, to handle the Sacramento County finals was composed of Philip C. Wilkins, Sacramento Parlor, chairman; Darold D. DeCoe, Jr., Sunset Parlor; Kenneth Bailey, Elk Grove Parlor, and Ray Herringer, Courtland Parlor. Members of the Grant Union High School Faculty Committee were E. J. Keema, principal; Paul E. Hobbs and George Thorns.

The winner of the Sacramento County contest will compete in the Northern California finals April 11, at San Francisco. The Northern and Southern California winners will compete for the State Championship at Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, Catalina Island, May 21-24.

ATHLETIC EVENTS TO BE FEATURE AT SEPTEMBER 9TH CELEBRATION

For the first time in several years athletic events will be a feature of the 1947 Admission Day Celebration to be held in Long Beach September 6-7-8-9. Lewis A. Giegerich of Pacific Parlor, San Francisco, Chairman of Athletics, Native Sons of the Golden West, and Lucien A. Griffin, University Parlor, Los Angeles, Chairman of the September 9 sports events, are working together to stage the finest tournament yet held.

More than 30 teams have signified their intention of entering the bowling and softball competion. There will also be a golf tournament held at one of the well known Long Beach fairways.

Parlors in the northern part of the state are urged to send their entries in to Brother Giegerich, in care of Pacific Parlor, and from the southern section, to Brother Griffin, University Parlor.

Only bonafide members of the Native Sons will be eligible to enter these contests. Beautiful trophies are in store for the winner and runner-ups. Parlors will be sent more data at a later date on these athletic events.

ANNIE JEFFERIES

To the Officers and Members of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168, NDGW.

We, your Committee to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Annie Jeffries, submit the following:

We deeply regret her passing and pay a loving tribute to her memory and extend our sympathy to her family. Sister Annie was in every way worthy of our respect and regard, as a pioneer of our community, a loving mother and a helpful member of our order.

It is further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor; that a copy be sent to her family, and that a copy be published in the Grizzly Bear Maagzine.

Respectfully submitted,
ETHEL M. ESTES,
IRENE HENRY,
OLIVE H. PEARL,
Committee.

JUDGE RUBEN S. SCHMIDT PASSES

Ramona Parlor No. 109, Los Angeles, lost one of its most valued and beloved members in the untimely passing of Superior Court Judge Ruben S. Schmidt Sunday, February 23. Judge Schmidt was an ardent worker in the Native Sons of the Golden West, taking an active interest in the affairs of his own parlor and often being called upon to speak before the members of other parlors in the Los Angeles County area.

KATE PETTY LONG

Whereas, God in His infinite love has called our beloved sister, Kate Petty Long from our midst to her Heavenly home,

And whereas, we, her sisters, mourn her passing,

We miss her sweet smile, her kindly words and helpful hands, and

Whereas, her family has suffered the loss of a dear wife and mother,

Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of Berendos Parlor No. 23, Native Daughters of the Golden West, extend our deepest heartfelt sympathy to her bereaved loved ones.

We, the committee, recommend that a copy of these resolutions of respect and sympathy be sent her family, that a copy be sent the Grizzly Bear and they be spread on the minutes of the Parlor.

"She is not gone,
She is just away."

FRANCES SAUNDERS,
OLIVE KESTNER,
(Seal) MINNIE BOFINGER.

CORRIE E. ALFORD

To the Officers and Members of Berendos Parlor No. 23, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee, submit the following resolutions in loving memory of our departed Sister Carrie E. Alford, who on January 20, 1947, was called to the Grand Parlor on High.

Whereas, the members of Berendos Parlor are deeply grieved at the loss of our beloved member. She was always true and loyal, a faithful, conscientious worker, a sincere and loving friend. We shall miss her presence amongst us. Our dear friend and sister was a symbol of all that is kind, beautiful and good.

Resolved, That our sincere and deep sympathy be extended to her sorrowing family, a copy of these resolutions be sent them, and a copy be inscribed in our minutes. That a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

"Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she leaves behind."

Respectfully submitted,
LILLIE S. HAMMER,
MARY ELIZABETH GODBOLT,
(Seal) MAY WILLIAMS.
Red Bluff, California, Feb. 4, 1947.

MARY ROSE SULLIVAN

To the Officers and Members of Golden Gate Parlor, No. 158, N. D. G. W.:

We, your committee, submit the following resolution in loving tribute to the memory of our departed Sister, Mary Rose Sullivan:

WHEREAS, our Sister Mary Rose Sullivan was a member of our Parlor since March 16, 1908, and was such a fatihful Native Daughter all during her years of membership; who was so patient during the three years of her illness and was such a fine mother and grandmother, we bow our heads to the will of our Almighty Father who has taken her from our fraternal circle.

WHEREAS, we will always remember her for the sincere interest she had in our Parlor.

THEREFORE, be is resolved, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to her family, who we know would not want her to go on suffering, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family and a copy sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY C. MAHONEY
CLAIRE LINDSEY
GERTRUDE MARIANI.

NORTH SHORE BIG BEAR LAKE FISH DERBY ANNOUNCED

A lucky fisherman will be tangling onto some big fish up on Big Bear Lake this summer. Not only will there be the thrill of boating a fish weighing perhaps ten or more pounds, but that fisherman will have the added pleasure of receiving a special prize. North Shore's Lions Club is offering a Martin "60" outboard motor to the lucky angler who catches the season's largest fish.

Though North Shore is offering the "derby" trophy, the fish may be caught anywhere on the lake. Nor must the "big one" be limited to a trout. Bass and even catfish are eligible. In fact, every fish that swims in the lake with the exception of carp is eligible towards winning a prize.

In order to qualify, a fisherman must purchase his entrance fee from one of the eleven boat landings located on the North Shore. A nominal charge of fifty cents is being made. Not only does this entitle the fishing aspirant to the season's main prize, but it also gives him a chance for one of the three big awards offered during the first four days of fishing.

The season opens on Big Bear Lake May 1st though stream fishing began on April 5th. Never before has the lake been so well stocked. A quarter of a million eight-inch trout have been liberated into Big Bear's blue waters during the past year.

Are there fish at Big Bear Lake? Cast your eyes up the column and judge for yourself. That smiling gent is the fishing first vice president, Tex Hayes, of the Lions Club. Those rainbow hued beauties were taken on a No. 14 brown hackle fly. We count a baker's dozen of these little fellows. Shucks, they only weight two and a half pounds and down. Hardly worth while heating up the skillet, but maybe we're jealous.

NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

VOL. LXXXI (81) MAY, 1947 No. 481

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

May 1, 1872, was a "scorcher" in California; it was the hottest May Day on record. The thermometer went above 80 degrees in San Francisco and 90 in the valleys, and reached 100 in Los Angeles. The heat was followed by heavy showers the 7th and the month ended with more heavy showers.

Shocks of earthquake, light but perceptible, continued during the month. Quite a severe one was felt throughout the interior at 11:24 p.m., May 13. The center of disturbance was again in Inyo County, but it could not add to the damage done by the March shock.

Professor Whitney, the State Geologist, with a corps of assistants and a camp outfit prepared for a study of several months, went to Inyo County to investigate the cause of the earthquakes and make a geological survey of the region to which his name was given when Mount Whitney was so named.

Large shipments of flour and wool, by rail to New York and other Eastern points, made a number of solid train lots and opened up a new field of commercial enterprise.

The French residents of San Francisco held a magnificent fair during the second week of the month to raise a fund to aid in paying the French government's ransom. Seven large trout from Lake Tahoe, donated by French fishermen there, sold for $1,500, and a box of fifty gold-foil-tipped cigars sold at $10 each. Many thousands of dollars were realized.

The mining stock market took an unexpected turn this month. Crown Point declared a monthly dividend of $40 a share, the largest yet paid, and $2,000 a share was bid for it. This meant a half-million of newly-delved wealth. But on the 5th a personal quarrel developed between Wm. Sharon and John P. Jones, both now multi-millionaires through the stock market boom, each desirous to be United States Senator from Nevada and in control of the Comstock mines. Charges of a serious nature were made against Jones' management as superintendent of Crown Point and other mines, which were proved false but caused great excitement in mining circles and a panicky feeling developed which caused extensive selling. This brought on a severe decline in prices and a demoralizing financial condition.

By the 15th Crown Point had declined to $1,200, Belcher to $900 and Ophir to $50 a share, and all other stocks had broken 50% in price. The shrinkage in value during the ten days was estimated at fifty millions of dollars, and many investors were "busted." Insolvency, insanity and some suicides followed, and a gloomy condition, in place of the former optimistic feeling, prevailed, disastrous alike to business of all kinds.

During the slump Belcher dropped to $700, Hale & Norcross to $90 and Ophir to $34 a share. There was a partial recovery toward the end of the month, but the market was far from being convalescent. Crown Point shares were divided into ten for one this month, and the new stock came on the board at $130 a share, equal to $1,300 for the old.

A rich cinnabar ledge was discovered near Pacheco Pass, in the Coast Range about thirty miles from Gilroy, Santa Clara County.

A miner in Algerine Gulch, a famous nugget ground near Sonora, Tuolumne County, found a nugget weighing four ounces and worth $68.

Quite an excitement arose in Los Angeles over the finding of a placer mine on Adobe Hill, near Fourth Street, May 8, that prospected 30c to the pan.

The Placer County Pioneers living in San Francisco and Alameda County held their first reunion May 11 at the Encinal and had a large attendance.

At Red Bluff, Tehama County, there was a contest for May Queen at a proposed church picnic started by a committee of women; votes were 10c each. Such a rivalry developed that the contenders invested over $800 in votes before it ended.

Woodward, at his garden in San Francisco, began the construction of the largest aquarium in the world, to consist of fourteen tanks and contain specimens of every fish obtainable in salt and fresh waters. A steamer was bought to fish from the Pacific Ocean.

A blast of one ton of giant power placed in a tunnel sixty feet long in a hydraulic mine near Dutch Flat, Placer County, was fired May 22. It shook the town like an earthquake shock, and broke up about twenty acvres of ground.

Thomas A. Wilson of Stockton, hunting in the Coast Range near Grayson, killed a grizzly bear.

John W. Wilcox, known in poltical circles as the "Mariposa Blacksmith," May 1 had an altercation with James M. Catron at the Buckeye mine near Mariposa. A dispute arose over a debt due Wilcox and both drew their pistols, sought cover behind trees and began shooting. Seven shots were fired; one bullet clipped some skin off Wilcox' nose, another went through the ear of his horse, while the others hit only the atmosphere. Finally a truce was called and the matter adjusted.

Among the visitors coming to the state from the East this month was "Lightning" Joe Hooker, a general of Civil War fame, who was given a hearty welcome.

The stage from Volcano to Jackson, Amador County, was stopped by highwaymen at 2 a.m., May 1, a short distance from Volcano and the express box, containing gold bars valued at $10,025, taken. Detectives with bloodhounds were on the trail, but without definite results.

Sheriff Skinner of Siskiyou County, in attempting to arrest a horsethief in Strawberry Valley, was compelled to shoot at him twice, and mortally wounded him.

Chris Thompson, a teamster, and George K. Davis, a hotel-keeper at La Grange, Stanislaus County, May 8 had a quarrel over Davis, under the trespass law, impounding some of Thompson's stock. Both drew pistols and began firing at each other, resulting in Thompson being killed.

John Hendrie, a miner in the Guin mine near Mokelumne Hill, Calveras County, May 23 was knocked off the ladder in the shaft by the bucket rolling. He fell 200 feet and was killed.

Walter Fay, holding the nozzle in a hydraulic mine at Morristown, Sierra County, May 10 was caught and buried beneath a caved bank and killed.

H. L. Newton, superintendent of the Prospect Flat gravel mine near Placerville, El Dorado County, May 30 was killed by being struck by a gravel car..

Willie Brossman, a three-year-old boy, fell into a stream near Los Angeles, May 13 and floated nearly a mile before he was rescued. He shortly afterwards died from the effects of his fall.

Beautiful Avalon Bay at Catalina, with the steamers, S. S. Catalina and S. S. Avalon at the dock, only one of which is expected to be running at the time the Native Sons of the Golden West hold their 70th Grand Parlor Session, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, May 21, 22, 23, 24, due to the fact that the summer season will not have been officially opened. In the background is the famous Casino, where in the spacious ballroom on the second floor, overlooking the clear, sparkling water of the bay, the Grand Parlor activities will take place.

It is in the waters off Catalina that the flying fishes play and not in Mandalay. The flying fish that abound here are larger than any found in the South Seas, and are said to average two feet in length, having a wingspread from 18 to 26 inches. Delegates and visitors to the Grand Parlor will have an opportunity to see these curious, fabulous fish in action, and also to see the wondrous beauty of the fairyland submarine gardens from the famed glass-bottom boats.

Avalon is the sport fisherman's paradise, for the off-shore waters teem with the giant striped marlin and broadbill swordfish, tuna, albacore and fighting yellowtail.

California's Vanished Islanders

On Lonely San Clemente, Off the Southern California Coast, a Mysterious People Once Lived—Their Fate No One Knows, For They Disappeared From the Face of the Earth

By NELL MURBARGER

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND, situated 75 miles west of San Diego, has long been recognized as one of California's greatest storehouses of archeological treasure.

For the past dozen years the Island has been under the jurisdiction of the Navy Department, with all civilians excluded from its bounds. Thus, my acquaintance with the place, which had spread over a considerable number of years, ended shortly after Navy occupation began. At that time its plateaus were still strewn with mute reminders of a prehistoric stone-age. Its headlands held the burial places of braves, and great, sprawling shell mounds gave irrefutable evidence that the Island once supported a large and vigorous population.

According to a few paragraphs contained in musty old journals, the natives referred to the Island as Kinkapar, and spoke a language known as Natella. There the story ends, for this entire colony of people vanished suddenly from the face of the earth, no man knows whither . . .

For more than two generations, the vast sand dunes at China Cove and Seal Harbor supplied valuable material to the world's greatest museums. Although the former dune had been yielding up its treasure for several decades before I first visited the island nearly 25 years ago, it still presented an aspect that was all but unbelievable.

In an hour's time, without excavation, one could pick up more Stone Age artfacts than a strong man could carry. Human skeletons lay bleaching on the sand where they had been uncovered by the whipping sea wind. Skulls rolled about in eerie abandon . . .

Within the next decade, an amazing change was wrought. Artifacts were greatly reduced in number and only rarely could one find a human bone. The pot-hunters had done their work well.

From my own first hand experience with San Clemente, it is my opinion that aboriginal life there constituted a highly complex problem.

Of prime importance must have been the matter of thirst. After the early part of May, there are usually less than a dozen canyons containing water. Even supposing that these feeble flows were each sufficient to provide for several hundred families, the heavily-populated Northwest end of the Island would have been from 12 to 18 miles from the source of supply. I never found any indication of prehistoric dams or other means of artificial water storage.

Equally important would have been the problem of food. It is evident from studying contents of the shell mounds that the natives had no conception of conservation.

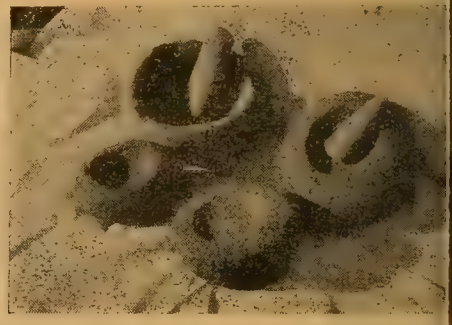
Mature black abalones have shells occasionally measuring as much as eight inches across, and under present California Fish and Game laws, it is illegal to take specimens of this variety less than five inches in length. Yet, on the shell mounds covering hundreds of acres near Northwest Harbor and West Cove, I found it possible in five minutes to gather a hundred or more abalone shells under two inches in diameter. Many were no larger than a dime.

As further evidence that starvation was never far remote, the mounds contained all manner of native island mollusks, even to tiny littorinas, of which 40 or 50 would be required to produce a single ounce of meat. In addition to mollusks, the camp debris revealed sea urchin tests and fish bones, but practically no lobster or crab residue.

The waters about Clemente abound in fish, which the natives captured by means of a highly-ingenious hook cut from the stout, circular portion of the abalone shell. I have seen numbers of these hooks taken from cave excavations; also one hook, very similar in shape and size, which had been worked from stone, and several cut from the curved shell of the Polynices.

Although the west side of the Island supported several large sea lion rookeries, apparently little use was made of these animals for food. Ancient kitchen middens on the California mainland f quently abound in sea lion tusks, but only rar have they been found on Clemente. Those covered usually show grooving around the up end, indicating that they were fashioned for as a charm.

Volcanic in origin, the Island abounds in ca ranging in size from tiny fissures too small admit a man's body, to great blowholes wh would shelter an army. Interiors of many these caverns are smoke blackened, long ye of human occupancy being further attested greasy, black earth piled deeply within.



I once spent five months on the Island w an exploring party composed of Mr. and M H. C. Lounsberry of Costa Mesa, California; M Dora Tucker, Las Vegas, Nevada, and W. Murbarger, now of Anderson, California. Murbarger, at that time was engaged in ar eological research for Bowers Memorial Muse at Santa Ana. Many of the 800-odd artifacts tained by him during the five-month peri are still on exhibition at the Orange Cou institution.

One small cave near camp, he reserved spare time excavating when inclement weat discouraged trips to more distant mounds. wasn't a tidy nook. Wild goats had long utili it as a storm shelter. Beneath a three-inch la of powder-dry manure was another three inc of dust and wind-blown sand, the accumulat of perhaps a century. From this point to rock floor, three feet below, were stratified ers of "household" refuse and charcoal. debris consisted principally of sea shells, scales and bones, wing and leg bones of sm birds, etc.

Of special interest among the charred rem were two well-preserved boar's tusks and porcupine foreleg bones. Although wild h were once plentiful on Catalina Island, 30 m distant, they are not known to have occu on San Clemente. Therefore, one might ass that inter-island trade was carried on in fo stuffs as well as steatite and other materi Crossing the turbulent Clemente channel, ever a small power boat is not a journey to be un taken lightly. For one of the crude native cr —at least, we assume they were crude—such trip must have been a harrowing experience, deed.

But, to return to the cave . . . most comm among the artifacts found here were chipp stones and abalone fishhooks. From time to t we uncovered fragments of broken mortars pestles, abalone shells with asphaltum still ad ing, and pieces of rock crystal. Screening e shovelfull of dirt as it was removed, Mr. M barger worked carefully through those strata ash and refuse to a depth as great as his sh handle. By the time he reached bedrock, v had at first been exceedingly cramped quar was assuming the proportions of a commod dwelling.

It seems hard to believe that even the m shiftless caveman would allow debris to accu late beneath him until it literally crowded om his home, yet the evidence pointed conclu-ely to such fact.

High types of mortars and pestles taken fro San Clemente Island.

These are the mysterious "stone doughnut" rings, use of which has never been satisfactorily determined by students of archeology. Rings pictured above ranged in weight from two ounces to two pounds.

Native Sons and their ladies at the 70th Grand Parlor, will enjoy the famous Avenida la Crescenta which, with its palms and fountain plazas, has the gaiety and color of Early California.

The grass-covered slope beneath the cave ded a few pestles, an elliptical mortar, some t baking stones and shells, in addition to ny broken artifacts.

On the north half of the Island, where caves ur with less frequency, the islanders built nd tepees—presumably of grass or skin around ramework of whalebones. The circles of stone d refuse where the wickiups had stood were ll to be seen at the time of my last visit to Island. Also visible in the center of each ee-circle was a cluster of small rocks, indi-ions being that the campfire was laid upon se.

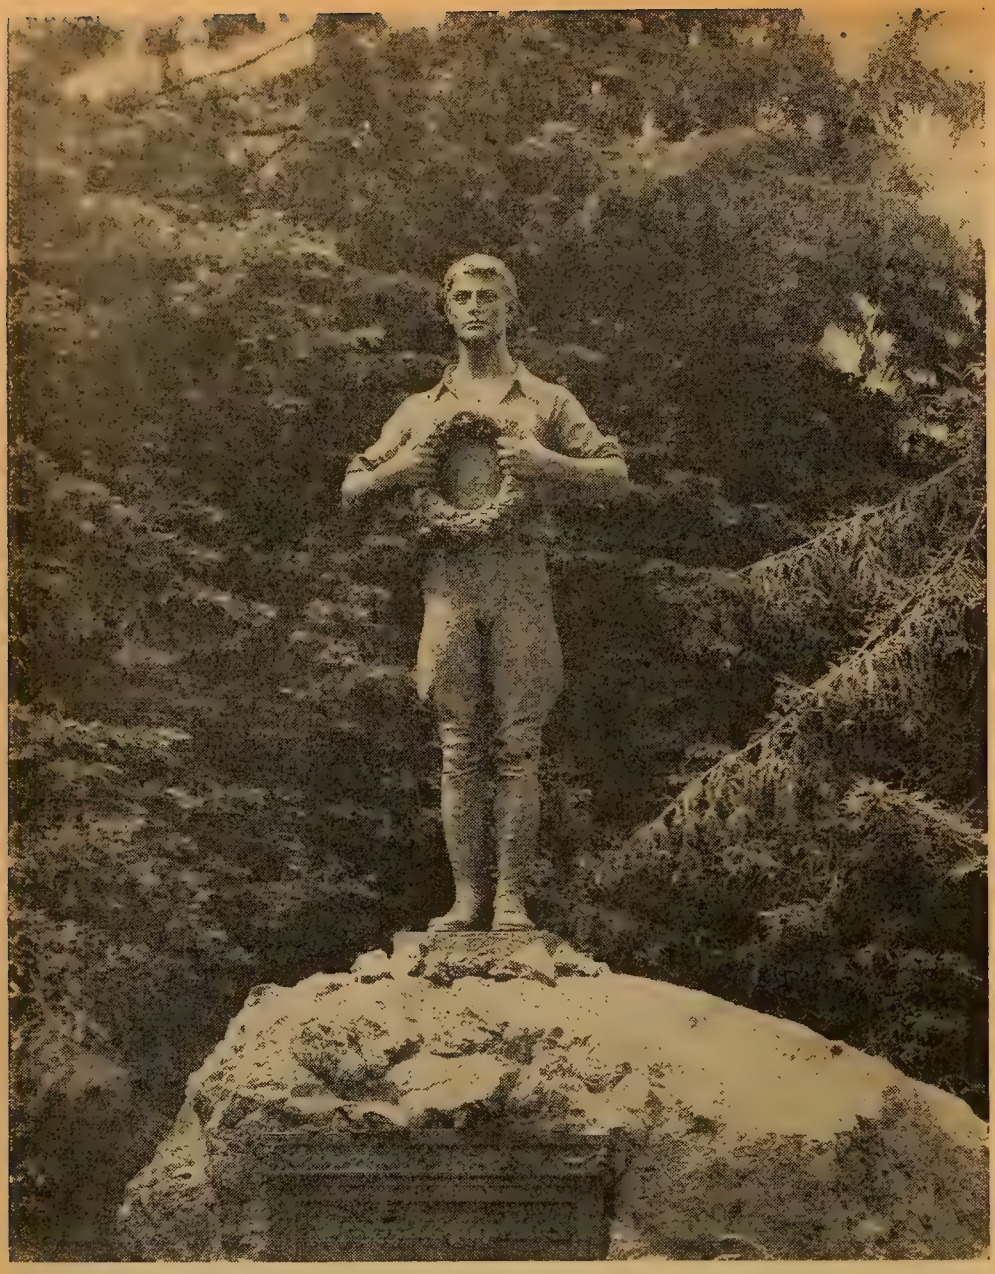
A. L. Kroeber, eminent California Indian au-rity, once made an interesting observation ncerning the violent drug derived from the apson weed (Datura meteloides) and used as drink in the toloache ceremony, stating that all uthern accounts mention Santa Catalina and n Clemente Islands as the seat of this cult. e religious exercise included a complicated al, mythology and chanting.

The Islanders likely had some other form of gan worship, but I never knew of but one dis-ery to bear out such an assumption. Nearly quarter-century ago, on a grassy promotory the Island's lee side, my father found a sizable a paved with abalone shells laid in the shape a perfect arrowhead. It measured 30 feet m tip to shank and 15 feet across its greatest adth. The shells were laid as closely as flag-nes, each set flush against its neighbor and tly placed in one-two order, the smaller end ard the point of the arrowhead.

Further examination revealed that a four-foot le in the pattern's center was laid with shells se deep, each layer nested closely over its decessor. Although abalone pearl is well-nigh estructible, the top layer of shells crumbled powder at the touch. The second and third rs (doubtless because of the protection af-led by the surface layer) were still stout and rly.

Whether the result of coincidence or design, the of the arrow form pointed directly toward the rising sun of mid-winter. It is further interesting to note that the eastern, or lee side, of San Clemente, is frequented by practically no abalones, all members of the genus preferring the pounding surf of the south and west sides. Therefore, the hundreds of shells forming this pattern were necessarily carried not less than six miles over extremely rugged terrain, indicating that the strange installation had been of considerable importance to its makers.

There are many other unknown factors about Clemente; questions for which time has supplied no satisfactory answer. Into this category fall the "stone doughnut" rings. Some authorities assert that these stones were for use as a game; a possible deduction but not an altogether probable one, as the "doughnuts" vary so greatly in size and structure.



We found them ranging from dainty little two-ounce circlets of highly-polished green steatite, to big lunkers crudely made of porous red lava and weighing nearly two pounds. They occurred from the water's edge to the summit of Mount Cortez, nearly 2000 feet above sea level. It was always a thrill to see one, whether half-hidden by the enveloping earth, or lying boldly exposed as though it had been waiting a thousand years for us to come along and find it.

That these Islanders braved hardship and famine and were able to survive and reproduce their kind for more years than any man knows, we are certain. We also know that they found time in their struggle for existence to produce some of the finest Stone Age art in the world; pieces so perfectly fashioned that they might have come from the chisel of a sculptor.

As for the people themselves . . . what sort were they, whence did they come, and when and why did they vanish? That is a story forever closed to living men . . .

Delegates and visitors to the 70th Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, Santa Catalina Island, May 21, 22, 23, 24, will find many things to interest them, including the big cage in the Catalina Bird Park with thousands of rare birds, collected from the far corners of the world.

"THE DOUGH-BOY MONUMENT"

Redwood Memorial Grove—Golden Gate Park, San Francisco

"The grove is dedicated to the memory of the thirty-nine members of the San Francisco Parlors, Native Sons of the Golden West, who gave their lives in the World's War—1917-1918."

SAN FRANCISCO PLANS TO SEEK 1950 CELEBRATIONS

The San Francisco Parlors through their Extension of the Order Committee have declared their intention of seeking both the Grand Parlor convention and the Admission Day celebration in 1950.

Chairman of the Extension of the Order Committee, Judge Bradford Bosely, has appointed a committee composed of the permanent members of the Extension of the Order committee to prepare plans for these events.

Committee Secretary Harold J. Regan, reported that California Parlor No. 1 is already planning the observance of the Diamond Jubilee of the founding of the Order and the Charter Parlor, July 11, 1950, which will bring three important events to San Francisco.

PROMINENT NATIVE DAUGHTER HEAD OF SAN FRANCISCO WOMEN'S CLUB

On April 27, 1947, State Civic Chairman Ann Dippel of Mission Parlor No. 227, NDGW, was seated as President of the San Francisco City and County Federation of Women's Clubs, for a two year term. Prominent in civic, social and fraternal circles, this additional honor has come to a deserving Native Daughter. Just rounding out six successive years as President of the San Francisco Women's Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Dippel has increased their membership from one hundred fifty to over six hundred members. Congratulations go to our Sister Ann Dippel from her many Native Daughter friends throughout the State.

Grove of Memory Memorial Service

The annual Memorial Services of the Grove Memory Association, NDGW and NSGW will held in the Redwood Memorial Grove, Gol Gate Park, San Francisco, the first Sunday June, 1947.

The Grove of Memory Association was org ized in 1921, the idea coming from Be Mauser of Keith Parlor No. 137, NDGW, was the first memorial to the Heroes of W War One in the city of San Francisco. Grand Parlor of the Native Sons heartily s port this project of the Parlors and have in porated it into their by-laws, making th services held on the first Sunday of June every year, their official Memorial Day.

The first grove was on Junipero Boulevard were acacia trees. The present and perma grove now stands of thirty-nine Redwood T in a Grove at Golden Gate Park, each tre living memory to the thirty-nine Native Son the Golden West of San Francisco parlors gave their lives in World War One. The Dou Boy Monument of bronze was erected and sented to the city of San Francisco by the Orders. The Dough-boy of bronze stands a the Redwood Grove:

"Erect and tense, he presseth to his breast
The symbol of reward for fields afar,
To honor those lost to the Golden West,
Who framed all futures with the Golden St
Clay M. Green

It is always the first official duty of the ne installed Grand President of the Native S and the last official duty of the retiring Gr President of the Native Daughters to offic at these services. Officers from the Order the Grove of Memory Association include: J Lewis, President, Twin Peaks Parlor No. Anita Craig, Vice-President, Dolores Parlor 169; Lulu Porter, Secretary, Guadalupe No. Financial Secretary, Anna Johnson, Pres Parlor No. 148; Treasurer, Bertha Mauser, K Parlor No. 137; and Directors: William Ke Nora Scheflin, Victor de Ganna, Jessie Col and Henry Nickels.

The Grove of Memory Association is gressing with plans for a memorial placque be dedicated to and include the names of San Francisco County Native Sons whose were lost in our defense in the World's Sec War. To date sixteen names have been sub ted for record, but it is not complete.

SAN FRANCISCO PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST FINALS ARE HELD

With nine representatives of the local schools the San Francisco county finals of public speaking contest were held at the Red School on April 7th.

Winner of the contest was Keith Varni, Ignatius High School. Mr. Varni is descen of the famous California painter, William K Judges for the contest were: Superior Ju Melvin I. Cronin, Municipal Judge Edw Mohlkenbuhr, Grand Secretary John T. Re Guy T. Foulks, and William Mancuso.

With The Gas Model Boys

The Story of One of California's Outstanding Miniature Aviation Clubs. How They Build and Fly the Tiny Planes in This Fascinating Sport Is Sweeping the Country

By BOB THOMAS

OF all the well-known sports that have been brought to our attention, there is one that is almost completely overlooked, the building and flying of model aircraft. Formerly considered a hobby, the ten million in the United States engaged in this game have made it so competitive that it will now come under the classification of a sport, which calls for great skill not only in the building of the small planes, but in their flying. Much of the interest in model aircraft flying can be traced to the organization of clubs throughout the country and the work of the A.M.A. (Association of Model Aeronautics) which is now nation-wide.

The "Anaheim Balsa Butchers" is one of thousands of model airplane clubs, but not "just another club." It is one of the most successful and outstanding organizations of its kind. Much of the success of the club is due to the hard work of Marvin Crawford of Anaheim, Orange County, a young returned veteran, who, having a great interest in the tiny powered planes, decided to take matters into his own hands and organize a group to carry on the sport locally.

When Crawford organized the Balsa Butchers (so named because model planes are built almost entirely of balsa wood) he hardly anticipated a club larger than many big city groups. But the club now has some 70 members, of from 10 to 50 years of age, all of which are active and each having one or more ships.

Back in April, 1946, when Crawford hit upon the idea of organizing a model airplane club, he placed an item in the local papers asking that anyone interested in belonging to a club of this sort, to report to a local sporting goods store Friday night at 7:30. Well, having read the item, I was definitely interested so I made it a point to be present at the specified time. The turn-out numbered six including Marvin (age 28), myself (age 20) and four others ranging from 10 to 15 years of age.

At this time things didn't look so good because the others had no previous experience. Marvin and I weren't very well equipped for teaching, however, we managed to struggle through, making it a point to first secure a place to fly. Again, Marvin came to the rescue by taking over land owned by his father-in-law adjacent to his home, dragging, surfacing and making it a suitable place to fly the model aircraft of the club.

These planes are powered with small one-cylinder gas or diesel engines, ranging from 1/5 h. p. to 1.1 h. p., depending on the type of plane that is being used. We have two classes of planes, stunt and speed. The stunt ships have engines that operate between three and six thousand R.P.M., while the speed ships use the larger and more powerful engines that operate around 16 thousand R.P.M. The stunt ships are the first generally built, not because they are easily constructed, but because the speed craft requires much more expense and a general knowledge of model aerodynamics. The speed boys hop up their engines, fuel, props, etc., which puts them in a class by themselves.

The aircraft are controlled from the center of the flight circle by two strands of piano wire so designed that pulling the top wire enables the craft to climb, and, by pulling the bottom wire, it can be made to dive. The plane can also be looped, fly inverted, engage in dogfights, etc., all of which come the hard way, after much practice.

At the present time, the Balsa Butchers have six or seven men flying speeds comparable to the world's record, or better. They include: Al Allen, Babe Dunning, Joe Kitchens, Marvin Crawford, Dick Allen, Buddy Pearce and author. The stunt boys are also bringing h trophies, among them are: Ken Wade (hono member), builder of "Ken" airplane engi Robert Keach, George Jenkins, Bill Weathern Bob Kohlbush and Bill Daniels.

Dee Cherry, who lost the use of his legs, fli his aircraft from the center of the fligh circle by use of a revolving piano stoo the centrifical force of the plane pullin him around.

After laying out the field the next step improvement and attracting more members to put in the club's own model shop, thus abling us to purchase spare parts with wh to make minor repairs right on the flight l Having already built work benches around field the boys found it a convenience to into the shop, purchase the part, and return the work bench to make the necessary repa Today, the model shop has been expanded where it stocks all major brands of motors, and accessories that are needed to carry on sport.

Being located on the highway, many spe tors are attracted and the flying field soon came so popular that our parking lot was adequate to care for the influx of visitors. next step was to enlarge it so that we co park 50 or 60 cars. For further convenie of flyers and spectators alike, we have installed rest rooms, an item most clubs c boast of. At the present time we have one the first fields that has ever been built clusively for the flying of model (U-Cont aircraft. In the future you are sure to more.

The city of Anaheim has been interested the club, calling upon it to give demonstrat and exhibitions in neighboring towns and c munities. These have all been successful served to increase the membership.

At present the Balsa Butchers are plann an exhibition at Birmingham General Hosp to entertain disabled veterans. We also h to get some of these boys interested in bu ing models, as it will be a wonderful past for them. We feel that they will be sold on idea when they see one of our younger m bers, Dee Cherry, perform. Dee lost the of both legs, but flies his aircraft from the ter of the flight circle by the use of a rev ing piano stool. He sits on the piano s

Anything can happen in this "free-for-all" flight on the Balsa Butchers flying field, where three planes, controlled by their respective pilots, are in the air at the same time. The planes can pass above or below one another, be made to loop and do other stunts that the big ships do.

APRIL 4, 1947

With the present term drawing to a close, ac-ity, greater than ever, seems to be the order. Calendar for April is well filled already and the dates for May are going. Membership, our principal goal for this year, is growing rapidly. The gain for January and February, 1947, is over 50% more than the same months last year. I have not, as yet, received the figures for March. General interest in the Order is responsible for most of it, but the contest between the 15 Supervising Deputies is also paying divi-ids. Many Parlors are preparing special initia-as in honor of these hard-working and con-entious Brothers.

The War Service Pamphlet, authorized by the Grand Parlor is now in the hands of the aters. A number of parlors will not be listed, e to the failure of their Recording Secre-ies to file the lists with the Grand Secretary. ere is no excuse for this as each and every inquent secretary received a registered letter m the committee informing him that that s the final notice and last chance. If your lor isn't represented and you did have some thers in the Service, blame your own secre-y and no one else.

The final results in the Membership Contest t closed December 31, are now in and all lor Presidents and Secretaries have been ified of the results in my monthly bulletin "Corner." The awards will be presented at Grand Parlor, immediately following the olic Speaking Contest and while the public still present. Only three Brothers qualified the personal contest and that very definitely ved that the growth of the Order has been to the activity of a great number of the thers and not just a few.

On the other hand, the institution of new lors seems to be best done by a competent up. The Wade-Johnston-Woodward com-ation were responsible for six new ones; art-Hiskey-Shafer, five; former Grand Trustee ace J. Leavitt, one; and Muller-Dunlap-ng, one. That's a total of thirteen for the n. The last named combination did all the k for the new Calaveras Parlor No. 67 at Andreas, which I had the pleasure of insti-ng March 29. This was preceded by a fine s initiation at the old mining town and now e Park of Columbia. Supervising Deputy ller of Sonora took two days off from his job how the visitors over and around that portion he historic Mother Lode Country. Of course, as exceedingly interesting.

Plans Completed For Grand Parlor at Santa Catalina Island

BY THE EDITOR

Plans for the 70th Grand Parlor Session at Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, May 21, 22, 23, 24, are rapidly nearing completion as the Grizzly Bear goes to press and will be complete by the time your magazine reaches you. A tentative program for the 70th Session is included in this issue, but is subject to change.

Your committee has worked very hard towards making this one of the finest Grand Parlors yet held.

True, much important business of the Native Sons of the Golden West will be transacted as plans are laid for the coming year and new officers are elected. But, Grand Parlor is more than this, for it is the time each year when we renew old friendships and make new ones. By bringing members of the Native Sons of the Golden West together from all parts of the state each year, we, each and everyone of us, gain a clearer insight into the size and scope of the organization of which we are all so proud.

The Grand Parlor this year will be on a Pacific Isle, far removed from the noise and hurry of our crowded cities. Catalina Island is ours for this period, with all the facilities of Avalon at our disposal.

You will enjoy your cruise on the Steamer Catalina from Wilmington down Los Angeles Harbor and out across the calm waters of the channel to the coast of Catalina. For a period of some two hours and fifteen minutes you will be on a beautiful, clean, holiday ship, complete with everything you could desire, including a band that plays for dancing. And, as you pass the spots of interest both in the harbor and along the Catalina coastline, they will be pointed out to you by the ship's master of ceremonies.

On the lee side of Catalina you have a thrill in store if you have never seen the flying fishes at play. Authorities claim that they are the biggest in the world in these placid waters. Certain it is, that they can leave the ocean's surface and fly just over the top of the water for a long ways. Then, too, you may see a giant sunfish, or perhaps a whale or two.

As the big white steamer docks at Avalon, you will be charmed with the peaceful quiet and beauty of the Island, with its crystal clear coastal waters where schools of fish may be easily seen. Adding to the spell of enchantment is the sound of golden chimes striking out the quarter hour from their tower on the hillside.

Over on the right as you enter the bay at Avalon is the beautiful Casino, known the world over for its splendor. It is in the immense ballroom on the second floor, overlooking the waters of the bay, where the 70th Grand Parlor Sessions will be held. The decorative and lighting scheme of this marvelous ballroom must be seen to be truly appreciated, and those of us lucky enough to attend this Grand Parlor, will certainly remember it always. It is here, too, that the Grand Ball will be held Friday evening, an event looked forward to each year by Native Sons and their ladies.

Nothing has been overlooked in the entertainment of the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the Natives during the Grand Parlor. Included are a reception at one of the spacious Island homes, the ladies' banquet Thursday evening, and side trips to points of interest on Catalina. Then, too, Friday afternoon has been set aside for a beach party for all, with swimming contests, hot dogs and all the fun that goes with such an occasion.

However, it should be remembered that our Grand Parlor is being held at Catalina before the opening of the season, which is the reason for our being able to obtain the marvelous facilities placed at our disposal. Because of this, some of the things, which are a part of the regular Cataline Island season, will be lacking, and others it has been necessary for your committee to provide for. Hence, this special note from Solly Smith, Chairman of the Food Committee:

"As the regular Catalina Island summer season does not begin until the first of June, sufficient food is not on hand to meet our needs. Therefore, it is necessary for us to provide food for our delegates, and we have contracted with a reputable caterer to prepare and serve our meals during the Convention. Under our contract, we have had to guarantee a certain number of meal tickets in order for him to transport his personnel and food to the Island. This information is being given to delegates and visitors in order that they may know why it will be imperative to purchase at least one $8.00 meal ticket at the time of registration at Catalina."

Again, we repeat, Carl Martin, general chairman, and his committeemen, are leaving no stone unturned to make this one of the finest Grand Parlor Sessions yet held. And, from reservations coming in as we go to press, it promises to have the greatest attendance of any Session in recent years. "—We'll be seeing you."

NATIVE SONS MEET IN COLUMBIA STATE PARK

On Friday evening, March 28th, Native Sons of the Golden West from Tuolumne County gathered in Columbia State Park to witness the initiation of 15 candidates in the Order by Grand Parlor officers.

Grand President R. G. Power of Colusa, Grand 1st Vice President Walter H. Odemar of Los Angeles, Grand 2nd Vice President Walter N. Bailey, Grand Inside Sentinel Walter Hiskey of Santa Ana and Past Grand Trustee Walter C. Richards of Wilmington were present. These officers of the Grand Parlor, assisted by members of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 of Sonora, initiated 15 candidates, 11 for Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 of Sonora and 4 for Columbia Parlor No. 258 of Columbia.

The meeting was a joint meeting of the two parlors with Floyd Grenfel, President of Columbia Parlor presiding.

The Native Sons of the Golden West throughout California assisted in the formation of Columbia Park and are interested in its development. The Grand Officers appreciated the opportunity of attending a meeting in the new Park.

On March 29th the visitors were taken on a tour of the county and shown various landmarks, particularly Bret Harte's cabin and Hangman's Tree above Groveland. It is hoped to have the Grand Parlor assist in preserving thsee landmarks of Tuolumne County.

Calaveras Parlor Is Instituted

Grand President R. G. Power instituted Calaveras Parlor No. 67, Native Sons of the Golden West, Saturday evening, March 29th in the usual Grand Parlor impressive ceremony at the Fraternal Hall in San Andreas, Calaveras County, with a class of 35 charter members. Grand President Power was assisted by Jr. Past Grand President Richard McCarthy, Acting Grand Secretary; Walter H. Odemar, Grand First Vice President, and Acting Grand Marshal Al Gomez, Past President of Stockton Parlor No. 7.

The candidates were initiated by a degree team from Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 of Sonora, Tuolumne County.

Approximately 85 Native Sons from Stockton, Placerville, Elk Grove, Jackson, Murphys, Columbia, Sonora and other localities were in attendance. Also in attendance were Grand Second Vice President Walter N. Bailey, Guy G. Foulks and Harvey Blodgett of Elk Grove Parlor No. 41, Grand Inside Sentinel Walter Hiskey of Santa Ana, Grand Trustee Ellsworth Williard of Camino, Grand Trustee Walter Kamb of Berkeley, Grand Historian Emmett Joy of San Francisco, Past Grand Trustees Walter C. Richards of Wilmington and Walter Rothenbush of Stockton, Frank Smith, member of Grand Parlor Board of Appeals from San Francisco, and Ernest Coleman, Supervising Deputy Grand President from Ukiah.

The organization work of Calaveras Parlor No. 67 was done by R. W. Muller, Supervising Deputy Grand President of Tuilumne Parlor No. 144 in Sonora; Fred Dunlap, Treasurer of Tuolumne Parlor No. 144 of Sonora and Wesley Strong, Grand Outside Sentinel of Stockton Parlor No. 7.

Editor's Note: By vote of the members and permission of the Board of Grand Officers, Calaveras Parlor No. 67 takes its name and number from a former parlor located here.

CALIFORNIA PARLOR PREPARES FOR 72ND ANNIVERSARY OF ORDER

The founder's Charter Parlor, California No. 1, is preparing for their annual observance of the founding of the Order and California Parlor, July 11, 1875.

The following committee was appointed by Pres. L. F. Elower to formulate plans for the seventy-second anniversary: P. Grand Pres. Jesse H. Miller, chairman; Wm. H. James, A. M. Nishkian, Fred Ehlers, Stephen Lalor, William Mancuso, I. Edward Unger, A. L. De Mattei, John Slattery, Donald Brown and Fred May.

Following the custom of the past years all Grand Officers and Past Grand Officers will be invited to attend as well as members of all the Parlors of the Order. Each observance of the anniversary of the founding of California Parlor is being stepped up to lead to a grand celebration of the diamond jubilee in 1950.

which is about a 75% increase in the Membership of that Parlor. Grand 2nd Vice President Walter N. Bailey was very active in this affair and Elk Grove Parlor furnished enough initiatory officers to assist the Grand Officers present. These also included Grand Trustee Williard and Grand Outside Sentinel W. A. (Wes) Strong. The Native Daughters were initiating the same evening, concluding with a buffet supper together and the usual speaking. This manner of combining two organizations has proven very popular and successful where ever tried. In addition, the General John A. Sutter Assembly of the Past Presidents attended to help swell the big crowd, with representatives from a dozen or more Parlors being present.

Grand Parlor is in the minds of all now. The delegates elected in April will have much to look forward to. Many have informed me that there were many more applicants for the positions this year than ever before. It will be worth it, too. My official information shows eight candidates for Grand Trustee, with three vacancies on the Board, and two candidates for Grand Third Vice President. Everything this year seems to be in about that proportion; twice what is was previously.

This will be the last Grizzly Bear "Notes" from me as Grand President. This is strictly my own, but I will try to have a short message in the June issue, devoted mainly to the final membership figures. I know we are all vitally interested in that; our major program for the term.

FIRST ANNUAL DRUM FESTIVAL ANNOUNCED BY TWIN PEAKS

First Annual Drum Festival and Drumming Championship under the auspices of Twin Peaks Parlor, No. 214, Native Sons of the Golden West, will be held on Saturday, June 28, 1947. Individuals and teams will compete at the Scottish Rite Auditorium, Van Ness Avenue and Sutter Street, San Francisco.

Drumming Contests will be held in the following classes, and any person who is a bona fide member of a drumming organization may enter:

Class A Men, Class B Men, Class B Women, Junior Boys, Junior Girls, Duets, Trios, Quartets.

Judging will be done by competent and recognized authorities.

The announcement of the contest has created great interest in drumming organizations in the Bay area. Many individuals and groups have requested applications already.

At the present time, it is planned to start the competition for the Juniors during the morning of June 28th, and the other competitions in the afternoon. The finals will be held in the evening.

A large evening is planned which will include a dance, grand march and presentation of awards.

Entry blanks will be sent to drumming organizations within the near future. If further information is desired, write or contact:

PASADENA PARLOR No. 290 INSTITUTED

Headed by Mrs. Fred Heartt as Charter President, Pasadena Parlor No. 290, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was instituted with impressive rites Friday evening, March 7, in the Altadena Masonic Temple, Grand President Loretta Cameron of San Francisco and her corps of Grand Officers being present to officiate.

Present and assisting were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Assistant Grand Secretary Erma Murray, Grand Trustee Anna T. Schiebusch; Past Grand Presidents, Hazel B. Hansen, Mary B. Noerenberg, Anna Thuesen and Grace S. Stoermer, and Grand Marshal Margaret Farnsworth. Also taking part in the ceremonies were Mrs. Louis Glavinic, Compton, supervising district deputy grand president and Miss Louise Crawford, Los Angeles Parlor, guest organist.

Mrs. Mary Miller, past president of Glendale Parlor, was the organizer of the new parlor and has been appointed its deputy. The fledgling parlor was presented with a beautiful United States Flag by Mrs. A. Spear, Americanism chairman of East Pasadena Unit No. 280, American Legion Auxiliary and past state president of the Legion Auxiliary.

Installed with the charter president at public installation ceremonies were Mrs. Verl Larkey, past president; Mrs. Wilson Weaver, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Lester Vail, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. James Richey, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. L. E. McPherson, recording secretary; Mrs. Ralph Skellenger, financial secretary; Mrs. Marion Kirkpatrick, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Gooden, marshal; Mrs. Clarence Blatz, Mrs. Charles Bailey and Miss Anna Bell Graves, trustees; Miss Janette Paulson, inside sentinel; Mrs. Robert Selby, outside sentinel; Mrs. Martin Hatfield, organist.

Pasadena Parlor No. 290 meets the first and third Fridays at 8 p. m. in the Altadena Masonic Temple.

Twenty-three new members were welcomed into Junipero Parlor No. 141, NDGW of Monterey, when Grand President Loretta Cameron made her official visit on March 20 in the Pacific Grove Masonic Temple. Mrs. Cameron complimented President Mary Lou Arehart, Grand Trustee Elmarie H. Dyke and the officers on the exemplification of the ritualistic work and stated that the class was one of the largest to be initiated thus far during her term of office.

More than 130 members and guests were seated at the banquet which preceded the meeting. Chairman Inez Jakobs and her committee used the Easter theme in the decorations of both the banquet and fraternal halls.

Four candle lighters dressed in pastel formals and carrying pastel candles lighted the candelabrum at the officers' stations and then escorted the Bible bearer to the altar.

The officers and later the Grand President and Grand Trustee Dyke, Past Grand Presidents Bertha A. Briggs and Anne Thuesen, Supervising DDGP Leona Geyer, DGP Elma Liboa and charter members Matilda Bergschicker and Hattie Grimes were escorted to seats of honor by an escort team of ten members in pastel formals carrying tall silver wrapped callas and led by Edith Fadden. Cascarones containing gifts for the visitors were presented.

EASTER PARTY HELD BY ORINDA NATIVE DAUGHTERS

On Friday evening, March 29, Orinda Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, San Francisco, held their regular meeting, followed by an enjoyable evening, with refreshments served in the beautiful dining room of the Native Daughters' Home.

Members who celebrated anniversaries of their birthday during March, were served at a special table, the theme being carried out in the spirit of Easter. Individual place sets, consisted of a lace doily, forming the setting, upon which was placed a colored egg shell filled with candy, nested in green grass. The center piece consisted of a large yellow and orchid basket filled with colored hard boiled Easter eggs. Each celebrant was presented with several colorful eggs from this basket, together with a birthday gift.

Our many thanks go to Mrs. Charlotte Ludemann, a distinguished Sister, for her many long hours in serving us for the past year with such delightful and enticing refreshments and to her assistant, Mrs. Margaret Thornhill. While we have been well represented in the past, we should like to have a larger percentage of our members enjoy the hospitality of these socials.

Castro Parlor Native Daughters of the Golden West No. 178 recently entertained all Past Presidents. A Gay Ninety party was put on with First Vice President Kathleen Bertetta as chairman.

Plans are going forward to entertain all the members' Mothers with a dinner party on May 14.

Grand President Loretta M. Cameron is m ing her last official visit in San Francisco to h own Parlor, Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185, NDG Saturday evening, May 24th at Dovre Hall.

The Committee is making elaborate plans f a lovely evening and expect a large attendan from all parts of the state."

Grand Parlor Plans Given - - -

The Sixty-first Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West will convene in San Francisco on Monday morning, June 16, 1947, under the guidance of Grand President Loretta M. Cameron of Twin Peaks, Parlor No. 185, NDGW San Francisco. The Grand Parlor Sessions will be held in the beautiful Veterans Memorial Building, one of San Francisco's Civic Center buildings. The headquarters of the Convention will be the Whitcomb Hotel.

Tentative plans include in addition to the regular business procedures of Grand Parlor, the following social features: Sunday afternoon, June 15, 1947, dedication of a bronze plaque by the Extension of the Order, NDGW, honoring Ina Coolbrith, poet laureate of California; Sunday evening, Reception honoring Grand Officers; Monday evening, Exemplification of the Ritualistic Work by San Francisco County Deputy Grand Presidents under supervision of Beatrice M. Nishkian, SDDGP, of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158; Tuesday evening, Grand Ball honoring Grand President Loretta M. Cameron; Wednesday, Grand Parlor Luncheon honoring delegates at Whitcomb Hotel; Wednesday afternoon, pilgrimage to Mission Dolores, at which time a bronze marker will be presented by Civic Chairman Ann Dippel in behalf of the Extension of the Order to the Mission Dolores and dedicated by Grand President Loretta M. Cameron; a motor tour of "fabulous San Francisco" concluding at the beautiful California Palace of the Legion of Honor, overlooking the Golden Gate, where tea will be served the delegates.

Installation of newly elected officers will be held at the Veterans Memorial Building on Thursday evening, at which time Grand President Loretta M. Cameron will surrender the gavel to Miss Doris Treat, Grand Vice President, of San Andreas Parlor No. 113, San Andreas. If the Grand Parlor session includes hours enough during the week, tours to San Francisco's shopping districts, Fisherman's Wharf, Golden Gate Park, famous restaurants, and last, but by no means least, a ride on San Francisco's own "piece de resistance"—CABLE CARS.

The 1947 Grand Parlor Convention Committee under the chairmanship of Anne Theusen, Past Grand President of Alta Parlor No. 3, is meeting regularly and forming plans to make the 1947 Grand Parlor one of comfort, pleasure and enlightenment for the many hundreds of delegates and registered visitors throughout California. San Francisco has been called "the city that's hard to leave" and it is the hope of the Convention Committee that our visitors will find it hard to say Aloha as the curtain rings down on the Sixty-first Grand Parlor.

SAN MATEO NDGW DEPUTIES HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Deputy Grand Presidents of San Mateo County Native Daughters held their annual District Meeting at a luncheon at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel on March 15, 1947. Grand President Loretta M. Cameron was the honored guest and was presented with a sterling table service.

Supervising District Deputy Grand President Helen Meyer of El Carmelo Parlor No. 281 presided and opened the session with remarks of welcome. Formal flag salute was lead by Grand Marshal Margaret Farnsworth. Mardelle May of Dolores Parlor, accompanied by Grand Organist Frances Simas, sang the Star Spangled Banner. Past Grand President, Ethel Enos offered the invocation.

The Board of County Supervisors was represented by Chairman, Alvin S. Hatch of Half Moon Bay, who extented greetings in behalf of the County. Mayor Burgess of Menlo Park, Mayor Harris of Burlingame and Supervisors Thomas Hickey and E. R. MacDonald were introduced.

Dr. Frank M. Stanger, Executive Secretary of the San Mateo County Historical Society, spoke on the historical background of San Mateo County and its many historical landmarks and the work of the Society in preserving them.

Past Grand Presidents, Evelyn I. Carlson, Mae B. Wilkin, Orinda Giannini, Mae Himes Noonan and Emily Ryan were present, as was Past Grand President Wayne Millington of the Native Sons. Mrs. Loretta Schertzer, mother of the current Grand President was introduced. A group of fourteen Junior Native Daughters of Menlo Park Unit No. 10 were present and made a presentation of china to Grand President Cameron.

RECORD BREAKING CLASS IS INITIATED BY PRINCESS PARLOR

Twenty-seven candidates, the largest class of candidates ever initiated by a single Parlor in the State of California, were initiated by Princess Parlor No. 84, NDGW of Angels Camp at their meeting held Wednesday, March 12, in the IOOF hall.

In a hall decorated in a profusion of spring flowers, President Mildred Seagle and her corps of officers exemplified the ritualistic work in a most impressive manner.

In honor of the occasion a host of visitors were present. They included Grand Outside Sentinel Ruth Truesdale of Fremont Parlor, San Francisco; Florence Darby, Ruby Parlor, Murphys, Deputy Grand President to Princess Parlor; Mary McClurg, Ruby Parlor, Murphys, Supervising Deputy Grand President of Calaveras County; Rose Josephs, San Andreas Parlor, San Andreas, Deputy Grand Pres. to Ruby Parlor; Lois Josephsen, Princess Parlor, Deputy Grand President to San Andreas; Lulu Mae Gregg, Ivy Parlor, Lodi, Supervising Grand President, of San Joaquin County.

ANTIOCH NATIVE DAUGHTERS PLAN FOR SILVER JUBILEE

Antioch Parlor No. 223, NDGW, Antioch, Contra Costa County, has organized a drill team and extensive plans are being made for a splendid program in celebration of its Silver Jubilee Monday evening, May 5, when Grand President Loretta Cameron pays her official visit to the parlor.

A large class of candidates will be initiated at this time and 19 Charter Members will be given 25-year pins. The drill team is under the direction of Ramona Ackerman.

CORRECTION—

On page 14 of the April issue, in the ad for Eugenia Smith, it states that she is running for "re-election" as grand outside sentinel. This is an obvious error, that all Native Daughters will recognize as such, but for the sake of the record the Grizzly Bear's advertising manager accepts full responsibility for the mistake. Neither the candidate, nor the Parlor placing the ad, had anything to do with this regrettable error.

MARINITA PARLOR DRILL TEAM WINS ST. PATRICK'S AWARD

At a recent meeting of Marinita Parlor No. 198, San Rafael, Marin County, presided over by President Angele Griffith, it was announced that the parlor's Drill Team took second place in the San Francisco St. Patrick's Day Parade and received a beautiful trophy. The team has had numerous other invitations to appear in various parades and celebrations in the near future. Tentative plans are being made to attend the Admission Day Celebration, Sept. 6, 7, 8, 9, in Long Beach, sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters. Guests of the evening were members of Fairfax Parlor No. 225, NDGW.

PINUP BOY . . . "Queen for a Day" Emcee Jack Bailey demonstrates to "Queen" Elaine Gillenberg of Huntington Park, California, the proper way that infants' "underpinnings" should be hung on a clothesline. It all happened when "Queen" Elaine asked that a supply of tri-cornered pants be provided for the Homeless Children's Work.

Mrs. Elaine Gillenberg, president of Rio Hondo Parlor No. 284, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Huntington Park, was named "Queen for a Day," Wednesday, March 26, on the radio program of the same name, which is broadcast daily from Earl Carroll's. Her wish, which resulted in her being named queen, was for 10 dozen diapers to be sent to the Homeless Children Committee, sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Alka-Seltzer, sponsors of the program have arranged for 100 dozen diapers to be presented to the Homeless Children.

Mrs. Gillenberg was accompanied to the program by forty members and prospective candidates of the Native Daughters. Among the many gifts she received were: a combination radio and phonograph, a diamond ring, a complete beauty treatment at Westmores, a trip through the motion picture studios, dancing at the Cocoanut Grove, several new sets of clothes and accessories, and many other items. The day included the services of a limousine, complete with chauffeur and everything that might become a queen.

AS MODEL BOYS . . .

owing the centrifugal force of the airplane's ght to carry him around. It is truly a sight t is an inspiration to anyone.

Another step in the streamlining of the club s the installation of lights for night flying. e capital for this was obtained 100 per cent m the club dues, which are 50c monthly per mber. Most of the manual labor is done club members, whose occupations range from ctricians to musicians, thus making it te handy. Yes, we even have a doctor, but far we haven't needed his professional ser- ea.

As matters stand now, the club meets every iday night where business and the theory of ing is generally hashed over. Actual flying done of Sundays and on Wednesday nights. yone in the club, who wishes, may use the ld in between these periods.

Marvin Crawford, the president, being a radio n by occupation, has installed a fine public dress system over which the club announcer scribes the highlights of each individual per- mance as well as the free-for-alls, when two ten ships are in the air at the same time. The ctators enjoy this very much, and by this ans of attracting them we hope to expand n to a greater extent, and also to promote re modeling.

Our latest enterprise is the setting up of a dog and hamburger stand, which is doing a mendous business, pleasing the spectator as ll as the hobbiest.

Most people are of the opinion that model plane flying is an adult hobby and takes te a bit of money. It is true that the model plane game is dominated mostly by adults, our junior membership is also high. The ngest member being about ten years of age, lds his ships right along with adults, re- ving pointers when necessary from them.

The average cost of the engines is about $20; ships, $7.00 per kit; accessories, $3.00 per ship, thus making an overall cost of about $30 for the initial investment, which is by no means high considering the hours of enjoyment one gets out of it. This is quite a bit of money for a ten year old boy to raise, but, it is far better for his dad to start him off in this super- vised sport than to have him run the streets, getting into trouble. Besides, the motors are usable in many different ships and last a long time. The author has had one such motor for 12 years and it still runs. Yes, there are crack- ups, but it is all in the game. The boys simply patch them up, if not too badly damaged, and put them in the air again.

All things taken into consideration, our main idea in the Balsa Butchers is to promote good sportsmanship and to produce local champions in the field. We hold no prejudice of race, color, creed or religion, respecting the other fel- low and getting along with a minimum of dis- cord. We enjoy being considered constructive rather than destructive and feel that it is to our advantage to promote the organization of other clubs similar to ours.

Thanks is extended to Marvin Crawford, Glen Sharp, Cortez Hoskins, our club photographer and a host of other men who have assisted in the organization and running of what is con- sidered the country's finest model airplane club.

busy day at the Anaheim flying field of e Balsa Butchers. The boys are hard at ork repairing planes, tuning up tiny gas d diesel engines, discussing flight prob- ms, while mothers, fathers, wives and veethearts look on.

A PLEA FOR A CHILD

With this appeal I hope to reach
The hearts of some folks who
Will perhaps just shake your heads
When the stamps come 'round to you.

The Homeless Children Stamps I mean—
You buy them once a year—
That isn't asking much it seems
One dollar's not that dear.

Disaster needs to strike but once—
As far and wide it roams
And an innocent child, tho' not at fault—
Is left without a home.

The children need your help today
Perhaps more than before—
Some are victims of the aftermath
Of a tragic and terrible war.

So open your hearts, and your pocketbooks, too,
And reach right down and give—
So a child without a Mom and Dad
Will have a place to live!

WORK IS STARTED ON CRYSTAL LAKE HATCHERY

The state fish and game commission has announced that work on Shasta county's million-dollar fish hatchery has been started at Crystal Lake by the Evans Construction company and Barton and Anderson of Berkeley. They were recently awarded a contract for $79,700 on the first unit of construction, which includes construction of earthen fish ponds, concrete water control works, a canal and road.

The hatchery is reported to be the largest warm water hatchery in the world. Trout will be reared in it to yearling size in waters running from 58 to 60 degrees.

THE CALAVERAS BIG TREES

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

THE Calaveras Big Trees, "Sequoia Gigantea" is a mammoth grove of big trees situated in a small valley, near the headwaters of the San Antonio Creek in Calaveras County, a few miles east of the historic Mother Lode.

When this species of Redwood was first discovered, it was given the name of "Mammoth Tree"; subsequently it was called "The Big Trees" or "Sierra Redwood." It was called Sequoia Gigantea in honor of Sequo-yah, a Cherokee Indian.

The size of the giant trees varies. Hittel in his "Resources of California", says: "One of the trees which is down—The Father of the Forest—must have been 450 feet high, and 40 feet in diameter."

It is said that John Bidwell, while on a scouting expedition in 1841 came upon the mammoth grove of the Calaveras, the first white man known to have seen this grove. Although the Big Trees was supposed to have been seen by J. Marshall Wooster, Whitehead, and others, as early as 1850, credit for their discovery also is given to A. T. Dowd, a hunter from Murphys, Calaveras County.

The discovery as described from "Scenes in California" by Hutchins, published in San Francisco, 1860, contributed by J. A. Smith in the Calaveras Weekly, 1942, is as follows:

"In the spring of 1852, Mr. A. T. Dowd, a hunter, was employed by the Water Company of Murphys Camp, Calaveras County, to supply the workmen engaged in the construction of their canal with fresh meat from the large quantities of game running wild on the upper portions of their work. Having wounded a bear, and while industriously following in pursuit, he suddenly came on one of these immense trees, that have since become so justly celebrated throughout the civilized world. All thoughts of hunting were absorbed and lost in the winter and surprise inspired by the scene.

"Surely," he mused, "this must be some curiously delusive dream," but the great realities standing there before him were convincing proof, beyond a doubt that such were no fanciful creations of his imagination.

When he returned to camp, and there related the wonders he had seen, his companions laughed at him and doubted his veracity, which previously they had considered to be very reliable. He affirmed his statement to be true, but they still thought it "too much of a story to believe"—thinking that he was trying to perpetrate upon them some first-of-April joke.

For a day or two he allowed the matter to rest—submitting with chuckling satisfaction, to the jocular allusions to "his big tree yarn," and continued his hunting as formerly. On the Sunday morning following, he went out as usual, and returned in haste, evidently excited by some event. "Boys," he exclaimed, "I have killed the largest grizzly bear that I ever saw in my life. While I am getting a little something to eat, you make preparations to bring him in. All had better go that can possibly be spared, as their assistance will certainly be needed.

As the big tree story was now almost forgotten, or by common consent laid aside as a subject of conversation, and moreover as Sunday was a leisure day—and one that generally hangs the heaviest of the seven on those who are shut out from social intercourse with friends, as many Californians unfortunately are—the tidings were gladly welcomed; especially as the proposition was suggestive of a day of excitement.

Nothing loath, they were soon ready for the start. On, on they hurried with Dowd as their guide, through thickets and pine groves; crossing ridges and canyons, flats and ravines, each relating in turn the adventures experienced with grizzly bears and other formidable tenants of the forests, until their leader came to a dead halt at the foot of the tree he had seen, and to them had related the size. Pointing to the immense trunk and lofty top he cried out, "Boys, do you now believe my big tree story? That is the large grizzly I wanted you to see. Do you still think it a yarn?"

Their doubts were changed to amazement and confessing that although they had been caught by a ruse of their leader, they were abundantly rewarded by the gratifying sight they had witnessed, and as they found other trees equally as large, they became willing witnesses not only to the entire truthfulness of Mr. Dowd's account, but also of the fact, that like the confession of a certain Persian queen, concerning the wisdom of Solomon, "the half had not been told."

GUY FOULKS says:

It's great to take the wheel
Of a smart new OLDSMOBILE.
You'll be fresh when you arrive,

What a happy day it will be for you—
when your OLDSMOBILE is here.

In 1897, two dollars paid to the livery stable man would rent a "rig" like this for a Sunday afternoon. If a "horseless carriage" came snorting down the road, you got out and held your coat over Dobbin's head. McKinley was president. The songs you sang were "A Hot Time in the Old Town" and "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." People were asking for Zobelein's beer, "that East side beer." Yes, sir, that's how Eastside got its name.

UNDERSEAS LOG

Few there are who realize that beneath the surface of Monterey Bay live the greatest variety of plant life and sea creatures to be found anywhere in the seven seas. Less than a hundred yards to seaward of old Monterey and sixty feet stright down there is a strange watery fairyland. Fish radiate in glowing colors. The soft brilliance of the waters disclose exotic flowers and grasses ever moving. The colors are of brilliant pastel shades of red, green, blue and bronze.

This is a story of a deep sea diver's experiences in this underwater world. A story of Eddie Bushnell taken from his records as told by M. O'Moran. The narrative of this strange sea world is so graphically told that the reader hesitates to lay aside the book even for an instance.

Others have written of Monterey's famous fishing fleet and cannery row but none have more accurately described these men who make a living from the sea. The great canneries, in order to facilitate unloading of the shimmering tons of fish from the sardine boats, have erected submarine pipelines that extend along the ocean floor for a thousand feet out to sea. Here are anchored great floating hoppers that connect to the pipe lines with some seventy-five feet of hose. Into these gaping yaws go the sardine catch. Suction pulls the fish through the pipe to the cannery sheds.

These fish lines must be in perfect working order. Storms and beating seas cause havoc. It is the diver's dangerous task to build and keep them in operation.

"Underseas Log" is a story of lost ships and golden treasure, diving to recover lost articles and searching for grimmer objects. It is a story of terrorizing moments when rough seas tangle the air and life lines, where quick thinking and action alone mean life.

Perhaps the pre-historic sea serpent of Monterey Bay is a product of imagination but Bushnell's encounters with killer whales and an octopus are grippingly real.

There's the story too, of how the extinct sea otter was re-discovered along the rock bound coast south of Monterey. These sea otter were perhaps the chief reason for early California colonization. Down the coast from Alaska came the Russians in search of the valuable fur. A hundred years ago they were thought to be all extinct. Then in 1938 an intrepid photographer who thought more of photographs than he did his own life proved otherwise.

Mabel O'Connell Moran, author of "Underseas Log," has had many of her stories published in the nation's leading magazines. Though she has traveled from Canada to the South Pacific, she is a permanent resident of Monterey Peninsula.

Printed by the Caxton Printers, "Underseas Log"—$4.00.

PLACERITA NATIVE DAUGHTERS HOLD SUCCESSFUL BENEFIT STYLE SHOW

Net proceeds totaling $75 resulted from the Homeless Children benefit luncheon and style show presented Saturday, March 29, by Placerita Parlor No. 277, NDGW, Van Nuys, Los Angeles County. In attendance were 170 guests for the Pre-Easter fashion show, which emphasized the new silhouette. Tarus Chandler, film starlet, was guest of honor and also modeled in the show. Members of the parlor were mannikins and all gowns were from valley shops. Mary Post was in charge of the event, assisted by Eleanor King.

The WELLS FARGO HISTORY ROOM, located in the bank's building at 30 Montgomery St., contains relics of pony express and covered wagon days; an original Hangtown stagecoach; early western franks and postmarks, firearms, pictures and documents.

opinions expressed herein are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

s the Grizzly Bear celebrates its 40th Birth- it would be interesting to know if anyone, des the magazine itself, has a complete file ll the issues since the Grizzly Bear first saw light of day in May, 1907.

P. Kiefer of Ramona No. 109, Native Sons he Golden West, Los Angeles, says that his are complete from Volume 1, No. 1, on ugh the years up until three or four years ago. Mrs. Bertha A. Briggs, Past Grand President the. Native Daughters of the Golden West, llister, writes that her subscription files are plete for more than 20 years.

an anyone match or top these records? We'd to hear from you.

hen we realize that 40 years have passed e the founding of your magazine and that happenings of the days of the Grizzly have me history; that the magazine was born two s before your editor; that we cannot help feel humble as we realize some of the respon- lity of our small part in helping to guide the iny of this publication.

he story of those 40 years is contained in the s of the Grizzly Bear, which are today his- cal reference material, if one had but the e to go through them. Much of the material tained in those pages has later found itself book form, for many well-known California ers of the past and present have had their y work on subjects that later made them ous, published first in your magazine.

es, those 40 years of achievement are some- g that every Native Son and Daughter may l be proud of.

ypographical errors are something that turn y editor's hair gray before his time. And the zly Bear is no exception. Sometimes these graphicals are our mistakes and sometimes could blame them on the printer. But if we 't catch them until after the magazine is off press it does no good to blame anybody. They there and that is all there is to it. Natur- , if it is a glaring error and is apt to hurt e individual, parlor or locality, we try to run orrection in the next issue. Otherwise, all we can do is to redouble our efforts to vent fewer slips in the future.

lowever, our readers constantly pick up these takes, often phoning us or dropping a note he Grizzly Bear. We rather welcome hearing n our readers about these typographicals ause it indicates that the magazine is read also enables us to keep a closer check on rs that we, otherwise, might overlook.

ne of our readers, on an unsigned post card, s attention to the fact that in the March issue credited a well-known Los Angeles County with belonging to the Native Daughters (We NDGW instead of NSGW).

le also calls our attention to the fact that we a column, "California 75 Years Ago, as com- d from the files of the Grizzly Bear." The t Office Entry information gives "Entered as Second Class Matter, May 29, 1918." Therefore our correspondent concludes that we are only 27 years old and asks "how come?"

Well, as a matter of fact, the Grizzly Bear first began publishing in May, 1907, according to our masthead, and hasn't missed an issue since. It was originally entered under another act. That was before the Act of August 24, 1912, was passed by Congress. Hence, we are 40 years old, instead of 27.

As regards "California 75 Years Ago, as compiled from the files of the Grizzly Bear Magazine", we admit that it is a little confusing and perhaps, misleading. Ever since we started publishing the column we have searched for a more appropriate title, but so far, in vain.

The story behind the column is this. For many years, the late Clarence M. Hunt published a column, "California News of a Half Century Ago," which was compiled from newspaper files of 50 years before by Thomas R. Jones. We simply go back 25 years in the files of the Grizzly Bear and pick up the most interesting items from that column, re-printing them in the same language in which they were written in that day. We are not attempting to take the credit from Thomas R. Jones, and the situation bothers us.

Now, if someone will give us a suitable title with the necessary swing to it, without "going clear around the barn" to explain, we will certainly be grateful.

Speaking of typographicals—Shirk Brothers in Pasadena know that their ad in the Grizzly Bear is read. For awhile it listed them as being on Navarro Street, when as a matter-of-fact they are located on Navarro Avenue. People wishing to patronize Native Sons, went to considerable trouble to look them up and called their attention to the error. This happened not once, but a number of times. The ad has been corrected and Shirk Brothers have a number of new customers.

Hardly a mail goes by, but what your magazine receives requests from various sections of the country, particularly the middle west, asking for copies of the Grizzly Bear. Libraries and schools are using it for reference work. A Native Son found a copy of it reposing on a desk in Florida. A tourist bureau in Mexico City doesn't want to miss an issue. And, at Christmas Time, copies of the magazine were flown to England, sent by a Native Son, who wanted friends over there to read about California.

For years the Grizzly Bear has been called "The All California Monthly," or "A Magazine Devoted to All California." Both slogans are slightly out-of-date and do not have the necessary appeal to them. So, perhaps we need a new one. Anybody got any ideas? Send them in and let's see what we can work out to further modernize and describe your magazine.

The Grizzly - 40 Years Ago

A RESUME OF THE FIRST ISSUE, MAY, 1907

THIS is the Fortieth Anniversary Number of the Grizzly Bear Magazine. Forty years is a long time and many things have come to pass since the first issue of the magazine in May, 1907. Two World Wars have been fought in by the United States, and in them, California has played her just part. During these forty years our beloved state has grown from a comparative small outpost of empire on the Pacific Coast to become one of the greatest states of the Union.

During those forty years, hundreds of publications have come to life in this Golden State and hundreds more have fallen by the wayside. But the Grizzly Bear has come through thick and thin, war, prosperity and depression, never missing an issue, and carries on today with a circulation of more than 24,000, the largest in its history, the envy of many another magazine.

Because this issue celebrates our Fortieth Year of service to the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West and to the great State of California, it is fitting that we turn back to the files of the first Grizzly Bear in May, 1907 and give a resume of the magazine in that by-gone day, when J. Rush Bronson was the editor and J. L. LeBerthon held the position of business manager.

On page six at the conclusion of an extensive editorial department is a picture of a monument erected in San Francisco July 4, 1906, in memory of the California Volunteers, Spanish-American War, 1898, and inscribed with the words "First to the Front." James D. Phelan was chairman of the citizens committee and the sculptor, Douglas Tilden, was a native of Chico and a member of the Order of Native Sons.

A story based on the life and activities in the shipping business of Cornelius Vanderbilt, known as the "Old Commodore," is called "An Ocean Pioneer" and is published under the by-line "Hidalgo."

M. L. Planel, of the Conservatory of Paris, violinist and composer and a member of California Parlor No. 1, San Francisco, retained his membership although he resided in Paris. He and his wife formed a society for the aid of young women from California and the United States who were seeking a musical education in the French city.

A story, "Protection of California Products" by Lewis E. Aubury, informs that when arrangements were being made to construct a United States Government Court House and Post Office in the City of Los Angeles, the government architect, asserting that suitable stone could not be procured locally, had decided to use sandstone imported from Rawlin's quarry in Wyoming. When Californians discovered this they inquired and found the California producers of building stone had received no request for bids. Quick action on the part of Governor Pardee, a Native Son, resulted in the use of California materials in constructing the building.

The Hon. Joseph R. Knowland (PGP-NSGW), then president of the California Historical Landmarks League, wrote a story on the subject, which we all know is so dear to his heart. Officers of the league were chosen mostly from the ranks of Native Sons and Daughters.

The relic committee of Placerville Parlor, Native Sons, received four interesting pieces from James Creighton of Smith's Flat. They consisted of a flag and staff, a sword and a pick, all interesting reminders of the gold rush days. The banner was presented by a group of ladies to the Smith Flat unit of the Bank's Guard in 1864 (organization similar to the National Guard). The sword was used by an officer of the guard and the pick was used by Creighton's father in the early fifties.

La Fiesta Parlor No. 236, NSGW, was instituted four months previous to the publishing of the first issue of The Bear, and on the occasion of the visit of Grand Vice President Judge M. T. (Mike) Dooling was well represented at a district meeting.

An article on the condition of the roads of the state, reports that the demands of the rich for improvement had now joined the plaints of the poor, who, before the days of the automobile raised his voice in vain.

A new California play, "Under the Bear Flag," was presented in the Burbank theater, Los Angeles. The review says, "'Under the Bear Flag' is one of the best and truest pictures of early California life so far written and was given an elaborate production by Mr. Morosco. The play is dedicated to the Native Sons of the Golden West." The author was Dr. C. W. Bachman.

Professor Thaddeus S. C. Lowe is extolled as the man who provided a system of making gas, which made lighting and refrigeration in Los Angeles possible at a feasible rate.

Grand Trustee Clarence E. Jarvis attempted to visit parlors in his district, but when he sailed aboard the steamer Corona, November 18, 1906, the ship, because of stormy weather lay outside the Humboldt bar for eighteen hours be- in time to attend a meeting November 19, and fore attempting a crossing. He arrived in Eureka made the rounds of the parlors in Humboldt County.

A page devoted to the Native Daughters states that the Native Daughter Home was destroyed by the great conflagration of April, 1906. The help of the Order to those who were in need of clothing was outstanding. The contribution of Mrs. Wm. R. Hearst toward the outfitting of the destitute with sewing machines and materials was lauded.

Copo de Oro Parlor, NDGW and Fremont Parlor, NSGW, accepted an invitation to furnish a memorial bed in the Hazel Hawkins Memorial Hospital being completed currently in Hollister.

Orinda Parlor 56 and Gabrielle No. 139, Native Daughters, celebrated Arbor Day by planting a tree on the road fronting the home of the Grand Vice President, Emma G. Foley, San Anselmo. El Pajaro Parlor No. 35 received Grand President Eva Bussenius of Los Angeles at an official visit.

The recently organized Long Beach Parlor No. 154 met to ballot on new members. In charge of the meeting were Mrs. Dale Cooper and Misses Lottie Miller and Irene Phillips.

San Jose was making a bid for the coming Admission Day celebration with a page of pictures and a detailed description of the city. Pictures of La Fiesta de Los Angeles are contained in an elaborate full page spread.

The back cover contained a paid page political advertisement placed by the City of Berkeley advocating the passage of Senate Bill No. 850, asking for the moving of the state capitol from Sacramento to the university city. The matter was to be placed on the ballot in the month of November, 1908, according to the provisions of the bill and the move to be made the following year, if the measure passed.

Berkeley's Gold Rush of 1904

By CLARA M. BARTON
SEQUOIA PARLOR, N.D.G.W.

NOT to be outdone by the Gold Rush of 1 Berkeley decided to stage a more mo gold rush herself. And it all started when J P. Cook, who refused to reveal his address occupation, except that it was in Berkeley, tramping around in the hills north of the stad hunting rabbits, in the spring of 1904.

Cook had planned on this hunting trip himself for quite some time, but he did not alize that he was to create an embryonic strike or to cause a furor among the gr natives. In fact, his experience seemed to confused him somewhat. However, when spied his bunny, he took careful aim and f The rabbit had just popped out of his hole, the momentum of the bullet pushed Peter Ra down into his own backyard. Cook, undisma reached down after him and hauled out a sized rock, instead of the hare.

Upon closer observation, Cook found it tained gold. He had the rock assayed and f that the surrounding rocks contained gold va at $10.65 per ton. He wasted no time in f a claim, locating a good lawyer and returne his strike with a pick, shovel and gravel shi It was then that some of the citizens sp him and began to shadow him, but Cook membering what had happened to poor old Su decided to play a shrewd game by cle dodging the gold-crazy people. He did be so exasperated with the constant following he sat himself down and wrote a public l giving the "truth" of his discovery and tha would refuse to give any more information his plans had matured. Anyway, the cu people were very annoying.

But unlike Oliver Martin, who struck a $ gold nugget while digging his partner's g the Indian who found a rich mine by ch a rabbit down a hole, and the Australian realized a fortune by examining a shiny roc was about to throw at a wood pigeon, Joh Cook failed to amass a fortune out of his r hole and Berkeley's 20th century gold s faded quickly. But some of the 1947 wou miners at the University of California still lieve that "dar is gold in them there hills," so far they have been unable to find it.

WRITE PLAINLY

Nobody likes to have their name misp In order to avoid errors, in sending in your notes to the Grizzly Bear, you should be that the names are spelled correctly and pl If you cannot type your notes, then take sp pains to see that names, etc., can be read. often, people write "O" and "A", much the do not dot their "i's", thus confusing them "E." They also make "N" and "V" muc same. "B" and "H" also look alike when riedly written. The trouble comes in the l case letters. An editor can generally dec capitals, but often has to make a poor at the rest of a name. That is one of the re that many publications will not consider that is not typewritten. So, please be care

You will greatly help your magazine if will mention the Grizzly Bear in patronizing it vertisers. Many who advertise, especially who do a mail-order business, judge their by mention of the periodicals in which the vertise. If you do not do this, the credit to magazine is lost.

The past twelve months have produced the greatest increase in the history of our Order: More members, more new parlors. The approaching Centennials of the discovery of gold in '48, the migration of '49, climaxing the admission of California to the Union in '50, will attract thousands of eligibles to our Order as certainly as it will millions of visitors to "The Golden State." Today we stand on the threshold of our own golden opportunity.

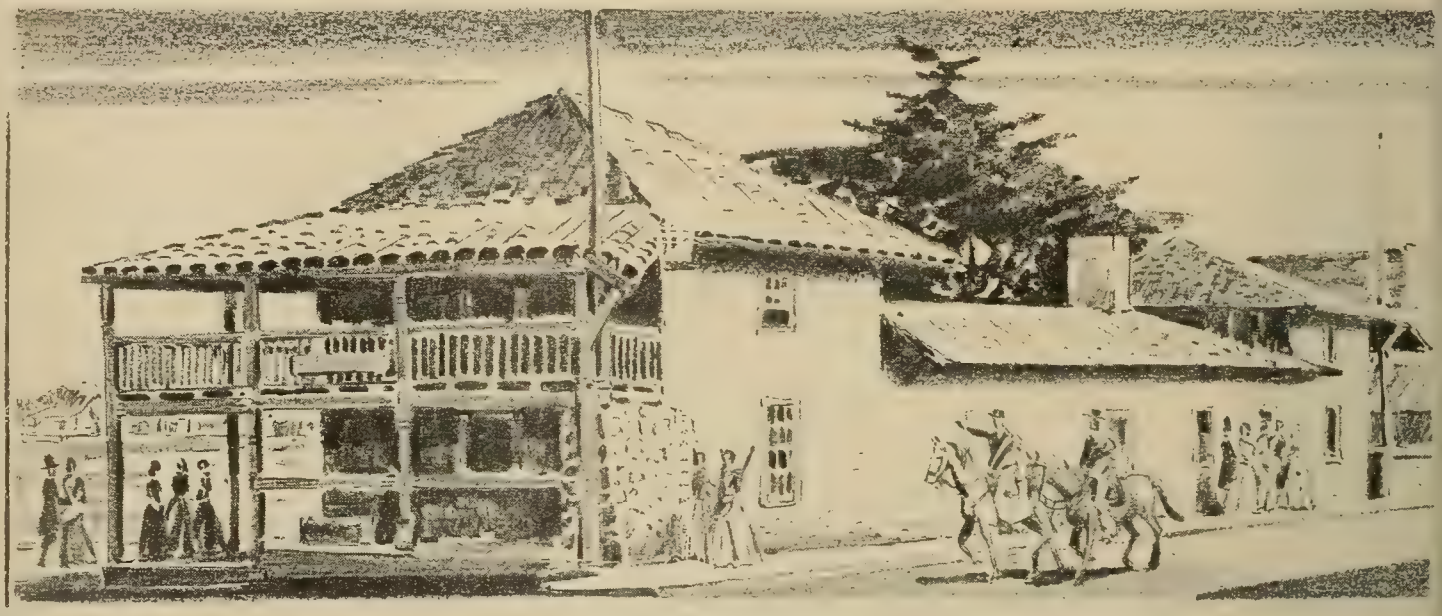
Grand President N. S. G. W.

In the Footsteps of Commodore Sloat

California's First Gas Company--1852



WHEN the Commodore raised the Stars and Stripes over Monterey Customs House in 1846, life in California was crude and uncomfortable. Homes were lighted by candles or whale-oil and kerosene lamps. Streets were unpaved and dark.

The Americanization of sleepy Mexican California came in lightning changes. First the gold rush with its hordes of fortune hunters. They turned the easy-going pueblos into boom towns. With them came men with ideas.

Six years after the American occupation of Monterey a company was formed in San Francisco in 1852 to light streets and stores and houses with coal gas. That was the San Francisco Gas Company, earliest member of what now is Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Progress never has ceased since that day. The new company started supplying gas in 1854. Then came electricity in 1879. Hundreds of little gas and electric companies gradually but finally were merged into the present P. G. and E.

Today this Company serves nearly all of Central and Northern California. It has more than a million electric and 800,000 gas customers. They enjoy at low cost all the advantages of quick automatic gas heat and electric power and light. They have comforts and conveniences Commodore Sloat never dreamed were possible.

P. G. and E. electricity and natural gas operate the machines of growing California industry; they help produce the state's rich crops; they provide light, power and heat to tens of thousands of commercial users.

This Company soon will celebrate its centennial. It then will look forward to the next hundred years of growth and improvement, planning always ahead of demand —a P. G. and E. habit.

A restaurant in one of our California cities has in its window a menu printed in San Francisco shortly before the turn of the century. The menu explains why the '90's were gay: Porterhouse steak, 20 cents; sirloin steak, 15 cents; beefsteak (Spanish Style), 10 cents; ham, fried or boiled, 10 cents.

The payoff is a banner line across the bottom; "Single rooms, per week, $1."

George Skaff, winner of the 1946 Grand Parlor Public Speaking contest at Hobergs last May, was the guest newscaster on the Richfield News over the National Broadcasting Company Thursday evening, May 1, in observance of Boys' Week . George is a senior this year at John Marshall High School, Los Angeles, and wrote us right after winning the state-wide championship, that he was going to take a summer course in radio broadcasting. George, you did very well. Your voice carries good over the air and the Native Sons may well be proud of you.

We see by the papers that our good friend, George Hoberg of Hoberg's, Lake County, is planning a hostelry down in Borego Valley, eastern San Diego County. This desert country can't be beat in the winter months when it's cold and wet on the coast side of the mountains. Good luck to you, George.

While it is true that one born without the borders of our beloved California can not become a member of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West , those of us who have occasion to work for the good of the Orders throughout the state, realize that many of those most interested in the work that we are doing, and our strongest supporters, were born outside of California.

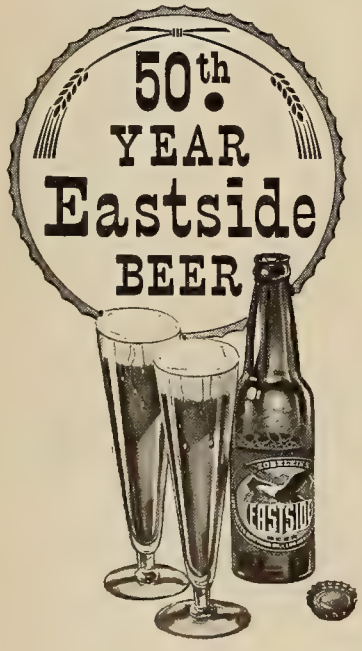
CORRECTIONS . . . .



In the March issue of the Grizzly on Pa 19, referring to the story dealing with California Parlor, Mrs. Belle Maguire is a member of Sisson family of Shasta County. Again, in April issue, page 15, in the story of the South Counties Past Presidents' Assn., it is Charlo V. Carpenter, organist, and not "Grace." one case, the error was made through reporter's habit of making the small letter " like most people make the small letter "U". the second, we ran the copy as it was given us. As these errors have apparently been caus the parties concerned some embarrassment, Grizzly is glad to make these corrections. should, however, emphasize the necessity of be sure of names when sending in stories, and very plain in your spelling.

Silver Sands Parlor No. 286, Huntington Bea Orange County, recently presented an Honor Life Membership to Mary Dinwiddie Reed, pioneer resident of Huntington Beach. Mrs. R was born in Sutter County, 1864, coming Orange County in 1903. In her honor, Sil Sands has adopted a baby girl from the Ho less Children and named it Mary Reed.

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

The 4th and 17th of June, 1872, showers fell different parts of California. The 20th a hot ve passed over the state and prevailed for sev- l days. Business, on account of the sultry ather, was partly suspended the afternoon of 21st. That same day the thermometer at aheim, Orange County, went to 112 in the ade; at Cloverdale, Sonoma County, it mounted 115 and to over 100 in the interior valleys.

A brilliant meteor passed slowly over San Fran- co at 7:53 p.m. June 18, going northwest. In pearance, it resembled two comets moving side side, and the tail of one being a light rose or. It was in view several minutes, and thou- ds came upon the streets to witness it.

A blast of 3500 pounds of giant powder was d in the hydraulic mine of Harriman & Taylor Dutch Flat, Placer County, June 26, and did at execution in cracking the bank of the te.

Harvesting of grain was in progress, with a rcity of labor. $50 a month and board were ng offered by San Joaquin County farmers to p, and this was considered a big wage at the e.

General Bidwell, on his rancho at Chico, Butte nty, had 2000 acres of wheat that was yield- thirty bushels to the acre. He also had a herd 1100 cattle, a flock of 3500 sheep, and 1200 s.

The army worm made its appearance in Yuba, o and Sutter Counties, and was doing much nage.

Politics began to attract public attention. The ublican National Convention renominated neral U. S. Grant for president and Henry son for vice-president June 6. Ratification tings were being held and salutes fired in erent towns.

The Democratic State Convention was held in Francisco June 19. J. W. Coffroth was ident and Jos. Beard secretary. It elected delegates to attend the national convention at timore in July: Wm. M. Gwin, C. T. Ryland, G. Downey, G. D. Roberts, J. C. Wolfskill, nk McCoppin, Henry George, Eugene Casserly, es H. Hardy.

woman's suffrage convention met in San ncisco June 18. Mrs. Wiggins was president and Mrs. J. T. Roberts secretary. There was not a large attendance, but the meeting made up in talk what it lacked in numbers. The proceedings were enlivened by the appearance of a prominent dentist, who had shaved from one side of his face his mustache and whiskers; he announced he was half woman and half man, and was determined to wear his whiskers and mustache that way. A great disturbance ensued when the police had to forcibly remove him. He had gone insane over an invention to obtain oxygen cheaply.

A woman named Mrs. Frost took the opposite side and June 22 delivered an anti-woman's suffrage address in Platt's Hall, which became a scene of great disorder. Led by Mrs. Emily Pitt Stevens, a number of the suffragists disturbed the meeting. Assemblyman David Meeker rebuked Mrs. Stevens and she, with a weapon in her hand, demanded an apology. The meeting ended in a general disturbance.

An artesian well at Compton, Los Angeles County, 150 feet in depth, was throwing out a volume of water with an occasional live fish about two inches long resembling a small trout. This was considered to indicate the source of supply was from mountain streams miles away.

Cornelius Veheof, a lad of Columbia, Tuolumne County, while hunting for the family cow, sat down on a quartz rock to rest. Picking at the vein he knocked off a piece of quartz which showed gold and, taking it home, it was found to yield $2. His father located what was expected to develop into a valuable quartz mine.

Thomas Scott, president of the Texas Pacific Railroad, arrived with a party of engineers and sailed from San Francisco June 18 for San Diego, to begin active operations from there.

Alexander Goodenough arrived in San Francisco June 29, twenty-two days from Puget Sound, in a cigar-shaped boat twenty-one feet long. He came near being wrecked by a school of whales when he sailed into them. He and the boat went on exhibition at Woodward's Garden.

William Wallace, a one-legged mining man of Grass Valley, Nevada County, stumping around Howard Hill June 23, picked up a quartz boulder weighing eight pounds that contained over five pounds in gold, valued at $1000.

A fire June 13 burned the hoisting works and other buildings at the Eureka shaft in the Hayward mine at Sutter Creek, Amador County. A score of miners at work in the lower levels had to escape through a connecting shaft. Thos. Frakes, night boss, was descending in the bucket when the engineer had to leave his place, and he was dropped to the bottom and severely injured by the fall. The fire was still burning in the shaft at the end of the month, doing $100,000 damage.

Wm. Doty, on the road to Colusa the evening of June 5, met two men who assaulted and robbed him. He died June 29 from the effects of his injuries.

Wm. Nourse, a miner going to Whiskey Town, Shasta County, with his cleanup June 15, was met by two highwaymen. He was knocked senseless and robbed of $310 in gold dust.

A small rooster that perched on the truck of a freight car at Omaha, Nebraska, arrived safely in Sacramento after a trip of several weeks. It got off at different stations en route when the car stopped, picked up food, and returned to its roosting place when the car started to move. The trainmen gave it protection, after becoming aware of its location, and it departed for San Francisco crowing lustily.

FIRST CALIFORNIA PUBLIC SCHOOL ACQUIRED FOR COLUMBIA STATE PARK

Purchase recently at public sale by the Columbia Historic Park Association of Columbia's obsolete red brick schoolhouse means the acquisition of the corner stone upon which the boundaries of Columbia State Park will be based.

Recently designated as the northern focal boundary of Columbia State Park, the two-story building, erected in 1861 and condemned for school use in 1936, occupies a commanding site on Burial Hill overlooking the town. Said to be California's first brick public schoolhouse, the structure was put up for sale by the historically-minded trustees of the Columbia Elementary School District so that the building might be restored and preserved as a monument to California's early day public school system. The schoolhouse and its site comprising 1.68 acres will be deeded as a gift to the State of California, according to Dr. James E. McConnell, Columbia, President of the Columbia Historic Park Association.

It was on July 15, 1945 when Governor Earl Warren and his entire staff made an epochal journey and converted this historic village into the "Capitol City of California" for a day.

Also on that date he signed the bill, authored by Senator Mayo, which paved the way for acquisition by the State Park Commission of the entire business section of this ghost town, said to be the best preserved of early California's gold mining camps. In signing the bill the Governor declared that he hoped Columbia could be so restored and preserved that school children could learn first-hand new details of California's early history, for history, he said, is important in teaching democracy. It is his ambition, he said, to make Columbia the "Williamsburg of the West," pointing out that Williamsburg, Va., has been restored to pre-revolutionary condition and now is one of the shrines of America.

The State Park Commission, J. R. Knowland, Oakland publisher, chairman, has now obtained title to more than seventy-five per cent of the property to be included in Columbia State Park. Restoration work is scheduled to start this year in preparation for the gold centennial years.

CARPINTERIA'S "WARD TORREY PINE"

Since the beginning of time trees have provided shelter for animu and have been man's friend. They are used to build our homes, sto and offices; they provide shade and offer year-'round protection; th beautify our lawns, provide warmth, and offer to mankind their bea for all time.

Carpinteria, Santa Barbara County, has two famous landma that are well-known in Botanic circles. One, "Carpinteria's Gi Eugenia," is probably the largest of its kind in California; the oth Carpinteria's nationally famous "Ward Torrey Pine," is believed be the largest Torrey Pine in existence. Both trees are recommend by the California Association of Park administrators as two o select list of 65 trees suitable for parkway planting in southwest United States.

The "Ward Torrey Pine" (pictured here), comes from the pi torreyana species. This magnificent specimen, largest known tor pine, is located in the gardens of Wardholme on Highway 101 acr from the Justices' Court building. The tree is believed to have b brought from Santa Rosa Island by Thomas W. Ward in 1890. branches spread over 106 feet and it is nearly 100 feet tall. Like "Eugenia," it dwarfs all surrounding trees.

The Torrey pine is a native of two limited areas, those being eastern end of Santa Rosa Island and northern San Diego cou Botanists describe the pine as "a small crooked or sprawling tree its native habitant, having long, stiff, grayish-green needles in hund of five." —Photo courtesy Carpinteria Herald.

Tracy History; Starting With Horse, Ending With Streamliner

By DAVE J. WELCH

I have only been acquainted with the West Side of San Joaquin county since 1899, so telling you "Old Timers" about the history of the territory you were born in is like skating on thin ice. But the research work necessary for this address to the West Side Pioneer Society Sunday, March 23, has taken me back almost a century, so I feel safe, especially where the railroad history is concerned.

The Mountain House, in Livermore hills, and only half an hour from Tracy, the way we travel today, seems to be the oldest noted place in the early days as I could find no date of its origin. It was a stopping place for horse stages and freight teams on the old Emigrant Trail, that came through Altmont canyon and ran northeast past the site of the present Holly sugar mill to Tom Paine slough and the White House, along Tom Paine slough to the Banta Inn, and thence to Doak and Bonsell's pioneer ferry. This old Emigrant Trail was abandoned after the Grant Line road was constructed.

San Joaquin City started on the San Joaquin river in 1849 and aspired to become the center of navigation for this part of the valley. But this was too far to haul grain and produce from the Livermore valley, and coal was being hauled out of Corral Hollow, so sailing boats from San Francisco loaded this freight from the bank of Old River, at a point about one mile from the present site of Bethany that was named Wickland in 1861. It is claimed that 1800 tons of coal was hauled from Corral Hollow with teams and shipped from the site of Wickland between 1856 and 1861. John Mohr and his brother Henry, sailed a freight boat between San Francisco and Wickland, bringing lumber and other supplies to the Westside and hauling back freight to San Francisco. They sold groceries from the boat until a store was opened at Wickland. The name Wickland was changed to Mohr's Landing after John Mohr secured a large tract of land and built a wharf and warehouse, and the settlement of Mohr's Landing prospered.

Henry C. Banta came to Tulare township in 1850 and started sheep raising. Later he bought the hotel on the old Emigrant Trail on Tom Paine slough and named it Banta Inn. This hotel was built in 1849 to take care of travelers from San Jose and the southern mines. It was located one-half mile north of the present site of Banta, in a country then heavily timbered. Fire destroyed the old historic inn and Henry Banta moved his family and possessions where the Southern Pacific station of that name now stands. He later moved to a building on his land that had been used by his sheep herders, and improved it into a stopping place so it became very popular with the stockmen who traveled that way. This was a rough country in those days and historians tell of five Mexicans being hung by the "Cow Vigilantes" on April 28, 1851, for cattle rustling.

The San Joaquin valley was a great place for fish and wild game in the early days. Elk, deer and antelope roamed the valley and grizzly bears came down from the hills in May and June to eat berries along the banks of rivers. The last elk was killed near Mohr's and I read that John Mohr would catch two tons of fish in one night, sturgeon, perch and black and striped bass. I imagine he used a net. Catfish were planted in valley streams in later years. Hiram Hamilton and a party of men encountered a band of 700 antelope on a trip from Mountain House to Grayson in 1856. But progress that would soon change all this, had come to the West.

The railroad side of Tracy started in 1869 when the line through Niles connected Sacramento and Oakland. Pushers for the Altamont grade started at Ellis, three miles west of the present site of Tracy. A spur hauled coal from Corral Hollow to Ellis.

Having a railroad so close, shipping of freight by boats was too slow, so the settlement at Mohr's Landing moved over to Ellis and brought the buildings with them and Ellis became quite a town. According to the town plats of both Ellis and Banta which were recorded with the County Recorder in 1871, both had hopes for a large population. But when the gap betw Martinez and the San Joaquin valley was clo and the San Pablo and Tulare railroad connec with the Central Pacific at a point three m east of Ellis, on September 8, 1878, Tracy born and Ellis was doomed. John Mohr m have been a progessive man for he deeded l to the new railroad with the understanding t the name of the station at the site of Betha would be Mohr's station.

In 1878 the Port Costa line connected at point where Tracy now stands. Ellis moved do body and soul. Jim Eagan headed the f rail families to move to Tracy. In 1892 Westside line through Los Banos added to prestige of Tracy. In 1894 all the equipment employes of Lathrop moved to Tracy and freight division point has been here since t time.

One-half mile of business houses lined Fi street (now 6th street) when a fire started an eating house June 19, 1898, and when smoke cleared away there was very little Fabian and company rebuilt a permanent build at Central avenue and Sixth that still sta and Charlie Slack rebuilt a two-story frame h on Sixth. The other buildings were repla slowly. On August 13, 1911, another fire stroyed all the buildings between Central ave and the IOOF hall, a brick building. Cha Slack then built a brick building on Cen avenue known as the Slack building and Will Schmidt rebuilt the Western Hotel. J. C. Dr built the first concrete building in Tracy Central avenue and Seventh streets in 19 Droge also started the first bank, known as Bank of Tracy, and he was the first presid of the bank. Abe Grunaur started a new b on Sixth street in 1911, known as the West S bank of Tracy, and he was its first presid He also had a clubroom for his employes. Southern Pacific company built a clubhouse the passenger station to house employes tied up at Tracy between runs, in 1911. many crews tied up there, it was difficult to room at the hotels. One old time business cannot be overlooked was the general merchan store of Canale brothers, just east of the IO hall and the fire of 1911 did not reach th thanks to the brick building of the Odd lows.

Yes, we have gone a long ways since the t of horses and boat transportation in this Joaquin valley, when wild animals, sheep

Another outstanding event is the "Tournament of Lights" which was revived last year. During the war years this spectacular event had to be withheld. Now the affair—carried out on an entirely "Corinthian" plan has blossomed forth in sparkling splendor to carry added light in a darkened world. The "Tournament of Lights" will be held in August on a date to be decided later.

Feature races from Newport Harbor and around Catalina Island and also around both Catalina and San Clemente Islands are on this year's schedule. These races are planned by both the Newport Harbor and Lido Yacht Clubs. The events are truly blue-water classics for east of San Clemente and Catalina they sail the broad blue expanse of the wide Pacific ocean, sometimes not too "pacific."

Of course, the Balboa Yacht Club has its series of bay races and races off the Peninsula at Balboa on the ocean. And, too, the Newport Harbor Club and the Lido Yacht Club have races for all classes. Nearly every weekend is a big occasion for one or more classes. Every size, class and type of boat is included in some special grouping and when there is no individual class, then "Handicap" races solve the problem and make for contests of sailing skill.

Some of the better known classes are the Dinghys, and there are a dozen different kinds of Dinghys, Snowbirds, Snipes, Falcons, Starlets, Penguins, and Lightnings—then the Vikings, Albatross, the PIC's, Rhodes 33's, the Bay Sloops, International Stars, Island Clippers, and P. C. Classes.

Editor's Note: Newport Harbor, which many an old timer still calls Balboa Bay, is a natural harbor protected by a long, sandy peninsula. The balmy climate, cool in the heat of summer, and temperate during months of winter, has made this one of America's foremost beach resorts. We just wanted to add these few lines on our own. It would seem that Harry Welch, though secretary of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, is altogether too modest.

Storied San Francisco

By LESLYE HICKS
State Publicity Chairman, N.D.G.W.

"The evening fogs blow in across the dunes,
In men a vigor here the breeze instills;
Here, too, the rivers come to meet the sea,
Here destiny stands guard on many hills."

YERBA BUENA . . . storied city of characters . . . colorful city of romance . . . SAN FRANCISCO . . . lovable city of memories . . . historically true . . . fabulously fantastic. San Francisco had become "one world" long before Wendell Wilkie made his famous flying trip, encompassing one world, for this city first named Yerba Buena had become one world a hundred years ago, when "from every corner of the earth they came—here mingled, every class and creed" in the search of wealth. Just as a great diversity of national and racial background made Yerba Buena one world, so San Francisco the fortunate city of all races, cosmopolitan as it is today, still remains one world.

In 1889 Rudyard Kipling, arriving in San Francisco from the Orient, wrote a series of articles on this famous city. Among his statements for the press appeared "San Francisco has only one drawback, 'tis hard to leave" and so this statement remains true for the famous and near-famous, great people and the less known, from all over the world, after visiting here, always retain nostalgic memories of returning to the eternal city of the western hemisphere.

Many are the claimants to the discovery of San Francisco Bay. In 1520 Spanish records attest discovery; in 1542 Mexican history claims entry to the bay; in 1579 Sir Francis Drake touched upon these shores and English history asserts "Nova Albion" as theirs. The first discovery of authority dates back to 1769, when Jose Francisco Ortega, a Chief Scout Sergeant of Don Gaspar de Portola's expedition, sailed into this land-locked bay on November 2, 1769. The naming of San Francisco Bay is accredited to Father Junipero Serra, of the Order of Saint Francis, when on March 28, 1776, the site of St. Francis de Assisi Mission (better known as Mission Dolores) was chosen and the location of the Presidio selected by Colonel Juan Bautista de Anza.

In January, 1847, the population of San Francisco numbered about three hundred. An article from San Francisco's first newspaper, The California Star, published one hundred years ago, read in part, "The town of San Francisco is progressing in population with a rapidity almost without example. Not less than fifty houses have gone up in the last month. Every man now here finds constant employment, and if thousands more were here in search of labor, they would find it . . . lumber, adobe, brick and lime are much wanted, and whoever embarks largely in the manufactury of these building materials for consumption at this place will reap a rich harvest of profits. The high price now demanded for them renders building expensive; unless those who have the control of lumber and other materials here shall see fit to furnish them at fair rates, they will find ready-made houses coming out here in ships from the States, and that speedily" . . . and from the facts chronicled in history and landmarks, we find just that did happen. Many are the old pioneer homes now preserved in California, that "came round the horn."

When John Marshall discovered gold at Col in January, 1848, a transformation was bro about unparelled in all of history. To the g hills of San Francisco above the finest nat harbor in two hemispheres came the seeker gold—from every quarter of the earth, the and bravest, good men and bad. From a s Spanish city of romance to an international t center of the world—from a pueblo to a mi camp—a mining camp to a city of 34,00(1850, following the arrival of the first gold steamer "California" in 1849—from all of t stages to a thriving metropolis of thousand day—this is San Francisco. In 1850 came Rus ships, French traders, English schooners— Golden Gate was open to the Seven Seas One World! It was then that Telegraph Hill famed in story books and history since those of '49 . . . came into existence. From this age point lookouts would signal the waiting when incoming ships hove in sight through Golden Gate . . . now this same Telegraph is a district of residences and a lure to tou s the city began in 1848 with a bang—the atre began with it. San Francisco has always n known as a great theatrical city . . . loved artists and patrons alike. On June 22, 1849, year of the gold rush, saw the first theatrical nt. Stephen C. Massett, a strolling minstrel adventurer extraordinary put on a program songs (and tsch! tsch! burlesque recitations), a small building in Portsmouth Plaza. The ience was composed mostly of miners. AN FRANCISCO'S CABLE CARS . . . Kip- not only went off the deep end in his nusiasm for the San Francisco women who e "sweet and comely, delicate and gracious" he also was intrgued by the Cable Cars. e Cable Cars have for all practical purposes le San Francisco—city of hills—a dead level. y take no count of rise or fall, they turn ners almost at right angles; if it pleases vidence to make a car run up and down a slit in the ground for many miles and if I can ride in that car, why shall I seek the reasons of that miracle?" The Balloon Car in service in San Francisco antedated the cable street car in 1870. It was a peculiar contraption, with a balloon top and driven by two mules. It was used to haul passengers to the then famous amusement park, Woodward Gardens. While not the smoothest ride, it is said that it beat walking and your speed depended on the mood of the driver (and no doubt, the mules). The very pulse of San Francisco is the rumble of the cable cars . . . Curve . . . Hang On! These little contrivances sprang into existence in San Francisco on August 1, 1873. For seventy-four years they have operated uninterrupted, up and down over the same tracks, the same hills, the same clang! clang! clang! They are a medium of connection between the great Wall Street of the West and the Ferry Building with Nob Hill, the Presidio and the western residential section of the city, also the downtown shopping district from Powell and Market, where they turn on a turntable, often aided in their turning by the payers-of-fares, to Fisherman's Wharf up and down, 'round curves and over hills. They were invented in San Francisco and now they are known throughout the world, these famous little modes of transportation. But alas . . . the City Planning Fathers, the Mayor and the public utility big-wigs . . . all say in a loud voice "the cable car must go". They must be replaced by modern bus operations, perhaps atomic energy-driven. The city's transportation system must grow with the metropolis . . . away with these antiques! O, the service they give to the weary . . . they still get the workers up and down the hills . . . they still baffle the tourists . . . Native Daughters of the Golden West feel they are a part of San Francisco's historical lore. Remove the cable cars and flower stands from our streets . . . and gone is a part of storied San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO . . . the city that ever grows with time. In the long ago, John Charles Fremont, first Senator from California, stood in the Berkeley hills and gazing out over San Francisco Bay as the sun was setting—named our glorious Golden Gate. This Golden Gate now bridged with steel, the world's longest and highest single-span suspension bridge, The Golden Gate Bridge. Another bridge, the longest in all the world, was once a dream that became a mighty scheme of steel, The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, the world's longest, deepest and most costly bridge. A third bridge to equal this longest bridge is now in the dream stage . . . but some day we will awaken to another reality of massive steel, spanning the waters of San Francisco Bay.

SAN FRANCISCO, City of Hills . . .

"This fortress where the breeze is ever cool
Where destiny rules on the highest hill,
Whence ships move ever outward to the sea,
Tis here that men their cherished dreams fulfill."

CALIFORNIA REDWOOD MAY MIGRATE SOMEDAY

The California redwood, which has migrated from continent to continent like the dinosaur and other prehistoric animals, may someday again "take to the road."

But it won't happen for several hundred lifetimes, at least, and possibly not for millions of years, says Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, professor of paleontology on the Berkeley campus of the University of California, in a publication for the Save the Redwoods League.

Dr. Chaney, who is the world's leading authority on the redwoods, says fossil records show that about 50 million years ago the redwood lived in Alaska, Asia and Europe. Due to climatic changes the redwood migrated south and is now confined only to California.

WAY BACK in the old days, when California was becoming famous through the discovery of gold at Coloma in 1848, there was a United States Army lieutenant Thomas F. Castor, of the U. S. Dragoons, stationed up in the Tehachapi mountains. This natural barrier between Southern and Central California was then and still is, largely uninhabited rugged mountain country.

It was a natural home for some of the Indian tribes, who, like their Eastern ancestors, resented hotly the coming of the White Man. This racial hatred caused no end of trouble to the pioneers who passed to and fro through Grapevine Pass. Hence the garrison of soldiers.

This First Lieutenant Castor had, for some reason we do not know, died, and that at a very young and promising age. For he was but thirty-five years old when he died at Fort Tejon, on September 8, 1855. A marble slab was set up, probably at no little expense and labor, to mark his grave. Neglected in later years, it was broken in a number of pieces, either by vandals or storms. As you will see it today, it is assembled and placed in a masonry monument, with an accompanying bronze tablet.

It was on August 10, 1854 that Fort Tejon was established, to guard the Pass and keep a watchful eye on the Indians of the region. There were a number of adobe buildings erected, most of which have long ago crumbled to nothing but mounds of dust, covered with weeds. Off to one side of the site of the Fort is an old wooden water trough, on which are names and initials, carved by some of the old timers whose hardihood and daring made California a place of renown. Near the old water trough is a masonry cistern, with rusty iron pipe still carrying water from some spring up above the Fort buildings. It is still good pure water too, though the home of several frogs.

Peter Lebeck's grave is near the water trough, he who had a dispute with a bear. On a weathered board nailed to a large oak tree are the words, "Killed by a X bare (she)." Apparently the cross bear had the best of the argument. Peter has his name carved on the old water trough, though the letters are only discernible by careful scrutiny.

During the past few years there have been more of the adobe walls, unprotected from the heavy mountain storms, crumbled and fallen. Strange that one tall chimney, center of a tion of adobe wall, stands above its firep resisting the weather as though built of cer One medium size building, with double firep and a tiny latrine building, have been prot with new roofs of shakes. Thick plaster on interior walls still clings in spots to the a bricks, a solid mass of scribbled names of ors for the past eighty-odd years.

The one large building is protected b roof, though the adobe bricks at one co were badly weathered away, before the roof restored. This building was apparently a st as well as barracks for the soldiers. It is a story structure, with stable rooms below upper barracks rooms. The Daughters of American Revolution, Bakersfield Chapter, placed a bronze marker on one end of this l building. Nearby is a tall flagpole, from w the Stars and Stripes flew, long before it its present number of stars.

There is a projected restoration of old Tejon by the State Government, and thus a well constructed barbed wire fence has placed around all the buildings. The ma slab erected in memory of Lieut. Castor st some distance behind and up the gentle s from the fenced area.

Great oak trees grow all about the al level grounds surrounding the old ruins buildings. It is a most picturesque spot, and which we trust will soon be visited by a g many people, who are interested in the early of California.

LOS BANOS MAY DAY FESTIVAL ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

Los Banos, Merced County, was host Ma 2, 3, 4, to many thousands of visitors from parts of the state, when the city, under spo ship of the Native Sons and Daughters of Banos, staged its annual May Day Festival Parade. One of the highlites of the four celebration was the Kiddies' Parade Satu May 3, in which over a thousand youngs with their floats, marching units, etc. pa pated.

"Fisherman's luck" as enjoyed aboard a Newport sportfishing boat. California boasts some of the world's finest fishing. Native Sons, how about sending us some of your own "big fish" photos?

California Vacationlands

It's vacation time again and from the redwoods of Humboldt and Del Norte Counties, the High Sierras, down the state to sunny San Diego, all California is calling.

Where to go and what to do is as varied as people's whims and the Golden State itself. Just in case you haven't already made all arrangements, the Grizzly Bear's roving vacation editor suggests a few possibilities.

Monterey Peninsula

We saw a calf nuzzling its mother, belly deep in lupines. On the Big Sur, San Simeon Highway we witnessed real cowboys branding calves. Monterey is unpredictably exciting. Her old adobes that cradled a new born state grow graciously old. The storied fame of Fisherman's Wharf has spread across the nation.

Along the Monterey wind swept rocky coast where the wild sea pounds, exposed to all the raw weather of the sea, grow Monterey's famed cypress. Here amid this picturesque setting are located five of the finest golf courses in the world.

Carmel with its primitive beauty well preserved must be admired. Along her gleaming white sand beach, protected by gnarled twisted cypress, great ocean waves continuously roar to roll and break into dashing white capped foam. Here is located Mission Carmel, built by the Indians and mission fathers three and three quarters centuries ago.

A few miles down the coast, along the Big Sur, great redwoods tower. The Pfeiffer Grove is located the farthest south of all the redwood groves along our coast. Nowhere in all the state will one find more wild and rugged beauty than along California's No. 1 Highway, the San Simeon.

On the Big Sur we recommend the Barbara Blake, Rancho Sierra Mar and Ripplewood for food and lodging. In Carmel try Beverly Terrace. Pacific Grove boasts the famed Asilomar. Seventeen Mile Drive and Milars. In Monterey the San Carlos is one of the finest.

It is claimed by authorities who know that the waters of Monterey boast a greater variety of sea life than does any other spot in the seven seas. For a thrill of a lifetime let Captain Sam Balesteri of the "Sea Wolf" or George Edwards, skipper of the "Lady Jane" take you out deep sea fishing.

Lake County

To Native Sons and Daughters the county of lakes need no introduction. For a lively vacation, fishing, or just a quiet rest, Hoberg and Siegeler Springs "Among the Pines" is Lake County's largest and finest pleasure and health resort.

Big Bear Lake

To many southlanders it's merely "up the hill." To those of us tied down in valley cities, Big Bear Lake is where the pure untainted air of heaven carresses the cobalt waters of one of southern California's favorite resorts.

We had passed the Rim of the World and Lake View Point where we looked back across the fog-bound valley. The sun, shining through clear heavens, made the clouds billowy white far below. It was then we saw four deer bound gracefully up the rocky slopes. Around a few more corners and we were at the lake.

Old timers told us that the fishing, to their memory, has never been better than it has been this year. Normally we jot down statements like that with our tongue in our cheek. This time we visited the landings to see for ourselves and were convinced.

At Boulder Bay Boat Landing we saw four boats come in and every one of them loaded with fair sized trout. Though they weren't the "record breakers," they were big enough to satisfy the most ardent angler. Charley Tayles, just to prove that anybody could catch fish, tied on a yellow "streamer" fly and whipped the waters that lapped alongside the landing. In three casts he brought up three crappie. We caught four ourselves in about ten minutes. Everett Smith of Boulder Bay Camp proudly showed us ten fish that weighed thirteen pounds. Anyone staying in this comfortable camp will not lack expert fishing advice.

Most of the trout are being caught on salmon eggs or clusters. "Still fishing" in the coves and off the points so far has "netted" best results. Dark nylon 4 pound test leaders, a sliding sinker, No. 12 or 14 hooks, baited with red salmon eggs, prove to be the best tackle. Trolling has been effective, especially when the lure is a F7 frog or yellow flat fish. Dave Davis and No. 2 Colorado Spinners are also bringing in the fish.

THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

338 West Center Street Anaheim, California

By the action of a majority of the delegates to the 70th Grand Parlor Session of the Native Sons of the Golden West at Avalon, your magazine is no longer paid for in your per capita tax to Grand Parlor.

Beginning with the August issue, all subscriptions must be submitted individually directly to the Grizzly Bear, or through your own Parlor, which will be given a club rate for 100 per cent participation.

There is only one way to keep currently abreast of Native Son happenings. That is to subscribe at once to the Grizzly Bear. This is your magazine. It will continue to be the official publication of the Native Sons of the Golden West. The doings of the various parlors, athletic activities, Admission Day News, actions taken by the Board of Grand Officers and the monthly communication to all members of the Order from the Grand President, will continue to be published in the Grizzly Bear, as well as historical stories from here and there about the state.

However, unless you fill in and mail the Subscription Blank below, at once, or make sure that your parlor is going to take advantage of the club rate, the July issue is the last Grizzly Bear that you will receive.

Remember, that the Grizzly Bear Magazine has been published continuously since 1907, and in the Centennial Years that lie ahead, it will be of untold value to you.

LINDA ROSA NATIVE DAUGHTERS CELEBRATE 38TH BIRTHDAY

Linda Rosa Parlor No. 70, NDGW, San Francisco, celebrated its 38th birthday recently with a party held at the Ritz Trench Restaurant. A 50-year pin was presented to Mrs. August Grandeman and 25-year pins were presented to 18 members.

Over on Metcalf Bay, Ray Sharpe at the Pleasure Point Landing stated emphatically that he had never seen so many limits in his life. Ray has equipped his place with new boats and motors.

Over on the North Shore the four day fish derby was won by Hugh Coleman. The prize was a Martin automatic reel and fly rod. The grand prize is a big Martin "60" outboard motor that will go to the fisherman landing the season's biggest fish.

Credit for the first trout limit to be caught on the lake went to a fisherman out of Wilsted's Camp. He was christening a brand new boat.

Three fishermen with three limits stepped out of a boat at Shelter Cove and by Mike Grosz' scales, their big fish weighed three and a half pounds. Many will remember this camp and boat landing, located just a short distance west of Fawnskin, as that of "Lemcke's."

Moon Camp reported excellent fishing. Many limits are being caught. The big freeze box was chuck full of fish.

Decoration Day proved a field day for fishermen at Lighthouse Camp. Tex Ford told us some real fish stories including one about a big cat fish caught on a "fly."

All around the lakes the landings reported fishermen's luck as all good. Gray's Camp was bringing in big catches as was Holloway's. To top it all, "Dad" Haygood at Lakeshore Landing claimed, "The fishing is so dad-blamed good it's actually hurting business. Had a party in camp that planned to stay four days. They caught all they were allowed to carry down the hill in two."

Camera fans will feel right at home at Pine Knoll Lodge where they will meet Elizabeth and Bob Evans, folks who talk their language. The Evans are amateur photographers of national repute. Some of their salon exhibits include "Miss Demure," "Hoosier Schoolmaster" and "Gay Nineties." Needless to say, Pine Knoll is a picture card resort, photogenic inside as well as out.

We caught Mr. Johnson, of Langlois Camp, on a ladder scrubbing ceilings. He's finicky about such things. He has just installed radios in every cabin. Langlois is the oldest camp on the lake. It formerly housed the log cabin store, jail and postoffice of Pine Knott.

At Mountain Grove Camp, Cleo Berglund showed us her pet squirrels. The little fellows would scamper down the trees at her chirp. The camp is picturesquely nestled beneath one of the biggest pine groves in the region.

Over at Andrews Lodge the Carrs boast the most photographed horse in the mountains. He's the delight of all the kids in camp, big and little. He won't bite or pitch. In fact, all the pitch went out of him years ago when the old pine stump was first felled.

Deep Sea Sportfishing

Deep sea fishing is excellent. Up and down the coast from Monterey to Mexico limit catches are being made. We personally checked fishing conditions off the Orange County coast. Barracuda are running heavy as are sea bass. On a Sports fishing boat out of Newport everyone caught plenty of fish. One big halibut was taken weighing over thirty pounds. However, we won the jackpot. From other boat landings came similar reports and some of them boasted even bigger catches.

NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST:

As is the usual custom, I have been requested by the Grizzly Bear to prepare an article for the June issue of the magazine before the session of the Grand Parlor at which, by tradition, I expect to be elected and installed Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West. It is with a sincere feeling of humbleness and at the same time confidence that I approach this task. I appreciate the great honor bestowed upon me and wish at the outset to thank each and every member of our Order for the confidence displayed in me by my election to this exalted office. I shall devote as much of my time and energy to my duties as is possible this next year, and will request from the members of the Order one thing in return: activity and interest in our functions.

During this last year I have had the pleasure of traveling from one-end of California to the other; to have visited parlors in practically every part of the state. From these visits, as well as others in previous years, I have concluded that many of the parlors suffer from a lack of interested committee personnel. Too many members permit themselves to be appointed on committees when they lack enthusiasm for the activities of that committee. It is my suggestion that the presidents of the Subordinate Parlors who are to be elected in June of this year, give serious consideration to all committees to be appointed by them. I know that in many parlors certain individuals have been Committee Chairmen, or members, for many years, and that many of them still take an active interest in the affairs of that committee; however, there are many who have been on committees for so long that it seems to have become a tradition of the parlor for such an individual to be chairman or a member of that committee, and that as a result thereof nothing is done. It is my sincere recommendation that each new President consider whether or not it would be better for the activities of the individual parlor, and of our Order as a whole, to have new personnel or, at least, a new chairman for the committees.

During this last year our Order has grown in greater proportion, than during any similar period for many years and it is my sincere hope that our growth will continue. During this last year 13 new parlors were instituted. However, it is not presently my plan to concentrate upon the institution of new units within our Order. I hope to spend more time in attempting to preserve and build up the parlors already existing, with special concentration upon those that have become inactive.

It has been my observation that a majority of the parlors in our Order have not realized that the value of the dollar has decreased, and that therefore the parlor officers cannot present to their members as much activity as they could a few years ago. It is, therefore, my recommendation that the members throughout the state seriously consider the advisability of raising the dues payable to their parlor, especially if the parlor pays benefits. Everything else in life has gone up—why should not dues to our Subordinate Parlors?

There is much that an Order like ours can do for the welfare of the community, State, and nation, and among the greatest thereof is concentration upon loyalty to the American way of life and traditions. It is my hope that our Order will, during this next year, identify itself with those who take an active stand against subversive doctrines and organization, and that our stand is well publicized, for exemplification of true patriotism is one of the cardinal reasons for our existence.

Juvenile welfare activity should also be emphasized and it is my sincere hope that individual parlors, or groups of parlors in a given locality, will sponsor and assist existing boys' organizations. If no organization exists locally which requires our assistance then our Parlors create a boy's club. It is my fervent belief that if we guide our adolescents and pre-adolescents and give them sufficient activity to occupy their excess energy, as they grow older they will not become so-called delinquents. What better activity can our organization engage in, than in the assistance and guidance of our youth, who, in a few years will become eligible to membership in our Order, and citizenship in our communities?

For many years our organization has kept alive the history of the Bear Flag, Admission Day, the celebration of the anniversary of the discovery of gold and other historic events. During this Grand Parlor year the Centennial of the discovery of gold by Marshall at Coloma, January 24, 1848, as well as other important historic events, will be celebrated. There is no other organization which should be more in the forefront of the future Centennial celebrations than the Native Sons and Native Daughters. With that in mind, Junior Past Grand President, R. G. Power, and I have collaborated and have appointed one member of our Order in every county of the State whose duty it will be to see that our Order has its proper place in the Centennial celebrations to be held in each county. This is our golden opportunity to reap a golden harvest because of the discovery of gold, and I know each member of the Order will do everything within his power to assist in the advertising of our state, as well as our Order, by taking an active interest in the celebrations to be held in the community in which he lives.

It is my present plan to travel extensively throughout the state this next year so as to meet as many of you as is possible. I shall devote myself to your service. Will you not, therefore, on your side, devote just a little time and energy to the activities of the Native Sons of the Golden West—recommend an eligible for membership, and otherwise participate in the activities of your parlor and community?

With sincerest fraternal greetings to all . . .

WALTER H. ODEMAR.

Native Sons

CENTENNIAL REPRESENTATIVES OF NATIVE SONS ARE NAMED

Past Grand President R. G. Power of Colusa and Grand President Walter H. Odemar of Los Angeles, have made the following appointments of represntatives of the Order in the various counties, whose duty it is to see that the Native Sons of the Golden West have their proper place in the Centennial Celebrations to be held in the next few years in their own localities.

Alameda County, Richard F. McCarthy; Amador, Don Ramazatti; Butte, Seth Millington; Calaveras, John Voitich, Colusia, A. H. Hodgson; Contra Costa, Chas. L. Dodge; El Dorado, Henry S. Lyon; Fresno, Arthur Drew; Humboldt, C. H. Rasmussen; Kings, Dr. Kelley; Lake, Benjamin C. Jones; Los Angeles, Eldred L. Meyer; Mendocino, Frank Cooney; Merced, Elge Mastrangelo; Napa, Phil Malloy; Nevada, George Hammill.

Orange County, S. James Tuffree; Placer, William Fitzgerald; Plumas, George Boyden; Riverside, Dick Welch; Sacramento, Guy Foulks; San Bernardino, Donald E. Van Luven; San Diego, DeGraf Austin; San Francisco, George H. Schoenfeld; San Joaquin, Norman Stockwell; San Luis Obispo, Lloyd Tiernan; San Mateo, Wayne Millington; Santa Barbara, Harry Sweetzer.

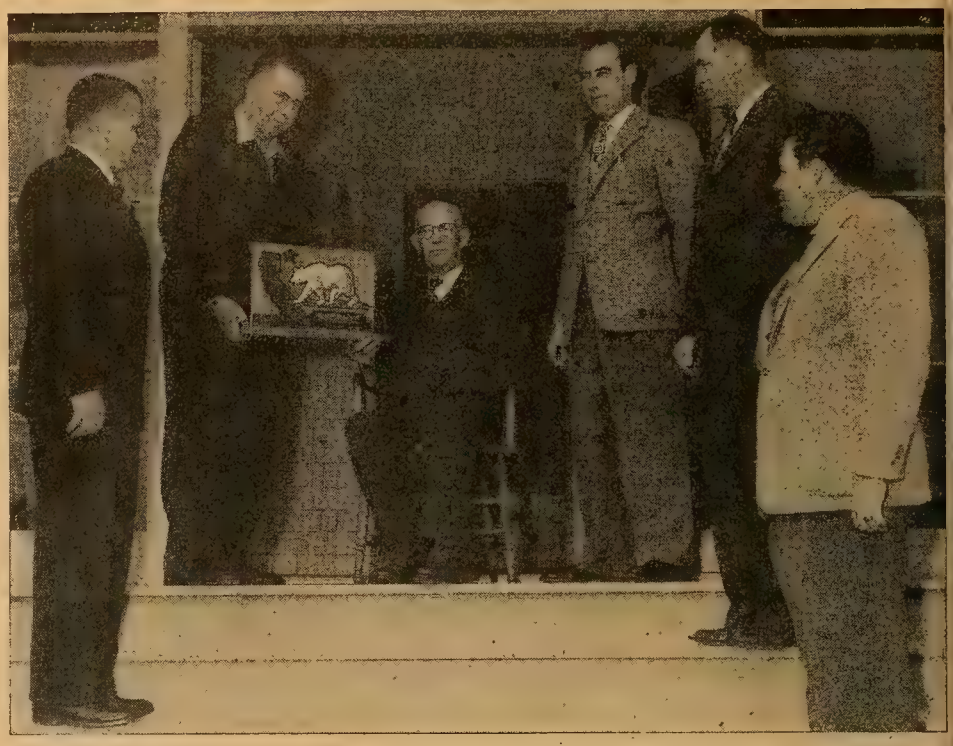
Santa Clara County, H. Irving Lee; Santa Crus, Neil H. Reid; Shasta, Roscoe Norton; Sierra, Tony Lavazolla; Solano, Hartley Russell; Sonoma, J. P. Serres; Stanislaus, Chas. D. Blaine; Sutter, Desmond Winship; Tehama, Clinton Reiger; Trinity, Yerne Ryan; Tuolumne, R. W .Muller; Ventura, Hal Bannister.

SANTA MONICA BAY HONORS PAST GRAND PRESIDENT

Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, Native Sons of the Golden West, honored its Past Grand President, Elderd L. Meyer, Tuesday evening, May 13, with a program and class initiation of 10 candidates, the initiatory work being conducted by the parlor's own ritualistic team, headed by President Delmar Bagley.

Past President Hector Baida was chairman of the committee putting on the program. Assisting him were Ysidro Reyes, Ralph and Milton Eisenhart, William Delkner, Mark Throssel and Walter Brandt. Ernest Gardner was the spark plug who gathered most of the new initiates.

Highlight of the evening came when E. Kenyon assisted the chairman in the presentation of a handsome Zenith radio to Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer, on behalf of Santa Monica Bay Parlor.



Amongst the Grand Officers and Grand Parlor Committee men in attendance were: Walter H. Odemar, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, Bernard G. Hiss, Walter C. Richards and Walter Hiskey.

HUDSPETH ADDRESSES NATIVE SONS ON BIDWELL

Ben Hudspeth, the longest standing member of Native Sons of the Golden West in the John Bidwell Parlor, Chico, Butte County, spoke to his colleagues recently on his remembrances of the city's founder.

Outstanding points of Hudspeth's talk were the great contributions to the city made by Bidwell and Morris Oser.

Walter Bammann, a visitor from the Pacific parlor in San Francisco, spoke briefly on the champion drum and bugle corps of his parlor.

In honor of his long and faithful service as financial secretary of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 90, Native Sons of the Golden West, Willett Ware was recently presented with a mahogany plaque at his home. Centered above is Ware receiving the plaque from Neil Reid, district deputy and a member of Santa Cruz Parlor. To the left is Louie Rittenhouse, and to the right of Ware is Cecil Searle. Next to him is Harold Richey and standing down to the extreme right is Newell Maddox. All are members of Santa Cruz Parlor.

Ware served as financial secretary of Santa Cruz Parlor from July 18, 1905 to Jan. 1. 1947, a period of 41½ years. He resigned his office coincident with his resignation from the position of county auditor, which he had held for almost as many years. The plaque is a replica of the Bear Flag burned in mahogany, bound with copper and mounted upon a copper base. It was designed and drawn by Ralph Gray, artist for the Santa Cruz Electrical company and manufactured in that plant. The inscription at the base reads, "Presented to Willett Ware as a token of our appreciation for devoted service as financial secretary, July 18, 1905 to Jan. 1, 1947. Santa Cruz Parlor No. 90, N.S.G.W."

BENICIA TO HOLD CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION JUNE 13, 14, 15

Sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of that city, Benicia will commemorate its 100th birthday with a Centennial Fiesta, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, June 13, 14, 15.

The colorful event will open Friday with Pioneers' Day, outstanding attraction of which will be the crowning of the Centennial Queen. Competition for this coveted title has been keen among the young lady contestants.

Saturday, June 14, will be Benicia Arsenal Day, with open house at the arsenal; inspection of Navy War Craft docked at the arsenal docks; a Pageant of Benicia and a Bass Derby.

Founders' Day will be observed Sunday with a Centennial Parade, Drum Corps, Drill Teams and Majorettes competition. In addition, there will be a dedication of a marker to the founder of Benicia.

Guests of the Benicia Parlors during the three-day celebration will be Grand Officers of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West,

The story of how Benicia got its name is of historical interest. When General Vallejo gave the deed of five square miles of land to Dr. Robert Semple in 1847, it was agreed that Dr. Semple would found a city to be called Benicia Francisco, in honor of General Vallejo's wife. But Yerba Buena became San Francisco, and Dr. Semple took the name of Benicia for his new town.

MISSION PARLOR NATIVE SONS PLAN THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC

A complete day in the country is promised a who attend the first post-war Reunion and Pi nic to be held by Mission Parlor No. 38, NSGW San Francisco, Sunday, July 27, in Oak Co Park, San Mateo County, according to Past Pre ident Percy Cosbie, chairman.

Mission Parlor's Drum Corps made a cre itable showing in the St. Patrick's Day parad in San Jose. This group is really turning "o the heat," and is definitely to be reckoned wit 'ere Admission Day competition arrives.

Past President Leon Frankenberg recentl presented a 50-year emblem in behalf of the pa lor to James Buscelli, who joined Mission Parl in 1896.

RUMMING CONTEST ATTRACTS TTENTION IN NO. CALIFORNIA

San Francisco,: The first annual drumming ntest being conducted by Twin Peaks Parlor attracted considerable attention in this a. A large number of entries have been reved.

t will be held on Saturday, June 28 at Scottish Rite Auditorium.

The public is invited to the contest in the ernoon free of charge.

An excellent orchestra has been obtained for dance to be held in the evening, at which winners will be presented prizes.

CAN YOU TOP THIS: Twin Peaks Sumr Bowling Tournament has started to roll, l eight teams will fight it out for the Parlor ampionship. The teams are evenly matched, it appears the lead will change from week week.

Can any other Parlor in the state match this nout for bowling?

HLETIC EVENTS HOLD INTEREST : FERNDALE AND HUMBOLDT

Humboldt Parlor No. 14 and Ferndale Parlor 93, Native Sons, have been engaging in a seshoe contest the past few weeks. At last ort, Humboldt held a slight edge over Fern. The two Humboldt County parlors are anizing softball teams and several inter-parlor ies are scheduled. Ferndale is planning on teams and will enter the local league.

Humboldt and Ferndale bowling enthusiasts e been playing in local leagues. The two os met with Ferndale on the long end of score. Ferndale also had a team entered in city basketball league.

ther parlors throughout the state might fit by the example of these two live parlors organize their athletic activities.

FRUITVALE NATIVES PICNIC

The "over the back fence symposium," these days, centers about "picnic lunches," and cold fried chicken with potato salad, and seems to be the topic amongst the wives of Fruitvale Parlor Native Sons ,Oakland. Little Johnny is planning on catching Pollywogs in the creek, Mary on chasing butterflies, Pops will bring along the old briar wood smoker, while Ma will do all the work. All are readying for the resumption of Fruitvale's annual family picnic, (first since the shooting began), on Sunday, July 13, at Jorgensen's Park in Crow's Canyon, southern Alameda County. A caravan of fifty motor cars will leave Fruitvale's Hall in Oakland on the morn of the festive day. Members of the Order are welcomed.

STOCKTON NSGW DANCE JULY 5

Stockton Parlor No. 7, Native Sons of the Golden West, will sponsor a dance at Micke Grove, Saturday evening, July 5. The dance will be on an open air platform with Chuck Raggios Orchestra furnishing the music. All are invited and a good time is assured all who attend. The Grove is located between Lodi and Stockton.

Funds raised at the dance will be used to send a large delegation of Stockton Parlor members to the Admission Day Celebration.

LOS ANGELES COUNTY PARLORS PLAN FLAG DAY PRESENTATION

Los Angeles County Parlors, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, will observe Flag Day on June 14, with a presentation of both the American Flag and the California Bear Flag to Star Post American Legion, and the County Board of Supervisors. The ceremony will take place in the morning in front of the Hall of Justice, on Temple Street, between Spring and Broadway, Los Angeles.

Grand Trustee Anna T. Schiebusch of the Native Daughters, will present the American Flag, with Chairman Raymond Darby accepting on behalf of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

Grand President Walter H. Odemar, Native Sons of the Golden West, will present the Bear Flag to the Commander of Star Post American Legion.

In addition to being National Flag Day, June 14 marks the 101st anniversary of the day when the original Bear Flag was first unfurled at Sonoma, June 14, 1846.

CALIFORNIA FILM

A native Son in Pasadena, Donald O'Brien, has proven himself an active competitor with the Hollywood movie industry. This young cinematographer owns the largest and most complete 16mm motion picture production company outside of the movie capital.

Among his productions are several scenic films depicting the glories of California which he has shown to numerous organizations. You no doubt have seen some of his "stuff" on the screen. Don does those commercial advertising shots for local business concerns. He's located at 2233 N. Lake, Altadena.

Grand President's Message

Dear Sisters:

As the year 1946-1947 comes to a close, we pause to look back upon the progress made by our Order during the past twelve months.

It is gratifying to note that our members have once again assumed their responsibilities; and that their interest in the future of the Native Daughters of the Golden West has again become an important factor in their fraternal lives.

A material gain in membership has been made possible by the Institution of six new Parlors at Lancaster, Beverly Hills, Pasadena, Gustine, Visalia and Vacaville. Four more Parlors are now in the making. The response to the many pleas for assistance for our Homeless Children work has been outstanding. The interest displayed in Civic affairs throughout the State has brought favorable Publicity to the Order. Each project sponsored by the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West is receiving due recognition in the Subordinate Parlors.

As our Order grows, so, too, do our responsibilities, and when Grand Parlor convenes in San Francisco July 15 and 19th let us meet with unbiased minds and with but one thought paramount, that our deliberations will be for the best interests and future advancement of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Sincerely and fraternally,
LORETTA M. CAMERON,
Grand President.

NATIVE DAUGHTER LETTERS STIMULATE BABY BOND SALES

Mrs. Ann Dippel of Mission Parlor, State Chairman for United States Savings Bonds Committee, Women's Division, enthusiastically reports the wonderful progress members of the various Northern California Parlors are making with their Baby Gift Bond Certificates project.

Started in March, 1946, Mrs. Dippel reports that thousands of letters of congratulations to new parents have been sent out by the Native Daughters, together with the suggestion of an investment in a U. S. Savings Bond. The general purpose of this project is to emphasize the need for continued investment of excess funds in U. S. Savings Bonds while consumer goods is still scarce thus helping to ward off runaway inflation and to stress the benefits of continued systematic savings.

The immediate goal is to contact the parents of every newly arrived baby in the community with the suggestion they invest in their baby's future with the purchase of a Bond. The future security of these little native sons and daughters is the vital concern of all members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

According to Mr. Jack Botts, State Chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds, there has been a gratifying increase in the sale of "E" Bonds in those counties where the Native Daughters have been active. A comparison of sales figures for one month alone, January, 1946 with January, 1947, illustrates the amazing increase, $2,779,940.00 increase over 1946. Mrs. Minnette Ker Higgins, Director of Women's Organizations for the U. S. Savings Bonds Division says: "The Native Daughters have used interesting promotional ideas in bringing this Bond Gift project to the attention of the public. In this way the community has been kept aware of the many public services of the NDGW." She further reports: "Mrs. Agnes Curry of San Francisco tops the list with the number of letters to parents that she has sent. She aims at 100 letters to parents each week. She has mailed out over 9,000 letters to parents since the beginning of the project."

This work has been carried on by Agnes Curry, Grand Treasurer, of Portola Parlor as a part of her State Chairman covering Americanism and will be one of the outstanding reports read at the coming Grand Parlor in San Francisco.

SAN DIEGO NATIVE DAUGHTERS MARK OLD MACHADO HOUSE

A bronze plaque was recently affixed to the Old Machado House in Old Town, San Diego, the ceremonies being conducted jointly by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. Honored guest of the occasion was Grand President Loretta Cameron, who unveiled the marker. Dr. A. P. Nasatir of the Native Sons, spoke on "Why the Spaniards Came to California," and Mrs. Winifred Davidson of the Historical Society, gave the history of Comandante Jose Manuel Machado.

The house was built about 1830 by Commandante Jose Manuel Machado, a member of the "leather jacket soldiers" of the Spanish Army garrisoned in San Diego. Machado was one of the earliest settlers in San Diego.

More than 300 descendants of the builder of the home, including several of the seventh generation, live in and near San Diego at present. One of Machado's great grand daughters, Mrs. Helen Connors, is a member of San Diego Parlor No. 208, NDGW, as are five of his great-great grand daughters, Helen Baker, Anita Garrett, Grace Keenan, Elvera Wittenberg and Mrs. Verdusco.

Mrs. Alice Jacobs, ho was in charge of invitations, and Mrs. Emily albridge assisted during the refreshment hour.

Santa Ana Parlor has adopted its 12th Baby nd named it "Myrtle Ivo." Plans are being ade to adopt another baby before the end of e term and name it "Irene" in honor of Presi- nt Irene Arborn.

ISCUSS HISTORIC LANDMARKS CENTER OF LOS ANGELES

Preservation of the historic area surrounding the aza of Los Angeles was the theme of the ncheon meeting of Californiana Parlor May 13. arshall Stimson, distinguished member of an rly California family, and Mr. Turner, planning pert, presented the proposed changes in the aza Area, showing a miniature lay-out.

"It is necessary for all people interested in storic Southern California to get behind this an," said Mr. Stimson.

Mrs. Florence Dodson Schoeneman spoke on e famous Avila Adobe situated near the Plaza d of vital interest to all residents and visitors.

START NATIVE DAUGHTER HOME SWIMMING POOL FUND

On Sunday morning, May 4, one hundred members of the Order, sat down to a May-Day Breakfast in the spacious dining room of the Native Daughters Home in San Francisco. Sponsored by the Deputy Grand Presidents of San Francisco County, this was the first one to be held in a year and was enthusiastically attended by the members. Dining room space is limited to one hundred and so many disappointed reservations were turned down. Presiding was SDDGP Beatrice M. Nishkian of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW, and it was her privilege to introduce the following seated at the table of honor: PGP Grace S. Stoermer, honored guest and speaker of the day; Grand President Loretta M. Cameron, honored guest; PGP Mariana Bertola, Permanent Chairman of the Home Board; Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary; Grand Trustee Jewel McSweeney; Grand Outside Sentinel Ruth E. Trousdale and Frances E. Simas, Grand Organist; and Past Grand Presidents Emily E. Ryan, Orinda G. Giannini, Claire Lindsey and Anne Theusen.

The tables were delightful in a May-Day theme, complete with little paper dancing girls and a May-pole at each table. The gong rang at 9 A. M. and with a greeting from the presiding officer Mrs. Nishkian and a song "It's a Good Day",—it was truly a good, good day! A beautiful and inspiring prayer was given by DGP Ellen Kinsley, and a salute and pledge to the Flag. Following the breakfast DGP Leslye Hicks sang two songs, "A Glad Prayer" and a special dedication to PGP Mariana Bertola "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", it being the occasion of the Doctor's birthday. San Francisco County was very grateful to PGP Grace Stoermer of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, who kindly rearranged her schedule and returned via San Francisco from a meeting of the Non-Partisan Round Table in Sacramento to be the speaker of the day. Miss Stoermer chose as her subject "Our Place in the Community." Every member in attendance was thrilled with this dynamic person and her eloquent talk. PGP Grace Stoermer created in the heart of every person in the room the desire to take a rightful place in the legislating of our state and government affairs and made her listeners want to take our privilege granted by a great heritage in making the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West more prominent and better educated to state and world affairs.

Concluding the program, a donation to the Home Fund was made by the Deputy Grand Presidents and then our Grand President, Loretta M. Cameron made a gift of $15.00 to create a fund for a swimming pool, a dream to be a future reality and erected on the adjoining property to the home, now owned by the Order. This brought a tremendous response and donations were made and dedicated to the future progeny of many in attendance, visualizing Native Daughter grandchildren dipping in a beautiful pool, aquacades and swimming events of future days—result was $179.50 being donated toward this Swimming Pool Fund. Dr. Bertola responded with "This is the BEST birthday I ever have had." It is Dr. Bertola's hope to take down the old building on the adjacent property to the present home, extend the meeting hall and dining room, and build a swimming pool for the younger members (and the oldsters, too).

In addition to the Grand President, Mr. Allan A. Cameron, her husband, "Mr. Grand President", and her Mother, Mrs. Loretta Schaertzer, "Ma Schaertzer" were guests of the morning.

SDDGP Nishkian presided in a gracious and warm manner and everyone voted this affair one of the very nicest breakfasts ever held in the Native Daughter Home.

San Pedro, March 12, 1947.

LAURA ELLEN CASE CLARK

To the officers and members of Lugonia Parlor No. 241, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee, submit the following resolutions in loving memory of our departed Sister, Laura Ellen Case Clark:

Whereas: God in his infinite wisdom has bid her approach to the Great Throne on High,

Whereas: We who knew her and loved her gentle way and pleasant smile deeply regret her untimely passing. Our Sister has been taken from us and the ties of love and friendship have been broken. We hereby pay a fond tribute to her memory: She was a Charter and permanent member of our Order, and a Pioneer of the City of San Bernardino, in which she took deep interest. As a friend, a woman, she was an outstanding example that has been equalled by few and surpassed by none.

Resolved: That we extend to her bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, a copy be sent her family, and a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted.

THELMA MILLIER

To the Officers and Members of Aloha Parlor N 106, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

Dear Sisters:

We, your committee appointed to draft re lutions of respect in memory of our depart member, Sister Thelma Millier, herewith subr the following:

"The gates of the Great Unknown must ha swung wide with welcome for our depart Sister," Thelma Millier, who has entered into t eternal Garden of Peace.

There is left for us, her friends with wh she was associated in fraternal life, a memo resplendent as our own California blossoms; a while we feel a keen sense of sorrow and lo we know that she has entered the Heavenly Kin dom with the firm belief that it leads to nobler life.

When our Heavenly Father laid His soothi hand upon her tired brow, her gentle spirit wing its flight into that valley where there are more fears, and no more tears.

WHEREAS, our beloved Sister has been tak from us, and the golden links of fraternity ha been severed: and

WHEREAS, in every phase of life Sis Millier followed the precepts of the Nat Daughters of the Golden West, which endear her to all who knew her.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that extend our deepest sympathy to her husband, Lemuel F. Millier; her parents, Mr. and M W. B. Clancy; and her sister, Mrs. Gladys Farley, and we pray that God in His hea goodness will give them comfort and strength their great loss.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a co of these resolutions be spread upon the minu of our Parlor; a copy be mailed to her fam and a copy be mailed to the Grizzly Bear Ma zine for publication.

JENNIE M. PETERSON,
IRMA S. MURRAY,
SALLIE R. THALER,

ANNA LOWRY McQUAIDE

To the Officers and Members of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, N.D.G.W.:

We, your committee intrusted with the sad duty of drafting a memorial of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Anna Lowry McQuaide submit the following:

Whereas the precious ties of love, friendship and fraternity again have been suddenly severed and our hearts are filled with sorrow at parting with our beloved Sister Anna Lowry McQuaide:

Whereas in God's loving providence we have been asked to give up one of earth's dearest gifts.

The sudden breaking of golden threads is only another of the many mysteries that surround us, but we are assured that for each mystery there is a key, and that some time we will understand.

It is resolved, that we extend our sincere and deep sympathy to her loving daughter and family. May they find much comfort knowing that the world was made better by her living in it, and that the spirit of friendliness she exemplified in her daily life, will stand as a memory that time cannot erase.

That—a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication and that they be spread upon the minutes of this parlor.

We cannot say, and we will not say
That she is dead!· She is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of her hand
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since she lingers there.
Think of her still as the same, we say
She is not dead—she is just away.

Respectfully submitted,
BEATRICE M. NISHKIAN,
MARGARET RAMM,
MARY C. MAHONEY.

WILDER MONSON MANNING

The gavel has rapped inaudibly. The Grim Reaper has visited us again. Our Charter will be draped in mourning. Our Brother, Wilder Monson Manning; lovingly known to us as "Bill"; quietly reading a book on Sunday, March 16th; passed as calmly went to eternal sleep, at his home in Sonoma. He was the first President, Charter President, of our Parlor, at its organization in 1910, an able, fair, presiding officer, his guiding spirit and enthusiasm launched the Parlor on a successful career.·Leader in all Parlor activities, until recently, he always presided on Old Timers night, organizer, manager of our Parlor Band; organizer, Director General Street Fair and Carnival in 1912, which put the Parlor on its feet; regularly Grand Marshal's Aide, rode a horse, in all Admission Day parades; numerous times delegate to Grand Parlor, known state wide in N.S.G.W. circles as Fruitvale Parlor; Veteran, Spanish-American War, was in World War one, rejected many times account over age, finally did enlist, saw active service overseas; Treasurer of Fruitvale Parlor many years until enlistment World War one; Chief Supervising Clerk Alameda County Superior Courts for years until retirement, then quietly resided on his little farm Sonoma, and quietly retired. A Loyal Native Son of California. Good Bye, Bill from Fruitvale Parlor. May You ever Rest in Peace.

FRANK IRVING ALEXANDER

Whereas our Father Eternal in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst to His Heavenly Parlor on High, our brother Frank Irving Alexander.

Therefore, be it resolved, that we extend to the bereaved family our deep and sincere sympathy in their great loss.

JACK McLERRAN,
Recording Secretary, John Bidwell Parlor No. 292, Native Sons of the Golden West.

OLDEST PIONEER NATIVE DAUGHTER PASSES

Mrs. Josephine Lande Mahé, a native of San Francisco, believed to be the oldest member in years of the Order, a member of Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, NDGW, passed away on March 26, 1947. She was born on August 5, 1853 and would have been 94 in August of this year. While only affiliated with the Order over the past thirty-five years, she was a great lover of the State of California and the Order of the Native Daughters. She was a prominent member of the California Pioneer Women's Society of San Francisco. While she had been confined to her bed in the San Francisco Hospital for the past several years, her mind was alert and clear to the end. She was a woman of great intellectual strength and was one of San Francisco's prominent school teachers for many years. So passeth from our midst these California pioneer women—whose love and faith and courage, molded the building of a great State.

FLORENCE M. HEWITT

To the Officers and Members of Marysville Parlor No. 162, NDGW:

Your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect and sympathy to the memory of our departed sister, Past President Florence M. Hewitt, submit the following:

WHEREAS, We realize the loss of our sister, who for over thirty-eight years was a member, and who had served as a Past President. She gave of her time and efforts in our Parlor's early organization, and aided in the success of our projects through her interest.

We shall miss our sister, for her life was one of kindness and friendliness. She lived true to the ideals of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That the sincere sympathy of our Parlor be extended to her family through a copy of these resolutions, also these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, and a copy be published in the Grizzly Bear.

ESTHER R. SULLIVAN,
INA M. WELLS,
HELEN HARRIS,
Committee.

(Seal)

MAE R. SHEA

To the Officers and Members of Orinda Parlor No. 56, N.D.G.W.:

We, your Memorial Committee, entrusted with the sad duty of drafting Resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our late Past President and Secretary, Mae R. Shea, hereby submit the following:

Whereas, God has seen fit to send His Angels to carry lovingly and tenderly our beloved Sister to answer the roll call of Grand Parlor on High. Our loss is great but a fond memory will long linger around her vacant chair. We will miss her presence and her counsel. During her years as a Native Daughter there was never a more devoted or loyal member. We must be ever mindful that a far greater loss has come to those who were nearest and dearest to her; therefore, be it

Resolved that we extend to her bereaved husband and son our sincere sympathy. May they find much comfort knowing that the world was made better by her living in it.

Resolved that a copy of these Resolutions be inscribed upon the minutes of our Parlor, a copy sent to the bereaved family and a copy sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) MADELINE C. KING,
ORINDA G. GIANNINI,
CHARLOTTE LUDEMANN.
RHODE CAREW, President.

ONE OF EARLIEST ANAHEIM NATIVES CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Ella E. Andrade, who had lived in Anaheim, Orange County, for almost 83 years, recently passed on. She was the daughter of the pioneer Henry Padderatze and the widow of the late Capt. M. F. F. Andrade, who served for 21 years as a member of the Anaheim police force.

Mrs. Andrade was born here May 25, 1864, and members of her family and friends believed her to be the second girl baby born in Anaheim. Her father owned a vineyard on the south side of Center street opposite what is now the Anaheim Union High School grounds.

She was the mother of Mrs. Pauline Johnson of Placentia, president of Grace Parlor No. 242, NDGW, and Arthur B. Andrade, a member of Mother Colony No. 281, NSGW, Anaheim. A grandson, Wayne Andrade, is also a member of Mother Colony Parlor.

Grace Parlor recently adopted its 29th Baby and named it "Ella Pauline" in honor of Mrs. Andrade and the parlor's president, Mrs. Pauline Johnson.

PROMINENT NATIVE DAUGHTER PASSES TO ETERNAL REWARD

Mrs. Mae R. Shea, Past President and faithful Secretary of Orinda Parlor No. 56, NDGW, passed away at her home on April 9, after a long illness. The Order of Native Daughters has lost a loyal and devoted member. Since the date of initiation into Orinda Parlor, March 13, 1914, she was an active member in our Order. She served on various committees, was District Deputy Grand President for several years and at the time of her death was not only Secretary to Orinda Parlor but was serving as the State Secretary to the General Association of Past Presidents.

Mrs. Shea is survived by her husband, Wm. Shea, member of California Parlor No. 1, NSGW, and a son, Wm. Shea, Jr. Another son, Gerald A. Shea, was killed during the war on the U. S. Franklin.

ALBERT H. BARTHOLD

Fruitvale Parlor No. 252, lost one of its long time and esteemed members, when on Sunday, April 6th, Albert H. Barthold answered his last roll call, and was summoned to the Grand Parlor on High. From the time of his entrance into the Parlor in 1912, for quite some years he was a regular attendant, and was active in and with the Parlor's Baseball and Bowling Teams, and endeared himself to many of the members of those days. In more recent years his business interests precluded regular attendance, but he was always a welcome and reminiscent attendant on Old Timers Night and at 25 year membership Night. "Ollie" made many friends during his 35 year membership, and many of our members were saddened to learn of his passing.

"THE SALINAS"

Rivers are the drainage system between the mountains and the sea. They are the great equalizers of the land. Constantly they gnaw into our mountains to tear away and carry stolen earth to the valleys where they deposit their burdens. Deep rich soil is the result and life abounds along their fertile banks.

Such is the story of the "Salinas, the upside down river" of California and named so, partly because the river flows north and partly because it is the largest submerged river in America. Anne B. Fisher, the author, describes not only the river's eccentricities but relates the story of those people who found refuge in her valley.

There is the episode of the timid Spanish soldier who feared that Captain Don Pedro might fail to find the mouth of the Salinas, known then as the Santa Delfina, even as did Portola. So secretly he scattered mustard seed along their route from San Diego, that the yellow flowers might guide their way in the event that they might have to retrace their steps.

The Salinas is the dramatic narrative of the missions and the gentle padres who built them and of how they grew and prospered. Mission San Antonio alone had converted 1076 Indians who lived behind her walls. Cattle and sheep multiplied by the score. Irrigation ditches carried water to thousands of acres of rich bottom land. But the padres were forced by Mexican rule to leave. San Antonio Mission was practically deserted and Mission San Miguel entirely so. Only at the Mission of Our Lady of Solitude did a father watch over his flock. Father Sarria never left. Though his body, wasted away by starvation, gave up the struggle, he even now lies buried beside the altar of one of his beloved missions.

But the gentle rule of padres came to an end. Mexico seceded from Spain. Soldiers and settlers who had found favor in the new regime were granted vast tracks of land. In 1822 the Mexicans had taken over Alta California.

Gradually the ambitious Anglo Saxons found the Salinas. Many of them accepted the Catholic faith and became Mexican citizens. Many of them married the beautiful senoritas and the weddings were stupendous gala affairs when the bride-to-be was Spanish.

Adventurous American trappers and traders were coming across the mountains. They found the Salinas and liked it. Wine proved too mild a drink and Isaac Graham, a notorious Kentuckian, set up a still and produced his own brand of "whiskey." They were a rough lot and though the ranchers were able to oust these unwanted gringos the measure was only temporary. Gold changed everything.

History is the dusty tabulation of facts, the musty dried seed of essentials. But it takes a lot of flowering to make a seed, a lot of sun and rain and hope. And so it took a lot of living to make history. Living that was a wonderfully good and sinfully wrong for it takes all kinds to make a world even a small one in such an almost forgotten paradise as was the Salinas Valley.

Anne Fisher does more than chronicle the dry events of history. She introduces you to the old timers of Salinas and makes them live again. There was Grizzly Dan, the great grizzly bear hunter who with two grizzly bears as tame as dogs, came into the valley. You'll enjoy reading the narrative of old Gabriel, baptized by Junipero Serra. He helped build the missions of Carmel, Soledad and San Antonio. He wore a stove pipe hat and he lived to be 151 yea old. Why Tiburcio Vasquez turned bandit an became the beloved Robinhood of the Salina loved by many and admired by all, is graphical related. Then there was Charley Parkhurst, o of the toughest whips to ever handle the ribbo of a six-horse stage. Charley was a hard drin ing, swearing, tobacco chewing stagecoach driv and when he died it was discovered that Charl Parkhurst was a woman!

It's a book for those who want to know abo the country in which they live but "who don want to go to sleep reading about it."

"The Salinas" is the twenty-seventh volun of the Rivers of America Series. Published Farrar and Rinehart, Inc.—$3.00.

TELLS OF FIGHT FOR CALIFORNIA STATEHOOD

The fight in Congress during 1848-1849 ov California's admission to the Union is told a new book, Zachary Taylor, by Dr. Braine Dyer, associate professor of history on the L Angeles campus of the University of Calfiornia.

General Taylor, "Old Rough and Ready," w elected President of the United States in 184 based upon his popularity following his smashi defeat of the Mexican General Santa Ana Buena Vista.

To hasten statehood for California and oth western areas for which he had fought as soldier, President Taylor sent an agent to t Pacific Coast to urge the people to draw up constitution and territorial government, a pr liminary move toward applying for statehood.

The clash in Congress came between the No and the South over the question whether Ca fornia should be free or slave, Dr. Dyer poi out in his book. President Taylor was anxic to accept the western areas into the Union soon as possible but wanted to "avoid occasic of bitter and angry dissensions among the peo of the United States."

He died after 16 months in office, but his fir ness against Southern congressmen and senat probably hastened statehood for California a other western areas.

HISTORIC OLD EAGLE TREE IS MARKED BY COMPTON PARLOR

Compton's historic "eagle tree," a gi sycamore on Electric Ave. near Long Be Blvd., shown on survey maps of the area dat back to 1857, was marked for preservation a State landmark in impressive ceremon April 16.

Dedication of the tree and monument conducted under auspices of Compton Par Native Daughters of the Golden West, of wh Mrs. Ellen Haskell is president. Mrs. Lor M. Cameron of San Francisco, Grand Preside unveiled the plaque and monument in conn tion with her official visit. Mayor Harry Lau ran accepted.

The ancient sycamore, believed from accou kept by early settlers to be more than 140 ye old, was preserved from destruction by Compton Native Daughters in cooperation w the Standard Oil Co., whose oil lines surro the tree.

The tree's name is derived from the fact t eagles formerly nested there, according to e accounts.

What is History?

By ANNE B. FISHER

thor of "No More a Stranger", "Cathedral in e Sun", "The Salinas", "Bears, Pirates and Silver Lace", and other books.

N these turbulent, history-making days, it is vell for all of us who are interested in the t to ask ourselves, "What is history?" From cave carvings of prehistoric men to the antic Charter, history is the story of men's ures and successes. History is the mirror of past. In it we see the struggle between good bad, and the loss and profit of it all. Unless know something of history we are not making use of our lives for we will not understand pattern history follows. An intelligent study the past will help us to see the possibilities, solve the problems of the future—for human ure does not change.

Ve of California have a wonderful history d with achievement and adventure and ance. Let us hope those who follow us will as good a picture.

ow many of us know that but for the shrewd sight and quick wits of Thomas Oliver Larkin Monterey, we might now be part of England?

the dark days of 1845-46 Mexico was fferent about California, and Larkin found by the grape-vine that Paredes, the president Mexico had offered to transfer California to t Britain as security for a loan!

his yankee loved California and figured that ould belong to the United States. He went work with brain instead of gunpowder, and on the first extensive promotion campaign California's sunny skies and great fertile ys.

exico wanted the land settled! Land would ranted to all Mexican citizens who could make of it. Commandantes of presidios could make ts and alcaldes of settlements could grant lo lots, the governor could make grants! A ue or 4,438.56 acres was a unit and eleven of could be granted to one person! All this In wrote to the Atlantic seaboard. If enough ees came to California and received land ts as Mexican citizens, they would be on the —in possession—when the change came, and and would have to fight for the land.

ne yankees came. California had its first n. The British, seeing what had happened, ed negotiations with Mexico.

ere were stormy days for Larkin when ont arrived with men and gunpowder to trouble, but success came when a treaty signed in 1847, and Mexico ceded California e United States for 15,000,000 dollars. And lon't belong to England!

w, when the ravages of war have ceased but hreat of war continues to menace yet, these will fall back in perspective, to those who us, just as the dark days of 1846-47 are history now to us.

us hope that future generations will study y to find us as courageous and strong as those who went before us.

humans are but candles with a windblown flame gainst a bitter night the God of Life, and Truth and Hope elp us to keep alight!"

CALIFORNIA

When the peaks of California
Are lower than her plain;
When the Master Hand that made them
Has leveled them again;
When, instead of rushing onward
Out through the Golden Gate,
Sacramento's seething waters
Flow back through the Golden State;
When the snows that crown Mount Whitney
In summer shall increase,—
We'll forget you, California,
And our love for you will cease.

When our fertile fields are deserts
And Death Valley 's white with snow;
When flowers die and wither
Where the golden poppies grow;
When the restless, blue Pacific
Will no longer drench with spray
The Seal Rocks, by the Cliff House,
Out near San Francisco Bay;
When the sands at Coronado
Cease to sparkle on the shore,
We'll forget you, California,—
We will love you, then, no more.

California! California!
We love you tenderly.
We love you for the loveliness
That God conferred on thee.
He placed magic in the music
Of thy many, murmuring streams;
He placed rapture in the beauty
Of thy million, charming scenes;
He placed enchantment on thy beaches
By the ocean's waves caressed,
And radiance in the sunshine
Reflected from thy breast.

We salute you, California,—
Salute the matchless majesty
Of thy regal, redwood vistas
Rolling upward from the sea
Through successive scenes of grandeur,
To the Sierras' mighty crest,—
We salute you, California,—
You're the land that God has blessed.

TRACY HISTORY . . .

cattle roamed the plains, and some hardy farmers tried to raise a little grain for their stock, if they were lucky enough to have some rain. Now the farmer just turns the water into the ditches and can raise most any kind of a crop, on some of the best land in California. And Tracy has one of the finest processing plants ready to handle the vegetables and fruit when the crop is ready to harvest. Tracy has grown from one railroad family and a few others, to a thriving city with a population of 7,499 (I was away when they counted noses the last time or it would be an even 7,500). Airplanes, streamline trains, buses and automobiles have superseded the horse and sailing boat. We have seen many changes and have much to be thankful for.

How We Began 40 Years Ago

By HARRY J. LELANDE
President Board of Directors

FORTY years ago on Lincoln's birthday a do Native Californians met at a Los Angeles ca in response to a call that had been sent out members of the Order of the Native Sons of Golden West, the notice stating that the purp of the meeting was to discuss ways and me to combat the advance of those advocating St division, which cause had been augmented loc by a press announcement that the Division were about to open offices in Los Angeles. proximately 100 notices had been mailed, the for the gathering turned out to be a stormy o nevertheless, the dozen stalwarts that attend paved the way which ultimately led to the fou ing of the Grizzly Bear Publishing Co.

Those in attendance were: J. Rush Brons Wm. F. Bryant, A. A. Eckstrom, Edwin O. Ed ton, Grant Jackson, Harry J. Lelande, Edward Lovie, John T. Newell, J. N. O. Rech, Arthur Schmidt, F. A. Stephenson and Calvert Wils Telegrams were read from Herman C. Licht berger and Henry E. Carter regretting their ability to be present.

It was the consensus of opinion of those pres that the welfare of our State, as well as our Or of the Native Sons of the Golden West, was jeopardy, so the entire group adjourned from restaurant to Room 1, City Hall, where our cussions could be more private, and at leas temporary organization effected. The meet was duly called to order, Wm. F. Bryant selec as temporary chairman and Calvert Wilson, t porary secretary. Several committees were pointed by the chair, with instructions to rep at the next meeting, which had been fixed the following week. Adjournment was not tal until after midnight.

At the second meeting the attendance was m than doubled. Chairman Bryant called for report of the Ways and Means Committee, wh was headed by Edgerton, who had prepared painstaking report, stressing the fact that in battle against the Divisionists we needed utmost publicity. Rech reported on perman organization, which report was adopted una mously. The chairman then announced that election of officers was in order. Herman Lichtenberger was selected as president, Edw B. Lovie, secretary and Harry J. Lelande, tre urer. The president named J. Rush Bronson business manager. Edgerton, Rech and Wil were named to prepare Articles of Incorporat and present them for approval at the next m ing one week hence, which was to be the f meeting of the Board of Directors of the Gri Bear Publishing Co.

Manager Bronson stated that he could h the first issue of the Grizzly Bear out by May and he did not disappoint us.

The Divisionists were apparently not as w organized as the advices which reached us, wo indicate, for soon after the appearance of first issue they seemed to have taken to the woo much credit being due to Grant Jackson, wh masterly article ran in the first number.

From "The Salutation" on page one of the f issue, I quote paragraph four, "Firm in the c viction of a righteous cause—opposed to sention and sordid ambition—with the lofty tra tions of the days of '49 ever before us, EMPHATICALLY! declare ONE State, INS ARABLE NOW and FOREVER."

On Beautiful MONTEREY PENINSULA

So breathtakingly glorious that it lingered in men's memory a century and a half. Colonists came on foot a thousand miles that they might live their lives amid its charm.

Today the enchanting loveliness of Monterey Peninsula is known the world around. Even as Viscaino, Junipero Serra and de Anza came so long ago, so come the pleasure-seeking folks from everywhere to spend a never-to-be-forgotten vacation.

Carmel Mission 1771

The Indians built it under the direction of the padres one hundred and seventy-six years ago. The red tile of its roof were molded on the thighs of Carmel Valley Indians. Though the adobe walls may slowly crumble into dust, the great mission still proudly thrusts her cross of God into blue heavens and smiles in the sun.

THE GRIZZLY BEAR

NOTICE!

This is the last Grizzly Bear that will be mailed to all Native Sons throughout the Order, as has been the custom during the past three years, with payment of subscriptions being made through Grand Parlor, and being included in the per capita tax. Delegates to the 70th Grand Parlor, NSGW, voted to discontinue this.

Henceforth, Native Sons will only receive the magazine if they have subscribed individually direct to the Grizzly Bear at $1.75 per year, payable in advance, or if the Parlor has notified us that it wishes to take advantage of the special club rate offered it for its entire membership.

If you wish to reecive the August issue, check with your parlor secretary to see what action has been taken. If they have notified us favorably, then you will receive the August issue as usual.

However, if they have not taken care of this matter, then, in order to receive any further issues of the Grizzly Bear, you must fill out the subscription blank on page 11 and mail to us, together with your check, without delay. To insure reeciving the August issue, your subscription must reach us by July 15.

Native Daughters, who have been depending on the copy received by Native Son members of their family, should also check to see if they will continue to receive the magazine in this manner.

FATHER ERIC O'BRIEN APPOINTED KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CHAPLAIN

Father Eric O'Brien of Santa Barbara Parlor, who was one of the featured speakers at the 70th Grand Parlor, NSGW, has been appointed by the State Deputy as State Chaplain for the Knights of Columbus the coming year. Father O'Brien, noted for his research work on Father Junipero Serra, has also been appointed to the California History Board by Grand President Walter H. Odemar, Native Sons of the Golden West.

PLANS MADE TO PUBLICIZE ADMISSION DAY EVENTS

Extensive plans are being made by the P licity committee of the Admission Day Celeb tion Committee for 1947 to publicize the four day event in Long Beach in the pr throughout the state, arousing public inter and by this means, bringing the Native Sons Daughters of the Golden West to the front. this regard, the committee will work closely w the state publicity chairmen of both Orders

Because of the vast amount of territory to covered, it will be impossible to take care of local news of the various parlors. For this reas the committee stresses to the publicity chairm of the parlors of both the Native Sons and Dau ters, the necessity of seeing that their lo papers get news of their plans for participat in the event.

Remember, that much valuable publicity to individual parlor and to the Orders as a wh will ensue if you will follow the above suggesti This is particularly true in the smaller comm ities of the state, where weekly editors are g erally glad to get news of this sort with a lo tie-in.

Further the committee requests that all pa secretaries send newspaper clippings, giving d and name of paper, together with any other pl that they may have for participation in this gr State event to the Grizzly Bear offices, 338 W Center Street, Anaheim, in order that the p licity committee, headed by the editor of Grizzly Bear, may have this material at h for the planning of its news releases.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

July 4, 1872, the Ninety-Sixth Anniversary of America's independence was celebrated throughout California in the usual patriotic manner. At Grass Valley, Nevada County, Governor Newton Booth delivered an oration that attracted more than ordinary attention. At San Francisco and Sacramento the Pioneer Societies had their usual banquets with addresses by prominent citizens. In the parade at the latter city appeared a horse brought across the plains by Adam Newbauer in 1849; that winter the horse stayed in Hangtown, El Dorado County, and the following year was sold to a Sacramentan. A large number of serious, but not fatal, accidents were reported. Fires in San Francisco caused losses estimated at $100,000.

A strike reported in the Pioche mine in Eastern Nevada State during the month caused a spasm in the mining stock market and sent the price of that stock from $15 to $50 a share; otherwise, the market was steady. Belcher declared a monthly dividend of $30 and Crown Point one of $3. Belcher sold at $950 and Crown Point at $175 a share, while Ophir went to $22.

In the grain market, wheat was quoted at $1.60 and barley at $1.15 a cental. Hay was $8 a ton and potatoes 1¼c a pound.

The residents of Stockton were complaining of the high cost of wood, which was selling at $9 a cord. Scarcity of teams to haul, on account of the grain harvest, was the cause.

The Board of Trustees of Sacramento passed an ordinance limiting the speed of horse-drawn vehicles in the city limits to five miles an hour. Fast driving had caused a number of accidents to pedestrians.

A stage line was started between Visalia and Los Angeles July 9. This made the time by rail and stage between San Francisco and Los Angeles forty-eight hours.

The first passenger train from San Francisco arrived at Visalia July 26.

Hod-carriers working on the new City Hall in San Francisco struck July 10 for a raise of pay from $2.50 to $3 for ten hours of work. The strike lasted two days, when they resumed at the old rate.

A farmer named Boggs, in San Joaquin County, reported harvesting wheat that yielded seventy-five bushels and barley ninety-six bushels an acre.

A pumpkin grown by Judge Greelon in Santa Barbara covered sixty square feet of ground and was claimed to be the largest grown in the state.

A vein of coal of a good quality was reported discovered in the Coast Range about sixty miles from Visalia.

John Mossman, mining near Hornitos, Mariposa County, struck a pocket that yielded over $6000 in gold in a few hours.

The Spring Valley Hydraulic Co. at Cherokee, Butte County, cleaned up its sluices this month and rocovered $50.000 in gold dust. This made a total of over $200.000 from its riffles since January 1

Thomas Carroll, a blacksmith of Santa Clara, while driving along the road near there July 26, saw two men, carrying shotguns, walking along the road ahead of him, and, as he approached, they separated to let him pass. Supposing they intended to stop and rob him, he lashed his horses and, thinking he had escaped a holdup, on arriving at a stable near by secured a gun. With a young man named King he returned to the place, and on meeting the men ordered them to surrender. One did so, but the other started to run; Carroll fired, and the bullet did deadly work. The man killed proved to be H. Pattel, a prominent florist of San Francisco who, with an employe, had been looking for flowers and had their guns to kill game while walking along the road. It was an unfortunate mistake.

Mrs. Kenny, a newly-married woman of about 18, had trouble with her husband near Petaluma, Sonoma County, over slanderous reports that were being circulated about her, and which, she found, originated with a disappointed suitor named Cummings. July 18 she saw him driving a team on the road near her home. Taking a loaded shotgun, she went to the roadside and waited his coming; when near by she fired both barrels, and killed him instantly.

Dr. Bourne of Portland, Oregon, vegetarian 60 years of age, walked from that city to San Francisco, a distance of 800 miles in thirty-four days. He lived on crackers, turnips and cabbage, with what other food of a vegetable character he could gather enroute, and gained five pounds during the tramp.

C. P. Huntington, vice-president and promoter of the Central Pacific Railroad, was stopping at July 21, when a fire broke out in a building at the rear of the hotel. He had a large number of trunks in his rooms filled with maps, specifications and documents to take East in a few days, and, consequently became anxious about extinguishment of the fire. Partially dressed, he approached a member of the volunteer fire department who was holding a nozzle playing a stream upon the fire and dictated to him to direct it so as to give the hotel more protection. The fireman promptly turned the nozzle toward, and the stream of water upon, "C. P.," and he departed drenched. He took it in good part and smiling, declared it was evident that firemen would not take orders from an outsider.

July 23 the bank of a lot on Sacramento street, near Leavenworth, San Francisco, caved and buried a lad named Thomas Gallagher who was playing near it. A number of men rushed to the spot to dig him out, when another cave occurred, burying John Coyne who, with the boy, was later taken out dead.

Thomas C. Baggeman, an employe of the railroad company at Gilroy, Santa Clara County, was instantly killed July 16 by being crushed while coupling cars.

Mrs. C. W. Samuelson, in Sacramento July 14, started to prepare supper and poured coal oil on the fire. The oil-can exploded and she was fatally burned.

A fire in San Leandro, Alameda County, July 30, burned several buildings, among them a restaurant owned by a Portuguese named Rogers. In trying to save his cook, named Guise, sleeping in the rear, he lost his life, as both were burned to death.

TRAIL RIDERS WILL TOUR HIGH SIERRA WILDERNESS

The Trail Riders of the Wilderness, an expedition sponsored by the American Forestry Association, will tour the national forests and parks of the High Sierra August 31 to September 11, according to announcement by the United States Forest Service. Other similar tours will be held this summer in the national forests and parks of Montana, Idaho, Colorado and New Mexico.

The party, which is limited to twenty-five riders, will start from Lone Pine in the Owens Valley and enter the Sierra Nevada at Kearsage Pass, thence tour southward along the John Muir Trail through some of the most spectacular mountain scenery in America. Crossing Forester Pass into Milestone Basin they will travel through a region of sky-blue lakes, flowery meadows and gray granite mountain peaks to the summit of Mt. Whitney, elevation 14,495 feet, the highest peak in continental United States. From this magnificent top country the trail will lead to the headwaters of the Kern River from which an ascent will be made of Mt. Langley, 14,000 feet elevation. Continuing over Siberian Pass the riders will return to lower elevations via Golden Trout Creek, Tunnel Ranger Station, Monache Meadows and Olancha Pass to Sage Flat where the trail ends.

The route followed by the Trail Riders will offer an opportunity to enjoy some of the finest scenery and best fishing waters of the Inyo National Forest and Kings Canyon and Sequoia National Parks.

The Trail Riders were organized in 1933 by the American Forestry Association as one of its educational services. Under the leadership of the Association, in cooperation with the Forest and Park Services—administrators of the larger remnants of the primintive area in the United States—over a thousand men and women have participated in 56 separate expeditions to the major wilderness areas of ten different states, and explored more than 7000 miles of trails.

Complete information on this High Sierra Wilderness tour may be obtained from the American Forestry Association at Washington, D. C.

Playground of the Sierras ---

Inyo, Mono, Fresno and Madera Counties, Vacation Mecca for Thousands Each Summer, Are Rich In Historic Lore and Scenic Splendor.

By HAR LAR

OUR GOLDEN STATE is a vacationland to all the world. Every nook and cranny boasts some scenic charm. Just the same when July rolls around hundreds of native Californians will leave their own particular charming localities to take their vacations in the high Sierras.

Over the mountains they'll go. From Lake Tahoe through Inyo County they will seek the lakes and streams. In a land of primitive beauty, unmarred except for brief stretches by man, they will momentarily yield to their pioneer instincts and enjoy the life of their forefathers.

The eastern side of the Sierra Nevadas has had a wild turbulent history almost as violent as the earthquakes that formed her formidable rocky walls. Once this was the scene of a bloody Indian war, for the Piutes fought the encroachment of the white man to their hunting grounds. Later Owens Valley became a refuge of bad men. Vasquez, the bandit, made the area his hideaway.

In Mono County some thirty-five miles north of Bishop there's a huge gaunt pine tree at the south end of Convict Lake. Two dead limbs stretch forth like arms of ghosts and legend has it that these great branches were used as a scaffold to hang some escaped convicts who sought to elude the law by holing up in this mountain wilderness three quarters of a century ago. However, the story is purely legend.

Like the proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, beautiful Rainbow Falls, near the headwaters of the San Joaquin, each year attracts countless visitors.

It is true that on September 17, 1871 a prison break occurred at the Nevada penitentiary at Carson City. Twenty-nine murderers, horse thieves, and train robbers shot their way to freedom, killing one man and wounding a dozen more. Their bloody trail took them to Inyo County where they shot and killed a mail rider for his horse and clothes.

At Convict Lake the sheriff's posse caught up with the desperados. Sheltered by the old pine the convicts shot it out. Beside that beautiful lake beneath the towering shadow of Mt. Morrison murder was repeated. Killing one of the posse and wounding two others, the convicts made good their escape.

Heading toward Bishop the convicts were located in Round Valley. By this time a major and five Federal soldiers from Independence were added to the side of law and order. Three of the convicts were apprehended. It was at McGee's place at Long Valley that the convicts were taken. After a two hours' grilling a vote was taken. Two of the convicts were hanged that night, not from the old pine tree but from an improvised scaffold erected beside the McGee house.

Mammoth Lakes are known to every trout fisherman in California. Lake Mary, Lake George, Twin Lakes are but a few of the choice fishing spots. Here the camera fan is indeed in his element, especially if he's "shooting" color film. Snow clad peaks mirror their glorious reflections in azure blue lakes while giant pines frame the scene in green and brown.

Once in the past this area boasted two newspapers and a population of 2,500. That was in 1878 when gold was discovered. It caused a flurry of panicky excitement but the mines were soon exhausted and by the close of 1880 the Mammoth Lake region once more reverted back to her former quiet grandeur.

From Mammoth Lakes a road twists into the backyard of Yosemite Park. You hardly realize when you top the pass but suddenly a panorama stretches below and you see the road switch back a half dozen times below.

Suddenly you are on the west side of the Sierras. A moment before the waters were flowing east and south. Some of the melting snow of the lofty peaks follow the natural watersheds to pour forth faucets in Los Angeles kitchens. Now the springs and rivulets flow west to the quiet stream in the meadow far below to eventually pour out in a majestic tide beneath the Golden Gate Bridge at San Francisco for you have reached the headwaters of the San Joaquin River.

Here is to be found one of nature's oddities. The great towering pillars of rock are called the "Devil's Postpile." Like giant cordwood turned to stone these gigantic rocks, formed ages ago from molten lava, about the size and length of telephone poles, tower in neat piles along the cliff. Though approximately two feet in diameter the "posts" are almost perfect prisms and measure some forty feet in heighth. Most are "split" in pentagonal shapes though there are some with four and even six sides. Not all of them stand vertically. Some of the devil's posts are laid in flat horizontal positions and you c see the butt ends sticking out from the stack piles. Geologists tell us that they rank wi the famous Giant's Causeway in Ireland. Th were caused by strain set up by contraction wh the great lava flow was cooling and are kno as basaltic columns. South of the Devil's Po pile, downstream by short two mile hike, is Ra bow Falls. Here the middle fork of the S Joaquin River makes a 140-foot perpendicul drop. A slab of rock jutting out on the low right beats the ribbon of water into frothy foa while sunbeams catch the misty spray to col a rainbow.

Many will again seek out the Rainbow of t Sierras for there's a promise of soul satisfyi enjoyment in spending even a few short wee where rainbows fall.

Like the post pile of the devil it is. Th gigantic rocks about the size of telegraph pol tower in neat piles along the cliff.

One of the popular golf courses for which Monterey Peninsula is famed, near Pacific Grove and Asilomar.

Asilomar --

This Popular Resort at Pacific Grove, Near Monterey, Has Not Lost Its Primitive Charm

ASK ANY high school boy or girl, especially if they are members of the Y.M.C.A. or Y.W.C.A., for they'll know about Asilomar. There's hardly a teen ager in any community who has not enjoyed a memorable vacation at this nationally famous conference ground at some time or another.

Still it isn't youth exclusively that you will find registered. School teachers, college women, business and industrial club members, organizations of every description, fill the daily calendar to overflowing at Asilomar.

The conference ground came into being during the summer of 1913 nearly a quarter of a century ago. Here on a scenic seashore, where wild waves over the centuries have tumbled dunes of snow white sands, secluded in a wood of Monterey's famous cypress, a tent city was erected. Composed of thirty acres donated by the Pacific Improvement Company of Pacific Grove, it was one of the most beautiful spots on the exquisitely enchanting Monterey Peninsula.

A circus tent was needed to house the dining hall. Guests were served by the hundreds on calm days whenever the troublesome wind would let the big canvas "top" alone. Ten open tent houses were used as sleeping quarters.

Today the encampment has given way to up-to-date modern buildings, quietly in keeping with the surrounding wild rustic beauty. There are twenty-eight buildings all told that provide housing, recreation and meeting rooms for five hundred daily guests. The original thirty acres have expanded to sixty.

During the trying days of World War II our soldiers learned about Asilomar. The lovely refuge became home to the families of the men stationed in nearby military camps. Then conferences of the young people were scheduled few and far between.

Today Asilomar is back on the job playing to numerous groups, encompassing many different needs. Here in this relaxing quietness folks gather in council and their decisions are helping to build a better democracy in the communities of our nation. It should be added that Asilomar, under the management of Mary Buchtel, provides accommodations for the individual guests and their families who are visiting the peninsula as well as to the members of organizations that are gathering at the conference grounds.

Even the popular resort that she has grown to be today, Asilomar has not lost her primitive charm. Wild deer may be seen almost at any time wandering about the grounds. The graceful lithe creatures seem peculiarly part of the scenery so tame they have become.

Will you like Pacific Grove? You'll love it! Famed 17 Mile Drive adjoins the village. Here along the rocky shore where the white foamed surf pounds eternally are some of the scenic wonders of the world. The ghost trees, Mid-Way Point, Sea Lion Rock. Here too are found some of the outstanding golf courses of the world.

The coastline is wildly rugged. In years past many ships have gone to watery graves upon the rocks in spite of the Point Pinos lighthouse that has flashed a warning to mariners since 1872.

In a little seaside restaurant we had, during these hectic days of run away high prices, the surprise of our lives. We were served filet mignons, steaks, half chicken and lobster dinners augmented with fresh salad and clam chowder for a mere 99c. May they still be in business when we return.

A guest of picturesque Asilomar, caught browsing about the spacious grounds.

Pacific Grove came into being when the Methodists of California elected to settle there back in 1874. It is a quiet little town with numerous churches. You'll find no night clubs though there's plenty of night life in Monterey a few miles away. A theatre, city park, civic plunge and a museum provide ample entertainment. However, so called "bottled spirits" are unattainable in Pacific Grove.

And that is why even as the butterflies return to their "conference trees" in Pacific Grove, so return the youth of our state as well as the oldsters, seeking again the tranquil pleasures of Asilomar.

There are numerous quiet motor courts in this lovely area that provide the overnight guests with excellent accommodations. Reasonably priced the 17 Mile Drive Cottage Court is very popular. Space is also available for house trailers though reservations must be made far in advance.

A. G. Millar, silver screen actor of the silents, owns the Millar Courts. He was an opera singer turned movie villain. In the movies since 1914, he supported many of filmdom's best. His major role was never "screened." He starred in a little New York theatre on 79th Street. Fire had broken out in an adjoining building and smoke was pouring into the theatre, panicking the audience. It was then that Milar did his finest performance. His singing helped to calm those frenzied people.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

San Jose, June 4, 1947

Leonard Schwacofer,
Editor, Grizzly Bear,
Dear Brother:

I am enclosing my check for $1.75 for one year's subscription to our Grizzly Bear Magazine. The paper is well worth the price and I always look forward to its arrival. I believe that every Native Son and Daughter should subscribe.

"In Unity There is Strength."

Attention Editor San Rafael
RE:Retraction
Dear Sir:

In the last issue of the Grizzly Bear, May 1947, page 15 in regard to the article headed "Record Breaking Class is Initiated by Princess Parlor," I wish to inform you that Marinita Parlor No. 198 initiated into their parlor on March 12, 1945 thirty-five (35) new members. At that time Emily Ryan was Past Grand President and Margarerite Streckfus was President of the Parlor.

According to the recent article there were twenty-seven candidates. Our candidates totaled thirty-five or a difference of eight.

We would appreciate it very much if this matter were corrected. Thanking you in advance for your attention to this matter, I remain,

VIRGINIA WHEALE, Publicity.

Editor Grizzly Bear,
Dear Sir:

I would like to call your attention to a statement in the May issue—Page 15, Col. 3—"Record Breaking Class is Initiated, etc. etc."

If you will refer to your records of last year—San Luisita Parlor No. 108, had their official visit at the Odd Fellows hall, San Luis Obispo, April 3, 1946. At this time we initiated 31 candidates. According to the Grand Parlor Proceedings, 1946, we are given the honor of initiating the largest class in any official visit. We are very proud of our record and hope to better it.

LORRAINE C. WRIGHT,
Recording Secretary.

San Carlos Mission in Carmel Valley, the most beautiful of all the twenty-one Missions established, was the dream of Padre Junipero Serra. From a rude altar of pine boughs to a great cathedral it grew under the loving guidance of the Padres and the sweating toil of "Christian" Indians.—Photo by Mission Photo Service.

Mission San Carlos - -

THE MISSION SAN CARLOS de Borromeo in the Carmel Valley is the most beautifully situated of all the twenty-one Missions established in California.

Nestled near the base of the purplish Santa Lucia Mountain range, the Mission that was the Headquarters for the Presidente of the Missions in both Lower and Upper California, began as a cluster of pine boughs under which Mass was said.

This rough altar in turn gave way to a temporary wooden structure, and as the years passed was replaced with adobe. In 1797 the present church, built of sandstone, quarried from the nearby mountains, was erected; but too late for Father Junipero Serra to see his dream brought to reality.

On August 28, 1784, this valiant Padre died, and was laid to rest in the Chapel, beside Padre Crespi, who had been his dearest and closest coworker throughout the long arduous years of Missionary work.

The revered Fray Serra was born in Mallorca, Spain on November 24, 1713. He received the Franciscan Habit at the age of seventeen. Two centuries before at the request of Conquistador Cortes, more than four thousand Franciscans had come to Mexico to establish schools and Missions in Spain's new world colonies.

There were more than twenty Missionary Colleges, at which a year's instruction was given in Mission labor. When possible the dialects of the various Indian tribes to be encountered were also taught the Padres.

It was to one these Colleges, the San Fernando at Mexico City that Father Serra came to receive his training. He was then sent to Lower California as Presidente of all the Missions to be established there.

When his work was completed in Baja California, Padre Serra requested permission to accompany Portola on his expedition to Monterey. It was in 1770 that he arrived here and remained to found the San Carlos Mission where he spent the declining years of his life.

After his death, Padre Lasuen succeeded Father Serra as Presidente of the Missions, and it was he who dedicated the present stone church that was begun in 1793 and completed in 1797.

There are several features of the San Carlos Mission which are unusual and differ from the other Missions in California. One is the Gothic Arch in the Baptismal Font. This is the only arch of this type to be placed in a Mission. More than four thousand Indians were baptized at this Font from 1770 to 1836, the year the Mission was abandoned.

The San Carlos Mission possessed the first catalogued library in California. There were more than three hundred indexed volumes there at one time, brought to Carmel on the packet which plied regularly from San Blas to Monterey Harbor, and in addition to the books which included history, art and literature, also brought many valuable reliquaries, vestments and paintings.

Many of the valuable items are now on display in the Museum at the Mission, in the portion which was used originally as the Padres' quarters.

Besides Fathers Serra, Crespi, Lopez and Lasuen, Governor Romeau and Commandante Sal are also buried within the church in front of the altar. In the grounds outside are buried more than three thousand Indians.

In 1833, when the Act of Secularization was passed by the Mexican government, Padre Jose Real took over the control of the Mission and for protection moved many of the valuables to the Royal Presidio Chapel, where some of them may still be seen, including Father Serra's own silver Chalice.

By 1836 Mission life had come completely to an end and the buildings were abandoned. Gradually the Church and the Quadrangle went in decay.

In 1884, Father Casanova in an attempt to sa the old Church, had a tile roof put on it.

In 1924, Father Raymond Mestres had pa of the Quadrangle restored and had the beau ful sarcophagus erected to the memory of Fath Serra and the other three Padres who rest with the Church.

The Mission became a parish church in 19 and has since been served by its pastor, Reverer M. D. O'Connell. Since that year great strid have been taken in the actual restoration of bo the buildings and the beautiful gardens whi once bloomed around this Old Capital Missi where California history actually began.

THREE CONESTOGA WAGONS ARE GIVEN COLUMBIA STATE PARK

In memory of his father, John Howe Fi gerald, who operated a wagon train betwe Stockton and Columbia in the 60's, M (Mik J. Fitzgerald, Oakdale rancher, has present three Conestoga wagons, still in good repair, the Columbia State Park Museum when it completed, it was announced this month by D James E. McConnell, Columbia, association pre dent.

In accepting gifts of these historic vehicles a returning them here, the Columbia Historic Pa Association is working hand-in-hand with Gove nor Earl Warren to achieve an ambition a nounced during the Columbia State Park de cation ceremonies July 15, 1945 when he propos Columbia become a "Williamsburg of the Wes and said he hoped Columbia, best preserved early California mining towns "can be restor and preserved that school children can learn fi hand new details of our early history."

These high-wheelers brought supplies and pr duce to Columbia, then boasting a population 15,000 inhabitants, when this was the ripsno inest, gaudiest, high-flying gold mining can of the Mother Lode. The nearby area produc more than $87,000,000 in gold from the gra roots.

The Conestoga wagons have nearly water-tig beds and canvas covered tops. Of the literal thousands of them that crossed the plains pro ably not more than half a dozen remain intact.

On the last trip the wagon made from Columb to Stockton, it carried, consigned to China, t coffins and remains of sixteen Chinamen.

In the seventy years that Mike Fitzgerald l lived, the wagons didn't "turn a wheel" but we carefully preserved in a shed on the ranch.

THAT ELUSIVE TYPO ERROR

The typographical error is a slippery thing a sly.
You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it someho will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange ho still it keeps;
It shrinks down into a corner and it never sti or peeps.
The typographical error, too small for huma eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows mountain size.
The boss he stares with horror, then he gra his hair and groans;
The copy reader drops his head upon his han and moans—
The remainder of the issue may be clean as cle can be,
But that typographical error is the only thi you see.

The Grand President's Message

By WALTER H. ODEMAR

To All Members of the Native Sons of the Golden West:

Many things have occurred since writing my message to you which was carried in the June issue of the Grizzly Bear magazine. The most important of which was the 70th annual session of the Grand Parlor at Avalon, Santa Catalina Island. The members from Los Angeles County sincerely hope that all who attended that session enjoyed every part of it and we hope that those from other parts of the state will soon visit us again.

Among the most important actions taken by the delegates at the Grand Parlor was the decision not to send the Grizzly Bear magazine to all members of the Order by including in the per capita tax the cost of the magazine, and after this issue this magazine will be mailed only to those whose Parlor subscribes for it or who make an individual subscription direct with the Grizzly Bear Publishing Company.

By unanimous action of the delegates a strong anti-subversive policy was enacted and the Grand President was instructed to appoint a committee to oppose subversive elements and propaganda in California. Such a committee has been appointed and is included with my other appointments elsewhere in this issue. I am certain that the Americanism Committee, who will direct the anti-subversive work of our Order, will welcome suggestions and assistance from any and all interested members. The address of the Chairman of the Committee, Past President Eldred L. Meyer is Room 833, 458 So. Spring Street, Los Angeles 13. That of Past President Jesse H. Miller, is 912 De Young Building, San Francisco, while that of Frank P. Smith, representative of the committee in Alameda County, is 2810 San Jose Avenue, Alameda.

The Juvenile Welfare Committee this year will be composed of men who have for many years taken an active interest in boys' work and much is expected of them. The members of that Committee will endeavor to assist Parlors throughout the state to organize and sponsor Boys' Clubs in order that the underprivileged youth of our state will have an opportunity to enjoy organized activities and engage in sports so universally desired.

This last weekend, June 14-15, the Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors in Benicia, together with other local interested groups, celebrated the centennial of the founding of Benicia, the third capitol of the State with an outstanding program. Too much praise cannot be given to the activity of the members of Benicia Parlor No. 89 and its neighboring Parlors and all who witnessed the celebration will concur. It is not my purpose to pick out any individual member of Benicia Parlor for special mention, for it was obvious that all of the members took individual pride in assisting to make the celebration the outstanding success that it was. The results of the collective efforts of the members of both the Native Sons and Native Daughters demonstrated that whenever a sincere desire is present a successful event can be put over no matter how small the group may be. It is sincerely hoped that the Parlors in every community in the state identify themselves with the centennials to be celebrated in the Parlor's community, and if the community does not plan to have some type of centennial celebration in the next few years that the members of the Parlor will instigate such celebrations. If we do not take an active interest in our state and in its centennials, how can we expect those from other states to do so?

For many years the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West has been interested in dedication of and the laying of cornerstones of public buildings. During the war when the erection of public structures was curtailed this work of our Order ceased temporarily. However, now with the construction of public buildings throughout the state it is hoped that the Parlors will again make it possible for the Grand Officers to lay cornerstones or otherwise dedicate public structures. If a new school, city hall or court house is being built in your community, call on the official in charge thereof and advise him that our Grand Parlor has a fitting ceremony for the dedication thereof and that you would like to have our Grand Officers officiate and upon sufficient notice being given the Grand Officers will participate therein, thus again bringing credit to our Order and publicity to your Parlor.

I cannot emphasize too greatly the good to be received by favorable publicity of your Parlor's affairs in your community. It is suggested that a member of the Parlor

FLAG DAY PRESENTATIONS MADE

Following the custom of many years, Los Angeles County Parlors of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, observed Flag Day, June 14, with fitting ceremonies in front of the Hall of Justice, Los Angeles.

Bernard G. Hiss, Past Grand Trustee, presented the Bear Flag, which was accepted for Star Post American Legion by Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz. Past Grand President Mary B. Norenberg of the Native Daughters, presented the American Flag, with Chairman Raymond Darby accepting in behalf of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors. It was originally announced that Grand Trustee Anna T. Schiebusch and Grand President Walter H. Odemar would make the preesntations, but both were unable to attend, due to business of the Orders in San Francisco.

The presentation was planned by the Inter-Parlor Committee, Dan Kruckeberg, chairman; Ella Steinbeck, secretary. Lyllia Partidge, San Gabriel Valley Parlor No .281, NDGW, was in charge of general arrangements, assisted by Past Grand President Eldred L. Myer, NSGW.

GRAND SECRETARY REGAN HONORED BY SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO PARLOR

With over 450 members and friends from all over the state present, South San Francisco Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, honored Grand Secretary John T. Regan for 40 years of service as Recording Secretary of that Parlor at a dinner June 11, at the San Francisco Masonic Hall Auditorium.

As a token of appreciation the Parlor presented to the Grand Secretary and Mrs. Regan a brand new Dodge Sedan. The presentation was made by Past President Daniel Collins, presiding officer. Grand President Walter H. Odemar was one of the speakers, while a program of outstanding talent was presented. Two charter members of South San Francisco Parlor were present.

Spirit of San Francisco

By BARBARA MORROW

Barbara Morrow, winner of the state public speaking contest, sponsored by the Native Sons of the Golden West, at the 70th Grand Parlor, Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrow of Florin, and a Senior in the Elk Grove High School. She has participated in the Native Sons Public Speaking Contests for the past three years at the Elk Grove High School. However, she did not win any honors until this year, when she not only won the school championship, but the Sacramento County Championship and the Northern California finals in San Francisco in competition with 11 other contestants. At Avalon, in competition with Margaret Kloepple of John Marshal High School, Los Angeles, Southern California Champion, she won the State Championship. It is interesting to note, that the Southern California Champion this year is from the same school as the 1946 winner of the State Championship.

I am standing on the summit of Twin Peaks. From my city that lies below rises a crescendo of sound waves—I call them the symphony of San Francisco. The high treble of the string section sends my theme around the world by telephone, telegraph, and radio. Clanging trolley cars, droning airplanes, the call of fish and flower vendors, and newsboys screaming the latest headlines comprise the clashing reeds and brass. Ships blasting their welcome as they slide gently into the pier and the kettle drum beat of my ocean against the shore at Lands End and Seal Rocks complete the colorful instrumentation.

My people call me the SPIRIT OF SAN FRANCISCO. I have flourished for over one hundred fifty years and yet I am not old. I have many vivid memories though, for if San Francisco has not lived long, she has crowded into her life a glamorous history that would fill volumes. Come back with me in fancy and I will show you my city over the years.

When the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia was ringing its welcome to Freedom, D'Anza and his weary party came to San Francisco to select sites for a mission and built a presidio for its protection.

This was my meek and undramatic beginning. I was not yet the fiery spirit I soon grew to be.

Three quarters of a century passed as I struggled through infancy. Then history recorded the year 1848 when the ominous word gold resounded from the Sierras. The effect was electrifying—overnight the sleepy little port by the Golden Gate became a madhouse of greed and confusion. The hunger for gold is universal, it attacks all kinds of men. How well I remember them, the cutthroats, gamblers, French Marquises, Chinese coolies, Australian convicts, and Philadelphia Quakers. Overnight the City of Saint Francis became high minded, extremely immoral, lavish and prudent; sinful and courageous.

From every corner of the earth men poured through my harbor. Few ever returned to the land of their fathers for the magic of gold was too alluring—and the loyalty to my city too binding. So they came back from Coloma, from Han town and the banks of the American River open their places of business and to enjoy on more the comfort of their homes. They were clan who made money easily and squandered with reckless abandon. I call these my bonan days. I began to rise in stature and importanc I made headlines in New York, London, a Paris.

On that day when Sam Brannan had spre his gold tidings there had been a mere four hu dred people in San Francisco. Forty years lat three hundred thousand lived riotously and dwe with dignity among my seven hills.

San Franciscans had their fierce loyalties a even more fierce antagonisms. California ga grave doubts in the East when the Civil W reared its ugly head. Which way would she g slave or free? It was San Francisco that settl the issue in a typical San Francisco manne The Reverend William A. Scott, a southern ge tleman, prayed openly for the Confederacy; b Thomas Starr King, the young Divine from Bo ton, was so eloquent in his pleas for the Uni that he shares with Father Junipero Serra, t honor of a niche in the Hall of Fame. S Francisco, and therefore California placed h sons and newfound wealth on the side of t Union. Some say this decision turned the ti of the Civil War.

Cradled as a drowsy Spanish pueblo, reared a child of the mines, and fed on all the exh erants of the gold spangled days of the A gonauts, San Francisco was now like a dashi Western Beauty with the eyes of an exotic anc try. But fate was destined to write an epoch my history—that left its indelible imprint up my memory.

Earthquakes, like fog or Chinatown, were part of San Francisco. Six times, the tremors h struck accompanied by small but equally destr tive fires. The first occurred in December, 18 the sixth in June, 1851.

Surely people of lesser courage would have be daunted by such a baptism of flames but S Franciscans, grimly and optimistically rebuilt t devastated areas of their city and carried on.

Premonitions of disaster seemed singula lacking in San Francisco on the evening of Ap 17, 1906. The only audible rumblings came fr nothing more portentous than carriage whe bumping over the cobble streets on their w home from the Grand Opera House.

Soon my children had succumbed to bliss slumber. All was quiet when a terrific sho startled the inhabitants of my entire city. T earth swayed—dark demon destruction flu stately homes to the ground. Tall buildings sn ped like a whip. Panic stricken people ran i the streets only to be assailed by fresh trem that opened gaping crevices in my stree Women, children, and the aged were tossed he lessly into the path of a crumbling city. Ma were pinned in agonized suffering beneath t debris of crashing walls.

As if nature were determined to break t spirit that was mine, San Francisco was yet to given the crowning test of all—fire! Fire agai which I had been rendered helpless for t water mains were a broken net of useless and my streets impassable for fire fighti equipment. The rage of the fire fiend continu careening through the thronged streets as it ma devouring haste in every direction. Raging do through the Barbary Coast the flames drove the poor wretches like rats started out of th holes.

Three days and three nights Assistant Ch Sullivan and his volunteers fought on but thirsty tongues of crimson flames swept through Chinatown, up the hill and out Jack street. The hungry monster was on its way Van Ness Avenue. But here my people took th stand, declaring—Come no farther!

When the holocaust was over thousands of children huddled together in Golden Gate pa fed by the Red Cross and protected by mars w, destitute, homeless, penniless. But, let it ot be said that my spirit was broken.

Wait ten short years, to find San Francisco ore beautifuly rebuilt than ever, entertaining he world at the Pan Pacific Exposition. San rancisco, herself, without federal aid, built this, ne of the most beautiful and colorful expositions he world has ever witnessed.

My city by the Golden Gate, which has been urned down seven times, and whose official seal a phoenix arising from the ashes, is also the ity "that knows how." Knows how to landscape eautiful parks on sand dunes; to throw ribbons f steel across my bay; to build a cultural civic enter which spreads light and goodness over all he west; and to raise an island in the bay to elebrate my second world's fair and to view the plendor of my completed bridges.

And not the least of my accomplishments is he understanding care I have given countless housands of immigrants who first breathed the r of free men upon my angel, and who later ained to speak the language of democracy in y Italian, French, and Russian colonies. Yes! en in my Chinatown.

It is no wonder that San Francisco was chosen the birth place of the United Nations. Yes! o this, my city by the Golden Gate, Franklin elano Roosevelt invited the United Nations of e world to meet and lay the foundations of ace and brotherhood. Akin to the conflagra- ons, ruin and disaster suffered by my people, e the wars of greed and hate entered into again d again by the nations of the world. Let us pe, that even as my city has risen from the hes of complete ruin to become a modern spiring city of brotherhood, that even so will vilization rise from the devastation of global ar like a great new Phoenix, its plumage of pe, understanding, and faith in mankind to be onger, more enduring because its foundations re formulated here. Let us hope that the irit of United Nations will rise with me, the irit of San Francisco to the Twin Peaks of arity among nations and brotherhood of ankind.

be appointed as Publicity Director and that it be made his duty to give your local newspaper some type of a story regarding your Parlor activities at least once a month. All he need do is to say "Who, When, Why, Where and What" and the editor of the paper will be happy to give it space.

I urge each President being installed in July to give sincere consideration to all committees to be appointed by him, for committees appointed will carry out the work of the Parlor and if uninterested persons are appointed as committee chairmen, or members, they will not function and the term of the President who appointed them will suffer because of the lack of work performed by his committees. I know each of you is desirous of having a successful term and experience has taught that if your committees do not function your term cannot be a success.

I would further urge that you instruct your Lapsation Committee to commence work immediately. Too often thought of the duties of the Lapsation Committee is laid over until late in the calendar year when it becomes too late to do anything and the Parlor finds it necessary to lose some of its members. If the committee commences work immediately and makes personal contact with those coming to its attention we need not worry about the number who might be lost. Our Order is growing faster than it has for many years and has an opportunity to engage in many things for the benefit of the State of California and no true son of this state, after having been advised of the things we are doing and in the ways in which he may assist, will want to be "read out" of our Order.

The work of the Central Committee on Homeless Children, our charity, has in the past, not received the support of our members to which it is entitled. Every member of the Native Sons is urged to send at least One Dollar to the Central Committee Room 305, 1095 Market Street, San Francisco 3. DO IT NOW!!! If you lose the address, send it through your parlor secretary. The main thing is to send it. The money is badly needed right now.

Throughout the state there is much present activity toward Parlor participation in the Admission Day Celebration at Long Beach, September 6-9. New Drum Corps and Drill Teams are being organized in all sections of the state and many different methods are being used to put aside money to assist all those who desire to attend that celebration of our state's 97th birthday. The 1947 Admission Day Celebration Committee in the southern portion of the state is working diligently so that every possible type of entertainment or athletic event may be participated in by all who attend. This apparently will be one of the greatest celebrations of our State's birthday and it is urged that those who have not yet made their plans to attend do so immediately so that suitable accommodations may be procured and the event enjoyed to its fullest extent.

I sincerely hope that each of you, my Brothers, will have a very pleasant vacation this summer and that you will carry the message of Native Sonism wherever you may go. We are proud of our Order and should be proud to speak of it—and speaking of it is the best type of advertising possible. Those of our Order whose names appear as sponsors of the greatest number of new members are those who are always proud to speak of the Order and of its functions. Ask your secretary for an application blank or two so that you will always be prepared to accommodate the non-member when he desires to sign up.

With sincere fraternal greetings, I am,

WALTER H. ODEMAR
Grand President, N.S.G.W.

THE NEW GRAND PRESIDENT

PLEASANTON NATIVE DAUGHTERS CELEBRATE 21ST BIRTHDAY

Members of Pleasanton Parlor No. 237 Native Daughters, celebrated their twenty-first anniversary with a pot-luck dinner, Tuesday evening, June 10 at the I.O.O.F. Hall in Pleasanton. Guests of the evening were District Deputy Grand President Leota Dall of Angelita Parlor, Livermore; Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler of Aloha Parlor, Oakland; Past Grand President, Claire Lindsay of Golden Gate Parlor, San Francisco; Supervising Deputy Grand President Anne Lewis of El Cereso Parlor, San Leandro; Two former deputies of Pleasanton Parlor Loretta Kidd of Fruitvale Parlor, Oakland and Evelyn Perry of Aloha Parlor, Oakland, were present.

Following the dinner a regular meeting was held at which time memorial ceremonies were held in memory of Pleasanton Parlor's departed Sister Chresilde Bernal. Mrs. Bernal was born in Edenvale, Santa Clara County ninety-one years ago. Mrs. Bernal had lived in Pleasanton, seventy-nine of her ninety-one years. Her mother was Mrs. Encarnacion Higuera Bernal and was one of the first babies born at Yerba Buena which is now San Francisco. The history of the Bernal Family is a most colorful one, the father-in-law of Mrs. Bernal being one of the first white settlers in Northern California and his huge estate was a part of a land grant from the King of Spain to Augustin & Juan Bernal & Antonio Sunol, comprising 48,435 acres. She and her husband, the late Antonio Bernal, lived in one of the first adobe dwellings in Pleasanton. Mrs. Bernal was the mother of fourteen children, eleven of whom preceded her in death.

Grand President's Message

BY GRAND PRESIDENT DORIS TREAT
San Andreas Parlor No. 113, N.D.G.W.

What does it mean to be Native Daughters of the Golden West? It combines first, the precious privilege of claiming glorious California as the land of our birth; and then, embracing the ideals of our Order founded over sixty years ago—"Love of Home, Devotion to the Flag, Veneration of the Pioneers and Abiding Faith in God."

As beneficiaries and trustees of a priceless heritage received as our birthright, we realize our responsibilities, and through our organization, we have an opportunity to pay our obligation of gratitude by cultivating State pride, aiding State development, advancing State progress, promoting the study of California history, encouraging higher education, as evidenced by our five scholarships, inspiring patriotism, honoring and keeping in memory the pioneers.

Most significant in California's historic past were the events of the decade 1840 to 1850—the formative years of our Statehood—when this commonwealth was rapidly catapulted from a pastoral land under Mexican domination, through the coming of the pioneer settlers, the raising of the American flag, the discovery of gold and the vast tide of emigration, to its place as the thirty-first state of the Union.

Now as we commemorate the centennial of the historic events of the nineteenth century, we should take cognizance that we are living in a comparable decade of the twentieth century—a decade bringing marked changes to our California. This Empire State of the Pacific, with a thousand mile coast facing the Orient, has undergone a period of peril, but protected and defended by heroes and heroines, spurred to unprecedented wartime efforts, emerged triumphant.

Due to recent immigration, the population of the State has more than doubled and it is an astounding fact that two out of every three people now living in California were born in some other locality.

Native Daughters, we face a challenge of maintaining and improving the high standards of living, religious fervor, education, health and welfare, conservation of natural resources, agricultural and industrial development in our beloved California—so that the descendants of the new settlers of the '40's of the twentieth century will be proud, as we are, to be called—"Native Daughters of the Golden West".

May I give you a vision expressed in the poetry of Ina Donna Coolbrith, "To California",

"O, land of mine—my land that is so loved—
'Lift up thine eyes unto the hills'—nay lift
Thine eyes to the stars; make thou the goal
As fair and great as thou are sweet and fair;

Peace brood with thee—a dove with folded wings,
And love thy law as it was Christ's one law—
Wherewith no thing of wrong can ever dwell:
So shalt thou be white as thy Shasta's snows
In thy divinest grace and purity."

Escort Team of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor

On the evening of May 24, the escort team of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor No. 168, Chico, dressed in white formals and carrying white lighted tapers in gold holders, put on a most impressive memorial service in honor of their deceased members. Intricate drills were performed and presented in a very lovely manner after which all lights in the hall were extinguished and the members of the team lit their tapers and preceded in line of march behind the altar upon which rested the Holy Bible. A cross was formed behind the altar and as the girls knelt the hymn, "Nearer My God To Thee" was sung by Miss Betty Eris Hannis, president, and the escort team chorus sang the background harmony. The team then slowly arose and took their stations as the lights came on again.

Everyone then adjourned to the banquet room for refreshments where members of the escort team and their leaders, Olive Pearl and Opal Meriam, were guests of honor in a May Festival. They were presented by Miss Hannis, butterfly handkerchiefs in appreciation for all the work which they had done to put on such a lovely memorial service and for all the services rendered during Miss Hannis's term as president. Members of the team are: Nadine Hannis, Margaret Carlson, Phyliss Metzger, Clara Volpato, Fern Krause, Alberta White, Lillie Ferguson, Dorothy Fish, Noma Orick, Lititia Sanchez, Edith Brown, Theresa Risher, Joyce Rose, Marjorie Grunberg and Estelle Lewis.

The next morning the members of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor and its officers were escorted by the escort team to the Bidwell Memorial Presbyterian Church for services. This is an annual pilgrimage which is carried on every year on the Sunday before Memorial Day. The Native Daughters were well represented and upheld this fine tradition.

Grand President Loretta Camer Native Daughters of the Gold West, who unveiled plaque at ma ing by La Tijera Parlor of Santa Fe Railroad Station, Ing wood, Los Angeles County, May

NATIVE DAUGHTERS MARK INGLEWOOD SANTA FE STATION

The Santa Fe railroad station in Inglewood, built in 1886 was marked by La Tijera Parlor, NDGW, in public ceremony, May 19th. The plaque was unveiled by Grand President Loretta Cameron and was accepted for the Santa Fe by Freight Agent A. Savage. Master of ceremonies was Los Angeles County Supervisor Raymond Darby.

Mayor Dixon and Administrator Shelley of Inglewood spoke briefly. Many civic organizations and many of the Pioneers of Centinela Valley turned out for this first marking by La Tijera Parlor. Other guests included Miss Jewell McSweeney, Grand Trustee, of San Francisco; Mrs. Loretta Schertezr, the Grand President's mother; Mrs. Florence Grass, Supervising District Deputy Grand President; and Mrs. Ella Steinbeck, California History and Landmarks Chairman of the Native Daughters for Los Angeles County.

Following the marking, a Mexican dinner was held at the La Tijera clubrooms, honoring the Grand President. After dinner Gabriel Ruiz and Elias Verdugo entertained with guitar and violin music and songs, and the La Tijera Early California dancing group entertained.

The meeting of the La Tijera Parlor was really a birthday party honoring the Grand President Loretta Cameron, Grand Trustee Anna Schiebusch and the parlor's own second birthday. A huge cake was cut which was inscribed with all three names.

Miss Jewell McSweeney won the first prize in a California name spelling contest and Mrs. Mary Noerenberg, past grand president, second prize.

Nosegays were presented by the president to the three organizers, Grace Stoermer, Anna Schiebusch and Laura Pesquera, and to the charter president, Helen Brandt, by the president, Maxiene Porter.

Grand President Loretta Cameron presented a beautiful gavel to the Parlor as a birthday gift from herself and Mr. Cameron, in appreciation of the fine work done by the president and the parlor this past year.

A nosegay was also presented to Margaret Wear, La Tijera's eldest member, signifying a five year membership recently awarded.

COPA DE ORO PARLOR PREVIEWS HOLLISTER DIAMOND JUBILEE

Copa de Oro Parlor, NDGW, Hollister, May 21 enjoyed a particularly happy and well-attended event when Secret Pals were revealed.

As a preview of the observance of the diamond jubilee of the founding of Hollister, to be held in August, the theme of the evening was "Colonel Hollister and his band of sheep."

At a delicious chicken-pie dinner, served at 6:45 o'clock, tables were arranged in the form of a huge H and were decorated with flocks of sheep standing under shady oak trees on the banks of streams of running water. Members attended in costumes appropriate to the year 1872—Indians, cowboys, Spanish senoritas, Chinese coolies, sheepherders, blacksmiths and old-fashioned belles. Awards were made for outstanding outfits—the first going to Colonel Hollister (Harriet Hooton and his lady ("K" Black).

MARINITA NATIVE DAUGHTERS DRILL TEAM TAKES FIRST PLACE

A recent meeting of Marinita Parlor No. 198, NDGW, presided over by President Angelini Griffiths, plans have been made to decorate the monument on Memorial Day.

Historic Alpine County

By EMMETT P. JOY, Grand Historian, NSGW

THE early history of Alpine county is a particularly interesting one. It is interesting because of its topography and the name of the county denotes its origin as the scenery of the mountain areas resembles that of the Alpine type of Europe. Its range is covered with high rugged mountain peaks; some of them are Highland Peak 10,955 ft., Stanislaus Peak 11,202 ft., Jobs Peak 10,600 ft., and Jobs Sister 10.820 ft.

Alpine county is one of the smallest counties in the state. It is located in east central California and for boundaries it has the state of Nevada on the north and east, Mono and Tuolumne counties on the south, Calaveras, Amador and El Dorado on the west.

The first expedition to enter what is now known as Alpine county was John C. Fremont and his men while on a government exploring expedition. Kit Carson, head scout for this journey through the Sierra Nevada range led the party through a divide north of Mount Round Top; this is known today as the Kit Carson Pass. The men camped amidst snow barriers here during the dark winter days of 1844. This was the first crossing of the Central Sierra Nevada range ever accomplished by western explorers. So it was from atop one of the high peaks south of Round Top, probably Steven's Peak or Red Mountain, that John C. Fremont in company with Charles Preuss first saw Lake Tahoe. He named this large mountain lake "Lake Bonpland" after a noted French botanist. At present it is known as Lake Tahoe. A monument was erected on this pass by the Native Sons of the Golden West in August, 1921 which reads as follows:

"On this spot, which marks the summit of the Kit Carson Pass, stood what was known as Kit Carson Tree on which the famous scout, Kit Carson, inscribed his name in 1844 when he guided the then Captain John C. Fremont, head of a government exploring expedition, over the Sierra Nevada."

Later the pass was used by emigrant trains on their way to the California gold fields.

Perhaps no man was better acquainted with the high mountain terrain of this region than was A. Thompson who was popularly known as "Snowshoe" Thompson. For twenty years he sauntered the snowy Sierra range delivering mail to the miners before the days of telegraph and railroads. His first trip was made in January, 1856, to Placerville and he continued in essential service until 1876. One of his main routes was over the Ebbett's pass to Murphys in Calaveras county. This route followed through the Indian valley country east of Deer Creek then to Hermit valley via Silver mountain. He also, at different times, chose different routes before reaching Hermit valley. The winter of 1859-60 had been unusually severe but "Snowshoe" Thompson penetrated the mountain range as he did for twenty long years.

Jacob J. Marklee was the first permanent inhabitant of Alpine county who had taken up a homestead in 1851 which later included most of the present township of Markleeville. The county was created March 16, 1864 by action of the State Legislature, and shortly after the town of Markleeville was incorporated. According to Owen C. Cody's, "Guide to the County Archives of California," "The county was created in 1864, during the time of the mining excitement in that region at which time the population ran into the thousands." Silver Mountain was selected as the first county seat, but by 1875 the population of this mining town had decreased so that the county seat was moved to Markleeville, where it still remains.

Near the ruins of old Silver Mountain there still stands the mansion erected by Lord Lewis Chalmers who was a colorful figure of the early days in Alpine county. Silver Mountain was a flourishing mining community and the original county seat. It had everything that made it a lively place, hotels, stores and other places of business. Many other old mining camps exist in this area which were abandoned in the early seventies.

Silver mining was carried on extensively for several years; Hubert H. Bancroft's History of California, Vol. VII states: "The first discovery in Alpine county was made in the autumn of 1860 by three prospectors Johnson, Harris and Perry. In the following June several claims were located on the same lode. The mines in this rugged region lying from 5,000 to 11,000 feet above the sea, have been found to carry about equal amounts of silver and gold, and have never yielded largely of either partly on account of their altitude and the short working season."

During the Comstock mine boom in Nevada the eastern foothills of Alpine county supplied an abundant quantity of timber and fuel for the mines. Large teams of horses and mules hauled timber to Virginia City, Silver City and other mining towns in Nevada.

According to Rensch and Hoover "Historic Spots in California," "A road said to have been the first surveyed route over the high Sierras was constructed as early as 1857, from Hermit Valley to Hope Valley by way of Twin Lakes pass. Hope Valley was named by members of the Mormon Battalion on their return to Salt Lake City in the summer of 1848. The Emigrant road through Ebbett's pass to Angel's Camp was opened up in the early fifties but no wagon road went that way until 1864, when, as a result of the opening of the Comstock lode in Nevada, a toll road was completed under the name of Carson Valley and Big Tree road. It was over this trail, in September, 1861, that a little group of Bactrian camels from the Gobi desert, Mongolia, were driven from San Francisco to Nevada where they were used for transportation purposes in the mines."

Ebbetts' Pass is located near the center of Alpine county, west of Silver creek at an elevation of 8,800 feet, named in honor of Major Ebbets who first submitted a report on it in the fifties. In the early fifties some of the emigrants, on their way to the mines, penetrated their way through this pass; hardships were endured in crossing this section as they moved through a wilderness of canyons and mountains.

During the silver rush to Nevada miners from the southern mines on the mother lode joined the rush for these new fields and most of them journeyed through Ebbetts' Pass. A toll road was established by a syndicate headed by Sperry and Blood. A license was granted by the state; the road was built from Hermit Valley, eight miles west of the summit to Woodfords.

Among the most novel and interesting features of Alpine county are the lives and customs of the native Indians chiefly members of the Washoe tribe. A number of them live in the vicinity of Woodfords and Markleeville. Their basketry and other native arts still flourish. During the summer a few of these Indians are camped at Silver Lake in Amador county, where they engage in the art of weaving.

One of the most scenic features in the county is historic Summit City Canyon located in the western section of the county. The west rim of the canyon was used by emigrants in '49 on their way to the mining camps of Amador and El Dorado counties. This beautiful canyon is south of Mount Round Tip, 10,430 feet in elevation.

Markleeville is now the largest community in the county. It lies at an elevation of 5,525 feet. Woodfords is the second largest of importance.

Alpine county is rich in natural resources, timber, water power and minerals. In recent years it has become one of California's recreation grounds. Snow-clad historic mountains resembling the Swiss Alps are one of the principal attractions.

California Books

OLD BLOCK'S SKETCH BOOK

With the search light of historical memory blazing down the corridors of time due to the coming centennials commemorating the Golden State, those rugged pioneers of California and Argonaut's of '49 are again in the spotlight. It would seem that every author potential or otherwise has dipped pen to ink to write the epic of our state. Leastwise, it would seem that every publishing house worthy of its salt is coming out with a California book.

Plenty has been said and will continue to be written of the daughty adventurer of the Gold Rush era and those early halycon days in the Mother Lode. There will be stories of bold, swaggering bearded miners, of suave, cold eyed gamblers, risking small fortunes on the gaming tables that were to be found in every saloon.

There's another side of the picture and to truly understand these pioneer forefathers it is well to know them in their commonplace everyday living. To view this scene it is necessary to see it through the eye of some person who was there, who has shared in the joys and sorrows, the defeats and triumphs. Such is the privileged viewpoint of "Old Block."

Old Block's Sketch Book was printed in 1856. It was written by a man who crossed the plains in '49 in quest of gold. His stories are those of first hand experiences as encountered by himself and his friends. Old Block was the self-styled pen name of Alonzo Delano. The original book is be found in the Huntington Library. It has been released for reprinting through research work of Marguerite E. Wilbur and designed for reprinting by Thomas E. Williams of The Fine Arts Press in Santa Ana, which press has produced some 22 volumes dealing principally with California and the west coast.

Old Block was one of the earliest of California's best known authors. He wrote for the Sacramento Union, Grass Valley Telegraph, California Farmer, the Hesperian and Hasting's California Magazine. Pen Knife Sketches or Chips of the Old Block; Life on the Plains and Among the Diggins; The Idle and Industrious Miner were all stories avidly read by Californians long before the turn of the century.

Written in the whimsical vernacular of the miner, the vivid first hand sketches by a man who was there make lively reading. Too many have already written of our yesterday's "high spots." Old Block pens the tales of the fortunes of his fellow man in a manner that they actually occurred.

The reader will chuckle with Old Swamp "goin' trappin' for a gal" and how he got trapped himself after falling in the most hilarious and embarrassing predicament that ever befell a human being. There's the story for Ned on whom fortune smiled when it came to mining gold, but his weakness was gambling and every Sunday morning after courting Lady Luck found him broke and discouraged. You'll sympathize with Ned and rightly approve of the manner that Ned rallied to throw off his evil ways.

How Grass Valley was named and got her naturalization papers standing 23rd on the list by "being burnt down and built up again in a month and coming out more fresh" is humorously related by Old Block.

In the words of Marguerite Eyer Wilbur of Pasadena:

"Through Old Block's pages (there) passes a strange panorama of men and events that made up the mining world in and around Sacramento and the innumerable mushroom placer mi that sprang into existence within a radius several hundred miles. To this fantastic reg came men from the four corners of the ear scholars, scientists, lawyers, doctors, minist as well as illiterate and evil men, thieves, d addicts and murderers.

"Old Block knew and loved them all. He the art of inducing men to unburden t thoughts to him. He listened to them as t told of their successes and failures, their ho and families far away, their hopes and as ations, their weaknesses and follies. He laug with them, grieved with them, sympathized w them. He was the kindly friend who knew weariness of spirit brought on by long hours toil, by lonesomeness, by despair, by ill luck, typical of life at the mines. He listened to t tales, then wrote them down in his note b

"Thus we see them clearly silhouetted in pages, not figments of the imagination but ho portrayals of the men about him. More o than not they are dejected, homesick, desper often close to suicide. They are often ill w scurvy, cholera, or bloody flux. Delano's m is not the prosperous gambler, red nosed, jo high-spirited who wager a thousand dollars the turn of the dice. He is a shabby fell decked out in a frayed red shirt, tattered, mu trousers, with a lean and hungry expression his face, who drags himself, followed by a ga dog, wearily from camp to camp. We meet time and again in the pages of Old Blo Sketch Book."—Sewell & Duke, printers, Sa Ana, $3.50 per copy.

A Planned Program

By DOROTHY A. McGLOTHLEN

Fairfax Parlor No. 225, Native Daughters of the Golden West, was instituted in May, 19[illegible] with Sister Agnes O'Connell installed that ye[illegible] as President. Now, in 1947, Sister O'Connell again President, having been installed again July, 1946, with her term ending in June, 19[illegible] On May 22nd, 1945, the membership of t[illegible] Parlor was thirty-five, and on February H[illegible] 1947, a class of nine initiates was taken making a total of seventy members. The Par[illegible] has doubled itself in less than two years, due new members bringing in their friends beca[illegible] of their pride in the Order and its accompli[illegible]ments, and the friends, in turn, bringing in o[illegible] friends and relatives of their own.

We are all very serious in our work, and liv[illegible] in a small community, know each other well, a[illegible] consequently work completely as a unit in a[illegible] thing we undertake to do, which always ma[illegible] for success. We also devote some time in havi[illegible] fun, which makes for good fellowship. We h[illegible] two whist parties per year—one in the Spri[illegible] and one in the Fall; we have at least one L[illegible] Luck Supper per year to which we invite o[illegible] husbands. Each May, we have an anniversa[illegible] party, to which all members come in costu[illegible] and many, either singly, or in groups, entert[illegible] the others with songs and dances; we have Hallowe'en party; also a Christmas party, which each member brings one gift, which numbered, and is drawn by another memb[illegible] We have a Secret Pals club, where each mem[illegible] draws the name of another member and secre[illegible] sends her presents and cards for each holid[illegible] whether personal or general, the names be[illegible] drawn at one Christmas Party and revealed at following Christmas Party when new names drawn.

We work hard together to make our Offic[illegible] Visit the success that it was this year and h[illegible] been in the past. We operate a booth at Fairfax Fourth of July celebration, which is annual event here; and we provided and serv[illegible] the food one night each month at the USO San Rafael, in groups. Last fall, we staged Fashion Tea at the beautiful home and groun[illegible] of one of our members, with our members acti[illegible] as models, and a local shop furnishing the clo[illegible]ing to be modeled. This affair was such a hu[illegible] success that we are working on another Fashi[illegible] Tea, on a larger scale, to be held in June at same place. This time our members and th[illegible] small children will serve as models; we ma[illegible] and serve the food ourselves; we all sell tick[illegible] to the affair, and we all get in as a group a[illegible] do the cleaning up afterwards. We are getti[illegible] a group together now to form a "Gay Ninetie[illegible] chorus, with costumes and songs of that peri[illegible] in order to entertain our own members; when a[illegible] if, we get good enough, we expect to go to S[illegible] Francisco in the fall to entertain the reside[illegible] of the Native Daughters Home.

Right now we are starting a little membersh[illegible] drive among the younger girls in town, with t[illegible] idea in mind of forming a Drill Team, when[illegible] have a large enough group. We are also sp[illegible] soring one of the young members of our Par[illegible] to run as Queen of the Fiesta to be held Larkspur in June of this year, and if coope[illegible]tion means success, our contestant should ha[illegible] no trouble winning the contest. We also vi[illegible] other Parlors in San Francisco and the east a[illegible] north bay districts, in groups, and report wh[illegible] we see and learn and all profit accordingly.

EDITORIAL - - - -

The July Issue of the Grizzly Bear was late in reaching you, and this issue comes to you late in the month. Naturally, we do not like this any better than you do, as we want to get your magazine to you on time. However, during the past two months, the staff has been working constantly on the re-organization work made necessary after the action of the Grand Parlor of of the Native Sons at Catalina. The re-vamping of the entire mailing list has in itself, necessitated many nights of burning the mid-night oil, for every parlor of the Native Sons taking the magazine 100 per cent had to be re-checked and hundreds of individual subscriptions added as well. The name of every Native Son, whose parlor did not subscribe, or who did not send in his subscription, had to be eliminated from a list of 25,000 names—and, if you do not believe that is a job, try it sometime. Then, too, there has been endless correspondence to take care of.

However, the response of parlors and individuals has been most gratifying, and the future looks brighter every day. It is not unusual for us to receive 25 or 30 subscriptions in a day's mail. Keep up the good work.

Conditions beyond our control make it necessary that we change our printer after this issue. However, developments within the last few days, make it possible to make an announcement at this time, which we had hoped to make months ago.

Beginning with the September issue, the magazine, for the first time in the 40 years of its existence, will be printed in the same building in which the editorial offices are located. Machinery committments made almost two years ago Home-Town Printers of Anaheim, from wh we rent office space, are being fullfilled. All necessary additional equipment has been instal with the execption of one large machine, wh at this writing is on the boat for California.

This move means more to the magazine t the average person realizes. Among other thin it will make possible the improvement of general layout of features and ads, the use better paper in the near future, and hundr of small details that go to make a publicat more interesting.

Because of the coming change, the Aug issue features the Admission Day Celebrati September 6, 7, 8, 9, in Long Beach, rather t the September number, as has been the cust for several years.

After the September issue, which may be layed somewhat by the change-over, we beli that the magazine will be out early each mon which is more than we have been able to prom through the war years, when the magazine just another job to the printers handling it.

We believe that you are going to like the n Grizzly Bear. There is no reason why it can go ahead as a publication that both Orders be proud of. Especially, if all the thousands its friends will boost it wherever possible and its advertisers know that they are patroniz them. In addition, if you are in business, be s that you are listed in the Grizzly Bear Nat Son and Daughter Business Directory. The c of a 1 inch display ad in this is $4 per mon The three line classifieds are $12 per year, p able in advance. Send your ad copy in, magazine needs your support in this.

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

The first week of the month of August 1872, in California was unusually warm, a heat wave raising the temperature to a maximum throughout the state. This was followed by heavy thunderstorms in the southern section that did some damage to crops. The 4th, near the Cosumnes River, N. Van Vleck was sunstruck, and died from the effects a few days later.

During the last week of the month another hot spell was experienced, being especially severe in San Francisco, where Henry Benson was prostrated while walking along Montgomery street the 26th; his was the first case of heat-prostration occuring in that city.

At 10 p. m., August 4, a heavy earthquake shock was felt at Salinas, Monterey County, and adjacent localities.

J. A. Poppe of Sonoma County returned this month from a visit to Holstein, Germany. He brought a large number of live carp, intending to make a business of propagating the fish in California. Many of our piscatorial citizens wish he had never introduced the species into California waters.

C. W. Frome was raising poppies from which to make opium on his ranch in Yolo County. He had produced 100 pounds of opium from one acre of white poppies.

On a bet of $100, Wm. Spurgeon, at Sacramento, August 13, made a jump of 10 feet and 5 inches, landing 10 inches above his toe-line and winning the bet.

John Hancock, a '49'er, had a claim near Mormon Island on the American River which he could not work when there was high water. He lived in Los Angeles County, farming an extensive acreage, and there passed his winters. He had now returned to work his claim at Mormon Island and had, during this month, "struck it rich."

J. Neily Johnson, Governor of California in 1856 and 1857, died at Salt Lake City, August 31, from a sunstroke received in July.

The mining town of Bath, Placer County, was burned August 5. Sam B. Burt, a merchant and prominent citizen, lost his store and its contents, the accumulation of a decade of industry, amounting in value to over $20,000. His insurance policy expired August 1 and had not been renewed.

A fire near Vacaville, Solano County, August 6, destroyed houses, barns, fences and pasture of several farmers, causing a $20,000 loss.

One of the greatest of the many land cases tried in the courts of this state was that of Higura vs. Wolfskill heard in Los Angeles this month. After nineteen days of trial the jury decided in favor of the defendant.

A. W. Von Schmidt of San Francisco was given a contract by the United States Government to run the boundary line between the states of California and Nevada. He was to receive $42,000 in green-backs for the work.

The Breislay brothers were attempting to make balloon ascensions at Woodward Gardens, San Francisco, and attracting large crowds to view their trapeze performance in the sky. Their balloons were having hard luck, one being burned and others collapsing before ascending.

Century plants were considered of such importance that one blooming in the garden of G. A. Johnson, San Diego, was an item of state newspaper mention.

Two Irishmen took passage on the stage from Truckee, Nevada County, to Sierra Valley, August 1, and enroute became engaged in a fight on the stage. They hammered at each other with their fists, tumbled over the seats, tore off most of their clothing, and finally burst the coach door open and fell out. The driver did not stop to get them in again, and they were last seen going in the direction of Dutch Flat, Placer County, the victor being several hundred yards to the rear chasing the vanquished, who was minus his pantaloons and with his shirt tail flapping the breeze he was creating.

August 3 a notice was published in a daily paper at Sacramento ordering a local military company to assemble at its armory for inspection and drill, stating that, "owing to the hot weather the company will drill in their caps only." Quite a crowd gathered to see if the members of the company would literally obey the order, which they did not.

Long Beach Greets You - - -

Some Interesting Facts and History About the City Where Native Sons And Daughters Will Gather For the Big Celebration, Sept. 6 - 7 - 8 - 9.

By JEANE WILSON

Long Beach can truly be called the perfect Convention city as it is located in the center of Southern California's wonderland from which all points of interest are easily accessible.

Long Beach is particularly adapted to the handling of conventions, as one of its greatest assets is its Municipal Auditorium, which is equipped with the latest facilities and is capable of accommodating any type of convention or business gathering in a setting not duplicated by any other city.

Rising from a beautifully parked area and mirrored in Rainbow Lagoon, the striking $3,000,000 Civic Auditorium prompts spontaneous words of praise from visitors to Long Beach. Within this structure are the attractive Concert Hall, Convention Hall and Exhibits Hall, with a total seating capacity of more than 7500. Many road shows, operatic and musical companies give performances here. Name bands for dances, basketball, wrestling and boxing are weekly attractions. From any of the outer balconies you can view the Long Beach outer harbor and look across the Pacific to famed Catalina Isle. This combined with an uncomparable beach, bay and harbor, is truly a Metropolitian City.

Truly a long step from the small Hamlet of 1801 is this beautiful city situated on a terrace bluff, which over looks the Pacific Ocean. The population was only 17,000 in 1910, and since then has increased steadily until at the present 200,000 are living in and enjoying Long Beach. In 1801 the total assessed valuation was $25,648. Today it is over $234,120,535.

The city areas comprise over 30 square miles, with over eight miles of beach frontage.

In the center of Southern California's wonderland, Long Beach answers the quest of a perfect vacation, and modern stores add to the facilities of this metropolitan city, which is guaranteed year round activity, due to its many and varied industries that furnish steady market for labor and business.

Around the calendar, and around the clock, Long Beach provides recreation and fun for all, outdoors or indooors.

In a mild ocean-tempered climate, amidst semi-tropical surroundings that afford attractive views of land and sea, golfing can be enjoyed. All courses are within a few minutes drive from downtown hotels.

In gay contrast to the grim defenders of our shores, that anchor close by, sailboats glide over peaceful waters of outer Long Beach harbor. Here one can sail around the armed might of the nation. These beautiful sailing waters are only minutes from down-town Long Beach, and are often the scene of national and international yacht races.

Investments totalling many millions of dollars are represented in the pleasure craft that find anchorage in the local yacht basins. Practically every type of aquatic recreation is available in this remarkable favored area, from swimming and sun bathing on the beautiful ocean strand or in still water bays and lagoons, to boating and fishing in wide variety.

Long Beach Harbor teems with constant activity, both a result of commercial operations and the programs of pleasure seekers. Boat exc sions are available, giving highly interesti 1½-hour trips around 25 miles of the largest m made harbor in the world.

Should the fleet be in from maneuvers, boatsman may weave through a roadstead p terned with virtually every type of naval c used by the nation in the recent war.

Long Beach is the home port of the Paci Coast Battle Fleet of the United States Na Warships at anchor in the outer harbor provi a majestic sight almost any day in the ye The skyline of Long Beach forms a back-grou for one of the world's largest complete naval erating bases.

Located within the corporated limits of Lo Beach, this tremendous $180,000,000 installat covers 465 acres and includes six piers, three d docks and 1,400,000 square feet of space voted to shops, storage and administration.

Elsewhere in Long Beach the Navy carries Atop a rolling site near Alamitos Heights, multimillion dollar Naval Hospital plays a vi role in the navy's hospitalization and rehabili tion program.

Getting back to available recreations, we fi that horseback riding is one of the favori among visiting delegates . . . Riding on the tra over beautiful hills and across appealing count sides close to Long Beach offers a thrilli healthful recreation.

In addition to its numerous physical facilities, ng Beach is ideal for conventions because of e many points of interest to the visitors. In is city you can combine a convention trip with vacation, as here are all the vacation activities u desire.

Indeed, a visit to the shores, waters and to the y of Long Beach, is an event long to be re-embered.

Gala Program Is Outlined For Admission Day Celebration

With fourteen bands, 12 horse units, numerous Drill, Drum and Bugle Corps, floats and marching units already signed up as the magazine goes to press, to participate in the Admission Day Parade at Long Beach on September 9th, this year's celebration September 6, 7, 8, 9, promises to be one of the biggest and best in the history of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Instructions as to entries, housing, Drill Team participation, athletic events, etc., have been mailed direct to parlor secretaries, and as this reaches you, no doubt most parlors will have completed their general plans and made the necessary arrangements with the Admission Day Celebration Committee.

One of the big events of the four-day celebration will be the selection of a California-born girl as beauty queen. The contest will be between contestants, whose ages are between 17 and 23 years inclusive, and who have been selected to represent the various parlors. Besides being specially honored in the celebration events, the winner will receive among other prizes, a $75 make-up kit to match her personality from MAX FACTOR. The Queen will be crowned at the Grand Ball Monday evening, September 8.

Softball, bowling and golf tournaments for the state championship among Native Sons and Daughters will be held September 7th and 8th. Complete details were announced in last month's Grizzly Bear.

Native Sons and Daughters Drum Corps, Drum and Bugle Corps and Drill Team competition will begin at 1 p. m., Monday, September 8, under Grand Parlor General Rules and Regulations. In the big parade Tuesday morning, September 9, the various units will compete for the prizes offered under their classification. Judging will be done by General John Meade and a detail of Marines.

The Golden Trails Celebration Grand Ball will be held Monday evening, September 8, in the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, with Native Sons, Native Daughters and their guests being invited to attend and enjoy an evening of dancing to a 10-piece name band, with a rumba orchestra for intermission music. An added highlight will be the crowning of the Golden Trails Parade Queen.

The Long Beach Municipal Auditorium can accommodate 5000 persons. Admission to the Golden Trails Grand Ball will be by ticket only, according to Nell DeWitt, Grand Ball chairman. All parlor secretaries were asked by letter to fill out a request for the number of tickets desired and the tickets have been pro-rated to the parlors in as fair a manner as possible.

The Grand Officers of both the Native Sons and Daughters will play an important part in all phases of the celebration. Governor Earl Warren has been invited to lead the Grand March at the Golden Trails Ball with Grand President Doris Treat of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. Grand Marshal Henrietta Toothaker, Native Daughters of the Golden West, and Walter Hiskey, Grand Marshal, Native Sons, will play important roles in the mammoth four-hour parade Tuesday morning, September 9, winding up with a big barbecue, in charge of Harold Harper of Paradise Parlor.

Major events of the celebration will be broadcast over one of the leading net-works by a prominent radio announcer, himself not a Native, but who has taken an active interest in the work of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. The press of California has given widespread publicity to the coming celebration and will be well represented at Long Beach. In the press releases during the four-day observance; Grand Trustee Webster K. Nolan, NSGW, Grand Parlor Publicity Chairman, and Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks, who holds the same office for the Native Daughters, will play an important part in observance of the state's 97th Birthday.

General Chairman in charge of arrangements is Gary Lynes of Long Beach Parlor. Ann Barton, Long Beach Parlor, is vice chairman, Native Daughters; Harvey Webster, Pasadena, vice chairman, Native Sons. General Secretary is Joseph Sousa, president of Long Beach Parlor, NSGW, with Eugenia Smith, Assistant Secretary, Long Beach NDGW. Legal Advisors are Bernard G. Hiss, University Parlor, Los Angeles and Clarence S. Hunt, Long Beach Parlor. Dr. John A. Schwamm, Ramona Parlor No. 109, is Treasurer. Assisting is a large group of committee chairmen from the various parlors of Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

Committee Headquarters will be at the Hilton Hotel.

Remember this float last year at the Admisssion Day Parade in San Francisco. We find it hard realize that twelve months have elapsed since that colorful event and that the celebration of ifornia's 97th Birthday is but a few days off.

MILE-LONG AQUEDUCT BORE PIERCES SAN DIEGO MOUNTAIN

Boring of a mile-long hole through a mountain near El Cajon, San Diego county has been completed in a major phase of the Colorado River aqueduct which will bring water to San Diego, it was announced last month.

The tunnel is the only one required in San Diego's portion of the line from San Vicente Reservoir, near Lakeside, to Murry Lake near San Diego. San Vicente is the receiving reservoir for water which will flow more than 70 miles from the Metropolitan Water District's outlet at San Jacinto.

The tunnel bore is eight feet in diameter, but will have a finished width of six feet after it is lined with cement. The project, started last September, will be completed within three months at a cost of more than $700,000.

"Don Carlos"

By Rockwell D. Hunt
Ramona No. 109

Editor's Note: Years ago Charley Prudhomme was secretary of Ramona No. 109, well known by all the members. He was such an unique character among the Native Sons and in the community that some record of him should be preserved. Many of the older members, especially, will remember him. He deserves the recognition of all.

CHARLES J. PRUDHOMME was one of the most picturesquely interesting native Californians it has been my good fortune to know. His ancestors on his mother's side were Californians almost from the beginning of Spanish occupation in 1769.

His father, Leon Prudhomme (known to the Spanish element as "Prudon"), born in Lyons, France, in 1808, as a young man came to the French province of Louisiana in America. His imagination fired with thoughts of adventure, he penetrated the unknown wilds of the north in quest of game, quite plentiful in those days. Joining a party of American trappers, he came to California, arriving at the pueblo of Los Angeles in 1835. He made a great hit with his "notable buckskin suit, handsomely decorated with beads and tassels." Soon he became a favorite at many a gay fandango. His first marriage, to Senorita Tomas Bojorquez, proved to be unhappy, ending in divorce. Later he married Senorita Mercedes Tapia, and Charley was the third of their five children.

Victor Prudon was widely known and was active in many affairs. He was secretary to Governor Alvarado, a close friend of General Vallejo, and he became an officer in the California Battalion under Captain Fremont. In 1870 he received his certificate of American citizenship.

Charley was born in Los Angeles in 1854, in a little adobe house only 100 yards from the south-east corner of the City Hall site. He merits distinction in his own right. His interest in local history was intense; his zeal for collecting old documents, photographs, and other mementos of early California amounted to an obsession.

As a boy he went to the second public school house built in Los Angeles (1856) on the corner of Main and Macy Streets. As a young man he became a member of the first volunteer fire department, also a member of the Pioneer French Benevolent Society. For eighteen years he made his home in a room at 741 Central Avenue.

"Don Carlos," as his associates came to call him, joined Ramona Parlor 109 of the Native Sons of the Golden West. He was curator and historian of that organization when I first made his acquaintance, about 1910.

The Ramona meetings were then being held in a frame building, in which was stored the rapidly growing Prudhomme Collection of California relics. Under the energetic leadership of William M. Bowen, the now great County Museum of History, Science and Art was taking form. But the Museum had no exhibits! I was accorded the privilege of inviting Ramona Parlor to place its historical collection in the new fire-proof structure as one of its very first exhibits—which was entirely agreeable to Charley Prudhomme, whose collection may now be viewed any day in Exposition Park.

But I was to become still better acquainted with "Don Carlos" in the Historical Society of Southern California. While serving as president, I invited him to address the Society. This he did in his unique, inimitable way. As he took the floor, he closed his eyes that he might the more fully orient himself in memory and imagination to his environment in early Los Angeles. His memory of names and exact location was marvelous, only exceeded—if at all—by his vivid imagination!

But I learned to my sorrow that his terminal facilities were very imperfect! He had already spoken far beyond the time limits set for his address, and another speaker was yet to be introduced. When I sought to remind him as tactfully as I could that his time was almost up, I discovered how extremely sensitive he was to any interruption—for many months he did not again appear at the Historical Society. From this experience, I learned two things about "Don Carlos" Prudhomme: first, when inviting him to speak about early Los Angeles at a meeting never to have another speaker on the program; second, when he spoke never to interrupt him, but permit him to continue to the end.

During his later years, Charley Prudhomme was strictly in his element as historian and guide in the lofty tower of the new Los Angeles City Hall. To countless visitors he told interesting stories of an earlier day, of persons and places, rendering the marvelous transition from sleepy little pueblo to great metroplitan center even more incredible and impressive by the manner of his telling. He died September 24, 1934. Los Angeles will never have another Charley Prudhomme.

Loading one of the helicopters at Grand Central Air Terminal, Burbank, used by the Army in the three-week experimental pickup service in Southern California conducted last summer for the Post Office Department. These strange, whirley gig, hedge hopping aircraft had Southlanders craning their necks as they passed leisurely on their way. Postmaster Philip T. Hill, of Santa Monica, received a protest of invasion of sunbather's rights from one of that city's beach clubs. The sunbathers became alarmed over the low-flying and hovering ability of the windmill letter carriers. Most spectacular feat accomplished by the helicopters was the establishment of regular delivery service between the Burbank air terminal and the roof of the Los Angeles Terminal Annex.

In June this year, it was announced that the first commercial helicopter mail and express service in the United States will be inaugurated in the Los Angeles metropolitan area this fall by Los Angeles Airways, Inc., under Civil Aeronautics authorization. Operating out of Los Angeles Airport, the service will cover three routes totaling some 200 miles and covering postoffices in the area. At the same time a beach club filed suit to prevent the heliocopters from flying over its property and disturbing its sunbathers.

Newport Beach, Orange Co.—The first albacore of the season was brought into Newport Harbor recently and here is Betts Williams holding the eight pound beauty in Balboa. The fish was caught by Frank Linnell, local fisherman.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU!

On the 9th day of next month California will celebrate its 97th birthday and everyone in California — yes everyone in the United States — can and should be happy because of the admission of California into the Union in 1850.

I wonder how many people have thought of what might have occured in the last 97 years had California not been one of the United States. What would have happened within the last few years had not the residents of California rallied to the aid of all of the states of the Union immediately after the shameful attack on Hawaii in 1941?

When we examine history we can be proud that California has always been on the right side. When that little band of patriots decided that California, if admitted into the Union, would be admitted as a "free state" they started the State off on the right foot, with the right policy from which it has seldom, if ever deviated.

Yes, all residents of California, native or adopted, should be as happy to participate in the celebration of their State's birthday as they are when someone near to them is celebrating his or her own birthday.

The official celebration this year for the whole State will, of course, be held in Long Beach, Los Angeles County, and well thought-out and elaborate plans have been made for a fitting 4-day celebration, at which it is hoped as many Native Sons and Native Daughters as possible will attend. Those finding themselves unable to attend the official celebration at Long Beach should immediately arrange for some fitting celebration within their own city and county so that those who have recently become residents of this State may learn of the glorious history of the Admission of California in 1850, thereby becoming better citizens of this state.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU, CALIFORNIA, NOW AND FOREVER

The Committees appointed by the Grand Presidents of the Native Daughters and of the Native Sons to create a corporation to take over the Homeless Children work are well along with their plans and by the time this Article is printed will have filed Articles of Incorporation with the Secretary of State, and have adopted a set of By-Laws for the new corporation. That group is working diligently for the furtherance of this, our most important work. Have you made a contribution to it within the last few months? If not, please do so immediately, for the work is in dire need of financial assistance.

LOS RANCHOS PARLOR HAS NOVEL WAY TO RAISE FUNDS

Los Ranchos Parlor, Pomona, Los Angeles County, has secured rights to the sale of California Souvenir Playing Cards, distributed by Frashers Inc., of that city. The deck contains 53 scenic views of California from all parts of the Golden State. The Joker is a picture of a Desert Nightingale, titled a Native Son of California. The cards are contained in an attractive blue valoure box with gold lettering. Part of the proceeds will go to the Parlor's Homeless Children Fund and the balance towards carrying on the regular affairs of the group.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE STATE WITH NATIVE SONS

A steak dinner was held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee K. Owens Van Nuys, Los Angeles County, with members of the Arrowhead Assembly No. 14 Past Presidents' Association their guests attending. Brother Owens presided at the barbecue grill, and really turned out some masterpieces. All the fixings otherwise were prepared and served by Mrs. Owens.

After dinner District Deputy Brother Dr. Schwamm was in charge of installation of the newly elected officers.

Among the outstanding events of Southern California was the Annual 4th of July Barbecue and celebration put on by Arrowhead No. 110, Native Sons of San Bernardino, at the parlor's club house at Crestline in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Whittier Parlor No. 297 NSGW announces that they are now entering on the first real membership drive since the institution of their parlor.

It will be in the form of a contest and they hope to bring in a number of new members. Their goal is to double their membership, arouse a lot of interest, and have a lot of fun.

Their bowling team is literally going to the top, taking all four points at a recent tournament.

Sunset Parlor No. 26, NSGW of Sacramento, has their Admission Day Committee hard at work . . . Headed by Brother Ghelfi, the committee is thinking up ideas and enthusiastically recruiting Brothers to go to Long Beach September 9th.

From El Camio Real Parlor No. 289 in Burlingame, comes the announcement of the Native Sons picnic, which will be held Sunday, August 31st in Memorial Park. A complete section of this beautiful redwood grove has been reserved. The day has been planned for the kids, young and old alike. There will be races, games, swimming and refreshments.

Chester French, past president of Long Beach Parlor, NSGW, whose offices are located in Nogales, Ariz., showed interesting motion pictures of work on Papaya plantations in Mexico at a recent meeting of the Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon Club. His accounts of living conditions, methods of handling the strange melon that grows on trees, and description of the various sections of Mexico, where his work takes him, made the meeting one of the most outstanding ever held by the Los Angeles Club.

NATIVE SON NAMED GRAND EXALTED RULER OF ELKS

L. A. "Fay" Lewis, Native Son of Anaheim and charter member of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, was named Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at the 83rd National Grand Lodge convention held in Portland, Ore., last month.

Formerly a member of Ramona Parlor No. 109, transferring his membership to Mother Colony when that parlor was organized, "Fay" Lewis is widely known through-out the state, and in spite of activities in the Elks taking much of his time, he has taken an active interest in the welfare of his own parlor of the Native Sons.

Immediately, upon receiving news of his election, messages of congratulation were sent to him by Grand President Walter H. Odemar and Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer on behalf of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

The new Grand Exalted Ruler was given a royal welcome by his native city Tuesday evening, July 29, when the entire city turned out for a giant public reception in the Greek Theater of the Anaheim City Park.

NEW PARLOR OF NATIVE SONS PLANNED FOR CATALINA

One of the highlights of the 70th Grand Parlor Session at Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, was the fact that Webster K. Nolan, now Grand Trustee, with the help of a few enthusiastic Native Sons, got out and signed up enough applicants for a new parlor there, and a charter was granted by the Grand Parlor in session. This action made history, for as far as we know, this is the first time that this has been done.

Members of the Los Angeles County Parlors have taken over the pre-institution work on the new parlor, which will be instituted this fall as soon as the tourist season on the Island is over and the members of the new parlor have time to devote their attention to fraternal affairs. It should be remembered that on Santa Catalina Island, the tourist or summer season claims the time of all who live there. The winter is vacation time for them.

Many Parlors are now planning for county and district joint initiations for the next few months, inviting the Grand Officers either to do the initiatory work or attend the meetings. If such group initiations are not as yet planned in your locale it is suggested that such plans be made and notice thereof be sent to me as far in advance as is possible so that arrangements may be made to attend.

The Grand Parlor Membership committee has decided that the contest this year will commence on the first day of July and will end on the 31st day of December, and that instead of the Parlors competing between other Parlors of the same size throughout the State, the Parlors will compete on a percentage basis with the others in their respective supervisorial district. The Parlors will receive further information from the Membership Committee on the details of the contest within the next few days.

I hope a friendly spirit of rivalry will be created and that there will be a number of hot races throughout the State. The Parlor having the largest net gain in each district will get special recognition and a prize and individual prizes are being planned for the Deputy to the Parlor winning in each district, as well as for winning Supervising Deputy Grand President of the district in which the Grand Prize winning Parlor is located. That should be an incentive for you Deputies to get out and assist the Parlors to which you are assigned and I am certain that all interested in the Order will watch with interest to see how the several contests go from month to month. To the best of my ability I will publish a running box score, from the reports of the Secretaries, each month, for the information of all.

While you are interesting yourselves in new candidates do not forget to assist in keeping those in the Order from lapsing out because of non-payment of dues. Lapsation is a 12 months' job and should not be left for the last few months of the year.

Men to Match our Mountains

By FRANK H. BENSON

From the Observer Official Publication, Observatory Parlor No. 177

It was recently my pleasant privilege to spend a week-end at the picturesque little city of Dunsmuir, nestling at the foot of majestic Mt. Shasta. That beautiful snow-clad eminence dominates the landscape for scores of miles with regal authority. Its ponderate permanence dwarfs all humanly fabricated structures that impinge upon the view. The fierce mountain gales rage at it, snows, sleet and storms, assail it, but it stands imperturable, calm and defiant through the ages.

As I stood in reverent admiration I was reminded of the quotation inscribed across the front of one of the stately buildings of our State Capitol: "Give us men to match our mountains." Never was the world more in need of such men—big men. Men who can rise above petty and sordid things, men who will stand true and unyielding though the tempests of opposition shriek about them. The world is crying out for tall men, men who can look out over the world from an eminence, whose vision is undimmed by partisanship, intollerance, greed or ignorance. Civilization must find such men.

Does not this suggest an inspiring slogan for the Native Sons of the Golden West? Men to match our Mountains! That is an aspiration worthy of the great State which we love. We pay ritual tribute to the memory of the Pioneers. This is as it should be, but if those rugged individuals were here to comment, is it not possible that they would be a little contemptuous if they found us lauding the magnificence with which they accomplished their achievements while we indifferently dwadled with our own responsibilities.

There is always a surplus of little men, men who think other men's thoughts, men who parrot other men's words and who let others mould their lives. These men probably would never have been Pioneers. Or would they? Little men suddenly became big in the Solomons, at Iwo Jima and on the beaches of Normandy. This country of ours has faced many menacing crisis. It has been saved largely by men whose horizons had heretofore been bounded by their shops, their acres, their counting houses or their crafts. And then the grim hour came. Their souls were lifted to the mountain tops and the world marveled at their stature.

Our Pioneer fathers gave us, in California, a magnificient heritage. They were big men, tolerant and courageous. The order that seeks to honor such men should be composed of big men, men to match our mountains.

LEADERS OF TWO GREAT FRATERNAL ORDERS MEET

Leaders of two great fraternal organizations met Tuesday evening, August 5, when Walter H. Odemar of Los Angeles, Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, brought official greetings to L. A. "Fay" Lewis, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, at a meeting of Mother Colony Parlor No. 281, NSGW, held in the local K. C. Hall. Lewis, born in this city, is a charter member of the north Orange County Native Sons.

Grand President Odemar, who heads an organization of over 23,000 Native Sons in California, complimented the newly elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks on his stand opposing those who would destroy the American way of life and pledged the whole-hearted support of the Native Sons of the Golden West, who took a like stand at their state convention in May at Catalina. Both leaders voiced their desire to coordinate their activities along this line to stamp out subversive forces in California and in the United States.

The Native Sons of the Golden West and the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks are said to be the first two fraternal organizations to come out and take a definite stand on this vital program facing America today.

ARABIAN HORSE ENTRY TO BE FEATURE OF ADMISSION DAY

Members of Cabrillo Parlor No. 114, Ventur are looking forward to the Admission Day Celebr tion and Parade in Long Beach, September 6, 8, 9, with the committee in charge hard at wo on plans for the parlor's participation.

Adolfo Camarillo will again enter his Arabia horses in the September 9th parade for Cabril Parlor. He is having new costumes in golde color, honoring our Golden State, made for th occasion. Although not a charter member of th Ventura Parlor, Adolfo Camarillo joined Cabril in December, 1887, and, through thick and thi has been a member for 60 years, being a pa president. He is one of the parlor's hardest wor ing members.

Cabrillo Parlor's famous orchestra in Spani costume, which made such a hit in the Admissi Day Parade at San Diego a few years ago, w again be seen in the Long Beach Parade.

MEMBER OF HISTORIC FAMILY HEADS CALIFORNIANA

Emma Lawson was installed as president of Californiana Parlor No. 247, Tuesday, July 15, at the Studio Club in Hollywood.

The parlor is quite proud that Emma Lawson has accepted this post as she comes from a historic family.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Dexter Monroe who has been the treasurer of the Californiana Parlor for a number of years, and who is prominent in history and landmark work in Los Angeles. Mrs. Monroe and Mrs. Lawson are descendants of the Arguello family of California and also of Orteza, the man who discovered San Francisco Bay. The Arguello family is famous for having the last Spanish governor and the first Mexican governor of California and for the romantic figure of Concepcion Arguello, who eventually founded the first covent in California.

The installation ceremony was under the direction of Grace Poole of Long Beach parlor, who brought her installing team from that parlor.

After a program of music and presentation of family and guests, delicious refreshments of home made cakes were served.

Following are the officers that were installed: Past President, Susan Lange; President, Emma Lawson; 1st Vice Pres., Hazel Steckel; 2nd Vice Pres., Pauline Dabney; 3rd Vice Pres., Mona Conner; Recording Sec., Mary Beebe; Financial Sec., Evelyn Skinner; Treasurer, Dexter Monroe; Marshal, Gertrude Rayburn; Trustees; Josephine Gaige, Marcella Pale Thorpe, Princess Alice Hammar; Inside Sentinel, Harriett LeVitt; Outside Sentinel, Genevieve Cooke; Organist, Charlotte Carpenter.

The Albany Parlor No. 260 held their installation of officers recently and wishes to welcome as their new President, Thelma Goss, who has been an active member of the Parlor for some years.

Highlights Of 61st Grand Parlor At San Francisco

In San Francisco, storied city of history and romance, the 61st Annual Grand Parlor of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, convened on Monday, June 16, 1947 and was in full business session until Thursday night, June 19, 1947, with the formal installation of the newly elected Grand Officers. The first Grand Parlor was held in San Francisco in July, 1887 with Grand President Tina L. Kane presiding. So sixty years later found Mrs. Loretta M. Cameron of San Francisco, retiring Grand President graciously wielding the gavel at the Veterans War Memorial Building, as the Grand Parlor of 1947 moved into action.

The Credential Committee reported 15 Grand Officers, 25 Past Grand Presidents, 423 delegates and 219 registered visitors in attendance, representing a membership of 17,500.

The delegation was welcomed by Anne C. Thuesen, Past Grand President and General Chairman of the 1947 Grand Parlor Convention and Mr. Eneas J. Kane, Public Service Director, representing Mayor Roger D. Lapham of San Francisco.

The morning session closed with a Memorial Service to the 156 members of the Order who had passed on during the past year. The service was conducted by members of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185, NDGW.

Supporting one of the principles upon which the Order is founded, two important historic markings were made during the sessions. A spot near the home of Ina Coolbrith, poet laureate of California, was dedicated with a handsome bronze plaque and Mission Dolores, founded June 29, 1776 by Rev. Francisco Palou, O. F. M., was marked with a bronze plaque, unveiled by the presiding Grand President Loretta M. Cameron, and presented to Mission Dolores. Both plaques were given by the San Francisco Extension of the Order, N.D.G.W. The marking on Mission Dolores includes the reference "Cradle of San Francisco" and truly this sixth mission in Father Serra's rosary can well be called San Francisco's cradle.

Dr. Thomas E. Barrett, Chief of Medical Rehabilitation and Physical Training, Medical Division, Veterans' Administration, appeared as a speaker before the delegation, presenting a most interesting and instructive outline of the work being done in training and equipping handicapped veterans for a useful and normal life.

SEQUOIA PARLOR NATIVE DAUGHTERS HOLD INSTALLATION

With an impressive ceremony, the new officers of Sequoia Parlor 272, were installed Thursday evening, July 24 in the large auditorium of the Finnish Brotherhood Hall. Esther Ragan, DDGP for the Parlor was the installing officer. She was assisted by a staff from her Parlor, Fruitvale Parlor 177. Edna Williams, organizer of the Parlor became the new president. Other officers included, Past President, Martha Gohl; 1st vice, Eleanore Garrison; 2nd vice, Nellie Homewood; 3rd vice, Estelle Marinelli; marshal, Lucy Gulick; inside sentinel, Regina Tamba; outside sentinel, Mary Sutter; secretary, Alice Gilligan; financial secretary, Jeanette Anderson; treasurer, Lola Bredehoft and Marion McGuire.

Following the installation a musical program was given which was followed by the presentation of an evening bag to the new president, by the outgoing corps of officers.

Special guests included several grand officers.

Refreshments were served in the banquet room at the close of the evening's activities with Hanna Bredehoft and Marion McGuire in charge. The colors of the N. D. G. W., were carried out in the floral arrangement.

Installation of officers was the event of the month for the Native Daughters of San Gabriel Valley Parlor No. 281.

Shirley Bassford, retiring Ways and Means Committee Chairman was seated as president in the induction ceremony July 15.

Having just completed a membership drive they are quite pleased with the new members they have recruited.

Vacaville, Solano County Has Interesting History

THE town of Vacaville is located a little north of the central part of Solano County near the entrance to the Vaca Valley, on U. S. Highway 40.

The original population of the Vacaville District was composed chiefly of Digger Indians and grizzly bears; and, to the date of their entrance history tells us not. The disappearance of the former is nearly as obscure as its origin, but tradition has it that their ranks were decimated by disease and by the inroads of Mexican soldiery; and the remnant was carried to the old mission establishment for duty and civilization. Certain it is that the first white settlers who came to the district found only the grizzlies to contest their rights of possession as conveyed by Mexican grants.

As the past with its colorful and kaleidoscopic years accompanying the discovery of gold and the coming of the "Gringo" will always be the most interesting part of California history, so Vacaville, with its Spanish setting appeals to the student of Solano's early records. For here Senors Manuel Cabeza Vaca and Juan Filipe Pena, coming from New Mexico, settled in 1841 when they secured the Los Putos Grant embracing 44,388 acres from one of the Mexican governors of California, the state being at the time a portion of Mexico. This vast estate was devoted by its owners to cattle raising, and thousands of head swelled the wealth of the owners who dispensed generous hospitality to American settlers, some few of whom began to appear at that time.

Long ago the land was divided up and passed out of the hands of their descendants, but there is a flavor of romance about those days when nine square miles could be deeded away for the paltry sum of $3000.00 with only the stipulation attached being a town site should be laid out on one square mile thereof and 1,055 lots of said town should be deeded back to the owner. And this was how the town of Vacaville was founded; for Manuel Cabeza Vaca made just such a deed to William MacDaniel on August 23, 1850 and December 31, 1851 the plat of the town of Vacaville was filed, making it the second oldest to in Solano County. It reads, "Mapa de la villa Vacaville, Estado de California, Fundallo Guillermo MacDaniel y Lino B. Minzer."

It was MacDaniel who erected the first hou of the town while the second was run up James McGuire. In 1885 the Christian Chur was organized about two and one-half miles fr Vacaville but shortly thereafter moved into to 1855 also marked the founding of the Calif nia College as it was known, by Professor And son of San Francisco, a private school and one the first in that section of the country. Later t became the property of the Southern Method Denomination and long flourished as an edu tional institution.

In 1869, the Vaca Valley and Clear Lake R road connected the town and township with t outside world and the place has had a stea growth since then. The development of the r surrounding country, the Vaca Valley, as a f section has made the name Vacaville synonom with California early fruit for it is from t town that the first carloads go to the east markets.

Forty-eight years ago on July 12 Eschscholt Parlor No. 112 Etna, Siskiyou County was in tuted. At a recent evening the birthday of parlor was celebrated. A beautifully decora three tiered cake adorned the tables in the b quet hall and the two charter members were sented corsages from the parlor.

Following the ceremonies refreshments w served on tables decorated in red, white yellow.

On a later date, Mrs. Mary Roff was insta as president of Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112. Eleanor Hendricks, the deputy grand presid was the installing president.

SANTA BARBARA'S DAUGHTERS HAVE ACTIVE PROGRAM

Santa Barbara's Reina del Mar parlor N. D. G. W., set aside July, August and September as months in which to realign activities of History, Preservation of Landmarks and Pioneer Roster committees. In view of approaching centennial observances, parlor leaders recognize the need of early planning with existing forces of the community interested in the fields of history and education.

With the cooperation of the Santa Barbara Historical Society, whose downtown quarters were made available to the parlor several panel meetings are being arranged to advance committee objectives. This year the parlor will forego its annual pre-fiesta reception and tea that membership may center their effort in advancing the historical values of Old Spanish Days Fiesta in the light of the August moon.

Mrs. George E. Tackaberry, History chairman, has named the following co-chairmen for panel program: Mrs. Joseph Bookman, Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Mrs. Mabel Erwin, Mrs. Estel Fenn, Mrs. M. C. Harrison, Mrs. Henry Griffiths, Mrs. R. J. Schuld, Mrs. Richard King, Mrs. H. J. Sartwell, Mrs. Lawrence Vale Brady and Mrs. Robert Phelan. Cooperating as Ways and Means committee are Mrs. John Pomotto, Mrs. Egisto Giogi, Mrs. Eugene Ireland and Miss Elsie Bottiani.

The July meeting of the parlor was prefaced with a dinner, proceeds of which go to meet the parlor's quota for the Homeless Children's Placement Bureau. Intimate reports of the recent Grand Parlor were made by returned delegates, President Eve Clem, Mrs. Anita Sacconaghi, Mrs. Raymond Romero and Mrs. Ben Dismuke. Mrs. Cora B. Sifford, a past grand president, now residing in Ventura, Mrs. Griffiths and Mrs. Tackaberry attended the grand parlor as observers and commented on its accomplishments.

LOS ANGELES PARLOR PLANS ACTIVE PROGRAM FOR TERM

Mrs. Kerrins J. (Louise) Crawford, newly installed president of Los Angeles Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West said that her administration will stress Americanism above all other projects.

The new president, who is a member of the old and respected Mellus family of Los Angeles, said the parlor will combat Communism in public schools and public offices, hear speakers on modern steps to eradicate imported political creeds and conduct investigations of its own.

"Never before have the precepts laid down to establish a free America been exposed to greater dangers than at present from powerful alien influences," she said.

"I maintain every Native Daughter should make her first point of business the eradication of ridiculous "isms" that would crush our liberties and fasten an iron yoke on ourselves and our descendents."

Due to the increase in responsibilities of the order's homeless children work, Mrs. Crawford announced several fund raising efforts to help maintain the great project. One will be a public dinner Nov. 15, at 1828 Oak Street, parlor headquarters. Mrs. Edna Neikirk and Mrs. Betty Searcy, co-chairmen of the parlor's homeless children committee are planning other money-raising events to take place this year.

On September 17, a dinner and fashion show for members and friends will be held, Mrs. Crawford said. Proceeds will be divided between parlor committees, to carry on their work.

The parlor will enter a gorgeous float in the Sept. 9 Admission Day parade at Long Beach. It will keep "open house" in a suite at the Hilton Hotel there, and Mrs. William Steinbeck will head a coterie of hostesses who will serve refreshments to droppers-in during the four-day celebration.

Other parlor events scheduled for this year, Mrs. Crawford said, includes a historical marking, several picnics, a "Husbands Night," and a fall bazaar. The site for marking yet is to be selected.

Mrs. Crawford's family antedates in Los Angeles to the arrival of her great grandfather, Francis Mellus in 1838. He came around the Horn aboard the brig "Pilgrim," made famous by Richard Henry Dana's chronicle, "Two Years Before the Mast." An original dairy kept by Mellus now is in the archives of the Huntington Library.

GOLDEN GATE PARLOR NO. 158 HOLDS INSTALLATION

Officers of the Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, NDGW were installed in an impressive ceremony Saturday night, July 12. It was held in the Grizzly Bear Club rooms, Native Sons Building, 414 Mason St., San Francisco. The public was invited to this affair, which was presided over by Grand Trustee Leslye Hicks of Buena Vista Parlor.

New officers for the current term are Past President, Myrtle Loebbing; President, Frances Perazze; 1st Vice President, Lorene Perazzo; 2nd Vice President, Emma Elias; 3rd Vice President, Doris Nixon; Trustees, Thelma Lunde, Bernadette Sullivan, Edna Erney; Financial Secretary, Annie Franzen; Recording Secretary, Mary Mahonev; Treasurer, Frieda Bode; Organist, Elsie Dethlefsen; Marshal, Kay Davis; Inside Sentinel, Roxie Frey; Outside Sentinel, Jerry Pitts. Chairman for the evening was Past President Edna Erney.

EL PINAL PARLOR, NDGW HOLDS INSTALLATION

Alberta Stewart, deputy grand president, installed officers for El Pinal parlor, NDGW, Cambria, Calif., at a meeting held last month at the Native Sons Hall. The installing officer was assisted by Deputy Marshal Hazel Bordegaray and Deputy Past President Estelle Fry.

Shirley Smithers was seated as their new president.

EAST LOS ANGELES PARLOR BUSY THROUGH SUMMER

East Los Angeles Parlor No. 266, NDGW is quite a hive of activity. Having completed quite a busy month, they are looking forward to another prosperous month.

To name but a few of their July activities, one could start with their initiation, which was held July 1. Also at the July 1st meeting was the annual revealing party of Secret Pals.

One project they are to be especially commended on is their drive to salvage any old Christmas cards or stamps, to be given to the veterans at Sawtell for handicraft work.

Another is the work they are helping with at the Boarding Home for Homeless Children.

Appearing in the bulletin that the East Los Angeles Parlor puts out are several sayings that are really quite clever. For instance:

"The only way to have a friend is to be one."—(Emerson).

"Argument: Two peonle trying to get the last word first."

Experience would be a better teacher if the lessons weren't so long."

JOAQUIN PARLOR NO. 5 SEATS NEW PRESIDENT

One of the most beautiful and impressive installation ceremonies of the season was held recently in Stockton by the Joaquin Parlor No. 5.

Deputy Grand President Mrs. Vera Johnson of Stockton Parlor No. 256 assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth Baker as Past Grand President, installed the members.

Taking office as President was Mrs. Florence Augustine.

SAN RAFAEL TO STAGE 14TH ANNUAL FIESTA

Looking forward to one of the gayest and most colorful fiesta's ever celebrated, are the people of San Rafael. Plans have been made far in advance, to insure success of this annual accasion.

This is the 14th Annual Fiesta, and it will take place October 17th, 18th and 19th.

Each of the 3 days have been planned so that every moment will be packed with fun and excitement.

Starting with the crowning of the Senorita on Friday, October 17, the celebration will get under way. The same night will be the huge Coronation Ball, to be held at the U. S. O. During the evening of festivities, the cavalcade of past Senoritas will be staged.

The younger set are looking anxiously to the next day of the celebration, the 18th . . . at that time there will be a kiddies parade with children of all ages participating. Also on the 18th, the Spanish Market will open at Bianco's Garage.

The last day of the fiesta will be crammed with the closing ceremonies and the winding up of another year's celebration. Promptly at 10 o'clock a mammouth 3 mile parade will wind its way through the streets of San Rafael . . . Merchants of the city are entering floats as well as merchants of other cities. Bands, marching units, and clowns will make this years parade one to be long remembered.

A 2:30, San Rafael enmass will gather at the huge arena to witness the traditional horse show and Gymhanna. Red neckerchieves and cow-boy-hats are the order of the day while attending this show. Closing the 3-day fiesta will be an elaborate vaudeville show and the awarding of trophies at the Spanish Market.

Truly, this year's "San Rafael Fiesta" will be one that is long to remembered.

This affair is being sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of San Rafael. Chairman is Walter Mazza of Mt. Tamalpais Parlor and co-chairman is Mrs. J. Streckfus of Marinita Parlor.

NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS INSTALL AT JOINT CEREMONY

B. St. Hall, San Rafael, was transformed into a garden for the joint installation of officers of Marinita Parlor of Native Daughters and Mt. Tamalpais Parlor of Native Sons. Many flowers bloomed on white lattices and small wheel barrows and flower bed ornaments were arranged artistically.

Alice Kientz, supervising district deputy, installed the Marinita officers, with Ann Martignoli taking office as president.

Heading the new corps of officers for Mt. Tamalpais Parlor is Frank Milani. Paul Jukich of Sea Point Parlor conducted the installation for the Native Sons.

Floral decorations, similar to those in the meeting hall, decorated the banquet hall, where refreshments were served following a dance, a post-ceremonial feature.

KEITH PARLOR NO. 137 PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Keith Parlor, San Francisco, recently held a Whist and Luncheon. This affair was a financial as well as social success.

Looking to the future, they have planned an Open House Bingo Game to be held Sept. 22, from which the proceeds will go towards the Centennial Fund. Plans are also under way for a Pals Night in the fall.

Many interesting State Committee reports indicated great progress being made by our Order. Among the outstanding reports was Miss Phyllis Dunne, Executive Secretary of the Central Committee on Homeless Children. Six hundred applications to place children were received during the year. Of these 278 kept their children, 282 taken by the Committee and 242 legal adoptions consummated.

Agnes M. Curry, State Chairman of Americanism, introduced Mr. Jack Botts, and Mrs. Minette Ker Higgins of the United States Savings Bond Division, U. S. Treasury, who commended the work of the Native Daughters in sponsoring the sale of bonds, by contacting the parents of newly born infants, interesting them in the future financial security of the child as well as the government.

State Chairman of the Junior Native Daughters reported on their activities. One new unit was organized at Alturas. Reports on Scholarships indicating that Kathleen Darby of Ruby Parlor was the recipiant of a scholarship at Berkeley and Patricia Winn Steel was introduced as holding our Mills College Scholarship Loan Fund.

Other reports included California History and Landmarks, Restoration of Mission San Jose and Soledad, Veterans Welfare, Legislation, Native Daughters Home, Drill Teams, Civic Participation, Publicity, Extension of the Order, Youth Education and Welfare. A gain of 1,002 members and the institution of the following new Parlors during the year was reported by the Grand President: Joshua Tree Parlor No. 288, Lancaster; Beverly Hills Parlor No. 289, Beverly Hills; Pasadena Parlor No. 290, Altadena; Golden California Parlor No. 291, Gustine; Visalia Charter Oaks Parlor No. 292 Visalia; Vacaville Parlor No. 293; Conchita Parlor No. 294, Newport Beach.

The social activities began on Sunday evening, June 15 and continued through Friday, June 20, 1947. Under the excellent leadership of Entertainment Chairman, PGP Evelyn I. Carlson, the social events were all well rendered and enjoyed by the many visiting delegates.

On Thursday night, June 1947 the following Grand Officers were installed by Supreme Grand President, Ethel C. Enos, Installing Officer:

Past Grand President, Loretta M. Cameron, Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 San Francisco.

Grand President, Doris Treat, San Andreas Parlor, No. 113, San Andreas.

Grand Vice President, Margaret M. Fransworth, Vendome Parlor, No. 100 San Jose.

Grand Secretary, Sallie R. Thaler, Aloha Parlor No. 106, Oakland.

Grand Treasurer, Agnes M. Curry, Portola Parlor No. 172, San Francisco.

Grand Marshal, Henrietta Toothaker, Woodland Parlor No. 90, Woodland.

Grand Inside Sentinel, Ruth E. Trousdale, Fremont Parlor No. 59, San Francisco.

Grand Outside Sentinel, Doris Gerrish, Liberty Parlor No. 213, Elk Grove.

Grand Organist, Frances Simas, Oro Fino Parlor No. 9, San Francisco.

Grand Trustees:

Elmarie Dyke, Junipero Parlor No. 141, Monterey.

Dorothy Donofrio, El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Daly City.

Jewel McSweeney, El Vespero Parlor No. 118, San Francisco.

Elizabeth Read, Ursula Parlor No. 1, Jackson.

Marian Brian, Eschol Parlor No. 16, Napa.

Edith Cavagnero, Calistoga Parlor No. 145, Calistoga.

Leslye A. Hicks, Buena Vista Parlor No. 68, San Francisco.

Into the office of Grand President has come a true daughter of the Mother Lode, Doris Treat of San Andreas. What could be more fitting than a presiding officer, born of the Gold Mining Lode assuming office during the Gold Centennial in California.

The members will look to our Grand President Doris Treat for inspiration and guidance during the Gold Centenial, because her heart is in the Order and the gold country. Her great-great grandfather as he entered a small Irish province one morning in the long ago, heard the cry "Discovery of Gold in California" and so he immediately sold his load of live stock which he had brought into town for sale and booked passage from Ireland to California - and the lure of Gold. Her ancestry harkens back to pioneer building of California.

Grand President Treat is actively engaged in appointments of various State Chairmen, Supervising Deputies and Deputy Grand Presidents throughout the State. Her Official Visits will commence in the middle of August as she journeys to the extreme northern part of California.

The Sixty-Second Grand Parlor will be held in Sacramento, June 1948, in the heart of the Gold Country . . . and our Gold Centennial.

The Native Daughters of the Golden West re-endorsed the Grizzly Bear Magazine as our official publication.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES HOMELESS CHILDREN COMMITTE ACTIVE

According to Frank Ruiz, Chairman of the Southern Counties Homeless Children Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, action of both Grand Parlors, voted to re-organize the Central Committee and continue with the Homeless Children work.

Two social service workers have recently been added to the Los Angeles Office and placement of children is again in progress. The Committee stresses one fact that at present they have only $34,000 in the treasury of the Central Committee on Homeless Children for use in new adoptions. The budget calls for an expenditure of $12,000 a month, so you can readily see how long the Committee can operate on that sum.

Appoint to the Homeless Children Committee only those able to attend committee meetings and take an active part in this work.

As soon as your new officers are installed, please furnish Eugenia Smith, Committee Secretary, the names and addresses of three members who have been appointed.

November 1 there will be an excellent program of Spanish dancing and songs presented at the Embassy Auditorium. The artists are donating their time and talent in order that our goal might be reached sooner.

On December 8th (at a hall not yet designated) Father Eric O'Brien of Santa Barbara Parlor will give an illustrated lecture of his research work in California, Mexico, Portugal and Spain, which he has conducted in behalf of Father Junipero Serra, who, if Father O'Brien is successful, will be canonized in 1949.

Those heading the Southern Counties Committee on Homeless Children are: Chairman, Frank Ruiz; Secretary, Eugenia Smith; Financial Secretary, Florence Grass; Treasurer, Flora M. Holy; Vice Chairmen, Anna T. Schiebush, Delmar Badgley; Advisory Board, Hazel Hanson and Bernard Hiss.

MARY L. WILES

To the Officers and Members of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your Committee on Resolutions of Respect, submit the following:

Beckoning hands at the Gateway of Heaven have called to our Heavenly Father our Sister Mary L. Wiles.

She has passed through the portals of glory,
Has entered the haven of rest.
She has joined the loved ones gone before,
Is safe in the Home of the Blest.
She has filled her mission in earth's life,
With love from the depth of her soul.
She worked with joy for her Maker,
And has reached a Heavenly goal.

Therefore, be it resolved: that Annie K. Bidwell Parlor extend to those whose hearts have been saddened by the loss of this loved one, heartfelt sympathy.

Be it further resolved: that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, a copy sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine, and a copy filed in the records of the Parlor.

Fraternally submitted,
Josephine Hughes
Elizabeth Bond
Leona Gerholdt.

GRACE DICKEY HALE

To the Officers and Members of Californiana Parlor No. 247, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect for our sister, Grace Dickey Hale, submit the following:

Whereas, we have lost a sister,—a daughter of pioneers of Ventura County,—one who exemplified the pioneer virtues of perseverance and trustworthiness over a period of years as our organist, allowing neither distance nor weather to deter her from performing her duty, and

Whereas, her devotion and loyalty to the Order of Native Daughters inspired her to bring her four daughters and a sister-in-law into our Parlor to work with us in our labors of love, therefore be it

Resolved, that this tribute to her memory be inscribed in the minutes of our Parlor, that a copy be sent to her family, and that a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
Charlotte Carpenter
Magdalena Wildasin
Belle H. S. Maguire

MARGARET MONAGHAN ANTHONY

To the Officers and Members of Californiana Parlor No. 247, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect for our sister, Margaret Monaghan Anthony, submit the following:

Whereas, we have lost one of our dear charter members, who was a native of San Francisco and a past-president of Oro Fino Parlor No. 9, and

Whereas, we have said our last earthly farewell to our Margaret, who was the sunshine of our gatherings and whose cheery smile and graciousness will remain a lasting radiance with us, therefore, be it

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be inscribed in the minutes of our Parlor, that a copy be sent to her bereaved husband, and that a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
Charlotte V. Carpenter

IDA RYAN

To the Officers and Members of Annie K. Bidwell Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West:

We, your Committee on Resolutions of Respect to our departed Sister, Ida Ryan, submit the following:

Whereas, our Heavenly Father has seen fit to remove from our midst a true member of our Parlor, be it

Resolved, that our deepest sympathy be extended to her family.

There are stars that go out in the darkness,
Whose silvery light shineth on.
There are roses whose perfume lingers still,
When roses are faded and gone.
There are hearts full of love and sweetness,
When no longer their life-current flows.
Still their goodness lives on with the living,
Like the soul of the star and the rose.
Sweet be thy rest, and peaceful thy sleeping.
God's way is best, thou art in His keeping.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of the Parlor, a copy sent to her family and to the Grizzly Bear Magazine.

PREPARE TO MOVE HUGE MIRROR TO PALOMAR MOUNTAIN

Many Californians have anxiously awaited the announcement of the move and installation of the telescope mirror at Palomar Mountain, San Diego County.

Officials have finally released the news that the 15-ton, 200-inch telescope mirror is scheduled to start its 125-mile journey to Palomar observatory in late August or early September.

A huge crate already has been built to house the priceless apparatus on the trip. California Institute of Technology officials said would be one of the trickiest transportation jobs in history.

Office in San Francisco, Upper California
Advertisement appearing in the "CALIFORNIAN"
Wednesday, March 15, 1848

In looking over the issue of "The Californian" of March 15, 1848, I was interested to find an announcement by Attorney L. W. Hastings that he was to resume his practice of the law. Lansford W. Hastings is not to be confused with S. Clinton Hastings, the first Chief Justice of our Supreme Court and the founder of Hastings College of the Law. I have not discovered whether or not there is any relationship between these two men. S. Clinton Hastings was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Iowa in the year 1848 and resigned that position to join the Gold Rush of California.

L. W. Hastings left Missouri for Oregon in 1842, with a large company, including eighty armed men. After his arrival in Oregon, he and some of his companions decided that California held better opportunities and a party of fifty settlers left the Willamette Valley for California, under his leadership, in May 1843. They arrived in the neighborhood of Sutter's Fort in July of that year, where they separated and took up residence in various parts of Northern California. L. W. Hastings was in a way partly responsible for the Donner Party disaster. The Donner Party was the first organized group to leave Illinois for California. They started West in the Spring of 1846.

Arriving at Fort Bridger, the leaders of this party were persuaded to try a so-called "short cut" by way of the south end of the Great Salt Lake. L. W. Hastings had written an open letter, directed "To all California Immigrants now on the Road," in which he urged them to take a new and better route which he had explored, from Fort Bridger to the south of the Lake and which he claimed was two hundred miles shorter than the road via Fort Hall. It was only after considerable discussion that a part of the group headed by George Donner decided to proceed by the so-called "Hastings Cut-Off." The delays caused as a result of following the suggestion of Hastings, made it impossible to cross the Sierras before winter, and when the party reached Donner Lake, they were held there in the grip of ice and snow and could neither retreat nor advance.

L. W. Hastings was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, which adopted the first Constitution of California. He was chairman of the committee on boundaries, which proved to be one of the most important of all committees, as a dispute over California's eastern boundary almost disrupted the entire proceedings. When California was ceded to the United States by Mexico, its eastern boundary was not determined, excepting that it was generally supposed to extend to the Rocky Mountains. Many of the delegates to the convention insisted on establishing the boundary at the Rocky Mountains, while at the other extreme there were those who favored a smaller state, with the Sierra Nevada Range serving as the eastern boundary. The slavery question was interjected here and for a while it looked as though no settlement could be reached. However, a compromise was proposed by Hastings, which fixed the boundaries of the State as they are at present, and after considerable debate, this most vexed question of the convention was finally settled, the territory to the east of the new boundary being afterwards included in the Territories of Nevada and Utah.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

—By THE EDITOR—

We understand a certain publisher of a well-known Califonia magazine did not like our March cover, "The Power and The Glory," because of the great steel towers in the background, carrying harnessed energy from the snow-clad Sierras.

Well, there are two sides to everything. No one hates to see the encroachment of industry upon our state's scenic splendor, or its creeping out into the wide-open spaces of our last frontiers. But, it marks the progress and growth of a mighty state. These things are all a part of California today. As a result, we will continue to tell our readers of these things, which affect the lives of all of us, as well as to give the story of an era that is past and gone.

Yes, we could have used a picture of "The Candles of the Lord" alone on our cover, as our publisher friend has done from time to time through the years. But, isn't there also beauty in those steel towers, conveying over their hundreds of miles of wire, the electricity that lights not only our big cities, but almost every farmhouse in California, as well? And, isn't this wonderful energy, that does work almost beyond the imagination of man, the gift of the same Higher Power that made the stately Yucca that blooms beneath those towers?

CABRILLO PARLOR TO STAGE BIG BARBECUE AT OXNARD

At Portuguese Crown Club Hall, Wooley Road, Oxnard, Cabrillo Parlor will stage its second big barbecue on Sunday, August 24, from 12, noon, until you are ready to go home. There will be entertainment, dancing, games and refreshments. Brother Joe Cardona has offered a $200 automatic gas water heater which someone will carry home, and there will be a number of other prizes. Howard Yungling will be in charge of this feature. Howard loves work, so keep him busy and out of mischief.

It might be a good idea to bring your own table service—cutlery, that is. The Parlor will furnish plates, cups, and paper napkins, but we understand that the supply of cutlery owned by the Hall has been sadly depleted and there may not be enough to go round.

TRAVELETTE

A SCENIC RIDE

A. C. McMILLEN
Santa Ana Parlor 265, NSGW

I was reclining in my easy chair with pap in hand and more or less dozing, when my tw daughters spoke at once, "Let's go for a rid along the ocean," down Main Street, Santa An past the old airbase, through the growing tow of Costa Mesa, across the overpass, around, an on to U. S. 101, travelling south through th miracle mile, where the boat works are on on side and the motels and markets on the othe Here you can charter or purchase anything fro a rowboat to—well, the sky is the limit.

Slowly the miles roll by with the never-endin scenic grandeur of the beautiful Pacific soft kissing the golden sand, or pounding noisil against the rocks of the cliffs. Suddenly, drivin over a rise, we came upon Laguna, the Cape Co of the West. Nestled between the hills and th blue Pacific, bathed in the rosy glow of the se ting sun, its beauty enhanced beyond expressio a more restful place would be hard to find. O the right, past Laguna, the spacious homes amon the trees at Three Arch Bay, and then the pic turesque sprawling Dana Point, which will som day be a good-sized village. Then San Clemente the Spanish village, where the buildings ar mostly white stucco and few of the streets ar straight. Back through San Juan Capistrano an past the old mission, on through the agricultur belt, into the orange groves, and home.

OLDEST MINE LIBRARY WILL BE REOPENED

California's oldest library devoted exclusively to mining will be reopened in San Francisco about August 15, State Mineralogist Olaf P Jenkins announces.

Containing more than 7000 volumes on miner als and mining engineering, the library is reputed to be the largest of its kind in the United States

Presently located in the ferry building, Librar ian Roy Nielsen is operating under temporary conditions while new cases are being installed.

Wells Fargo Pony Express - -

Once Astonishingly Fast—Now Just Historical Memory

SOME CLAIM that to one Henry Wallace fell the honor of inaugurating the most dramatic of early Western enterprises, the Pony Express.

Whether it was Wallace, or Alex Carlisle, or another rider, on April 3, 1860, the first despatch left St. Joe., Missouri on their relayed trip west to California.

Out in San Francisco that same day, a little buff-colored pony bearing a rider whose name is lost to history was escorted down to the wharf and onto the boat for Sacramento. A cheering crowd waved it off, another cheering crowd met it in Sacramento. At the state capitol the mail packet was quickly turned over to Harry Roff, first rider out of Sacramento on the eastward journey, who sped away toward Placerville.

So began the chain of hoof-beats that once connected San Francisco with St. Joe, Missouri, and gave America its swiftest trans-continental communication system to that date.

California had for years been getting mail from the east by ship around the Horn. But the fastest Clipper took three months; the slower ships as long as six. Later, the mail had gone from the Atlantic Coast by steamer to the Isthmus of Panama, been packed across the Isthmus, then taken up to San Francisco by Pacific Mail Steamers. This way the mail was a month enroute.

Ten years after gold was discovered, the first overland stage route was established, going south from San Francisco to Los Angeles, through Yuma, Arizona, El Paso, Texas, and finally meandering up to St. Louis. A great improvement over the sailing ships, the time consumed was still some 24 days, and San Francisco was not satisfied.

Then came the Pony Express. Engineered by the famous overland freighting firm of Russell, Majors & Waddell, this incredible bridge of tough horse-flesh and human courage was thrown across the two thousand miles of wilderness. Indians swept down upon the lone riders and the isolated relay stations. Snow blanketed the trail. Swollen mountain torrents barred the way. But the mail went through, first in 1860, under the original projectors; then, in 1861, under the management of Wells Fargo.

Wells Fargo's agents along the Overland Trail watched for the riders, transferred from one saddle to the next the leather "Mochilla" which held the mail in four securely-sewn padlocked pouches.

Practically everyone in the west at that time rode horseback, but only the best riders were engaged by the Pony Express. They had to be good to ride 75 to 100 miles in 12 hours, rest for a little while at the home station, and then ride back again with another pouch of mail.

The horses under the rider were tough western mustangs. They cost from $150 to $200 at a time when ordinary horses could be bought for $50. Five hundred such horses were bought by the owners of the Pony Express and were strung out in relays twenty to twenty-five miles apart. Each rider changed horses usually three times each run.

Ten days was the average length of time required for the complete trip between San Francisco and St. Joe. In March, 1861, however, with Lincoln's Inaugural Address in the mochilla, the Pony Express set a record—two thousand miles in seven days and seventeen hours!

At first the Pony Express rider carried a short rifle called a carbine, and two Navy revolvers, but because of the weight this was soon cut down to one revolver. This left the riders with little to depend on in case of Indian ambush except their own wits and their pony's speedy hoofs.

Each rider along the 2,000-mile route was required to sign the unique pledge which Alexander Majors for years had required employees of his freight company to sign, and which read as follows

> "I do hereby swear before the great and living God that during my engagement, and while I am an employee of Russell, Majors and Waddell, I will under no circumstances use profane language; that I will drink no intoxicating liquors; that I will not quarrel or fight with other employees of the firm, and that in every respect I will conduct myself honestly, be faithful to my duties, and so direct all my acts as to win the confidence of my employers. So help me God."

After signing the pledge each pony rider was presented with a small leatherbound Bible, printed by the American Bible Society. Mr. O. F. Heizer of Los Altos has loaned one of these Bibles for display by the Wells Fargo Bank Historical Collection in San Francisco.

HISTORIC EXHIBITS AT THE FAIR OPPORTUNITY FOR NATIVES

By Andrew M. Stodel
Member California History Board, NSGW

California's fairs and expositions have been never-ending sources of wonder since a rather modest start begun far back in 1951. Our own California State Fair which first opened in 1854 is one of the oldest in the nation, being antedated only by the State Fairs of Illinois and New York and one or two other commonwealths.

The brilliant and resourceful Thomas Starr King, who shares with the beloved Junipero Serra a niche in the Hall of Fame in Washington, stood before a large crowd at the California State Fair one warm fall day in 1863 and cried out: "This is our Feast of Tabernacles—our jubilee at the close of harvest!" And years later in what was to be his last public appearance, the Pan-American Exposition of 1901, President William McKinley said: "Expositions are the timekeepers of progress . . . . Every exposition, great or small, has helped to some onward step."

California proudly presents to her loyal sons and daughters and to countless guests from other states and nations some seventy fairs during 1947. There will be displayed the finest of livestock and poultry, fruits of varied trees and vines, grain, minerals, hay, flowers, cakes and jellies, horse races and other products and attractions. We cannot enumerate here the evidences of God's blessing which you will see so we urge you to visit some of our fairs.

Looking backward through the years we find the names of many great citizens linked with the activities of our fairs. John A. Sutter of Sacramento, M. G. Vallejo and A. Haraszthy of Sonoma, Nathan Coombs of Napa (father of the late PGP Frank L. Coombs), Gen. "Fighting Joe" Hooker of Civil War fame, James W. Marshall, the discoverer of gold in 1848, Leland Stanford, the Wolfskills, the Studebakers of Placerville "Old Hangtown," yes, and President Rutherford B. Hayes were but a few of many who have participated in California's fairs and expositions in bygone years.

We cannot bring them back, but we can perpetuate the memory of pioneer and patriot through historical displays at fairs. This is being done in some fairs now through active historical societies and parlors of the Native Sons and Daughters. An attractive exhibit of relics, antiques, wearing apparel, documents, pictures and other old items of historic interest, sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters, should be a popular feature of the fair and a source of publicity for our orders. Explanatory materials and labels large enough to be read will allow visitors to understand and enjoy the exhibits. Offhand I remember very creditable historical displays at Humboldt and Kern County Fairs last year.

With the Centennial Years well-arranged historical exhibits should be important attractions to the fairs culminating with the California State Fair Centennial in 1954. Surely no better sponsoring agencies may be found than the Natives, proud descendants of those brave men and women who laid the cornerstone of our great civilization. Let us make the historical exhibit a "must" among parlor activities during our fiesta years.

Pushed Around By Progress

By NELL MURBARGER

"Boys," said the leader, "we'll turn aside.
Here close by the trail, her grave shall stay;
For she came first in this desert wide—
Rebecca Winters holds right-of-way . . ."

Rebecca Winters' grave and the chivalry of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway is a familiar legend to most students of early Western lore.

Progress, however, is not usually so considerate of the isolated graves encountered and many a pioneer settler's bones have been moved to make way for new construction.

One such example may be seen on the crest of a sage-covered hill near Beowawe, Nev., where a tall board cross marks the resting place of Lucinda Duncan, a girl of 20 years. Lucinda, so the story goes, fell ill while traveling with a wagon train in 1849, passing away while the party camped on the south side of the meandering Humboldt river. She was buried near the campsite and a wooden marker erected.

When the route of the Central Pacific was surveyed through that region in 1868-69, it was found that the railroad would pass directly over the girl's grave. The construction superintendent accordingly ordered that Lucinda's remains be removed to the top of a nearby hill; a half-mile south of the present main line of the Southern Pacific. There they were reinterred and for more than three-quarters of a century, the railroad company has cared for the grave.

In some instances, whole cemeteries have been moved.

When encroachment of the Los Angeles business district caused abandonment of Calvary Cemetery, among those transferred to new graves were ten members of the Yorba family, including Don Bernardo Yorba, pioneer resident of Orange County. Settling near the present site of Yorba Linda, in 1834, the old Spaniard made that his home until his death, November 20, 1858.

Don Bernardo had been carried from his ranch home through semi-wild, virtually-unsettled country to Los Angeles, his fine coffin being borne on the shoulders of grief-stricken Indians and Mexicans. Heading the line of march was the don's beautiful white stallion, resplendent in silver-mounted saddle and bridle but riderless.

Upon his removal from Calvary Cemetery a quarter century ago, Don Bernardo was returned to the old Yorba Rancho where he was buried on a hill overlooking a green and fruitful valley. In contrast to his earlier journey, the Spanish ranchero's return was made by fast motor truck over wide paved highways and through bustling cities.

Perhaps one of the greatest mass removals of pioneer graves was occasioned by the closing of 54-acre Laurel Hill Cemetery in down-town San Francisco. From that time-hallowed ground 33,000 graves were moved to a new site in San Mateo county, a crew of 50 to 60 men being employed on the project for 17 months.

Graves disturbed by the mass removal included that of John Orr, history unknown, who was interred June 10, 1854. According to the inscription on his grave marker, he thereby became "the first inhabitant of this silent city."

Others of the great and near great who were buried at Laurel Hill included Senator Broderick, killed in a pistol duel with Justice D. Baker, who introduced Abraham Lincoln at his presidential inauguration; Samuel D. Woodworth, author of "The Old Oaken Bucket," and Wm. S. Clark, builder of the first wharf on the California coast. Clark is said to have felled the trees himself, contriving a pile-driver hammer from ballast pig iron.

Elimination of the cemetery to enable business expansion, was fought bitterly for many months. At one stormy hearing before the board of supervisors, a wrathy opponent of the plan declared that if Nathaniel Gray, a pioneer undertaker, could have anticipated that San Francisco would ever entertain such a proposal "he probably would have put wheels on his coffins."

As a further touch of irony, Laurel Hill's monuments and grave markers, once appraised at $1,750,000 ,were conscripted during World War II for buttressing ten miles of San Francisco waterfront highway undermined by storm.

With the road facing destruction and the city unable to obtain steel and concrete for its repair, San Francisco engineers dumped into the water-gnawed beach 5000 tons of intricately-graven marble and granite, including one memorial said to have cost $30,000 to build.

Thus the cutting waves were stymied and the highway was saved—but not without cost.

In so doing, the last vistage of historic old Laurel Hill was sacrificed to progress.

AN EARLY DAY STORY OF VENTURA COUNTY OIL

According to the story, the first oil developme in Ventura county was the result of a trick play upon an eminent geologist of the time. Even early as 1854, a party of Army Engineers e gaged in making a railway survey in the upp Ojai Valley, noted and reported upon the nur ber of brea deposits found in that locality. 1864, a Dr. Silliman came to the Pacific Coa to make a geological survey. Dr. Silliman ha had some oil experience in the Pennsylvan fields, following the discovery of oil there in 185 Now this story may not be true, but it is told an this is the way we "heered" it.

Dr. Silliman came up the coast in a hi drogher which stopped here and there to pi up hides brought to the beach from the ranch of the Spanish Dons. As the ship approached Sa Buenaventura, Dr. Silliman suddenly shouted, smell petroleum," and asked to be set ashor Here he found Mr. Geo. Gilbert, Sr., who wa operating a small oil still about half way b tween Ventura and Ojai, on the Creek road. Th good doctor's sense of smell had not deceive him. On upper Ojai and in that vicinity, he sa acre after acre of brea deposits and "tar springs. Obtaining samples, he sent or took them three eastern laboratories to be tested. All thre reports agreed on the high quality of the oil Dr. Silliman urged Thos. Scott, then Presider of Pennsylvania R. R., to buy up all the Ventu Co. lands he could get hold of, for the purpo of oil development. Through Judge Levi Parsor of San Francisco, Scott managed to buy a nun ber of Spanish grants, in all, some 225,000 acre and sent Thos. R. Bard to California as manag of his properties—which also included some i Northern California. Mr. Bard put down six wel but never found oil equal to the samples procure by Silliman and, about 1868, after spendin $200,000, the Philadelphia Petroleum Co., deci ed to call it a day.

Where did Silliman get his samples of hig gravity oil? Well, the story says that some e terprising Sespe resident got hold of the phial emptied half the crude oil and refilled the with kerosene.

CALIFORNIA IS SHARING ITS HERITAGE WITH THE WORLD

Baby Redwood Trees are being planted all ov the world, because Clarence F. Pratt, a San Fra cisco business man, started giving away sma rooted Redwoods from the Giant Redwood Fo ests of California, with the result that they a now in every State in the Union as well as mar foreign countries. Pratt has given away ov eleven thousand of these baby redwoods to dat and recently one was taken to Denmark b Lawrence Nelson of San Francisco to be plante at an elaborate Fourth of July celebration i honor of a native Dane, Peter Lassen, for whor California's Mt. Lassen County and Park hav been named.

Pratt discovered the popularity of Californ Redwoods when he took 25 rooted baby redwoo trees to a large convention in Chicago. The Ch cago papers began reporting the arrival of th trees, and it seemed like most of Chicago citizer came to his hotel asking for trees. Soon afte Eastern papers and National Magazines wro up Pratt's hobby of giving away redwood tre and to date he has received over 8500 letters fro all over the world. Pratt also has a hobby outdoor lighted Christmas trees and founded th Outdoor Christmas Tree Association of Cal fornia in 1926, its main objects being:

"An outdoor Christmas tree for every Califo nia home;

A lane of a mile or more of outdoor Christm trees for every California city;

To assist in the preservation of forests California."

COMPTON STAGES SAFE AND SANE JULY 4th PICNIC

Editor's Note: Because the article below sent in by E. W. Zuckweiler, recording secretary of Compton Parlor No. 273 NSGW, Los Angeles County, may well give some ideas to Native Sons and Daughters throughout the state for the celebration of Independence Day in the future, we are happy to pass it on to our readers. Brother Zuckweiler is also Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer of the United Veterans Council of Compton.

The United Veterans Council of Compton, the coordinating council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Spanish American War Veterans, the Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion, the Amvets and the Regular Veterans, under the general chairmanship of Harold A. Costiel, this year staged a "Safe and Sane" Citizens picnic at Cressy Park on the 4th of July.

The affair was put on to keep people from driving many hazardous highway miles and enabling them to spend an old-fashioned 4th of July close to home. Getting under way at 9 a. m. with games for small children, which lasted until noon, there was something doing every minute. Concessions were erected in the park, handled by the Women's Auxiliaries, where food and hot coffee could be purchased.

In the afternoon games were played by the teenagers, under the direction of Herman Gleason, member of Compton Parlor and Commander of the Disabled American Veterans. One of the outstanding events of the afternoon was a hard-fought baseball game under the management of Ramon Gonzales of Compton Parlor and City Athletic Supervisor.

In the evening with Postmaster Clark Wallace as master of ceremonies, representatives of the Army and the Navy made addresses appropriate to the occasion, followed by several musical numbers. Several fast boxing matches staged by Harold Gleason enlivened the evening.

The day's celebration was brought to a close with a grand old-fashioned fireworks show enjoyed by approximately 10,000 persons. It is anticipated to make this an annual affair in Compton.

SHERIFF BANS WESTERN HATS ON HIS DEPUTIES

One of the last vestiges of the Old West in San Bernardino County government received a death blow in July.

Considering the source, the Old West was inclined to consider it scarcely less than a stab in the back.

Sheriff's deputies here have always worn ordinary civilian clothes topped invariably with a broad-brimmed western hat. Deputies considered that what was good enough for Wyatt Earp was good enough for them.

None suspected that James W. Stocker, ranged red cattleman and new Sheriff, would be the man to change all that.

"Times change and we'll change with them," said Stocker today in refusing to rescind an order putting his deputies in uniforms. Literally the frowning indignity, say the old-timers, is that a semimilitary cap replaces the old Stetson.

They shake their heads over an old cattleman. If all persons, casting away the hat that's the brand of the range.

SONORA SKETCH BOOK

There is an amazing man located in California's desert south of Indio and north of the Salton Sea. Though he calls himself a "Desert Rat," John Hilton is an author, lecturer, minerologist, artist, photographer, botanist and, I am told by his close friends, also plays a guitar very well especially around a campfire under a desert moon.

Though this is supposedly a book review of "Sonora Sketch Book," to truly enjoy the book one must first understand its author.

John Hilton stopped for a date milk shake at a desert roadside stand a long time ago. His old pick-up truck was loaded with chunks of rock of every color, shape and description. It was hot summer according to Russ Nichols, proprietor of that famed roadside stand known as Valerie Jean's. Both John Hilton and his wheezy car needed a rest.

As he loitered in the shade customers of Valerie Jean's sauntered over and admired the mineral specimens from the desert. So exotic were some of them that they sought out John and bartered for certain of his unusual lapidary display.

It was Russ Nichols who encouraged John Hilton. His mineral collection proved so appealing that his load of rocks sold in a few short days. This seemed to be an ideal spot for a mineralogist and Russ Nichols urged John to obtain a piece of property a few steps across the highway and build his own establishment.

Few there are who travel the desert highway south to the Imperial Valley who have not stopped and enjoyed the wonders of John's place.

Hilton's is not a pretentious establishment. It is a place in the desert and those things on display are "gems" of the desert. From land turtles to strange plants the wonders are there as discovered by John Hilton, the questing explorer.

Perhaps the most startling are the fine paintings that hang in this modest desert gallery. Only those who know and love the desert can adequately appreciate and feel the exquisite coloring of those painted landscapes. Still art connoisseurs do know. At least they pay high in the hundreds of dollars for each of John's canvases.

When General George Patton was training his tank corps in the vast desert east of Coachella across the Chocolate Mountains to the Colorado River, a guide was needed who knew the country and its water holes. It was John Hilton who was selected for the job.

Many there are who have followed the adventures of John Hilton in the Desert Magazine. Many others have read his column in Ed Ainsworth's newspaper, The Desert Barnacle, and his articles appear often in the Los Angeles Times.

Through Hilton's "Sonora Sketch Book" is a personal description of Old Mexico, it was written by a Californian and incidentally for Californians who would better know and understand their neighbors south of the border. This is a land that still carries on the customs of its grandparents. The country is conservative and is slow to make radical changes. They are a friendly lot and are certainly not the brigands that most American tourists picture them.

On the other hand the Mexican citizen views with distaste the loud mouthed Americans who come to his village throwing money away like they were all "loco."

John Hilton understands Mexico. He spent many months in Sonora and the many towns in that area that bounds the Gulf of Lower California. He went there to collect minerals, plants, reptiles and prehistoric bones.

It is a book of adventure. Flora and fauna is accurately displayed. There is the clicking butterfly, the plant of the poinsettia family that is the parent of the Sonora jumping bean, the laughing falcon, Yaqui gold. The stories will thrill and amuse you. There are those that are frightening and customs that are shocking. John Hilton has written them all. And in between freely sprinkled among the written pages are charcoal sketches made on the spot.

He describes the lives of the people and their loves. He writes in that serious-humorous way that only John Hilton can write. Even the menial household tasks he makes interesting. Birth and death are faithfully recorded and in such a way to make the reader himself feel that he has lived among these people and knows them well.

Frankly, we believe Sonora Sketch Book will cement firmer relations between the two Americas.—The MacMillan Company, 333 pages, $5.00.

GEM OF THE EARTH

Many years ago there was found,
A Heaven right here on Earth.
Her gay beauties spread around,
Ever smiling in merry mirth,
In mild Winter, Summer, Spring,
And the fresh glorious Fall,
Forever with her we shall sing,
We love her true wonderous all.
Her warm and gentle Showers,
Blessed by God's divine hand,
Creator of colorful Flowers,
Throughout her fertile Land.
The Moon smiles from above,
Shines forth a special Light,
Tiny Stars twinkle their love,
Till the Sun rises so bright,
On a Pacific Ocean of vivid blue
Crystal Sand upon her Shore,
Vast scenic beauty ever new,
With adventures of Desert lore.
'Tis impossible by word or pen,
To describe this magic place,
Mere words by mere mortal Men,
Justify not her beauty and grace,
Large stat'ly Pines of evergreen,
Kissed by balmy Winds that blow
Pointing to the Heavenly screen,
Mountains are covered with Snow.
Grand Canyons gigantic and deep,
Sage Blossom aroma everywhere,
With her Golden Grain ready to reap,
A true excellence without compare.
Her beauties we'll ever hold dear,
We love her sweet natural frills,
Her wild life the Bear, the Deer,
And nature's kingdom within her Hills.
'Neath in her Valleys of dreams,
Her picturesque Brooks flow along,
As many Fish play in her Streams,
Birds on the wing sing their song.
With a richness of fine aged Wine,
From the historic Golden Gate,
To the friendly Mexican line,
Her charms are artistic great.
When the warm Sun fades in the West,
With flaming hues of red-gold mirth,
As a rare Jewel at its best,
"California," Gem of the Universe.

IN MEMORY OF THE PIONEERS

4 BIG DAYS
OCT. 9, 10, 11, 12

- COVERED WAGON CARAVAN
- HISTORICAL PAGEANT
- PROFESSIONAL RODEO
- HISTORICAL PARADE
- SPECTACLE
- THRILLS
- FIESTA

Woven together in the glorious pageant "Guachama," San Bernardino acts out her history. Featured is the famed Mormon Choir from the Salt Lake Tabernacle. Two performances will be given on October 9th and 11th.

A Mexican fiesta may be enjoyed all day October 10th. Mexican singers and dancers will add charm and color to the "Market Place."

From the past comes the mammoth historical street parade. Communities throughout the county will participate. Floats, bands and mounted horsemen are all included.

For thrills and chills don't miss the big time Rodeo. Four days of entertainment with something doing every minute—that is what is in store for you at San Bernardino. It's fiesta time in the land of plenty, "Guachama."

These Native Sons of the Golden West, Welcome You . . .

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

ADMISSION DAY, September 9, 1872, was celebrated at Vallejo, Solano County, by the Society of California Pioneers with a parade and banquet. The state's birthday anniversary was also appropriately observed in San Francisco and Sacramento by the pioneer societies of those cities.

The annual State Fair opened at Sacramento, September 18, for a ten days' run. There was a gratifying increase in the number of exhibits and stock entries and the attendance was larger than at previous fairs. Racing was a feature; on the closing day two noted eastern mares, "Goldsmith Maid" and "Lucy," trotted for a $10,000 purse, and the event drew an immense crowd; "Goldsmith Maid" won the three mile heats in 2:20, 2:17½, 2:20. During the stock parade on the final day two bulls of rival herds, with a roaring bellow, went into combat and caused great excitement.

The railroad building south, down the coast, reached Salinas, Monterey County, this month.

A new stage line between San Diego and Los Angeles was making the trips in twenty-three hours.

Annis Merrill, 62-year-old San Francisco attorney, ascended to the summit of Mount Shasta this month.

An oil well in Santa Barbara County, bored by a man named Scott, was yielding twenty-five barrels a day, and he was selling the oil at $4 a barrel.

In the hold of the old hulk "Niantic," used on the San Francisco waterfront since the days of '49, was found September 4 a basket of champagne. The find caused considerable excitement among the old residents.

A magnificent bald eagle was killed by L. R. Driscoll near Cloverdale, Sonoma County. It measured seven feet from tip to tip of its wings.

Hiram, the 6-year-old son of Grove L. Johnson, at Sacramento September 29 was accidentally cut over the left eye with a pocket knife by a lad named Nathan, a severe wound resulting. Hiram, however, fully recovered and became California's Governor and United States Senator.

Two men, Jordan and Schmidhouse, at Georgetown, El Dorado County, September 1 got into a quarrel over a game of cards. They left the place where they were playing and outside renewed their quarrel. Schmidhouse finally picked up a rock and, throwing it, struck Jordan on the head, fracturing his skull and causing his death a few hours later.

The reported discovery of gold-bearing quartz near Grizzly Mountain, ten miles from Havilah, Kern County, caused a rush of speculators there. Grizzly Mountain was in a wild and almost inaccessible locality, but the prospectors got there.

Chas. Nordhoff, the author, was this month traveling through the San Joaquin Valley and California South, and, stopping at the town of Havilah, found it had never built a church. The cause thereof was told by the justice of the peace as follows:

"We did make an effort to build a church, but on account of certain condition here did not succeed. My wife and I talked it over. She wanted an Episcopal church and I called a meeting of the respectable people. They voted me into the chair. I asked Mr. Johnson to be a vestryman; he declined. He said he did not think he was a fit man for the place, because he occasionally played bean poker, went to dances, could not resist going to a horse race which generally took place in Havilah on a Sunday, played the fiddle and frequently took a drink at a bar. I informed him that it was not expected to find men absolutely perfect at the present time; that I, too, had some of the predominating characteristics and considered the office of vestryman purely ministerial. But, he couldn't see it in that light. When he backed out, every son-of-a-gun present did so, too, and our effort to build a church fell through. I am sorry for it, for I frankly admit it is an excellent thing to have, not only for the reputation of the town, but our own as well."

A fire in Sutter Creek, Amador County, September 12 destroyed an Italian hotel and several other buildings. A rancher named Frank Morgan, living about a mile away, seeing the blaze, started for town and in the dark fell into an abandoned mining shaft, receiving fatal injuries.

Native Sons and Daughters Have Always Played Important Part in "Old Spanish Days." Here is How It All Began.

Fiesta Time in Santa Barbara

By HAR LAR

JOE LOBERO was big and fat and old. Inhabitants of Santa Barbara still remember how he paraded up and down the streets in his long white linen duster. To the village he was a musician of note, being both organizer and director of his own orchestra. Furthermore, he owned the town's only Opera House. Therefore when the adobe theater crumbled into ruin and it was rebuilt, Santa Barbara's citizens chipped in with a will and many of the city's prominent elite trundled wheelbarrows loaded with debris that the newly erected Opera House might open as scheduled.

That was to be a day of rejoicing. An old time fiesta was planned. What could be more fitting than to call in Charles E. Pressley, formerly associated with the stage, to prepare the script for an outdoor pageant to be held after the parade.

Charley was up on such things. He knew all the angles. A contest for the Fiesta queen was featured and thousands of votes poured in. A whiskerino contest was held and romantic poems were written about gallant caballeros with the little black mustaches. In fact, Charley Pressley, it should be recorded, was the first "high judge" of Santa Barbara's Fiesta Day Kangaroo Court.

El Presidente Sam Stanwood, of Old Spanish Days, whose familiar figure reminds his thousands of friends of the years he has spent in bringing the Fiesta at Santa Barbara to the big place it occupies in the hearts of Californians.

Charles E. Pressley, managing director of "Old Spanish Days in Santa Barbara," has seen this outstanding event grow through the years.

Harry Sweetser, today a seventy-five year resident of Santa Barbara, that year became Vice President of the affair and rode in the parade as Grand Marshal. In those days there were few horses about the city. Harry had a hard time rounding up enough for the parade. Thirty head were owned by a riding stable. It took a bit of palavering and $5.00 a horse rental to induce the proprietor to clean up his steeds suitable to be shown off in a parade. It likewise took some $750.00 to rent costumes from a Los Angeles theatrical agency that the dashing young blades of Spanish days might ride as did the dons of yester year.

The fiesta was based on the historical. It dated back to the Chumash Indians, the first known residents of Santa Barbara Valley. Cabrillo and his crew of soldiers and sailors were scheduled to reenact their first visit to the California shores. To make it realistic a sailing vessel, the "Sea Hawk," was purchased from a Hollywood movie studio. The old galleon was to be towed to the foot of State street that Cabrillo and his doughty crew of intrepid Spaniards might make a proper and heroic entry.

Parade time came and went. Those who watched the sea reported the galleon not in sight. In fact oceanward very little could be seen. Santa Barbarans may not appreciate the fact, but the weather was unusual. A fog blanketed the vast Pacific. Parade president Pressley, fearing that plans were going fast awry, boarded a launch and went in search.

Down the coast they traveled more or less south. Out of a wet grey blanket came two weak toots. Like a ghost from the past the old gallean loomed. Pressley shouted to the tug skipper to follow them in. Their grand entrance was made with no more mishaps. Cabrillo's soldiers manned the long boats and amid the applause of Santa Barbara's holiday crowd, history was reenacted.

The first theater performance staged at the Lobero theater was not exactly in keeping with early Spanish festivities. On the other hand to those who engineered the fiesta, rented the horses and footed the bills, the play was strangely appropriate. The name of that show playing in the new Lobero Theater was "The Beggar on Horseback."

From the very beginning the Santa Barbara Fiesta proved a success. Newspapers across the land heralded the event. Gasoline and railroad concerns provided free advertising. People arrived from all over out nation to enjoy the pageant.

Harry Sweetser of Santa Barbara, loved by Native Sons and Daughters throughout the State for his un-dying devotion to his native California. For many years he has played a prominent part in the Santa Barbara Fiesta, and this year was no exception. Harry rode his horse as usual.

From a thirty horse rented affair the parade now attracts a thousand of the finest saddle animals in the world. Eugene Biscalluz, sheriff of Los Angeles County, and his newly formed posse rode in an early Santa Barbara parade and they have been riding ever since. From a horse drawn home made vehicle the floats have become great colorful affairs, each depicting a period in Santa Barbara's history.

Back in 1887 the first train puffed into Santa Barbara over the Southern Pacific. In 1929 the Fiesta committee had secured that famous locomotive. Bag and baggage they brought it to Santa Barbara where it once again chugged its historic way as it did some forty-two years ago.

Today three Native Sons of the Golden West head "Old Spanish Days in Santa Barbara." Sam J. Stanwood became fiesta chairman back in 1927. Owen O'Neill and Harry Sweetser are vice presidents. Joe D. Paxton is treasurer and Charles Pressley is both secretary and managing director. All five, together with T. Wilson Dibblee, John Mitchell, Dwight Murphy, Silsby M. Spaulding and J. M. Ruthorford, make up the Executive Committee. For the first time in twenty years Sam Stanwood has had little or no part in this year's gala event. Sam suffered seriously in an auto accident. Owen O'Neill is pinch hitting in his stead.

Horses are still giving the Fiesta chaps trouble. Though not beautiful saddle horses, they are as equally indispensable. This year it was the big draft horses that were needed. Native Son Clarence E. Lambert had the job of rounding up the Percherons and Belgiums that hauled the mammoth floats in the historical parade. These half ton hay burners are rounded up and trucked in from the ranches for forty miles around.

Gone are the kangaroo coutts, picking of Queen Santa Barbara and the whiskerinos. Somehow Santa Barbara feels that such things are not befitting the dignity of Spanish dons and donnas. Instead these descendants of early California pioneers wear the gay colorful garb of their ancestors.

Amid this three day revelry of street parade, dancing, traveling musicians and nine act historical stage extravaganza, a part of California's glorious past lives again.

Southern Counties Committee Plans For Dance Fiesta

The Southern Counties Committee on Homeless Children have an ambitious schedule planned in order to raise the much needed funds that we must have in order to continue our work. The following are planned in the order named and each promises to be well attended. On November the twenty-second, which is a Saturday night, at the Embassy Theatre at Ninth and Grand Ave., Los Angeles, there will be held a dance Fiesta by a group of semi-professionals from one of the better dance schools. The Trini Goni group specializes in the interpretation of the Spanish and Mexican dances. These artists are from six years old to twenty-six. It will be a variety show and provide excellent entertainment. Remember to purchase a ticket and attend as all the profits go to our Homeless Children, these artists are donating their time and service to help us.

On Friday night, December 5th, there will be held at the Woman's Catholic Club, 1041 South Menlo Ave., Los Angeles, an illustrated lecture by Father Eric O'Brien of the Santa Barbara Mission and also a member of Santa Barbara Parlor Native Sons. This very gifted Father will speak of his work in connection with his research work that has now covered several years and led him through the primitive parts of Mexico, Spain, Portugal and the Island of Malorca in behalf of his assigned task of gathering material and data and cataloging same in an effort to seek to cannonize Father Fra Junipero Serra, beloved of all early California priests. All students of California history should plan to attend this lecture. There will not be an admission charge to hear Father O'Brien but a free will offering will be taken up and all collections will go to our Homeless Children.

FOUR FLAGS FLY AGAIN OVER SAN DIEGO

In commemoration of the 101st anniversary of the raising of the American flag over San Diego, about 300 persons last month witnessed the symbolic flying of four flags that have flown over the city.

Albert H. Smith, 94, whose father, Albert Smith, on or about Nov. 22, 1846, replaced, under fire, the Stars and Stripes to the Old Town flagpole, took part in the ceremony. Smith helped to raise the modern flag, that of the USS San Diego, which led the way of the American fleet into Yokohama.

DeGraff Austin, chairman of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors, was master of ceremonies, introducing the speakers. The Rev. Father Laner, OFM, of the Immaculate Conception Church, Old Town, made the invocation. Benediction was made by Dr. Joseph Fox, of the Old San Diego Community Church.

The speakers were Dr. A. P. Nasitir, State College professor, who spoke on California under Spanish and Mexican rule; Mrs. Frances Crawford, who outlined the history of the California Republic, and Mrs. Emily Welch, who traced the story of "Old Glory."

Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Welch are both past presidents of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The Marine Corps Base Band's numbers included "The Star Spangled Banner" and "I Love You, California," and national anthems of Mexico and Spain.

San Bernardino will re-live her colorful pioneer days when the covered wagons come into town for the big parade Saturday morning, October 11, as this street scene testifies. Another big feature of the celebration will be the presentation of the pageant "Guachama," Thursday evening, October 9, and Saturday evening, October 11.

Covered Wagon Days.

San Bernardino City and County will re-live again the stirring day of its historical past in a mammoth four-day celebration, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, October 9, 10, 11, 11. Assisting will be members of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, Native Sons of the Golden West and Lugonia Parlor No. 241, Native Daughters.

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

SAN BERNARDINO will re-live again the colorful days of the past with its "Covered Wagon Days" celebration Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Otcober 9, 10, 11, 12, when members of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110, Native Sons of the Golden West, and Lugonia Parlor No. 241, Native Daughters, join forces with other civic organiations to put on the mammoth four-day event.

"Covered Wagon Days" at San Bernardion is composed of four major events, beginning with a historical pageant "Guachama"—Land of Plenty, on Thursday evening, October 9. Under the direction of Charles E. Pressley, known throughout California for his work with the Santa Barbara Fiesta. The pageant will again be presented on Saturday evening, October 11, in the beautiful outdoor amphitheatre especially designed for the occasion with a seating capacity for 12,000 people.

Featured in "Guachama" this year, adding an authentic touch to San Bernardino's early-day history, will be the famous Salt Lake City Tabernacle Choir of 350 voices, directed by J. Spencer Cornwall with Alexander Shreiner and Dr. Frank W. Asper as organists. Of interest to all Californians is the news that the Salt Lake City Tabernacle Choir's regular Sunday morning CBS Nationwide Broadcast will be released as usual October 12, but will come from San Bernardino.

Friday, October 10, will feature an all-day Spanish Fiesta with typical Mexican-Spanish festivities, complete with strolling Mexican serenaders and all that goes with such a colorful event.

The big parade Saturday morning, October 11, will attract thousands of spectators from all parts of the state. Composed of spectacular entries from far and near, it will record the history of San Bernardino County from the days when the Indians held domain over this fair land, on down through the years to the present time.

In the colorful Spanish-Mexican era will be depicted Pedro Fages, military commander of California, who, on foot with a cortege of soldiers, preceded by a few Indian guides, in 1772 came from San Diego to the vicinity of Riverside, through San Bernardino Valley and mountains to the Mojave Desert and thence via San Joaquin Valley and Mission San Luis Obispo on the coast to Monterey.

The intrepid Juan Bautista de Anza, who, with a small band of soldiers and padres, in 1774 blazed a trail overland from Sonora to California, will ride again.

Father Francisco Garces, Franciscan Missionary, one of the greatest of early-day explorers, will be represented. Father Garces, on foot with Indian guides, in 1776 crossed the Mojave over the old Mojave Trail from a point north of Needles on the Colorado River, into the San Bernardino Mountains, going up Sawpit Canyon to the summit, where a monument to him was erected in 1931, and down by the ridge lying west of Devil Canyon, thence via the northwest corner of the valley to Mission San Gabriel.

There will also be a scene showing Fray Francisco Dumetz and his party of soldiers and Indian neophites from Mission San Gabriel, worshipping on May 10, 1810, in a capilla of brush and poles with Chief Solano and some of his Cahuilla Indians looking on.

Other entries will depict the digging of the irrigation ditch (zanja) from Mill Creek through Crafton and Redlands to Guachama Rancho, under Spanish superevision, and the results of that early-day work. Reviewed will be the second trip of Jedediah Stronog Smith to the Valley in 1827, together with his American trappers; the burning of the Asistencia of San Bernardino in 1834; the rancheria period of 1838-1847, with bands of Mojaves, Piutes, Chief Wak and his Utahs and some Rocky Mountain men in trapper's costume raiding stock.

Jose del Carmen Lugo on horseback surveying his lands, accompanied by Diego Supulveda, will be seen. Then, too, there will be Don Tiburcio Tapia, a former prefect of Los Angeles, owner of the Cucamonga Grant, together with his wine presses.

The Mormon Battalion will again come to San Bernardino and a parade entry will show the loading on a wagon for transport to Fort Moore, Los Angeles, a flag pole cut in the San Bernardino Mountains in 1847.

The colonization of San Bernardino by the Mormons beginning with the arrival June 9, 1851, of Elders Lyman and Rich, Parley Pratt and his Missionaries, will be told in detail. There will be a replica of Fort San Bernardino, a Mormon saw mill or flour mill. The recall of the Mormons will be recounted, as will the historical days that followed in San Bernardino Valley leading up to the present time.

On Saturday afternoon, October 11, a real western rodeo, produced by a famous California promoter, will be presented. There will be thrills a plenty for young and old Californians alike, with calf roping, bareback riding, bronco busting, bull dogging, Brahma bulls, team roping, trick riders and ropers. This same big show will again be presented on Sunday afternoon, October 12.

In addition, during "Covered Wagon Days," there will be an archery contest, a cap and ball pistol and rifle shoot, held on the down-town streets and parking lots of the city.

A traveling vaudeville show, stage and all, will be hauled about town, giving three or four acts of impromptu entertainment on demand. Behind old dobbin in the "surrey with the fringe on top" four gentlemen in peg-legged pants will jog leisurely along San Bernardino streets, singing songs of yesteryear.

A pre-celebration touch of the early west will be given the affair when Pony Express Riders go out from San Bernardino carrying proclamations to the mayors of cities as far away as Banning, Corona and Pomona, inviting them and their citizens to the big four-day event. These proclamations will be in Spanish Scroll on parchment and will be received by the mayors of the various cities in ceremonies conducted at their city halls.

Pony Express Riders will go out from San Bernardino, carrying Spanish Scrolls on parchment, inviting citizens of Southern California cities to attend the four-day "Covered Wagon Days" celebration.

Dedicate Highway Markers In Tuolumne County

The State Highway markers marking the way to Columbia State Park and Mark Twain's Cabin in Tuolumne County, were appropriately dedicated by the Honorable J. R. Knowland on Sunday, August 10th under the auspices of Tuolumne County Gold Centennial Celebration Committee. The ceremonies were held at the monument in the attached picture on 49 Highway, about one and one-half miles from Sonora, on the Sonora side of the branch road to Columbia. The dedication included this Columbia marker, one other Columbia marker on the same highway on the other side of the branch road to Columbia, and two markers on the 49 Highway, one on each side of the branch road to Mark Twain's Cabin.

The erection of these highway markers pointing the way to historic landmarks off the highways is part of a state-wide program of the state-wide Centennial Celebration Committee of the State Chamber of Commerce.

R. W. Miller, Chairman, Tuolumne County Gold Centennial Celebration Committee and Supervising Deputy Grand President, NSGW, from Sonora.

J. R. Knowland, Chairman of State-wide Centennial Committee, State Chamber of Commerce, and Chairman of Grand Parlor Landmarks Committee, NSGW, from Oakland.

Miss Doris Treat, Grand President, NDGW, from Alameda.

Dr. J. E. McConnell, President of Columbia Historic Park Association from Columbia.

Harry J. Cain, First Vice President, Tuolumne Parlor No. 144, NSGW, from Sonora.

Dean Rockwell D. Hunt at College of the Pacific

Rockwell D. Hunt, Ramona No. 109, Dean Emeritus of the Graduate School, University of Southern California, well known to readers of the Grizzly Bear for his articles on early California, has accepted the invitation of President Robert E. Burns to become a "free-lance" visiting professor of California history in the College of the Pacific, located at Stockton.

The noted educator and author, who retired from active duty at U. S. C. two years ago, returns to his Alma Mater. He received his first college degree from Napa College (later merged into College of the Pacific) in 1890; his master of arts degree in 1892; the Hon. LL.D. in 1932 from College of the Pacific.

Dr. Hunt says: "I expect to conduct a graduate Seminar in the American Period of California history, but shall not teach regular college classes. I shall continue my studies and my writing, and shall give occasional lectures and addresses before clubs, societies, and educational institutions. Special emphasis will be laid upon the Centennial Years 1948, 1949 and 1950. It is the purpose of the College administration to develop this field extensively and to build up one of the finest collections of California in the state. It is to be my privilege to assist in this important work."

Dr. Hunt has long been a member of the Los Angeles Friday Noon Luncheon club of the Native Sons, whose members recently honored him at their weekly luncheon meeting. The best wishes of every Native Son and Daughter go with him to the College of the Pacific in his chosen work. We hope that he will find time to contribute articles to the Grizzly Bear as he has done for many years past.

Admission Day Fete Is Huge Success

This issue of the Grizzly Bear went to press too early to give a detailed account of California's 97th Admission Day celebration in Long Beach, Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, September 6, 7, 8 and 9. However, Native Sons and Daughters from all over the state turned out in force. An estimated crowd of 250,000 persons witnessed the big parade which climaxed the four-day celebration on Admission Day.

Modesto Parlor Commemorates Admission Day With Program

Modesto Parlor No. 11, NSGW, is taking a very active part in creating general public interest and the promoting of the celebrations for the centennial years of 1948, 1949 and 1950. The following members of the Parlor are serving on the Stanislaus County Centennials Committee: Leo Hammett, General Chairman (also Chairman of the County Board of Supervisors), Bud David, 1st Vice Chairman of the General Committee; Ed Whitmore, Chairman of the Finance Division and Treasurer of the General Committee. Serving with him are Roscoe Service, Kennan Beard and Charles Whitmore; Charles Blaine, Chairman of the Historical Division (also Grand Parlor Committeeman for Stanislaus County); Oren Elmore, (Modesto Parlor President) is on the Landmarks Committee and Wayne Baldridge is on the Planning Committee. Hammett, David, Whitmore (Ed) and Blaine are members of the Executive Board of the General Committee.

A "Catfish Fry" was the attraction on August 20th with Chuck Boring, Bud David, Walter Crow, Herbert Paul, Carl Lewis and Myron Moyle catching and frying the fish.

Recent Bride Honored By Native Daughters

Members of Calistoga Parlor No. 145, Calistoga, held a brief business meeting recently with their newly installed officers in the chairs, and then devoted the rest of the evening to holding a reception for the parlor's newest bride, Grand Trustee Edith Cavagnaro Campaglia, married at Saint Peter and Saint Paul's Church in San Francisco Saturday, July 26.

The honoree was presented with a beautiful silver tray and gifts from the parlor. The hall and tables were decorated with bright zinnias and marigolds.

Refreshments were served and a special cake made for Mrs. Campaglia by President Dorothy McClaine was presented to her.

OUR COVER

The cover picture is a characteristic study taken of lily pond in City Park, Anaheim. The citizens are justly proud of their City Park which is renowned for its superb landscaping and for its utility as a recreational facility.

Its well-equipped picnic grounds are enjoyed by tens of thousands of visitors each year.

Stately palms, cactus garden, exotic flowering, semi-tropical trees, serene lily ponds and hundreds of species of rare flowers contribute to the sheer beauty of this park. Recreational facilities, including a commodious, well regulated plunge, children's playground, shuffle board, tennis courts, softball diamond, all of which add to the attractiveness of this popular, hospitable area of play, recreation and diversion.

Native Sons

Grand President's Notes

By Walter H. Odemar
Grand President, NSGW

This is being written in old Santa Barbara during its annual "Old Spanish Days." What a beautiful and delightful Fiesta! Most everyone is appropriately dressed in the costume of those who lived in California a hundred and more years ago. And the hospitality is that of old California.

The Grand President of the Native Sons desired to ride a horse in the parade, as many Grand Presidents did years ago, but he doesn't own a horse. That didn't phase the Committee one bit. Dear old brother Harry Sweetser, one of the vice-presidents of the celebration, borrowed a horse from Mrs. T. B. Dalzell of Montecito and a silver mounted saddle and bridle from Jack Mitchell, and I rode.

Such is the hospitality in this beautiful old city and the spirit of Old Fiesta Days, arranged and presided over in the main, by members of the Natice Sons and the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

The itinerary of the Grand Officers, as published in the "Corner" a few weeks ago, has only a few changes as of the date of this writing. Fresno Parlor No. 25 will provide a class of candidates for initiation Saturday, Sept. 20.

The marking of the grave site of Wm. B. Ide in Colusa County has been postponed from Sept. 21 to a date to be announced later. The initiation on Thursday, October 2, will be at Gabilan Parlor No. 132, Castroville, rather than at Santa Lucia No. 97 in Salinas.

I wish to announce the appointment of Willard F. Jones of Los Ranchos Parlor No. 283 as Deputy Grand President to Coachella Valley Parlor No. 288; Westly Beach of Santa Rosa Parlor No. 28 as Deputy to his own Parlor and to Sebastopol Parlor No. 148. Emmett Chapman of Pacific Parlor No. 10 is appointed as Deputy Grand President at Large and Richard M. Hamb of Piedmont Parlor No. 120 to the State Board of Relief.

All Native Sons and Daughters are urged to stop at the Native Sons Beach Club when visiting Santa Barbara and see what a splendid meeting hall Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 has recently procured. I wish many more of our Parlors could acquire something similar and it could be done if someone with a little imagination and a willingness to work would take hold. The building here in Santa Barbara is a credit to any organization and Grand Trustee Tom McDermott and his committee deserve the sincerest of congratulations.

Stanford No. 76 Holds Barbecue at Adobe Lodge

Stanford Parlor No. 76, San Francisco, held a barbecue Saturday evening, August 23, followed by dancing at the Adobe Creek Lodge on Moody Road near Los Altos, Santa Clara County. Adobe Creek Lodge, a former estate, at this time of the year is beautiful in its radiant and magnificent splendor. There is a lawn covering almost the entire place with exquisite flower beds scattered throughout. A fine outdoor swimming pool and a large circular dance floor make this an ideal setting for an occasion of this sort, with the boys from Stanford Parlor, their families and friends making the most of the evening. The barbecue was held in a tall grove of oaks, with steaks, salad, beans, coffee, soda water and everything to make the affair a success.

Modesto Parlor to Help Promote Centennials

Open house for all Native Sons, their families and friends, was held Wednesday evening, September 3, by Modesto Parlor No. 11, in commemoration of Admission Day. Assemblyman Ralph Brown was the speaker of the evening bringing an appropriate message. Singing, music and dancing were the order of the evening with Modesto Parlor's own orchestra contributing much to the success of the program. In charge of the affair were Kennan Beard, Manuel Lopez, Volney Willson, Dwayne Lilly and Bud David.

Santa Ana Parlor Changes Place of Meeting

Santa Ana Parlor No. 265, Orange County, has changed its meeting place from the VFW Hall to the Club House in the Civic Center on 8th Street, west of Flower. First meeting held in the new quarters was Monday evening, September 15, when the Parlor served a free dinner to prospective members. The affair, which featured entertainment, served as a get-acquainted social for old and new members, as well as giving prospects an insight into what Native Sons stand for, and marked the start of the Santa Ana Parlor's new membership drive.

Long Beach Parlor Honors Past President Lynes

Long Beach Parlor No. 278 honored Past President Gary Lynes, chairman of the Admission Celebration Committee, Wednesday evening, September 3, with a class initiation. Speaker of the evening was William S. Grant, a Native Son member of the state legislature.

Gary Lynes leaves Long Beach this fall to become vice principal of the Barstow Union High School in San Bernardino County.

Father of Native Sons Called

Earl F. Van Luven, 86, father of Jed Van Luven, San Luis Rey Parlor No. 300 and Donald E. Van Luven, Arrowhead No. 110, passed away on August 13. A native of Ontario, Canada, he had been engaged in the mercantile and citrus industry in Colton, San Bernardino County, for the past 60 years. Interment was in Hermosa Cemetery, Colton.

General Assembly of Past Presidents Ass'n Scheduled

The following communication has been received from John T. Regan, Secretary-Treasurer General of the General Assembly, Past Presidents Association, Native Sons of the Golden West:

"Please be advised that the 27th session of the General Assembly of the Past Presidents' Association will be held under the auspices of East Bay Counties Assembly No. 3 in Odd Fellows Building, 11th and Franklin Streets (third floor), Oakland, California, on Saturday afternoon, October 18, 1947, at two o'clock.

"Delegates shall be elected in the month of September. Assemblies are entitled to delegates as follows: The Governor, Junior Past Governor and one delegate for each twenty-five or fraction of twenty-five members in excess of fifteen members. As soon as the election of delegates takes place send the names and addresses to this office on the enclosed form. All Past Governors General, all Past Grand Presidents NSGW and the Junior Past Grand President, Grand President and Grand Vice-Presidents NSGW are ex-officio members of the General Assembly.

"The annual reports of Subordinate Assemblies for the year July 1, 1946-June 31, 1947, are past due. The secretaries that have not forwarded the same are requested to do so as soon as possible so that I may prepare a complete report to the General Assembly.

The 16th session of the General Assembly adopted Resolution No. 1, which reads: 'That the secretary of each Assembly file with the Secretary-Treasurer General a complete roster of the membership on the first day of July of each year.'

"In keeping with this provision I will thank you to forward at your earliest convenience, a list of all members with date of entrance into the Past Presidents' Association, as well as date and place of birth."

Grand Trustee Web Nolan To Revive Quincy Parlor

Quincy Parlor No. 131, Plumas County, of the Native Sons of the Golden West, which surrendered its charter in May, 1945, is soon to be reborn, in token of the 100th anniversary of the discovery of gold and other California centennial celebrations in the years immediately ahead, Grand Trustee Webster K. Nolan recently announced followinig a visit there.

"We want all the former members and a flock of new ones," Nolan said. "Many fine lads have returned from the battle fronts and, all over California, are joining the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West. The time is also appropriate because of the Centennial years. It was most regrettable that a Parlor like Quincy No. 131 with the rare distinction of having had a grand president of the Order, in the person of the late Judge C. E. McLaughlin, should surrender its charter on the eve of California's most colorful anniversaries. As there were about 30 members of the Parlor at time of dissolution and only 50 signatures are required to obtain a charter from the Grand Parlor, it should not be too difficult a matter to submit the charter application speedily.

"I am asking Attorney William M. Macmillan, who was president of the Parlor at its demise, to undertake leadership in bringing about reinstitution of Quincy No. 131."

Grand Trustee Nolan was accompanied to Quincy by Waldo F. Postel, former grand trustee of NSGW.

Members of Huntington Park Parlor Enjoy Spanish Dinner

Members of Huntington Park Parlor No. 294, their wives and friends, met Saturday evening, August 23, in the early California patio at the home of Clyde Harry Davis, district deputy, for a Spanish dinner. A typical early California dinner was served featuring chili con carne as the main dish. Dancing followed.

The committee planning the affair consisted of the host, Clyde Harry Davis, Al Mount, Vernon Wallin, Gerald McGowan, Robert Carbouell and Steve Troucole, assisted by their wives.

Montebello to Hold Pioneer Daze Event

Montebello, Los Angeles County, home of Montebello Parlor, Native Sons, and East Los Angeles Parlor, Native Daughters, will hold its Pioneer Daze Festival September 27-28. One of the highlights will be a big parade at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, September 27.

MILLERICK RANCH RODEO IS SPONSORED BY SONOMA BOYS

One of the most successful events in recent years was the Millerick Ranch Rodeo Sunday, August 17, at the Millerick Ranch, Schellville, sponsored by Sonoma Parlor No. 111, Native Sons of the Golden West.

A large crowd thrilled to all the exciting events that go with a real western rodeo. It was a fast moving show in a setting which is a real western ranch, not a stadium arena or auditorium. The cowboys were at home on the Millerick Ranch and the critters that they rode went the limit in their tantalizing efforts to unseat the riders and buck to heaven and back.

The Brahma bulls evened up some old scores with the Millerick outfit. It was a great day, with cowboys, horsemen and lovers of the western sport riding down the old trails from Napa, Lake, Mendocino, Marin and Sonoma counties to the ranch.

Sonoma Parlor did a good job in reviving and sponsoring Sonoma's pioneer rodeo.

San Diego Parlor Members Hear Noted Engineer

William C. Heath, chief engineer for Solar Aircraft Corp., was the featured speaker at a family night meeting of San Diego Parlor No. 108, NSGW, Wednesday evening, August 20, giving an illustrated lecture on "My Observations in Europe." Mr. Heath represented the United States Government at the Jet and Turbin Conference held in London, England. He traveled through England, Sweden, Norway, Holland, France and Germany gaining first hand information on conditions. The program was arranged by President James N. Willits.

The San Diego Parlor Bowling Team is going in high gear as their standiing near the top of the league testifies. The team members have new shirts which really distinguish the San Diego boys. George Walsh is chairman of this phase of the Parlor's activities.

Pacific Parlor Plans For Its Annual Family Picnic

Annual outing of Pacific Parlor No. 10, San Francisco, will be held Sunday, September 28, at La Honda Park. Every member of the Parlor is asked to set aside this date and to bring his family. For those who do not have transportation, plans are being made to charter a bus or buses.

Pacific Parlor has already entered a team in the recently organized San Francisco Native Son Bowling League. Chairman of the Athletic Committee is Ray Trathen.

Whittier Parlor Has Active Bowlinig Team

One of the Order's newest Parlors, Whittier No. 297, Los Angeles County, is in pitching with a live wire bowling team. The fact that many of the younger Parlors are coming out with bowling teams, softball teams and are taking part in other sports contests should serve as an inspiration to some of the longer organized parlors that do little but meet for routine Parlor sessions.

Bowling League Gets Under Way In San Francisco

San Francisco Parlors held a joint meeting recently to make plans for a Bowling League scheduled to start September 19. The tournament will run for a period of 28 weeks.

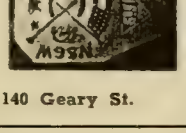
D. J. Morrison Called to Grand Parlor on High

David J. Morrison, 82 year old Native of San Francisco and owner of the D. J. Morrison Mortuary, died August 19 following a brief illness.

For sixty years he was a member of Mission Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, and also belonged to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Woodmen of the World and Show Folks of America.



LETTERS to the EDITOR

There was a rather bad lino-typographical error in my story, "Pushed Around by Progress" in the August issue, and I would appreciate a note of correction, as it might appear that I didn' know what I was writing about. The third paragraph of the 2nd column, page 16, reads that Senator Broderick was killed in a pistol duel with Justice D. Baker. It should read: "Broderick, killed in a pistol duel with Justice David S. Terry of the California Supreme Court. Colonel Edward D. Baker, who introduced Lincoln—" etc. It was simply a case where the linotype operator skipped a line.

Sincerely
NELL MURBARGER.

Native Daughters

Grand President's MESSAGE

With the 97th Anniversary of the Admission of California to Statehood, we are reminded of the historic events of nearly a century ago that led up to the discovery of gold, the westward tide of migration, and the constitutional convention at Monterey. Then, with the end of the frontier period, came the phenomenal development in agriculture, industry, commerce and every other aspect of human achievement, including contributions to education, science, literature and art, placing California in its present position of importance in the Nation.

Commemorating the admission of California into the Union, stands a monument in San Francisco at Market and Mason Streets, presented by Senator James D. Phelan, and on the base is carved the prophetic sentence: "The unity of our Empire hangs on the decision of this day"—uttered by far-seeing Senator William H. Seward on the floor of the United State Senate during the heated debate preceding the signing by President Millard Fillmore of the bill admitting the Golden State into the Union.

As California grows, its history grows with it—the part this State has taken in the winning of wars—its gold that helped win the Civil War, the ships and men that worked in World War I, and the planes, products and manpower, and womanpower too, in the fiercer struggle of World War II—all are fulfillment of that prophecy of Senator Seward.

Centennial celebrations call attention to our pioneer histotry and its relationship to our State's present greatness. Native Sons and Native Daughters, proud of our heritage, have a distinct duty and an opportunity now to work for California's continued progress and glory.

Sincerely yours,
DORIS TREAT,
Grand President, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Morada Parlor Goes On The Air

A team of three members from Morada Parlor No. 199, Modesto, appeared on a quiz program Put 'N Take over KGDM, Stockton, and were declared winners four times in succession, appearing Thursday night of each week in July. The final contest was with the champion group from the California Highway Patrol on July 31, the Native Daughters losing this match, but made a very good showing. The money is to be used for Homeless Children and local charities. Participating were Ethel Enos, captain, Gerry Sciarini, Murvey Ogden and as alternate, Della Woodbridge.

The Centennial Committee members have been attending the various meetings of the Stanislaus County Celebration Comomittee. The working outline of plans for a program, presented by the Modesto Parlor No. 11, Native Sons of the Golden West, was endorsed by the members of Morada Parlor, and also accepted by the county committee.

Recent open installation of Lydia Rinehart as president of Fresno Parlor No. 187 was one of the outstanding meetings of the year with over 80 members and guests present.

Marinita Parlor Hears Interesting Speaker

At a recent meeting held by the NDGW, Marinita Parlor No. 198, San Rafael, a very interesting speaker, Mr. James Head from the Guide Dogs for the Blind was heard. Mr. Head explained about the school, the dogs, how the dogs were trained, etc. After speakinig, an open discussion was held and many questions were asked of Mr. Head .

The meeting was presided over by President Ann Martignoli.

Gay Nineties Revue Staged At San Francisco

The recent merging of Linda Rosa Parlor with Buena Vista Parlor No. 68 was celebrated with a reception to Linda Rosa Parlor and a "Gay Nineties" party honoring the Past Presidents of both parlors. Thirty-nine members from Linda Rosa attended and were heartily received by the members of Buena Vista Parlor.

Past President Myrtle Ritterbush was chairman of the evening and provided a good show of songs and dances of the gay nineties including a strip tease (how many clothes can one person get on?) which was amusing and laugh provoking.

Doris Treat Honored Guest At San Francisco

Fremont Parlor No. 59, San Francisco, and Las Lomas Parlor No. 73, San Francisco, Native Daughters of the Golden West held the first official visit of their Grand President, Doris Treat of Calveras County, in the City and County of San Francisco, Tuesday evening, September 2, 1947 at the Native Daughters Home.

A colorful room of the Native Daughters colors greeted the visitors; a special escort formed by the Deputies was one of the highlights of the evening and refreshments were served in the beautiful candlelit dining room of the Home.

Ruth Trousdale of Fremont Parlor, Grand Inside Sentinel was chairman for Fremont Parlor; Emily Ryan, Past Grand President of Las Lomas Parlor was their chairman.

Conchita Parlor No. 294, Newport-Balboa, Orange County, one of the newest Native Daughter parlors, won first prize with the above float in the Tournament of Lights Parade, Newport Harbor, August 16. As a result the parlor received much favorable publicity in newspapers of the entire area, including metropolitan Los Angeles. Grand President Honored At Etna

The joint meeting of Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112, of Etna and Mountains Dawn Parlor, No. 120, of Sawyers held annually in Etna to welcome the Worthy Grand President is always looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation by the members of both parlors.

The meeting held Friday evening, August 22, was an exceptionally enjoyable affair, when Doris Treat, Worthy Grand President, paid her official visit to both parlors.

Miss Treat was accompanied by Miss Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary.

The evening's ceremonies were preceded by a delicious covered dish dinner.

The banquet tables were attractively decorated with summer flowers and lighted tapers carrying out the colors of the Order.

During the evening six candidates were initiated into the two parlors.

East Los Angeles Officers Installed

East Los Angeles Parlor, Montebello, installed their new officers for the coming year in July. Newly installed president was Castenia Cripe.

The homeless children department, under the guidance of Imogene Bonser, reported a grand record for the year, having three children adopted and raised $600.00.

Outgoing president, Edna Restovich, was given a lovely gift, and then refreshments were served.

All in all, East Los Angeles Parlor reports a marvelous year.

Ramona Parlor Holds Formal Installation

Mrs. Lila Barros was installed president, succeeding Julia Venera at a recent impressive installation ceremony that Ramona Parlor NDGW Hanford, held.

The formal occasion was held at the Veterans' Memorial Hall.

Preceding the meeting was an open Flag Drill by the team under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Ferguson. An escort team assisted in the installation of the new president which was also under the direction of Mrs. Ferguson.

Out of town visitors included Fresno Parlor No. 187, Veritas Parlor 75, Merced, and Los Flores Parlor.

State President Calls On State Secretary

State President Ann M. Beach, General Association of Past Presidents, was the luncheon guest of State Secretary Madeline C. King at her summer home at Guernewood Park, Sonoma County, recently. State President Beach will officially visit Association No. 9, San Mateo County, on September 18, and Association No. 14, Shasta County, on September 25, Association No. 15, Fresno County, on October 1, and Association No. 8, San Joaquin, Stanislaus Counties, on October 9.

Five Members Receive Twenty-Five Year Pins

They were Mrs. Mary Hanse, Mrs. Lillie Laughlin, Mrs. Neva McMahon, Elizabeth McGrath and Mrs. Helen Turner. In October of 1948 Mrs. Helen Turner will be a member for 50 years.

Joint Installation Held In San Jose

Joint installation of officers of Observatory Parlor, No. 177 NSGW and Vendome Parlor No. 100 NDGW, took place July 23, at the Eagles Hall on North Third Street, San Jose. The impressive service was met with a capacity house of members and friends from the entire peninsula.

The evening's program was presided over by Dr. Margery Kneass, of Vendome Parlor which included an inspiring talk by Deputy District Attorney Allan Pete Lindsay, entitled, "I Am the United States."

Albert Kayser was honored with the presentation of a Life Membership in Observatory Parlor, the first ever presented by that Parlor. Mr. H. Irving Lee made the presentation in a very appreciative manner for the 38 years of consecutive service as treaesurer of Observatory Parlor.

San Francisco Junior Unit Installs Officers For Team

Under the direction of Advisors Mesdames Constance Warshaw of Mission Parlor, Orinda G. Giannini, PGP of Orinda Parlor and Emily E. Ryan, PGP, of Las Lomas Parlor, the San Francisco Junior Native Daughters of the Golden West Unit No. 6, publicly installed their officers on Wednesday evening, August 20, 1947 in the Native Daughter Home. Retiring Junior Past President Florence Rodrivues was the Installing Officer. Miss Milly Whalen was seated as President for the term and included among her staff of officers are Connie Callin, Past President; Theresa Schiele, Vice-President; Betty Anne Nelson, Marshal; Dian Nau, Sentinel; Audrey Taylor, Secretary; Clarice Love, Treasurer; Jacklyn Davis, Organist; Mary Lou Kaulman, Joan O'Rourke and Debby Mendelevitch, Trustees.

Junior Native Daughter Units are sponsored by the NDGW, throughout the state and membership is open to California born young women of teen age and have as their objective the cultural development of the youth of the state. Grand President Doris Treat has just re-appointed PGP Evelyn I. Carlson of Menlo Park, State Chairman of the Junior Native Daughter Units. State Chairman Carlson hopes that the members of the NDGW throughout the entire state will give serious consideration toward the establishing of Junior Units in districts where the Junior groups are not now active. Only through the development of our youth can we expect the growth and educational background of our juniors to become desired high type members of the Order.

Contest To Select Girl Of The Golden West

Contest to select the "Girl of the Golden West" and her attendants to ride on the Tournament of Roses float of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, New Year's Day at Pasadena, got under way this month with the mailing of detailed rules and regulations, together with entry blanks to all Supervising District Deputy Grand Presidents, Native Sons of the Golden West, by the Tournament of Roses Float Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, headed by James T. Ritchey, general chairman.

Information regarding the contest must be secured direct from the Supervising Deputies, or from the District Deputies, to whom they are expected to pass the information. The state has been divided into five sections, with a regional vice-chairman appointed by the general chairman.

The girls winning in the five regional districts will be brought to Hollywood for final judging by a committee of celebrities, all names that should be known to almost everyone. One of the five will be chosen "Girl of the Golden West" and the other four are to be her attendants.

To be eligible to enter the contest a girl must be a native-born Californian, single, and between the ages of 18 and 25. She must be able to furnish a birth certificate or photostatic copy thereof. Be a high school graduate, and, if under 21, furnish parental written consent or that of her legal guardian. She must have the necessary time to devote to the contest and must abide by all rules and regulations of the committee. She must not be a professional model or actress.

Contest Rules and Suggestions

All entries to be into the Parlors or their committees by midnight, September 30, 1947.

Contestants to be selected and winning candidate determined by October 30, 1947, and your Supervising Deputy Grand President so advised by your Deputy Supervisor.

Supervising Deputy Grand President to determine and supervise the final judging in Parlor elimination and advise Regional Vice-Chairman when accomplished—Deadline October 25, 1947.

James T. Ritchey of Pasadena Parlor No. 296, NSGW, General Chairman of Contest Committee.

Regional Vice-Chairman will call a committee together and determine the winning candidate from his region and when accomplished, advise by wire and airmail the results. Deadline November 9, 1947.

Regional Vice-Chairman will have the winning candidate prepare for the trip so as to have her in Pasadena or Los Angeles Nov. 14, 1947. (Be well to keep the record of the 2nd winner.)

All preliminary expenses and responsibility up to the arrival of the candidates will not be in any way an expense or cost or responsibility of the Executive Float Committee until the candidate actually arrives at Los Angeles or Pasadena on the first trip, all expenses are paid on the 2nd or final trip and its conclusion.

All Registration Blanks are to be preserved and mailed to the Executive Committee at the close of the contest, who will in turn dispatch to the Native Daughters of the Golden West as a follow-up for prospective members.

THE NATIVE SONS' OBLIGATION TO FIGHT COMMUNISM

By Past Grand President Eldred L. Meyer,
Chairman Americanism Committee

The diabolical monster known as Communism is again rearing its ugly head, and the American way of life is again being threatened.

Apparently, there are only two forms of government in the world today—Democracy and Communism. The Native Sons of the Golden West, as members of a patriotic group, should not take this threat too lightly, but should redouble their efforts to assure that our sons and daughters are brought up so that they, too, will desire to live only in a Democracy.

Before World War II, Americans were inclined to believe that Communism, Fascism, Nazism and Paganism were all one sugar stick of candy, the only difference being in its label. It is amazing to learn how many of our young people are today being lured away from our form of government, and are willing to take up the banner of a foreign "ism"—something which they know little about, and a direct opposite of that which we know to be right.

Religious freedom and the steadfast belief in the existence of God, was the foundation upon which our country was built, and for which our pioneer fathers fought and bled. It must be maintained and supported by all patriotic orders and righteous citizens. The youth of California must be taught, by precept and example, that our form of government, which encourages religious freedom, must not be crushed by Atheism, and that the sanctity of the home must be preserved.

I have asked all members of our Americanism Committee to send me their expression on this subject. Brief quotations are given below, from all those who have replied to date:

Brother Thomas P. White, Associate Justice of our Appellate Court, (Ramona Parlor No. 109), states, in part, "Today's youth is tomorrow's nation. They should, therefore, be given instruction in our primary schools and high schools, as well as the universities, in the causes that led up to the adoption of our Declaration of Independence and Constitution. They should be told that the founding fathers, in attacking the existing political philosophy of 'the divine right of kings' set up a form of government that recognized the natural right of the individual. That their philosophy contemplated that when you get to a point where you have a regimentation of people and a magnification of the state, we are a long, long way from what Lincoln had in mind at Gettysburg when he prayed that 'that government of the people, by the people and for the people would not perish from the earth'."

Brother Frank J. Collins, Sr. (Ramona Parlor No. 109), states, in part, "As Personnel Director and Employee Counsel, I have talked to many a young man who is communistic in his beliefs simply because he had recently been hatched from an incubator of Communism (college), accepted the teachings as fact, no one being interested enough to debate the subject with him and point out the error of any 'ism' that proposes something for nothing, thereby sending him on his way with the blindfold off, a good American. Most of these youngsters are hungry to hear the other side of the question, and could, I believe, be changed in their line of thinking. Oft times the home or social contacts are either not competent or are selfishly too disinterested to take on such a responsibility. These same children will, in the near future, run our nation yet continue down life's path receiving inoculations of Communism until finally the patient can never be cured."

Brother Richard M. Nixon, Representative in Congress, (Whittier Parlor No. 297, writes: "In the future, I might be able to furnish materials to the members of the Americanism Committee, particularly on the subject of Communism, since I am a member of the Un-American Activities Committee of the House."

The Americanism Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West is going to do its utmost to fight Communism in every way possible. Every parlor has its quota of members who are well qualified to address any group, so that when the comparison is made, our youth may be enlightened concerning the privation which Communism has to offer them, as compared to the American standard of living, and so that the significance of the American history of which we are so proud, can be kept alive, and the fires of patriotism kept perpetually burning.

CALIFORNIA FINANCE

By A. HAROLD NOON

Investment bankers—the men who finance business and industrial development—see no basis whatever for the "depression is coming" talk which continues despite the fact that our national economy has hit a record-breaking pace.

In view of the nation's fabulous current prosperity there is a growing belief that depression talk is part of an insidious fear campaign inspired by Communists to undermine confidence in our business and political leaders and to create chaos within our borders.

Employment, on a national level, has reached an all-time high. Wage scales have skyrocketed. Production is on the upgrade. Corporation earnings and profits continue to break records. Business is expanding, not retrenching.

In the Far West business is expanding three times as fast as is the entire United States.

Industry is trying hard to keep pace with population gains. The West, and particularly California, is forging ahead—and fast!

Financing of industrial expansion in the West is creating new jobs, new opportunities, new consumer markets.

E. J. Evans, of Los Angeles, and H. T. Birr, Jr., San Francisco, chairman of the board and president respectively of The First California Company, underwriting and investment securities firm with offices throughout California and Nevada, are extremely optimistic.

Evans and Birr, at a San Francisco press conference, cited the increasing number of industrial projects, wholesale and retail sales, employment gains as the basis for their belief that prosperity will continue.

Evans, a director of Thrifty Drug Stores Company, a Los Angeles firm with 77 super cut-rate stores throughout California, announced that the company with sales of $30,000,000 for the nine months period ending May 31, will expand its operations on a state-wide basis.

Bank of America, Puget Sound Pulp & Timber, Security-First National Bank, California Packing Corporation, Transamerica, Harbor Plywood, Western Condensing Company, Crown Zellerbach, Market Basket, Standard Oil of California, Pacific Gas & Electric are but a few of the major west coast companies reporting increased revenues and profits.

Pacific Coast Investment Fund, one of a series of New York Stocks, Inc., will confine investment of its assets to western companies. Hugh W. Long, head of the Wall Street banking firm bearing his name, said this is the first time that an investment fund has confined its stock purchases to a specific area.

Western companies presented in initial stock purchases include Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles, Rheem Manufacturing Company, San Diego Gas & Electric Company, Bank of America, Puget Sound Pulp & Timber, Transamerica Corporation, Bullock's, Los Angeles, Emporium-Capwell, San Francisco and Oakland, California-Oregon Power, Golden State Company, California Pacific Utilities Company, Thrifty Drug Stores, Pacific Gas & Electric Company, Arden Farms Company, Los Angeles, Barker Brothers, Los Angeles, Market Basket, Los Angeles, Tide Water Associated Oil, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Sunray Oil, Paramount Pictures and others.

Anaheim . . .

A CITY OF BEAUTIFUL PARKS . . .

Progressive, friendly Anaheim, city of beautiful parks, is truly a community of Native Sons and Daughters.

Colonized ninety years ago by a group of San Francisco German families whose search for an ideal plot of agricultural land, ended upon purchase of an 1165 acre tract of land. This tract became the original city of Anaheim and the birthplace of thousands of California native citizens.

During the period of colonization the plot was planted to grapes and then afterwards subdivided into vineyards. Anaheim's fame for excellent wines, which were marketed by ocean-going vessels, soon spread over this continent and across the Atlantic Ocean.

With an irrigation system developed the hearty colonists turned to citrus culture. Today, Anaheim ranks first among the Valencia Orange growing areas of the world in production, distribution and processing of this palatable summer juice orange.

Alert to the need for an expanded economy to sustain an extraordinary growing population the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce is diligently working to locate new diversified industries. Moreover, this civic leadership is pledged to the orderly planned development of the city.

Thus, the Mother Colony has reached its third historical and most dynamic stage in expansion and progress.

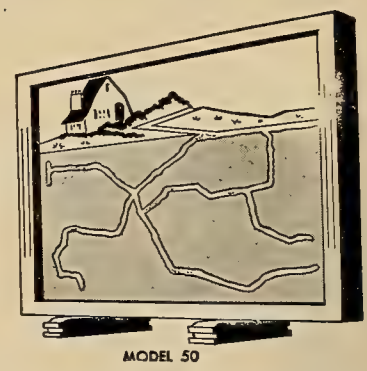
Noted Lecturer Stresses California Centennials

George M. Spears of Anaheim, whose photos illustrate our stories from time to time, is an old friend of the Grizzly Bear who believes in boosting this great state by the Golden Gate.

A photographer, traveler and lecturer of note, Spears is giving illustrated lectures before high school and junior high students stressing the Centennial years that lie ahead.

Speaking on "Historical California," his travelogue consists of 150 beautiful slides of historical interest, dating from the founding of San Diego Mission by Father Junipero Serra in 1769, and following the years of development through the days of '49 and up to the present time.



In his tour in story and picture through California with the students, Spears visits a number of the old Missions, stopping at historical Monterey, then to Sacramento, Death Valley and other points of interest.

He dwells at length on the Mother Lode country, telling about the old mining camps of Knights Ferry, Placerville, Old Jim Town, Sonora, Columbia and others.

OUR COVER

Seldom does any magazine have the privilege of presenting a cover such as the Grizzly Bear has this month. The picture is a rare photo of Night-blooming Cerus, taken by M. D. Bradshaw, Grizzly Bear photographer, at John Hilton's, Valerie Corner, Thermal, Riverside County. These strange, exotic flowers, with their waxen, white petals and yellow centers, prove that in the ugliest of nature there is beauty beyond comparison. The long, pointed, green buds shoot out during the summer months from the main columns of the cactus. Then, one evening, just at sunset, they begin to open into immense flowers, sometimes as much as six inches across. Their elusive perfume attracts night insects, like moths around a flame. When day breaks and the sun's rays stream down on them, they close and wither away.

CALIFORNIA 75 YEARS AGO

AS COMPILED FROM THE FILES OF THE GRIZZLY BEAR MAGAZINE

The cornerstone of the University of California at Berkeley was laid October 9, 1872 with appropriate ceremonies presided over by Governor Newton Booth.

The British ship "Aculco" went ashore about 25 miles south of the Cliff House, San Francisco, and was wrecked. The cargo was valued at $150,000. The crew was saved.

During the year, up to October 1, 2,688 vessels had entered the Golden Gate and San Francisco Bay. This was an average of nearly ten a day.

In San Quentin Prison were 913 prisoners, of whom eight were women and 143 Chinamen.

Mining stock assessments this month in San Francisco amounted to $460,000, nearly offsetting the dividends paid by producing mines.

The rainfall for the season at the end of the month was less than .25 of an inch, and stockmen and miners were getting anxious over the lack of rainfall.

A vein of coal was discovered in a hill near San Rafael, Marin County, that was six inches wide and of good quality.

The Table Bluff Mining Company, to operate with divers and gather black sand at Gold Bluff, on the seacoast of Humboldt County, was organized and reported ready to begin operations.

The Auburn mine, in Placer County, struck a vein of quartz valued at $3,000 a ton.

A big strike was made in the Empire mine at Grass Valley, and ore was milled that yielded $30,000 this month.

A train of 20 cars of lumber left Truckee, Nevada County, October 23 for the east.

Another big land suit, of the many tried in the courts of this state, was on trial in San Francisco, and involved the title to 18,000 acres of land on which were 200 tenants. At the end of the month eighty days had been consumed in taking testimony, and the trial was still going on.

A newspaper noted that the youngest-looking old man in San Francisco at this time was Pio Pico of Los Angeles, who was visiting there. He was looking as vigorous as a man in his 40's. A native of California, he was governor of it long before the days of '49.

"Tip" McLaughkubm, a prominent sporting man of Sacramento, was tried for the murder of a man named Lundholm this month. The evening of October 29 the jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the first degree, which meant hanging. While his counsel filed a motion for a new trial, "Tip" put on his hat and quietly walked out of the courtroom, went down town, spent an hour or so drinking with friends in different saloons, and then disappeared. He was never seen in Sacramento again.

Jerome Churchill and three other nimrods of Yreka, Siskiyou County, went on a deer hunt for a week and brought back fourteen deer.

E. Corboley and Robert Reid, hunting near Cloverdale, Sonoma County, killed four deer in a few hours within a radius of one-half mile.

The only doctor in Alpine County was now in jail, at Markleville, serving a sentence for larceny.

A shock of earthquake at Bakersfield at 5 a. m., October 18 was also felt in Yosemite Valley. A tourist from Glasgow, Scotland, at the hotel there, was aroused and rushed outside, alarmed by the shock. Just before this occurred, a predatory skunk had visited the premises and, disturbed by a dog, had paid its respects to it. The Scotchman met Hutchings, the hotel proprietor, on the porch and getting a whiff of the pungent atmosphere, remarked, after being asked if he felt the earthquake, "Yes, but I never knew before that an earthquake smelled so of sulphur."

David Norris, working in the Eureka mine at Grass Valley, stepped on a board with a large knothole in it, out of which came a rattlesnake that, quick as thought wound around his ankle. He managed to kick it off, when it prepared for battle, and followed him as he retreated nearly thirty feet. Then he picked up a shovel and killed it; it had nine rattles.

Mother Lode Indian Chiefs in 1849-50

Native Sons of the Golden West

PRIOR to the gold discovery in the area now known as the Mother Lode the only inhabitants were the native Indians. The northern mines from what is now Plumas county south to the Consumnes river which is the boundary line of El Dorado and Amador counties was occupied by the Maidu Indian tribes. The territory south of the Consumnes to the Merced river was inhabited by the Miwok tribes.

Little is ever said of this region before Marshall's discovery of gold on January 24, 1848. Gabriel Moraga, the San Joaquin pathfinder made surveys of the Indian settlements of this region and named many rivers from the tribes of the Miwoks. Some of these rivers are the Tuolumne and the Mokelumne which later became the scene of great mining activity during the days of the gold rush of '49.

J. A. Smith quoted from the San Andreas Independent of January 4, 1857, for the Calaveras Prospect some time ago about Hasuche and his sub chiefs.

Hasuche was head chief of all the tribes between the Consumnes and Merced rivers. At the time of the discovery of gold in El Dorado county he was about 45 years old. He was six feet in height and stood erect. He had a majestic forehead and a keen penetrating look. Hasuche was well educated so stated the Independent: "while under charge of the padres at Santa Clara mission he was probably the most apt of all the Indians in the mines."

Five chiefs served under Hasuche, these were: Antonio, Polo, Alcalde Charley, Panchito and Pack-No.

After the discovery of gold at Columa, mines were discovered at Weber's Old Dry Diggings. Captain Charles M. Weber the founder of the city of Stockton, Dr. Isbell James Woods and James Savage were trading with the miners and Indians at the Weber post.

The Independent said: "About this time, June or July, 1848, Weber returned to his ranch, near Stockton, and while there was visited by Hasuche and some of the under chiefs. Weber told the Indians of the discovery and explained to them the value of the metal and that it was evident there was also gold upon the Calaveras, near Hasuche's rancheria and that if he would go up into the mountains with his tribe and succeed in finding gold it would be a great benefit to the Indians of that region.

Hasuche accordingly detailed Alcalde Charley and five or six of his tribe to accompany Weber on his return to the diggings to see gold and learn how the miners obtained it, their object being to return and search for gold on the Calaveras. After some time Alcalde Charley returned to his rancheria on the Stanislaus mustered his tribe and started to discover gold; proceeding up Carson's creek to a small gulch emptying into the creek near where the town of Carson is now situated. Here they discovered gold.

Hasuche died on the Mokelumne river some time during the winter of 1851-52.

Pack-No was the chief of the Miwok tribes on the Stanislaus. He was a civilized Indian and at one time lived in the vicinity of Mission Santa Clara. Pack-No was an active Indian, an excellent horseman, brave and daring and had a great influence over his tribe, which numbered about 200 warriors, women and children.

Alcalde Charley was a sub chief in the service of Hauche. He was one of the strongest Indians in the Mother Lode region. He was about 25 years of age and weighed about 230 pounds.

This Indian chief once packed 200 pounds of flour from McLeans Ferry on the Stanislaus to Vallecito in Calaveras county.

Polo was another Indian chief whose behavior was not approved by Hasuche, as he was disobedient and considered the most villainous Indian in the mines.

The paper also stated: "Antonio'—of the many chiefs that the whites came in contact with in 1848-49, none were so good or so true as this noble old chief. He was an aged man and one who knew no harm nor thought any evil. He was a warm friend of the Americans and early in 1848, under the protection of Antonio, Mike Lodge and Tom Fallon, moved (by invitation to come and dig gold in his country) to the rancheria, which then contained about 150 Indians, old and young. Mike Lodge and his family ever enjoyed the confidence of the old chief.

Antonio died in the month of March or April, 1850, just above McDermott's Bridge. Great mourning took place among his tribe on the occasion of his death. Cremation was performed on a little knoll just above the bridge. More than a bushel and a half of beads, all his rich and valuable serapes, bows and arrows, and clothing were piled on the body before fire was put to the wood and all, together, consumed.

The beads alone had cost the chief their weight in gold (that being the price of beads when the bulk of them were purchased). Some of the serapes burned had cost the chief over 55 ounces of gold dust. This was the end of one of the best among the Indians of California."

Panchito—was truly a Calaveras Indian, his tribe numbered about 200 and lived in Central Calaveras on the foothill range from Cave City to Murphys and north through the oak tree area to the Mokelumne river, this was considered a rich acorn region.

At present many rocks can be found along creeks which bear holes made by Indians to grind their meal. These Indian rocks remain as monuments to a primitive race which lived in the Mother Lode centuries before the coming of white man.

Helicopter Air Mail Service Gets Started

Regularly scheduled helicopter air mail service was started October 1 by Los Angeles Airways with twice daily schedules of the weird "egg-beaters" between Los Angeles and Pasadena, South Pasadena, Alhambra, Monrovia, Glendale, Burbank, North Hollywood, Van Nuys and Santa Monica. Helicopter service between the Los Angeles Municipal Airport and the Terminal Annex Postoffice was also begun. The planes land on the roof of the Terminal Annex building.

A second helicopter route is slated to begin operations October 16, serving communities east of Los Angeles, including Lynwood, Whittier, Montebello, El Monte, Pomona, Ontario, Riverside, Corona and Fullerton.

A saving in air mail delivery time of 4½ to 19 hours is predicted for the new service which will benefit an estimated 2,000,000 persons in the Southland area, according to Postmaster General Hannegan.

The Los Angeles area is the first in the nation to gain the speeded-up methods of interoffice transportation, and it was indicated that cities other than those already included on the routes will be given service as soon as operations problems can be solved.

Postal officials explained that circular routes were chosen for the flying "egg-beaters," rather than the out-and-back schedules pioneered here by the A.A.F., because they are more efficient and because of fog conditions at certain seasons.

Previous to the new service most air mail was transported by truck or train from outlying communities to the Los Angeles postoffice and then delivered by truck to the airport.

"Ride 'em, Cowboy!"

They Must Be Tough

Here is the Story of Rodeo, Born in the West. South San Francisco and Sonoma Native Sons have sponsored these thrilling events, the latter planning to make it an annual affair.

The chute gate opened and a brown bundle of four legged fury literally exploded. On top, a bronc rider with raking spurs sat his crow hopping, sunfishing mount.

Beside me Carleton Grimes of the 7L Ranch, one of the C. A. A.'s (Cowboys Association of America) top rodeo contractors watched with interest.

"That's Brown Bomber," he says, meaning the horse, "mighty few riders stay for long."

Even as he spoke the cowboy had lost a stirrup and two jumps later he was violently thrown. He hit the dirt hard and rolled clear of the stiff-legged plunging hoofs of the infuriated outlaw.

Grimes grinned. "That's a good boy, too but not as good as my horse."

Ten seconds aboard a twisting, bucking bronc is a long, long time. Ask any bronc rider. Ten seconds on top without grabbing leather, losing stirrup or changing rein hand constitutes a ride. Then the pick-up men come alongside and the bronc buster gratefully is taken off for his ride is over. When the gate opens theres no getting off except the hard way. That's rough on arms and legs and the mean ones try to stomp a rider into the dirt after they get him down.

Bronc busters are young. They're as tough as rawhide. They have to be. Along in the late twenties a fellow's reflex actions slow up. After that they lose a little of their sense of balance. They follow the sport out of sheer love, paying their own expense, entry fees, hospital bills and sometimes a portion of the other fellow's funeral bills.

Rodeos, pronounced "ro-day-o," are old as the west. The word itself comes from the Spanish verb rodear, meaning to go around, to encircle. Whether or not it refers to the round-up of cattle or the puncher on top of a wild one twisting 'round and 'round, we hesitate to say.

South of the border in old Mexico it's known as La Fiesta de los Vaqueros (Festival of the Cowboys). One hundred years ago these contests were held on the great Spanish ranchos of California.

This sport of the old west is even rougher and wilder than ever. In grandpappy's day top hands from surrounding cattle ranches put on exhibition stuff. Nowadays rodeo shows are big business. Such fellows as Carleton Grimes comb the western range for the roughest, toughest wild horses to be found.

A man has to be good to get into the rodeo game. He's testing his strength and skill against the meanest four legged outlaws to be found in the west that would kill him if they got half a chance. He's giving them all the odds too. Take the bronc rider. He's got to make that ride with "no hands." Even a fleeting grab at the pommel disqualifies him. The bareback horse and steer riders have it even tougher.

This is the only sport in the world where the animal is expected to commit mayhem and is rewarded if he does. A horse that kills a man is put out to pasture for the rest of his days! Don't think the rodeo stock don't enjoy their life. Watch them in the catch pens and stalls prior to rodeo time. It's just as big a game to them as it is to cowboys.

Only the exhibitionists get a paid salary. There are always clown "bull fighters," trick ropers, announcers and sometimes a screen star or two with every show. But the boys who put on the thrills and excitement are paid on a competitive basis, with the first three place winners in each event raking in the long green.

Every event is staged for a purse. That purse is made up by the participants themselves with a goodly sum added by the producer. When a man kicks in $10.00 to $15.00 per event each day he's in there to win.

There are rules in the game. Brahma bull and bareback bronc riders are allowed a rigging around the animal to furnish a "one hand" hold. Eight seconds are allowed for a ride. Bulldoggers are in a class by themselves. The bull goes down the arena flanked by two riders. The hazer herds the bull into position as the bulldogger makes a flying tackle from the saddle, grabbing the horns to toss the bull full length to the ground. "Carl" stated that the twist the punchers have to make to send a half-ton of beef to earth is so great that at Redwood City three horns were twisted off.

"Carl" Grimes is a co-holder of the world's champion team roping event for 1945 and was awarded a belt in recognition of his ability by the Cowboys Association of America. In team roping, cowboys pair off to throw their loops around the head and back feet of a two year old steer. The object is to stretch the critter full length on the ground and they race against time. With swinging lariats they take after a frenzied steer. Grimes throws his loop for those back legs.

Rodeo stock isn't easy to accumulate. A good bronc just isn't found in every corral. A true outlaw is born and not made. Every year thousands of so called broncs are tested again and again but few turn out to have the fiery mettle that makes a champ bucker. The top horses, the true outlaws, bring extremely high prices.

Carl Grimes is constantly on the lookout for "outlaws." "Warpaint," "Pepper," "Deadwagon" and Brown Bomber" are just a few of his top buckers. The cowboys themselves attest to that. We quote on extract from an article written by K. C. Shumway, C. A. A. Secretary, that appeared in the national rodeo magazine "Hoofs and Horns:"

"If you really wanted to see some good bucking stock you should have been at the Victorville Rodeo when Carl Grimes' outstanding string of bucking horses unloaded over half of the boys, in this first show of the 1947 season.

"The cowboys have sure been itching to be riding again and all felt they were ready and good; however, there was nothing as

Anaheim is in a holiday mood when Hallowe'en comes around each year. Hallowe'en Festival

Native Sons and Daughters are interested in the Youth of California
Here's how one community solves some of its problems and everybody has a good time.

By HAR LAR

ACCORDING to the oldsters, Anaheim's Hallowe'en celebration was the direct result of early day pranksters. In the old days the little Orange County community took it on the chin the night the spirits were to howl. Innocent pasttimes such as tick-tack-toe and dumping over garbage cans were too dull for these sons of orange growers and oil men. The Chic Sales systematically went down like wooden soldiers up and down the block wherever encountered.

Believe us, the chief of police of Anaheim begged for the day of frolic even though it was to mean that some 100,000 people for far and near would converge on the city to dance and enjoy the show and parade!

It was "Doc" H. E. W. Barnes who talked the town fathers into staging the gala event. Genial "Doc" was in no way connected with the medical profession. His doctoring was confined to broken arms and legs found on chairs and tables in his own furniture store. "Doc's" reasoning was simple and to the point. Give the kid a parade and a lot of fun and he'll have no time to get into mischief on Hallowe'en night. The fun loving furniture man was without doubt speaking from experience.

Anaheim dates back to the faded dreams of the disillusioned gold seekers of '49. Every nationality in the world seemed to be represented along the streams and foothills of the towering Sierra Nevadas. But for every miner who succeeded in wresting the yellow metal from the earth, there were at least a hundred others who failed.

So it was that a group of Germans, whose golden bubble had burst, met in San Francisco to pool their meager resources that they might buy land where they could establish a farming community. This, however, is not the story of how George Hansen was appointed to investigate and purchase a desirable agriculture site. May it be sufficient to record only that he bought 1,165 acres for the modest sum of $2.00 an acre from Juan Pacifico Ontiveras in the San Juan Cajon de Santa Ana. That he planted grapes on fifty acre plots and built an irrigation system. In 1858 came the first investors to settle on their holdings.

Anaheim is a coined word contracted from the Spanish and German. Ana comes from Santa Ana while "heim" in German means simply "home." To those early day settlers it meant "home on the Santa Ana."

The town did not blossom overnight. Hard times during the first five years saw forty percent of the property change hands. Within a dozen years outsiders buying in had changed the little German speaking community to the extent that minutes of the Anaheim Water Company were no longer enscribed in German but in English.

Such is the background of Anaheim sixty-five years before the first Hallowe'en parade. And so it was that descendants of those first families searched the garrets, hauled forth old iron bound trunks and brought out forgotten raiment of a by-gone generation.

That first parade was a comical masquerade affair. There were blackfaced darkies from the land of cotton, bumptious women with big feet and a give away masculine walk. There were goblins, black witches and red devils. Mack Sennet cops chased convicts in prison garb Dazzling lassies were dressed as can-can dancers.

The costumes, however, that attracted the greatest attention were the priceless heirlooms of the attics. Up until that time, forgotten, they suddenly became treasured museum pieces before the admiring gaze of the world.

Again citizens of Anaheim will awaken at 6:00 a. m. to the whistling music of August Eltiste's old time circus calliope. Under masterful fingers the steam generated musical contraption will play rollicking swing music in an asthmatic, wheezy whistle as it parades the city streets followed by dogs and small boys. Many a man so rudely awakened on Hallowe'en morn has reached for a suitable missile with mayhem in mind, before the misty dreaminess of sleep had departed from his brain and realization dawned that this was Anaheim's big day.

The Hallowe'en breakfast gets underway at seven o'clock. Those attending must be in costume or suffer the displeasure of "Hiz Honor" High Justice of the Kangaroo Court. If you happen to be too well known you'll suffer anyway.

Some 1200 persons are expected to attend. There'll be vaudeville acts served up with the ham and eggs. If all goes according to plans there will be both Hollywood and radio stars present. In fact a radio broadcast is being contemplated.

Hallowe'en morning sees the magistrate assessing fines to all citiens not in proper garb. A half dozen comedy cops, in a tin lizzy "model T" vintage, haul in protesting miscreants from their places of business or off the streets. Court is held on a platform erected for the purpose in the center of Anaheim's Center Street with hoosegow attached. Loud speakers amplify all the proceedings to the delight of the spectators.

In the afternoon the "kiddies" parade is held. Leave it to the youthful minds to think up an appropriate theme. Floats are wheeled along on toy wagons and depict everything from mimicking the latest political demigod to commemorating the California pioneers.

There'll be an auto show held during the day with auto racing down the main street, contrary though it may be to the new California Penal Code. Whether or not the cars will exceed any speed limits is highly problematical as all entrees are exclusively restricted to cars built prior to 1917.

A whiskerino contest is on tap and this year there is no sure winner as proved the case a dozen years ago when one contestant wore his beard for 365 days in order to be certain of taking first money the following year.

The parade has outgrown the horse and buggy affairs of years gone by. From a civic celebration to entertain its own citizens, the event will attract at least 200,000 persons from all parts of southern California. Horsemen for miles around will be on hand with all their silver trappings. Bands from at least two dozen communities and organizations, together with their majorettes, will strut their stuff. There'll be floats by the dozen done up in the true spirit of Hallowe'en with a few comic strip characters added.

Two Native Sons of the Golden West, members of Anaheim's Mother Colony, play important roles in putting over the big day. John Ardaiz, little but mighty, a human dynamo of untiring energy, is the dominating "sparkplug" and general chairman for the occasion. Leavitt Ford, Studebaker dealer (see his ad in the Grizzly Bear) likewise a member of the Anaheim parlor, is parade chairman.

With the date of the event fast approaching, Secretary Ernie Moeller of the Chamber of Commerce is a busy man these days for his is the clearing house of all communications.

Does the Anaheim Hallowe'en hold in check the deviltry of the small fry? The community's leading citizens believe that it does. Just the same, we can't resist telling a little story that happened at the parade a few years ago and concerned one of Orange County's oldest pioneers.

J. J. Schwartbaugh was over 90 years old. He was one of the few who continued to drive a horse and buggy around town. Years ago he had farmed part of the fertile Santa Ana River bottom with a yoke of oxen. J. J. and his white chin whiskers will not soon be forgotten in the county.

One Hallowe'en morning old J. J. missed his buggy. Knowing the pranks of boys, he scanned the barn roofs for a half dozen miles around with no results. That night he was forced to let his son and daughter drive him to the parade in an automobile.

The parade was good. The old gentleman enjoyed it until suddenly a buggy with a skinny flea-bitten mule between the shafts hove in sight.

"That's my buggy," yells the old man and he tries to break through the crowd in pursuit and it is all that his son and daughter can do to pacify him.

"You know," he told me later, "it waren't the buggy I keered about. Shucks, it was about worn out. But I had one of those new fangled wrenches with a wide mouth jaw that would fit any nut that wuz ever screwed on a bolt underneath the seat. I sure do miss my 'gator wrench!"

Editor's Note: We have just received word that the Anaheim Annual Hallowe'en Festival will be held Thursday evening, October 30, instead of the traditional Hallowe'en Night.

The above sign, which greeted Native Sons and Daughters at the Admission Celebration, Long Beach, September 6, 7, 8, 9, is an example of the cooperation extended to the Orders by various organizations in making it one of the most successful events in many years.

"Footprints on the Sands of Time" might well be the title of the above scene caught by the photographer. Giant sand dunes are found in many places in the vast California desert, a never ending source of wonder to tourist and Native alike.

The Desert Is Calling

By LEONARD SCHWACOFER

SINCE the dawn of history men have sought out the wide-open spaces of the deserts of the world for the time and solitude to gain inspiration to accomplish the great things that have marked man's progress.

Unless it be on a high mountain, there is no other place where man can approach closer to his Creator than on the shifting sands of the desert with the pounding silence all around. Here in the beauty of the sunrise, the warmth of midday, the glorious sunset or under the starred canopy of night, he can find health and peace. Here he can dream and obtain the vision to make those dreams come true.

It is a strange hand of fate that the very deserts that tried men's souls in pioneer days of California, are now the places that we seek today as a means of escape from the cool, damp of our winter months.

Stranger still, is the fact that large areas of that desert, given water transported in great canals over many torrid miles, blossom to become the nation's winter bread-basket. The same winter climate that is good for men is good for plant life, too.

One of the fastest growing agricultural and tourist sections in California at the present time is that part of Riverside County beginning with Palm Springs at the eastern base of towering Mount San Jacinto, sloping away to the fertile Coachella Valley and the Salton Sea, whose surface is more than 200 feet below sea-level.

Water from the Colorado River, fed through the Coachella branch of the All-American Canal, will soon pour on to thousands of acres of land in the Coachella Valley. Indio is growing by leaps and bounds with new industries springing up to take care of thousands of people moving into this area. Her sister cities are growing likewise.

Out from the towns, giant carry-alls are busy leveling huge tracts of land, carrying away sand hills and filling in low places, in preparation for the planting of date gardens, citrus groves, and the raising of those vegetables in winter that we on the coast, grow during the summer months.

The date harvest, one of America's most fascinating agricultural industries, is now in full swing. Soon you will be able to drive down into the valley and see stringbeans and kindred crops being harvested for the winter markets of the United States.

They used to tell us that the bougainvillea and poinsettia wouldn't grow anywhere in California but near the coast. Well, they are growing and blooming down here below sea-level, as well as many other kindred plants and shrubs.

Many famous people make their homes in this area of California. It is not uncommon to follow two wheel ruts off across the desert between mesquite covered sand-hills and to suddenly come upon a lovely date garden with its tall, stately palms sheltering a magnificent home, complete with everything to the swimming pool.

You can go down through the San

Gorgonio Pass from Beaumont and Banning, through White Water, 1000 Palms, to Indio. From there you can take the Indio-El Centro Highway down to Valerie Corners, crossing from there over to Thermal and take the northshore road down to the Salton Sea.

Going back from Coachella and Indio along the purple foothills and towards Palm Springs, you will find little towns springing up all along the way, where people are buying a small spot of ground and building homes, some of them week-end places and others beautiful mansions.

Off the beaten path there are natural wonders that make this one of the most interesting regions of the state. Besides the famous Palm Canyon, stately native palms grow in isolated canyons and oasis on the desert. Along the shores of the ancient lake are traces of a people who dwelt here long before the coming of the white man to these shores. There are semi-precious stones to interest the rock collector, if you know where to look.

Then, in the early spring, if the desert has been fortunate to receive some rainfall during the winter, there will be a glorious wildflower show for your enjoyment.

This is only a brief summary of the hundreds of things to see. For directions to other points of interest we suggest that you ask along the way. You will find the people who dwell in this fascinating part of California retain the spirit and hospitality of the early west and are eager to help you in making your visit most enjoyable, whether you are just on a week-end trip or on a winter vacation.

Palm Desert's man-made Shadow Mountain Lake, where only a few short months ago there was only barren land. It is claimed that it is large enough for sail boating. Notice the big palms that have been transplanted in the landscaping to build this new desert town.

The desert is the home of many artists and those who love the wide-open spaces, where one can rove at will. Barry Atwater, famous landscape artist, stands in the shade of natural palms growing on the Rancho Dos Palmas of Raymond R. Morgan, producer of many well-known radio programs. This historic oasis in the California desert is located on the north side of the Salton Sea near Mecca. Here, Barry Atwater, according to John Hilton, writing in The Desert Magazine, seeks to bring the desert, the wild rugged desert which he loves, as truly as possible to the painted canvas for the enjoyment of those who share his enthusiasm for this land.—M. Palm Desert Is Modern Miracle

By SALLY MOORE

Old as time itself, yet new each time the rays of the sun or moon paint a different picture on it, the desert has always been a magic Mecca for Californians. Lately the growth of desert communities has made it possible for native sons and daughters to share their heritage with those from other states and other lands.

Palm Desert, newest and one of the most carefully planned desert communities, is one of those enhancing the natural beauty of and adding to the desert's mystic lure. Sheltered in a protecting cove of the Santa Rosa Mountains, its 1520 acre site lies approximately 12 miles southeast of Palm Springs on the highway to Indio and at the intersection of the Palms to Pines Highway. A panoramic view of snow-capped Mt. San Jacinto and San Gorgonio to the west, the vast desert and sand dunes to the north, America's fertile Date Empire to the east, and a southern backdrop of inspiring Shadow Mountain provide a setting unsurpassed.

Long before a giant bull-dozer turned the first bit of earth to start this incomparable new townsite, the group of Southern California financiers and sportsmen, headed by Clifford W. Henderson, noted for his many successful business enterprises, who comprise the Palm Desert Corporation's personnel, had carefully and completely planned this new restricted community so that it would include every feature that makes our California way of life the best the world has to offer.

Starting from the "off-the-highway" approach into Palm Desert, sections were laid out for a business, shopping and marketing center with permanent ample parking for a city of 20,000; next a Civic Center; then wide areas for schools, churches, rental properties; and finally residential buildings with the exclusive Shadow Mountain Estates section divided into sizeable estate sites lying just at the foot of the mountains.

Centering Shadow Mountain Estates is the Shadow Mountain Club now nearing completion and a veritable desert paradise with its solid glass-fronted club building, its wide sun-drenched terraces dropping down in three levels to its 134 foot swimming pool, tennis courts, recreation areas and finally the Shadow Mountain Lake, man made and large enough for sail boating. Firecliff Lodge at the upper end of the rental section is another center of interest and desert enjoyment at Palm Desert. Many beautiful homes are now completed or nearly so throughout the new community.

Making all this possible, and in sufficient supply to insure lush tropical greenery everywhere, is the miracle of water. For this newest city in the desert has its own well of double steel casting type, 16 inches in diameter with a depth of 612 feet and flowing at official water test volume of 703 gallons per minute. A 60,000 gallon reservoir and nine miles of lateral water mains, already laid, assure an abundance of water.

Associated with Mr. Henderson in Palm Desert's development is Leonard K. Firestone of the Firestone Rubber Co., and William Lyman Stewart, E. L. Cord, Harold Lloyd, Donald Russ, Stephen W. Royce, Frank W. Bireley and many other business leaders who are governors of Shadow Mountain Club at the desert community. Truly here at Palm Dsert, Riverside County, is new beauty to enhance Nature's ageless desert charm.

Romance In Review For State's Birthday

Editor's Note: That the Long Beach Admission Day Celebration, September 6, 7, 8, 9, climaxed September 9th with a giant three-hour parade and real western barbecue in Bixby Park, was an outstanding success is proven by the columnlong stories and pages of pictures given the event by the metropolitan press. The orchids should go to Gary Lynes, Admission Day Chairman, and his many co-workers, who put in untold hours of work. Quoting a Long Beach Motor Officer: "When they said this parade was going to be the longest, they weren't kidding."

In order to give Native Sons and Daughters a picture of how the newspapermen of California saw us at the Admission Day Parade, September 9th, we reprint below the story in the Los Angeles Times of the next morning, which was accompanied by almost a full page of pictures of the event.

There was the miner with his dour burro . . . there was the frontiersman breaking the path for the settlers to follow . . . the stage coach driver maintaining tenuous communications lines—

Figures out of California's notebook of the past, they reappeared yesterday in the three-hour Admission Day parade with which the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West recreated early days in Long Beach as a feature of their annual convention, and celebration of the State's 97th anniversary.

Several thousand marchers appeared in the parade, according to Otto Beck, parade chairman, a member of Long Beach Parlor 278. He estimated the throngs along the line of march totaled 250,000. All of the 400 parlors of the order were represented in the parade, which was divided into 14 divisions.

With 17 horse units and scores of drum corps, the clop-clop of the horses mingled with the thudding of the drums as the parade wound from American Ave. at Ocean Blvd., to Sixth St., Pine Ave. and along Ocean Ave. to the starting point.

Prominent in the first division was Gov. Warren, who received rounds of applause. At the reviewing stand, he left the car and took a place on the platform to salute the numerous units of the parade that followed.

Also early in the parade was Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz who, astride a palomino, led the colorful Sheriff's posse.

Frances Lilly, 18-year-old Inglewood High School graduate, of 609 Venice Way, Inglewood, parade queen with a golden crown resting atop her head, also had a place in an early car. Numerous Los Angeles city officials went to the beach city for the event and watched the floats and marchers pass in review. They were hosted by Carl Wirsching, city manager, and Lynn Parmley, Long Beach Mayor. A spectacular demonstration of riding was given in front of the reviewing stand by a Los Angeles police motorcycle squad, which cut figure eights through a police band and concluded the exhibition by forming into an ever-narrowing circle from which the riders eventually spun with a roar of exhaust down the line of march. Balboa presented an attractive float graced by bathing beauty pirates. As against the entries which directed attention to the olden days, there were many which pointed to the present depicting the orange wealth of Southern California, the area's oil development and other features which depicted the accomplishments of the State.

At a barbecue picnic in Bixby Park to conclude the celebration Gov. Warren spoke informally to an estimated 10,000 persons, announcing plans to appoint a committee to serve for three years to plan forthcoming centennial observances.

Describing California as the "richest State in the world, still engaged in pioneering," the Governor said that 100 years from now "our great-grandchildren will benefit from that pioneering." Accompanied by Mrs. Warren, he was introduced by Assemblyman William Grant of Long Beach.

Awards for outstanding entries were presented at the barbecue. Winners in the leading classifications were:

Floats—1, San Gabriel, "Old Mission;" 2, Santa Ana and. 3, San Diego.

Senior Bands—1, Long Beach Municipal Band; 2, Los Angeles Police Band; 3, Terminal Island Navy Band and, 4, El Toro Marine Band.

Senior Drum Corps—1, Sea Point Parlor, Sausalito; 2, Piedmont Parlor, Oakland and, 3, Mt. Tamalpais Parlor, San Rafael.

Drill Teams—1, Mission Parlor; 2, Golden Gate Parlor and, 3, Dolores Parlor, all of San Francisco.

Horse Units—1, Los Angeles County Sheriff's Patrol; 2, Long Beach Mounted Police and, 3, Long Beach Lancerettes.

Junior Drum and Bugle Corps.—1, Monterey Park and, 2, Boy Scouts, Long Beach.

Junior Bands — 1, Reeves Rangers, Bellflower, and, 2, Huntington Park.

Decorated Cars—1, Huntington Beach and, 2, Minerva Parlor.

Covered Wagons—Mother Colony Parlor, Anaheim.

Casa de Rancho los Cerritos, headquarters of one of the two ranchos which formed the original Long Beach townsite, was marked as a historical monument Sunday, September 7 with the unveiling of plaques by the Native Sons Daughters of the Golden West and the Historical Society of Southern California. Belonging to the Bixby family since 1866, it was restored in 1930 by the late Llewellyn Bixby and given as a park. Details of marking were handled by Mrs. Ella Steinbeck, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, NDGW. Below: Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, right, presents plaques to Mrs. Llewellyn Bixby. On left is Roger J. Grand President's Schedule For Last of October Given

Friday, October 24, initiation of candidates for Los Angeles parlors at Ramona Parlor.

Saturday, October 25, initiation at the Crestline clubhouse of Arrowhead parlor.

Monday, October 27, initiation for Orange County parlors at Santa Ana Parlor's new quarters in the Civic Center on West Eighth street.

Tuesday, October 28, initiation at Santa Barbara in the beautiful new clubhouse of Santa Barbara Native Sons and Daughters.

Wednesday, October 29, initiation at Los Ranchos Parlor, Pomona.

During September the Grand President accompanied by Grand Officers, visited parlors on an extensive tour through the San Joaquin and Sacramento Valleys, up through the extreme northern part of the state and back through San Francisco. On October 3 he visited Stockton Parlor No. 7, October 4, he visited Chispa Parlor at Murphys' and October 5, attended a dedication at Shaw's Flat.

Fresno Native Sons Take To The Air

Members of Fresno Parlor, Native Sons, were on the air for a half-hour interview, Friday, September 10, from 10:30 a.m. to 11, with Ralph Gordon, manager for Veloz and Yolanda Studios on the program "It's A Woman's World."

Arrowhead Assembly Meets To Elect Delegates

Arrowhead Assembly No. 14, Past Presidents' Association, met Sunday, Sept. 28, at the Native Sons Hall, Santa Monica, as guests of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. Governor John J. Cadd presided and delegates were elected to the General Assembly of the Past Presidents' Association to be held under the auspices of East Bay Counties Assembly No. 3, at Oakland, Saturday, October 18.

Steven M. White Parlor Takes First Two Places

Steven M. White Parlor, NSGW, took first and second place in the big State-wide Admission Day Celebration Bowling Tournament, Sunday, September 7. Team No. 2 "pinned" a 2880 and Team No. 1, 2866.

Small, but mighty. Whittier Parlor No. 297, Los Angeles County, is one year old.

Native Sons Bowling League Starts

The Native Sons traveling bowling league started its 1947-48 season Friday night, September 19, with a three-way tournament that will run for 28 weeks. The league opened Friday night at 9 o'clock in San Francisco at the following bowling centers: Division "A" at the Mission Bowl; Division "B" at the Downtown Bowl and Division "C" at the Sports Center. There are eight teams in each division and they will alternate from bowling center to bowling center each week until next April, according to Ernest W. Perry, president of the Native Sons traveling bowling league and financial secretary of Castro Parlor No. 232, NSGW, San Francisco.

Los Angeles No. 45 to Celebrate Anniversary

Honoring Grand President Walter H. Odemar, Los Angeles Parlor No. 45, NSGW, will celebrate its 63rd birthday with a gala dinner at 6:30 Thursday evening, Nov. 13, in the Trophy Room, Los Angeles Athletic Club, 7th at Olive Streets. Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz will be toastmaster.

Relatives and friends of the parlor are invited to attend. The affair is informal with dinner at $2.50 per person. Reservations must be made with Frank Frank, 502 South Spring St., Los Angeles 13, before Saturday, November 8.

Sunset Parlor Holds Family Night

Family night was held at Sunset Parlor No. 26, September 29, the gala event taking place at Guy Foulks' ranch in Elk Grove.

In conjunction with Sacramento County Parlors of Native Sons and Daughters, Sunset Parlor had a Centennial kick-off breakfast at Sutter Fort. Sunday, September 28, the parlor was challenged to a baseball game by Sacramento Parlor No. 3. Winners have not yet been announced.

It has recently been proposed that Sacramento Parlor No. 3 and Sunset Parlor No. 26 merge. There are good arguments on both sides.

Compton Native Sons Picnic at Cressy Park

Compton Parlor, Native Sons, held a picnic in Cressy Park, Compton, Los Angeles County, Sunday, Sept. 28, members and friends of the parlor bringing a basket lunch. Featured was the raising of the American Flag by the Veteran's Organization, and the Bear Flag by the Native Sons.

Native Sons Hold Initiation Near Historic Murphys

EMMETT P. JOY
Grand Historian, N.S.G.W.

The Native Sons of Calaveras, Tuolumne and San Joaquin counties held initiatory ceremonies at Kenny's ranch near the historic town of Murphys on August 3.

Murphys was known as Murphy's Camp during the gold rush days. It being first mined by two brothers John and Daniel Murphy. It became a booming mining camp and several thousand people once lived in the vicinity. There are many stone buildings still standing which were constructed during the active mining days. Among these is the Mitchler hotel, surrounded by tall green trees, erected in 1856 known then as the Sperry building. It was built to accommodate tourists who visited Murphys, the Mercer Caves and the Calaveras Big Trees. After Dowd's discovery of the Calaveras Big Tree grove in 1852 thousands of tourists arrived to visit the giant sequoias.

Murphys is located on the western end of the Ebbett's pass on the immigrant road over the Sierra Nevada used by pioneers on their way to the Southern mines.

Murphys also called Wingdam in the old days was the destination of John L. Thompson's winter trips. Thompson was known as "Snow Shoe Thompson" who delivered mail over the snowy Sierras to the miners.

The Kenny ranch, a garden spot, is noted as being the locale for many well known screen productions. Many Native Sons, some with their families, came to spend the day.

The Parlors represented were Stockton Parlor No. 7, Stockton; Tuolumne Parlor No. 144, Sonora; Calaveras Parlor No. 167, San Andreas; Chispa Parlor No. 139 Murphys. Among the Grand Officers present were Wesley Strong Grand Inside Sentinel; Emmet P. Joy, Grand Historian and Robert Muller, Supervising Deputy Grand President of Calaveras, Tuolumne and San Joaquin counties, a member of Tuolumne Parlor 144.

The meeting was called at 11 a. m. and the following participated in the initiatory ceremonies: President, Charles De Young, Jr.; Past President Henry Bava, Sr., Past President W. P. Rathenbush, Former Grand Trustee; First Vice President Elmer Ferber, Second Vice President Wesley Strong, Third Vice President Fred Gomez, all of Stockton Parlor No. 7. Marshal, Charles Golop, Tuolumne Parlor No. 144; Inside Sentinel, Don Donieux, Stockton Parlor No. 7; Outside Sentinel, Ernie Allerson, Stockton Parlor No. 7.

The following were initiated into Calaveras Parlor No. 67: Francis Glenn Laidet, John Jay Snyder, Lawrence Emil Hertzig, Robert Peter Dahl, Francis John Laidet, Joe Val, Frank Forrester. Initiated into Chispa Parlor 139 were William W. Spence and Hayden Stephens.

After the meeting all gathered on the banks of the pond beneath shade trees and enjoyed a picnic lunch. A pleasant day was spent on the historic Bret Harte, Mark Twain trail of the famous Mother Lode.

Hollywood parlor Mourns Loss of Famous Member

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 lost one of its best known members recently with the passing to the Grand Parlor on High of Raymond G. Haight, G. O. P. leader and long active in the affairs of his native state.

Frances Lilly of La Tijera Parlor, Native Daughters, Inglewood, Los Angeles County, winner of the queen contest sponsored by the Admission Day Celebration Committee. Frances won her title over 14 other contestants at the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium, Monday afternoon, September 8, and received her crown from Motion Picture Star, Barbara Britton, before a crowd of several thousand Native Sons and Daughters and their guests at the Grand Ball that evening. Frances has entered the Los Angeles area contest for the "Girl of the Golden West," representing La Tijera Parlor. In case you don't know it, the smiling gentleman with her is R. G. Power of Colusa, Junior Past Grand President, Native Sons of the Golden West.—M. D. Bradshaw Photo.

Girl Of Golden West Contest Dates Are Revised By Committee

James T. Ritchey, general chairman of the Tournament of Roses Float Committee, Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, announces revised schedules in the state-wide contest to select the "Girl of the Golden West" to be feted by the Native Sons and Daughters at the world-famous Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, New Year's Day.

Notice of the changes in closing dates of the parlor and regional contests was sent to all parlor secretaries of both Orders and all deputies following a special executive committee meeting called by the general chairman.

The advanced dates are as follows:

1—Entries may be taken by the parlors up to midnight, October 20.

2—Parlor elimination contest to secure one girl from each parlor to be completed by October 30.

3—Supervising District Deputy Grand President's elimination to secure from among the parlor contest winners, one girl to represent the district, to be completed by November 15.

4—Regional Vice-Chairman elimination to secure one girl from the winners in the districts in his region. Each respective region to complete elimination by November 30.

5—General Chairman elimination to be set as soon as place and judges have been determined. December 5 shall be the tentative date.

Chairman Ritchey reports that Fresno Parlor, NSGW, is holding their contest Friday evening, October 24, in the Tower Theatre. He reports that enthusiasm over the contest is mounting throughout the entire state.

Los Banos Natives Sponsor Dance

Los Banos Native Sons, Merced County, announced that they had cancelled their dance, scheduled for September 13, and instead sponsored a Columbus Day Ball on October 11. Cancellation of the original dance was decided upon to avoid conflict with activities that were planned by two neighboring cities.

All plans and activities announced for the original dance were incorporated in the Columbus Day affair. Murray Petersen and his orchestra of Oakland provided the music.

El Camino Native Sons Hold Initiation

Initiation was the featured event at El Camino Real Parlor No. 289, Daly City, San Mateo County, at a meeting held September 22nd. The initiatory team was from Redwood Parlor and with a capacity crowd witnessing the ceremonies.

The next scheduled Social event will be a Whist Party to be co-sponsored by Burlingame Parlor Native Daughters and their own Parlor,

San Luis Rey Parlor Is Active in Athletics

San Luis Rey Parlor No. 300, Oceanside, San Diego County, one of the Order's newest parlors, is taking a great interest in athletic events. The parlor's softball team placed second in the state championship play-offs at Long Beach during the Admission Day Celebration, being nosed out by Long Beach 4-2. Under direction of Lorin Gooden, athletic chairman, the parlor is laying plans for a state championship team next year. The parlor is planning to place basketball and bowling teams in the field.

Harold Clark, a member of San Luis Rey, placed first in the singles of the Golf Tournament at Long Beach.

Santa Barbara Native Daughters Present Flags

Reina del Mar Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, have had the pleasure recently of presenting two Bear Flags to Santa Barbara organizations.

A Bear Flag was presented to Santa Barbara Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, with President Joe Reidy receiving the flag on behalf of his organization. Mrs. A. Stanley Clem, President of Reina del Mar Parlor, made the presentation, assisted by Mrs. W. L. Wegener, Deputy Grand President, Mrs. R. B. Romero, First Vice President and Mrs. B. C. Dismuke, Secretary.

The second Bear Flag was presented to Admiral Bacon Camp Auxiliary to the United Spanish War Veterans. Mrs. Carlton Graham is now department president of the USWV Auxiliary of California and is also a member of Reina del Mar Parlor. She is attending the national convention of United Spanish War Veterans and Auxiliary in Kansas City, Mo., and took the California Bear Flag with her for display at the California table at the convention. Mrs. R. B. Romero, First Vice President and Civic Chairman of Reina del Mar Parlor, made the presentation to the president of Admiral Bacon Camp Auxiliary, Mrs. John Vandevier. Mrs. William Birss, past president of Reina del Mar Parlor and conductor of Admiral Bacon Auxiliary, introduced Mrs. Romero, who was accompanied by Mrs. B. C. Dismuke, scretary of the parlor.

Three months of historical-preservation endeavor on the part of Santa Barbara's Reina del Mar Parlor, NDGW, was climaxed with a program on the recent birthday of the order. Under History Committee auspics there was a fine attendance at the new Cabrillo Pavilion home of Santa Barbara parlor, NSGW.

Mrs. George E. Tackaberry, chairman of history, was aided on this occasion by her co-chairmen, Mrs. Joseph Bookman, Dr. Anna E. McCaughey, Mrs. Estle Fenn, Mrs. Henry Griffiths, Mrs. John Pomotto and Mrs. Richard King. The committee reported that they had charted a course to meet the changed demands of a greatly increased regional population. Highlights were successful cooperation with the Old Spanish Days Fiesta Association and renewed cooperation with the Santa Barbara Historical Society, Inc. Fifty members of the parlor have participated actively in the various phases of historical endeavor.

On Admission Day in the gardens of the Historical Society the Pioneer Roster, compiled at state birthday celebrations over the past 21 years, was closed and turned over to the historical society for preservation. Fr. Eric O'Brien, OFM and Native Son, in the address of the day warned against superficiality in dealing with the past and insisted that the state's "golden heritage" must be kept alive. Paul G. Sweetser, past president of Native Sons, as master of ceremonies, handed the two calf-bound volumes of roster to Dr. Will H. Ellison, incumbent president of the historical society. Mrs. John Russell Hastings, hostess for the day as owner of the adobe, took custody of the volumes.

The parlor's history committee will now devote its activities to advancing the various historical observances in connection with the approaching state centennial.

California Parlor Marks Rancho San Rafael Adobe

In ceremonies conducted Sunday, Sept. 28, by Californiana Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, Los Angeles, a bronze plaque was placed on historic Rancho San Rafael adobe in Glendale. The parlor also placed a marker on the Gen. Andres Pico Oak Tree Camp site.

Now the home of Dr. Ernest G. Bashor, the old adobe was built by Teadoro Verdugo, grandson of Jose Maria Verdugo, original owner of Rancho San Rafael.

Dr. Owen C. Coy, professor of history at the University of Southern California and a director of the State Historical Society, was the principal speaker at the rites. Mrs. John M. Lawson, parlor president, presided. Mrs. Dexter Monroe is chairman of the landmarks division.

Orinda Celebrates 57th Anniversary

Wednesday, September 17, a banquet was held celebrating Orinda Parlor's 57th Anniversary. The two remaining charter members were honored guests.

Also from Orinda Parlor No. 56, San Francisco, comes news of their first meeting in September, which was "Kiddies Night."

Members came to the meeting dressed as "Kiddies" and the prize of the evening went to one of the old time members, Past President Rose Sage, for her most original costume.

Copa de Oro Has Many Activities

Copa de Oro Parlor, NDGW, of Hollister, San Benito County, recessed in July, following a closing sunset picnic at the Elma Libao Ranch home, where a potluck dinner and a social hour was spent arouund a blazing campfire, with guests present from Santa Cruz and Salinas.

During the observance of Hollister's Diamond Jubilee, the membership entered a covered wagon in the parade, sponsored a candidate in the Queen contest and held an informal reception for out-of-towners and old-timers.

With members of Aleli and Santa Cruz Parlors, a surprise visit was made to San Juan Bautista Parlor, the unexpected guests appearing disguised with paper bag masks. A jolly evening was spent singing and playing games.

Morada Parlor Holds Picnic In Park

The annual pot luck picnic of Morada Parlor No. 199, Modesto, was held in Legion Park recently. Mrs. Forrest Hemminger was general chairman. In charge of table decorations were Mrs. Addie Harcksen and Mrs. Ada Carroll. Coffee was made and served by Mrs. Lottie Peck. In charge of various forms of entertainment were Mrs. Mary Clay, Mrs. Verna Larson and Mrs. Carroll.

Impressive Ceremony Held At San Souci Parlor

Recently, the officers of Sans Souci Parlor No. 96, San Francisco, were installed in their respective offices before a large assemblage of members and friends. The evening was under the able chairmanship of Annabelle Gallon who called the meeting to order and in turn introduced Worthy Deputy Grand President Margaret Rochester who was escorted to the altar by Acting Marshal Mazie Roderick of Oro Fino Parlor and then to her station. After escorting the rest of the new officers to the altar for installation, she then escorted the President-elect, Imelda Baker, to the altar.

As the organist played "Paris in the Spring" the escort team composed of six girls stepped gracefully into position, each picking up a parasol that had been arranged between the altar and the President's station. The escort greeted the President at the altar with a song, "Imelda" composed especially for Our Imelda. The girls then formed an aisle through which she passed to her station and again they sang their song to her.

Marinita Annual Roll Call Meet Success

The large attendance present at Marinita Parlor No. 19, NDGW, San Rafael, annual roll call meeting recently was heartening. The meeting was presided over by President Ann Martignoli.

It was also a pleasure for the parlor to give pins to six sisters who have been members of the Native Daughters for twenty-five years. Those members who received their twenty-five year pins together with a gardenia were: Carrie Rogers, Alice Rogers, Mary Cummings, Henrietta Mahoney, Blanche Tinney, and Regina McNally.

The hostesses for the evening were Florence McBath and Josephine Bergen who presided over Marinta twenty years ago. Also honored were Jane Soares and Adeline Leek who were candidates at that time, Adeline Leek having transferred from Ramona Parlor, Vallejo.

Gresty Mazza reported on the events to be held during the Spanish Fiesta, and the progress of the respective committees. Sister Mazza also announced that the Marinita Parlor Drill Team would participate in the parade Sunday, September 28 in regard to the dedication of the Brookside School. She also said that a dinner and fashion show honoring contestants for the 1947 Senorita would be held at 4:30 at Fairfax Marin Town & Country Club, Sunday, September 28. All members and their friends were invited to attend.

Louise McDonald gave a very interesting as well as entertaining report on the Admission Day celebration held at Long Beach, September 6, 7, 8 and 9.

President Ann Martignoli reported that the annual Native Sons and Daughters picnic held at McNear Beach, Sunday, September 21 was a huge success.

Marinita's own Past Grand President, Ethel Begley was called on for a few words.

Also present was Eva Ashoff, of Seapoint Parlor, Sausalito, deputy grand president. The parlor was very sorry to hear of the illness of Eldora Clinton, Supervising district deputy grand president who underwent an operation and is in Ross General Hospital.

Another outstanding event of the evening was the presentation of an American flag to Marinita Parlor by Mrs. Willis of Lomita, California, mother of two Marinita members, Ann Bonfiglio and Helen Carlson.

Benicia President Names Committees For Year

Dorothy Bishop, president of the Benicia Parlor Solano County Native Daughters of the Golden West has named committees to serve for the ensuing year to include Delsie Finale, publicity; Elizabeth Driscoll, Grace Quinn, Helena Arneson, Americanization; Alma Pometta, Blanche Wagner, Marjorie Barrett, welfare; Helen Johnston, Katherine Smith, Phoebe McGraw, ways and means; Rita Mini, Ruth Benson, Alvina McClain, homeless children.

On a recent date District Deputy Lois Juarez from Eschol Parlor made an informal visit to the Benicia Parlor to become better acquainted with the members.

Keith Parlor Holds Benefit Party

Keith Parlor No. 137, San Francisco, held a Bingo game in late September at the Native Daughters Home, 555 Baker St., under the chairmanship of Miss Ruth Scheifler assisted by Mrs. Frank Scheifler, Mrs. Anthony Barichievich, Mrs. John Cunningham, and Miss Winifred Cunningham. The proceeds of this affair are going towards the fund for the coming Cenetnnials. Many prizes were given and the public was invited.

Covered Wagon Entry Re-built Original

After taking first place for theme in the Admission Day parade at Long Beach September 9, Mother Colony, NSGW, Anaheim and Grace Parlor, NDGW, Placentia, entered their covered wagon in the parade celebrating Fullerton's (Orange County) 60th Anniversary and took first place there in the same classification.

What most spectators in the parades did not realize, was that the entry is re-built from a wagon that actually crossed the plains in the early days. The Mother Colony boys located the bed, hauled it home, proceeded to build new wheels for it and overhaul it completely so that it could stand the rigors of parades. The wagon is heavy and one of the biggest troubles in entering it in parades is the difficulty in locating a tractor trailer wide enough to transport it.

Santa Maria Daughters Celebrate Admission Day

Since many of the members of Santa Maria Parlor No. 276, NDGW, could not attend the grand celebration of Admission Day at Long Beach, an Admission Day Observance program was held in the patio of Veteran's Memorial Building, Santa Maria, in the afternoon of September 9th. Ida M. Hawkins, program chairman, presented an appropriate program of songs, music numbers and dances. The feature of the program was the presentation of three books on California to the local library, Douglas S. Watson's "California in the Fifties," Oscar Osburn Winther's "Via Western Express and Stagecoach," and Geo. W. B. Evans' "Mexican Gold Trail" by the History and Landmarks chairman, Annie M. Elliott, Old-time pictures and mementos were spread out on a table for all guests to see and admire. Tea was poured by two old-time residents, Hattie Scott and Delfina Foss. The program was closed by the singing of old-time songs. The piano accompanist was blind Chas. Paulsen, a former resident of Santa Maria. Dan Tognazzini, whose birthday it was, was introduced as a special guest, and the Rojas family with four generations present were introduced.

Sequoia Parlor Has Busy Schedule

Edna Williams, president Sequoia Parlor No. 272, Berkeley, recently appointed chairmen of her various committees, each chairman choosing her own group. Committee chairmen included, Admission Day for Alameda County, Jeanette Anderson; Homeless Children for the County, Nellie Homewood; Homeless Children for the Parlor, Eleanore Garrison; Mission Restoration, Marion McGuire; Scrap Book, Regina Tamba; Publicity, Clara Barton; Civic, Lucy Gulick; History and Landmarks, Clara Barton; Good of Order, Estelle Marinelli; Veterans, Martha Gohl; Young Women's Activities, Mary Sutter; Music and Entertainment, Tessie Socker; Corresponding Secretary, Lola Bredehoft; Ways and Means, Hannah Bredehoft, with Alice Gilligan as co-chairman.

Plans were made to assist Argonaut Parlor with the organization and activities of the Junior Auxiliary of the Native Daughters.

Murphys Native Daughters Officers Installed

Deputy Grand President Rose Josephs of San Andreas Parlor No. 113, Calaveras County, and her corps of officers installed officers of Ruby Parlor No. 46, Murphys, Calaveras County in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Carolyn Codemartori is the new president.

Dr. James E. McConnell of Columbia, state fair director and chairman of the State Fair Centennial Committee, crowns Mary A. Doyle of Los Angeles, Centennial Queen, at the State Fair, Sunday, August 31, before estimated crowd of 35,000. The native-born California girl will reign as queen through the three Centennial years ahead and will tour the nation as California's representative, inviting various dignitaries to the state's big celebrations. Lady in Waiting is Lillian Martin, Fresno, Fresno County. MC George Jessel, motion picture star and producer watches the proceedings. Left to right are: Gloria Jo Sams, Modesto, representing Stanislaus County; Jean Lofthouse, San Diego; Jo Ann Miller, Red Bluff, Tehama County; Olga Martinovich, Pittsburg, Contra Costa County; Barbara Brown, Santa Rosa, Sonoma County; Barbara Zmolek, Ontario, San Bernardino County. Homeless Children Committee Outlines Coming Events

Latest bulletin from the Southern Counties Committee on Homeless Children concerns the Dance Fiesta which is to be held at the Embassy Auditorium, 9th and Grand, Los Angeles, on Saturday, November 22. "All the talent for this show is to be donated, and if every parlor will do its part, this will net a very neat profit, states Frank Ruiz, chairman of the committee.

Plans are being discussed for the illustrated lecture on Father Junipero Serra, to be given by Father Eric O'Brien from Santa Barbara. This event will be held at the Women's Catholic Club, 1041 Menlor Ave., on Friday evening, December 5. There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken for the Homeless Children.

The Southern Counties Committee on Homeless Children this month wishes to salute Whittier Parlor Native Sons for their nice check and the promise to send one like it every three months. Also, a salute to the Baby Parlor of Pasadena Native Daughters, who have set a large goal for their parlor to contribute to the Homeless Children, and although only six months old, will reach and better their objective. Nice work!—Pasadena and Whittier—let's hope more Parlors follow your excellent example.

The response to a request for the names and addresses of members on the Homeless Children Committee in the Parlors was very discouraging—only six parlors have replied. Please send names and addresses to Eugenia Smith, 124 E. Q St., Wilmington, as soon as possible.

Fresno Celebrates Birthday

Fresno Parlor No. 187, Native Daughters of the Golden West will celebrate their thirty-seventh anniversary of the parlor on October 8, 1947.

good and ready as these horses were when they were turned out of the chutes to spill quite a few of the boys on the ground and toss others high into the air. Nothing like a winter's rest and good feed to make the bucking stock wild and wooly and tough to ride.

"Carl has spent much of the winter months traveling around the country looking over all available rodeo stock so that he could restock his string before the start of the 1947 rodeo season, and this initial performance at Victorville indicates that he really picked up some good rodeo stock and the boys can look to some hard riding this rodeo season."

That's why, for that same spine tingling sensation that thrilled our early California forefathers, we recommend "El Rodeo."

Grand President Odemar Appointed to Judgeship

It's Judge Walter H. Odemar now. The Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West was appointed as one of the judges of the Los Angeles Municipal Court on September 19 by Governor Earl Warren. The appointment, along with several others announced at the same time, is subject to the approval of the State Bar.

Spanish Dinner Raises Funds for Christmas

To raise funds for the annual Christmas party for Veterans, the Interparlor Committee of the Southern Parlors put on a Spanish dinner, Sunday, October 5, at the home of Ralph and Mildred Lang, El Monte, Los Angeles County. Dan Kruckeberg is president of the Interparlor Committee and Ella Steinbeck, secretary.

Native Sons Appeal To Marshal Not To Forfeit Principles In Peace Goal

American delegates to the General Assembly of the United Nations September 18, received a plea directed to them through Secretary of State George C. Marshall by the Americanism Committee of the Native Sons of the Golden West to sacrifice nothing fundamentally American in the campaign to make world peace permanent.

A vigorously worded telegram called upon the United States delegates not to forfeit "any of the principles upon which this country was founded, and under which it has prospered to a greater extent than any other country having a different philosophy of government and interpretation of freedom."

The Americanism Committee stressed that Native Sons of California looked with high favor upon the work of assisting toward making world peace permanent provided no single fibre of American principle were disturbed in doing so.

The telegram was signed by Eldred L. Meyer, of Los Angeles, chairman of the Americanism Committee and a past grand president of the Order and bore the signatures also of Jesse H. Miller, of San Francisco, a past grand president; Newell Maddock, of Santa Cruz, Hon. Richard Nixon, of Whittier, Frank P. Smith, of Oakland, Hon. Thomas P. White and Frank J. Collins, of Los Angeles, and Hon. Benjamin C. Jones, of Lake County.

Lustur-Seal Is New California Product

To preserve or renew that "new car shine" on your old automobile, an Anaheim concern has perfected a material known as Lustur Seal. It is worked into dulling paint with sheepskin buffers. The effect is an astonishingly hard glass-like glaze that will last for years to come. It makes washing and cleaning your car an easy chore with no tell-tale streaks or water marks to mar the job. It contains neither wax nor abrasives.

Though a new product, it has already proven popular among automobile men throughout southern California, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and as far away as Hawaii. Only authorized Lustur-Seal dealers are allowed to handle the product.

Lustur-Seal was produced by two Anaheim men, O. T. Wingfield and Darrell Wiley, after years of experimenting. Lustur-Seal Corporation has also designed and built an electric polishing buffer equipped with spiral bevelled gears This revolutionary method of application is just another part of the secret of Luster-Seal's long wearing brilliant finish.

EDITORIAL

REAL OLD SPANISH DAYS AT THE PRE-FIESTA TEA

(Editorial from the Santa Barbara News-Press, August 26.)

EDITOR'S NOTE: Santa Barbara Native Sons and Daughters have a spacious new home, Cabrillo Pavilion, of which they may well be proud. The following editorial from the Santa Barbara News-Press of Tuesday, August 26, commenting upon their Pre-Fiesta Tea, pays high tribute not only to the Native Sons and Daughters of Santa Barbara, but to the entire membership of both Orders. Our congratulations and best wishes to Santa Barbara Natives on their foresight and progressive move in obtaining a home that is in keeping with their heritage and the traditions of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Almost all of nearly 1000 men and women who attended the Pre-Fiesta Tea given Sunday, August 24, by the Native Daughters and Native Sons of The Golden West in their new headquarters at the City's Cabrillo Pavilion must have felt that they were taking part in something that gave to Old Spanish Days Fiesta the kind of community support it should have.

The Native Daughters and the Native Sons did not try to make their little celebration rival Hollywood and a Follies show with its setting and its entertainment. They offered the people of Santa Barbara friendly and neighborly entertainment in which the entertainers were members of their own organizations and of this community. The Native Daughters and Native Sons made their Pre-Fiesta Tea a gathering place for old neighbors with memories of Santa Barbara, and a place for newer arrivals in Santa Barbara to get an understanding of the spirit that keeps Santa Barbara a community with pride in its history and not just a population concerned about individual financial successes.

The Native Sons and Native Daughters made their Sunday afternoon entertainment a contribution to everything that is worthwhile in Old Spanish Days Fiesta by bringing together for a simple gathering the people who supply the vital spirit for Old Spanish Days Fiesta. Most of the Daughters and Sons and their guests were in Fiesta costume. Most of them were in costumes like those worn in days that Fiesta honors. They did not gather at their party the collection of gypsy, masquerade and majorette costuming that too many Santa Barbarans and visitors wear at Fiesta time. They did not have street vendor contributions to Fiesta that are more at home at any County Fair than at celebrations of community tradition.

No one at the Pre-Fiesta Tea could have guessed from what he saw and felt there that rowdyism would become a serious problem for those who manage the Fiesta. Anyone who tried to tell from the Pre-Fiesta Tea along what lines Old Spanish Days would grow would have been more likely to have guessed that it was too simple and too local to survive than to have guessed that it would grow up to 100,000 crowd proportions and state-wide publicity. They would not have guessed that friends of Old Spanish Days would have had more trouble with Fiesta growing too fast that with keeping it going.

The people of Santa Barbara can find grounds for both repentance and hope in the things they saw and felt at Sunday's Pre-Fiesta Tea. They can repent that something as simple and fine as the first ideas of Fiesta should have fallen into the evil of too much size and too little understanding. They can hope that the real heart of Fiesta, which showed in the Pre-Fiesta Tea, is still strong enough to carry Fiesta through sickness brought on by unwise living and back to its original fine, friendly health.

The Native Daughters and Native Sons have used a combination of community understanding and special opportunity to get Cabrillo Pavilion for their home. Their building faces a Santa Barbara view that is the same today as it was in Old Spanish Days and that cannot change—the Santa Barbara Channel and the Santa Barbara Islands beyond. They have acquired for the objectives of the Native Daughters and Native Sons of Santa Barbara the same inspiration of setting that is being sought for Old Spanish Days Fiesta Parade of Historical Pageantry by those who urge an east-to-west Cabrillo Boulevard parade route. Those who want that route used for future parades know that every float and unit of that parade will have a changeless setting that will always be typical of early Santa Barbara if the ocean front route is used.

The Native Daughters and the Native Sons of Santa Barbara should have the assistance of everyone in this community in collecting for their new home furnishings, pictures and other equipment that will be typical of the period in California history that marked the organization of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. The Native Daughters and Sons—with community assistance—can make their new home an attractive reminder of early California days. They can make their early California collection an active part of Santa Barbara life, rather than a museum.

CALIFORNIA FINANCE

By A. Harold Noon

Timing of purchases and sales of investment securities—when to get into the market and when to get out of the market—is of the utmost importance to those who seek to put their dollars to work for profit.

First of all, those who are commonly known to "get in and out of the market" are not investors, but speculators. In most instances, speculators have no definite program with fixed objectives of income and capital growth, but haphazardly endeavor to catch the swings in general prices, and in particular, the swings in prices of highly volative issues so as to make a quick profit.

Nevertheless, timing is of vital importance to every real investor for the reason that all investment programs are conditioned upon changing prices and circumstances.

To obtain authoritative information on the subject of "timing," we called upon J. L. Agnew, head of the Investment Research Department of The First California Company, nationally known underwriting and investment securities firm with head offices in San Francisco and Los Angeles and branches throughout California and Nevada.

Mr. Agnew pointed out to us that an established investment objective, definite program of investment placements and replacements, balance and diversification are essential to financial success. When proper "timing" is acquired, success is assured, he said.

An automatic and successful method of timing purchases and sales, Mr. Agnew added, is called "Dollar Averaging." He said it has a place in every program where capital building is desired.

"Dollar Averaging," Mr. Agnew explained, "merely means the investment of a fixed dollar amount in a security at regular intervals. The investor consistently buys so many dollars worth of stock every month, every other month, quarterly, etc., regardless of the price of the stock.

"As the price of the stock goes up and down with the market," continued Mr. Agnew, "the fixed number of dollars buys more shares at the lower prices than at the higher prices so the average cost of shares over a period of time will be less than the 'average' of the price range for the stock during the period."

The following tabulation of five quarterly purchases of $300 each illustrates extreme conditions: (the same would be true of $100 per month).

Investment—	March $300	June $300	Sept. $300	Dec. $300	March $300	Total $1,500
Cost per share	15.	12.	10.	12.	15.
No. shares acquired	20	25	30	25	20	120

Value of holdings—end of period—120 shares x 15.—$1,800.

The above example shows a $300 profit established even though the final price of the stock is no higher than at the start,

Said Mr. Agnew:

"There is no hocus pocus or system to dollar averaging. It is a simple, practical mathematical method of reducing timing problems to a minimum where the proper security is used. Naturally, the security or securities in which funds are invested must be sound and have an assured future."

Mr. Agnew said there are many securities that will fit such a program of "Dollar Averagin." An additional requirement, he warned, is that the program be maintained. As in any investment endeavor, haphazard purchases will not work. They will not bring into play the law of averages for the investor's benefit.
